THE WET DOSE USED IN HOMEOPATHY

By: Joe De Livera, Sri Lanka

After many years of giving the remedy in dry lactose pellets to my patients I was at first very skeptical when Dr Luc de Schepper first introduced me to the wet dose which he uses exclusively for his patients which he maintained was first recorded by Hahnemann.

I did discover that the wet dose was as effective as and perhaps even more effective than the dry dose in a few weeks after I changed over and I was informed that this was due to the succussion that one has to ensure by shaking the bottle hard about 10 times before a teaspoonful which is the dose is sipped.

The method of making a wet dose is as follows:

You insert 3 pellets or 2 drops of the remedy if you have got it in liquid, into a 500ml bottle of spring water. The pellets will usually dissolve in about 2 minutes and the bottle in shaken hard to ensure bubbling and a teaspoonful is sipped. If it is discovered that the water does not bubble, this is due to the water level which will be right up to the top and you can pour out about a inch of water from the top to leave space for aeration when shaken.

A teaspoonful is a dose and is sipped slowly to ensure that the remedy is picked up by the blood stream sublingually.

A variation of the wet dose is the split dose which is used for some remedies. The difference here is that a teaspoonful is taken from the bottle and is stirred into a half cup of water from which a teaspoonful is given to the patient. This method dilutes the remedy even further and is used for remedies like Nat Sulphate 6c which is used for Asthma.

Effect of a homoeopathic dose of medicine increases the greater the quantity of fluid in which it is dissolved.

For in this case, when the medicine is taken, it comes in contact with a much larger surface of sensitive nerves responsive to the medicinal action. Although theorist may imagine there should be a weakening of the action of the dose of medicine by its dilution with a large quantity of liquid, experience asserts exactly the opposite, at all events when the medicines are employed homeopathically.

From this solution one or more teaspoons are given to the patient as a dose whenever necessary. In this way the homoeopath makes a more powerful solution that penetrates deeper than the dry dose, yet at the same time, the remedy acts more gently on the vital force. This is one of the major methods of adjusting the dose to suit the sensitivity of the constitution.

A LITTLE ABOUT HOMEOPATHY IN A LAYMAN'S TERMS

- Homeopathy is a therapeutic medical science, which is based on the notion that substances able to cause certain symptoms in a healthy person can, in turn, heal those same symptoms in a sick person.

- This system was developed by Samuel Hahnemann towards the end of the 18th century, based on the understanding that healing comes from within, from the body's innate self-healing forces. These forces are to be stimulated by certain substances that would actually cause respective disease if given in a high doses; intending to heal an illness with its equal substance.

- Homeopathy is the practice of the use of active ingredients in minute dosages along with naturally occurring substances in order to provide a healthier balance of internal chemistry.

- Homeopathy is based upon the principle that 'like cures like' — that is, the same substance that in large doses produces the symptoms of an illness cures it when administered in very small doses.

- Homeopathy comes from the Greek words "homeo" meaning similar and "pathos" meaning disease or suffering; hence, the reason for calling homeopathy the "law of similars.

Aggravations with Homeopathy Medicines

Once you start the process of taking the medicine(s)you might notice some thing new happenning like a skin-rash appearing somewhere on the body or a sudden onset of cough, it can even be a slight fever or a headache. Blisters appearing in the mouth or sudden sleeplessness. May be,increase in the intensity of the itch etc. etc....this only means that the toxins (hitherto lodged in the system) are being forced to move out from their preferred hiding places. The homeopathic process introduced in the system gives a jolt to the system ....which results in this new kind of discomfiture.

Such aggrevation may appear briefly and will die out on its own in a few hours to 2/3 days. Yet, such onset is a sure indication for a homeopath that the medicine is working. The outlet for the toxins is the skin. Hence....appearance of a skin rash is significant. If the medicine is working , the rash will subside on its own.

A LITTLE ABOUT
POTENCY - DILUTIONS – DYNAMIZATION

Homeopathic dilutions are prepared according to the Hahnemannian method. Each dilution is energetically agitated: this is the "Dynamization process".

Titurations are generally reserved for insoluble substances. Solid material is added to lactose and grinded in stages. The tablets or powders are placed under the tongue, and allowed to melt slowly before swallowing.

Dilutions: These are the medicines in liquid forms whose excipient is water or alcohol. Dilutions are generally reserved for soluble substances. Few drops of liquid are placed under the tongue, and allowed to move in mouth slowly before swallowing.

Titurations are generally potentized with Alcohol or Water to make liquid dilutions.

Original soluble substance dissolved in liquid is called Mother Tincture (Also called Q Tincture)

LM Potencies

LM and Q are the Roman numerals for the 1 in 50,000 dilution of the first step in the process of making these potencies.

How to Make Your Own Potentized Medicine From a Herb:

1. Say, if you have Chamomile growing in your backyard, which is a homeopathy remedy.

2. Following are the steps to make potentize Chamomile medicine.

3. Wash, clean and liquefy the whole plant in blender, this is Mother Tincture of Chamomile.

4. Take a clean clear plastic 2 liter bottle. Fill it half with one liter spring or rain water. Half filled so the liquid could be shaken vigoursly.

5. Add a drop of Mother Tincture from Step 1. Add it into the one liter water in 2 liter water bottle.

6. Since One drop is equal to 1/10 ml, adding it into 1000 ml makes the ration of 1:10000, which is 4x potency or 2C. 1C = 2X. 30 C = 60X.

7. Medicine is ready only if you shake the bottle vigorously by banging it at least 50 times. This is called dynamization.

A Little About Cell / Tissue / Biochemic Salts

Dr. William H. Schuessler of Oldenburg, Germany published Shortened Therapeutics in 1873. This eminently practical work concentrated on just 12 simple mineral combinations, or salts, which he believed to be crucial to the health of the body. Schuessler's students included major homeopathic figures such as H. C. G. Luyties of St. Louis, and Dr. Constantine Hering of Philadelphia, author of Hering's Law of Cure ("Cure occurs from the head down, from within out, and in the reverse order in which the symptoms first appeared.")

The Twelve Salts and Some of Their Keynote Symptoms

(The most commonly-used abbreviation is followed by its traditional and chemical names.)

1. KALI PHOS (Kali Phosphoricum; Potassium Phosphate)
   a. mental/emotional symptoms predominate
   b. Feel as if "I'm too tired to rest."
   c. Anxiety, brain fatigue, irritability
   c. temper-tantrums, sleeplessness, dizziness, nervous asthma
   d. easily bleeding gums

2. KALI MUR (Kali Muriaticum; Potassium Chloride)
   a. white mucus, swollen glands
   b. white or gray coated tongue, glandular swellings
   a. white mucus, swollen glands
   c. discharge of white, thick mucus from nose or eyes
   d. indigestion from rich food

3. KALI SULPH (Kali Sulphuricum; Potassium Sulphate)
   a. yellow mucus, later stages of illness, congestion and cough worse in evening
   b. dandruff, yellow coated tongue, yellow crusts on eyelids
   c. gas, poor digestion

4. CALC PHOS (Calcarea Phosphorica; Calcium Phosphate)
   a. teething remedy
   b. upset stomach, post-nasal drip, chronic cold feet, poor dentition

5. CALC SULPH (Calcarea Sulphurica; Calcium Sulphate)
   a. sores that heal poorly, herpes blisters
   b. pain in forehead, vertigo, pimples on the face

  b. green stools and other excess bile symptoms
  c. Sensitive scalp, greenish-gray or greenish-brown coating on tongue, influenza

9. NAT PHOS (Natrum Phosphoricum; Sodium Phosphate)
  a. simple morning sickness; acid rising in throat

  c. grinding of teeth in sleep; pain and sour risings from stomach after eating

10. MAG PHOS (Magnesia Phosphorica; Magnesium Phosphate)

  c. loss of voice from overuse

12. SILICEA (Silica)

  b. Sty in eye area, tonsillitis, brittle nails

Although I think that J. B. Chapman's DR. SCHUESSLER'S BIOCHEMISTRY (London: New Era, 1973) is the easiest and best book on the subject, The Biochemic Handbook (St. Louis: Formur) is another readily available paperback guide to specific uses of the Schuessler cell salts. Either this book or Dr. Chapman's will serve you well. Homeopathic pharmacies, suppliers and websites may carry them, along with other standard works on homeopathy.

MORE ON THE SCHUESSLER CELL SALTS

Twelve cell salts were recognized and categorized by a German biochemist William H. Schuessler in 1873. He found that there are certain essential minerals that the body requires, in proper balance, in all of its cells. An imbalance or a lack of any of these minerals may lead to disease in the tissues so lacking. Providing the missing minerals to the tissues corrects that imbalance, and so eliminates the illness. This seemingly simple system of cure has great practical application in health. Using only a small number of harmless combinations (or "salts") of these minerals, it is possible for any individual to treat him- or herself simply and effectively for a great variety of everyday minor ailments. It is significant that such cell-salt treatment is replenishing something the body lacks and wants, as opposed to merely suppressing illness with drugs and other chemicals. Drugs do not provide missing cell nutrients, but drugs do add harmful chemicals to the body which ultimately compound the problem. The Schuessler cell salts may be seen as special raw materials for the body, which you need more of if you run out of what you normally have.

Salt is any type of readily dissolvable mineral combination, not just table salt. Many people take dietary iron supplements, but few would chew on a rusty nail for an iron source. The same is true with the Schuessler minerals: the potassium, silicon, iron, phosphate or other substance must be in a special potentiation to be most useable to the body. Most Schuessler cell salts are in a homeopathic potency, which uses minute quantities of a substance with great effect. The potentiation process multiplies the essential energy of a substance while at the same time decreasing the dosage amount. The subtlety, harmlessness and effectiveness of such preparations has been clinically proven for well over two hundred years, since the beginnings of homeopathic treatment in the 18th century.

Schuessler cell salts (also called "biochemic cell salts") are a non-prescription item and are available directly from any homeopathic pharmacy. Because of the medical profession's long-standing opposition to homeopathic remedies, it is not certain that your local drug store will even know what "cell salts" are, let alone stock them. Most health food stores do carry them. Schuessler remedies are commonly in a "6X" homeopathic potency. The "X" refers to the Roman numeral 10; 6x is one part in ten, repeated six times. The cost of the mineral tablets is very moderate, usually $5 to $8 per bottle of 250 or more. Addresses of homeopathic pharmacists may be obtained by using any an internet search engine.

For my work it's important to know the exact day and month you were born into this world. This would help me to deduce your four core mineral salt deficiencies.

Most popular cell salt remedies for some of your symptoms seem to be:

Calc Phos (Calcium Phosphate) 6x
Mag Phos (Magnesium Phosphate) 6x

The next popular cell salt remedies would be:

Cuprum Ars (Copper Arsenite) 12x
Silica (Silicea) 12x
Nat Sulph (Sodium Sulphate) 6x
Calc Fluor (Calcium Fluoride) 12x
Kali Alum Sulph (Alum) 12x
Ferrum Phos (Iron Phosphate) 12x
Kali Sulph (Potassium Sulphate) 6x

Other remedies of use for your problems would be:

Lith Mur (Lithium Chloride) 12x
Nat Bicarb (Sodium Bicarbonate) 12x
Kali Phos (Potassium Phosphate) 6x
Kali Iod (Potassium Iodide) 12x
Mang Sulph (Manganese Sulfate) 12x
Zinc Mur (Zinc Chloride) 12x
Nat Mur (Sodium Chloride) 6x
Aurum Mur Nat (Aurum chloride sodium) 12x

If you cannot get 12x potencies then you can substitute those with a 6x potency. Take 3 pills of each remedy three times per day and continue for 12 weeks or so.

Sorry you've not been taking the correct cell salt remedies for your four core mineral salt deficiencies. The salts you should be using are:

Nat Phos - Sodium Phosphate 6x [MAIN ROOT SALT]
Calc Sulph - Calcium Sulphate 6x
Silica - Silicea 12x
Kali Phos - Potassium Phosphate 6x

Please remember that salts can sometimes work quickly or in some cases slowly but of course you must be using the correct salts and taking enough doses. Problems like this can take a long time to aid or correct remembering the causes are long-term abuse of the body through deficiencies, injuries and localized constipations. You must always focus on your four root salts as they're your core deficiencies based on correct astrology teachings. Of course there are many ailments that may at some point require different salts including ones outside of the basic twelve as listed above. The goal would be to utilize as many of the salts as you can for the best results. If you want use a combination 12 remedy then feel free if it's easier. Make sure your supplier of cell salts is trustworthy and professional. Your body is a pillar of salt and thus it needs all the twelve basic salts to keep on an even balance.

If you continue to see a lack of aid from both homoeopathic or cell salt therapy then a few doses of Sulphur 30c may help to clean through localized constipations.

OK. I shall start using NP 6X + CS 6X + Sil 6X + KP 6X each of three tablets together three times a day.
Is it require to take some homeopathic remedy to deal with the current acute condition of lumber and cervical pain ?

|---|---|---|

I don't see why you cannot utilize your homoeopathic remedies that ease your problems whilst you also do cell salt work.

| Re:Spinal degeneration problem | By: shiva | August 18 2016 |
|---|---|---|

I am using all the above four cell salts since last five days. But improvement in any of my symptoms are not yet felt. I think, i need some homeopathic remedy along with the cell salts.

-----------------------

Congratulations you start at the foundation constellation. Your four root mineral salt needs are as follows and must be focused upon for life:

KALI PHOS - POTASSIUM PHOSPHATE 6x [MAIN ROOT CELL SALT]
Nat Sulph - Sodium Sulphate 6x
Kali Mur - Potassium Chloride 6x
Nat Phos - Sodium Phosphate 6x

Take 1 pill per 50lb of your bodyweight and do this two to three times per day for three months to help correct deficiencies then you may be able to lower dose down to one time per day but it depends on the deficiency and other issues.

Additional salts for your health should be:

Mag Phos - Magnesium Phosphate 6x
Kali Alum Sulph - Alum 12x

Tale 1 pill per 50lb of your bodyweight and do this six times on day one, two and three meaning every four hours of the day. From day four lower the dose down to every eight hours. From day fifteen take these remedies every ten to twelve hours per day for three months. Assess the changes and needs. If you find you need an extra dose to relief issues then feel free to adjust to your needs.

Cell salt deficiencies are the true root of all which hinders mankind's ill health. It's fine to utilize certain homoeopathic remedies and one-hit wonders but for true health it takes time, patience and work. With cell salt therapy we aim to properly correct the balance of the body not just mask out an issue. The great Dr Schuessler was himself a homoeopath so rest assured he knew what he was doing when he came up with the cell salts. If you study up on Dr Linus Pauling he also knew the importance of trace minerals. Far too many people want to be ignorant of deeper teachings (many homoeopaths still ignore Samuel Hahnemann's final and refined work with LM potencies) which require some brain work and more actions to be taken. If one wants good health then they must be open minded and not ignore different treatments. People need to be patient and prepared to work hard to achieve their goal. I congratulate you for wanting to further investigate this biochemical alchemy system because now you're heading closer a pinnacle of understanding.

SHIVA:

Please try adding the following:

Nat Sulph - Sodium Sulphate 6x
Kali Sulph - Potassium Sulphate 6x

I mentioned these in a past prescription listing numerous cell salt needs. I also mentioned the combination 12 with all the twelve basic cell salts. You might find it best to end up using the combination 12 to start supplying you current needs as a good all round treatment. Your four main cell salts deficiencies according to birth along with Nat Sulph, Kali Sulph and six others will be present in the Combination 12.

Continue with cell salt treatment even if you end up using a homoeopathic remedy. As I stated before cell salts can take time especially with bad degenerations which have been caused by long-term misuse of the body or severe injury. Rest assured that cell salts will be aiding you even if you don't see or feel it yet. They may even help you from getting more damage. You can also increase the dosing for a couple of days to every four hours or even two hours just to see if this makes a difference or not.

If someone wishes to come in and offer you a homoeopathic remedy as well then that is fine by me as long as you continue cell salt work otherwise your skeletal health could get worse over time.

Also look into Urine baths and heated packs/compresses. For topical work then older urine aged for four days works best. You can remove the ammonia smell afterwards with simply hot water from a shower. Use the topical work for one to two hours at a time and two to three times day if possible. Ingestion of your own mid-stream fresh urine will also be of use to your overall health and may even ease pain.

An old herbal paste formula for helping to regenerate from such problems like these is a mixture of;

Gravel Root
Marshmallow herb Comfrey leaf
Mullein
Lobelia
Scullcap
Black Walnut Bark

This formula can also be used as a Fomentation. Please notice even with a high quality herbal formula the time frame can be anything from six to 24 weeks or more. Like I said before be patient and hollistically work hard.

http://www.herballegacy.com/Bone_Flesh_&_Cartilage.html

I had a lot of normal bone problems after many numerous breaks, sprains etc and I removed all of them by living just on water known to most as water fasting. My longest recorded water fast was sixteen days! Not one of the old bone problems has even come back since so there's another option for you. You must fully understand fasting and breaking a fast before attempting to do it.

I'm all about realistic hollistic approaches to health and I utilize only the best methods many of which are cost effective or even free of charge (urine, fasting, qi-gong) whilst also being proven for hundreds if not thousands of years.

I have used NP 6X + CS 6X + Sil 6X + KP 6X but there is no improvement in any of my symptoms.
Present acute symptoms are -
- Neck muscles become stiff on walking and even slightest movement of neck. Slowly it becomes painful and creates giddiness.
- Sometimes I feel giddiness due to clinching or movement of jaws.
- Feeling numbness on both legs on standing & walking and compels to stop walking, the symptoms reduce on sitting. Can not walk at a stretch due to numbness on legs.

Medicines viz Cocculus 30, Bryonia 30, Belladona 30 , Causticum 30 and Rhus tox 1M for cervical problem and Conium 30 and Gnaphallium Q for leg problem are being used which give a very temporary relief.
Kindly guide me how to arrest my above symptoms.

Used Graphitis 30 and Ruta g 30 three times a day each on same day for four days. A slight improvement in the above symptoms are found on first two days only.
Now all the previous symptoms viz dizziness on neck movement, continuous pulsating pain at occiput, movement of pain from neck to eyes and down to both hands particularly to right hand wrist & fingers and also pain in lower lumber as well as numbness on both legs are still there.
I am now using Passiflora Q and Kaliphos 6X for my disturbed sleep but these are found less effective to me.

| Re:Spinal degeneration problem | By: shiva | November 5 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Used Conium mac 30 three doses.
I feel all the symptoms are now very worse.
- Can not walk at all. Feeling numbness on both legs with cramp on calves.
- Can not tolerate any movement in neck as it creates stiffness, pain and dizziness, looking up and any jaw movement ( while talking and eating) also creates pain in neck and back of head.
The weather here is now cold and rainy . I think this weather turned my case worst with pain in all the joints of the body .

Is it ok ?

Conium 1m, Rhus Tox 1m and Bryonia 30 are used . The numbness on legs are slightly improved . Now, i get some strength on legs while walking but for a very limited distance. The problem with the neck movement remains same. Stiffness on both sides of neck muscles still now creates some dizziness while moving the neck side to side and also on up and down . A cracking sound is being felt on every neck movement. Now i am using only Bryonia 30

Used Phosphoric acid 30. There is no change in the symptoms. Positional vertigo on head movement, tinnitus , pulsating sound in ear in bed , pain in right elbow and in joint between neck & shoulder blade, pain in lower lumber radiating to both thigh and calves are still there and bother me very badly.

pulsating sound is from the blood flow and a blood vessel appears to have moved closer to ear due to muscle weakness.....use Belladonna for pain in joint between neck and should blade.....try xanthoxylum for radiating pain to thighs and calves....there is a compression of sciatic nerve.

Xanthoxylum 30 and Belladona 30 showed some improvement in pain in thigh and neck joint respectively.
Improvement in vertigo, on looking up, with Bryonia 30 is moderate. Using Conium 200 for vertigo during lying down on bed but the response is very poor. It is observed that after 2-3 minutes of lying down , a jerk on neck is being felt followed by a mild vertigo which compels me to close the eyes. The episode subsides if I remain immobile.A slightest body / neck movement makes my condition worse. This happens whenever I lie down.The condition become worse if I sleep without pillow. Is it a positional vertigo? Kindly advise me how to get rid of this symptom .

Using Xanthoxylum 30, Belladonna30, Bryonia30 and Conium 200. Pain in thigh and neck joint are slightly better. Giddiness on looking up and just after lying in bed are still there. Intensity of vertigo reduces if I keep the head high over two pillows. Positional vertigo on sudden head movement are not improved yet. Tinnitus and pin & needle sensation in ear are there. Kindly advise me further.

ntensity of vertigo reduces if I keep the head high over two pillows. ...gelsemium. Vertigo on sudden head movement...Kali Carb. Tinnitus and pin and needle in ear. or ear Parasthesia can be due to nerve compression or entrapment, Sclerosis, peripheral neuropathy or thoracic outlet syndrome, ...Hypericum and , Belladonna, Phosphorus, are valuable here.

I have tried Kali carb 200 twice a day for three days. Belladona 30, Btyonia 200 and Conium 200 are also used. But the problem of dizziness/ vertigo due to change of postures or head movement are not reduced.
Doctor has told me that it is a case of BPPV. The trestment is Brandt & Daroff excercise alongwith Stugeron 25 mg . But I am unable to perform the excercise as the head movement / tilting left and right causes vertigo very badly.
kindly advise me how to get out of this symptoms.

| Re:Spinal degeneration problem | By: shiva | March 5 2018 |

It is further observed that dizziness last longer while lying on left side. If it is a mechanical problem with the inner ear , can it be handled with homeopathy medicine. Performing the said excercise is also a difficult to me.
waiting for your advise.

Respected udaya sir

Namaskaram.!! From me and my daughter shruti

I have opened this thread as I am concerned about my daughter S well being as she is growing up.. It s natural for all moms to be concerned but I am being proactive because by now you know my medical history.. I want to give my best try to ensure she doesn't go through the sufferings that I am going through as a female especially problems relating to my menstruation, uterus health and related issues.

My daughter Shruti is now 11.5 years - I want to seek your guidance regarding any homeopathic supplements like iron calcium that I need to give her to make her transition smoother as she grows.up... I m not sure whether this is the right stage to even ask you but I wanted to make sure at the same time that I don't end up making mistakes because of any ignorance on my part.

Do I need to describe her more? No medical issues till now by god S grace. No supplements being taken now.

If there is no medical issues she need not be medicated......describe her symptoms from head to feet if there are any so that I know the person before I suggest something....

Apply dettol in few areas of the clothes or skin before sleeping and the mosquitoes will not bite or come near her. use Arsenic Album 30C three times a day for one day and tell me about the sneezing and the black spots. Check her HB count and if it is found low then use Lecithinum 3X with Ferrum Phos 3C three times a day for one week otherwise she seems a healthy child who needs only a little bit of exercise. A couple of doses of natrum mur 30C will help with puffiness and the cut appearing on lips.

Does she swim in school pools? Does she drink more lemon juice ? Does she eat fish?If answer to all these are negative continue use of Cina upto one week. If not my next question is ...Is she allergic to Milk? If answer is yes use Antim Crudem 30C three times a day until cure.

If it spreads to other parts or become well defined in colour and boundaries then you have to use single dose of Tuberculinum followed by Sepia 30C three times a day until cure.

If the skin is peeling on any of the spots at any stage use Calcarea Carb 30C three times a day for one week.

best wishes.

Looks like Ptyriasis a yeast or fungal affection....caused by oily skin or hyperhydrosis, or moist weather or swimming, or in some cases worms and non assimilation of calcium.....Use of Natrum Mur is curative in some cases, Calcarea Carb in others, Cina in some others.,Arsenic album if there is dryness of skin on face or goes away on its own....

It is not early, it is 12 years if your longivity of life is 120 years proportionately less if your longivity is less as low as 7 years...that is Kali Yuga. Nothing need be given. use Pulsatilla 30C if there is any irregularity....if there is amenorrhea experienced use Natrum Mur 30C.

Sir

Showed Shruti to a dermatologist.. He has diagnosed the white patches as- "PITYRIASIS ALBA" and given an ointment- TACROZ to be used for 5-7days to be applied twice a day .

He said it may most probably go on its own also ND hence he has left the choice of applying the suggested cream to us. Pls suggest sir

You can use the following medicines :
1. Nitric Acid 1M single dose.
2. Sepia 200C one dose a week
3. Antim Crudem 200C one dose a week.

Do not use milk until it is resolved. using exgternal application is not a right treatment unless it is just a moisturiser for dryness.

Respected sir

I shall start the above suggested medicines.

Does she have to stop consuming milk even if she isnt allergic to it about which you had asked in the earlier posts.

She is so fond of milk and that 's why I am rechecking with you and in case there is no alternative to abstaining from milk for sometime we shall do that.

Sir went up to 103.8,so had to give crocin in morning. After giving that temp is coming down slowly. In the meantime after seeing your reply gave her Rhus too 1M. She isn't having that much cold or cough.. Body ache and severe headache. Shruti got a fever bout which lasted for 4 days in the month of Oct. With your medicines and crocin she got alright.

Also for my son who S in 11th grade, is there any preventive we need to take? He S susceptible to throat infections. Just being cautious as he has exams lined up and already last month he missed one because of throat infection. And high fever.

High fever will be corrected by rhus tox...for body pain add eupatorium perfolatum 30C three times a day or 200C one dose a day. You can give rhus tox as preventive to your son...gelsemium 30C will be uiseful for his exams for clarity of mind. best wishes.

Respected sir

Wanted to report a few things about my daughter's menstrual cycle: She turns 12 on March 11.

1.Right now the cycle is regular with a 30-40 days cycle ...
2. The flow is ok.. looks normal to me but it is not continuous ...
3. Thus,the total cycle is a bit longer and it lasts for 7 days..and by the time it totally stops it's the 8th or 9th day.

4. She reports a typical back pain which she is able to relate to the onset of her cycle,just a few hours before or a day before the cycle starts ..

5. On the first day,she has pain in lower abdomen which is tolerable as of now.

Queries:

1. Is it normal for her to Have backache and lower abdomen pains at such a young age? I give her hot water bags which gives her lot of comfort.

2. I am may be very sceptical because of the uterus related issues that I am suffering from but sir, I want to ensure that she takes care and manages her cycles in a better way.

3. Also,does she need to take any supplement or any nutrition in particular, which you could share from your valuable treasure? she takes dates syrup,fruits like apple banana regularly. She takes raagi almost everyday.

4. Any yogasanas that she could practice? Especially she wants to increase her height as I have read at many places that with the onset of periods, height stops increasing or the increment is very marginal .

Pls guide sir.

apple need not be taken regularly as it constipates particularly if you are eating bread. since it is a combination of apple and banana it continue as banana promotes bowel movement but whenever you take fruits, use only one kind of fruit at a time.

About menstruation the prolonged cycle as well as prolonged periods are not well desired.....she may use Natrum Mur 30C regularly for one week stop for another week and repeat......use single dose of Kali Carb 200C during menorrhagia or prolonged menstruation this will take care of the prolonged periods as well as backache forming a premenstrual syndrome....then use pulsatilla 30C three times a day for three days just before the expected date of next menstruation......this will ensure smooth flow and regulate the length .....

Dear Udaya sir,

Thanks so much for your advice. I shall get the medicine tomorrow as CM potency is not available in my locality.

I am assuming this will take care of her liver as well as stomach (stools immediately after food if slightly eaten more) alongside her heavy bleeding during the menses time which comes as big clots.

Regards

Aditya

Sir,

I got the CM potency now for Kali Ioda. Will start the medicine tomorrow morning.

When you say Kali carb 200, is it in addition to Kali Ioda?

Thanks

Menorrhagia will be corrected by Kali Iod. Only if it fails Kali carb be used.

Sir,

Yesterday sudden pain on left side rib cage lasted upto 2 am in the night.

Today morning again after breakfast (only idli) pain again started. Pain is there while breathing out as if blocking is there Started Kali Iodatum today morning 1 dose in 1 ounce water.

Please suggest for the pain sir.

| | | |
|---|---|---|

Left side under the rib is a colitis pain....was she suffering from ulcerative colitis....

Be precise and clear on reporting....I said one drop in one ounce water once only.......there is no starting Kali Iodatum ...Kali Iodatum is single dose single drop and the medicine intake ends there unless I specifically ask you to take it again....Wait for a few days without any medicines and report all symptoms that appear and disappear.

use single dose of arsenic album 30C if the pain is at 2 a.m. otherwise use hydrastis 30C one single dose five drops in one ounce water at the beginning of the pain....if it does not subside then it will not be gastraligia/gastritis and indicative of only colitis and therefore one dose of Nux Vomica 30C and one dose of Mercurious sol. 30C should stop it.... best wishes.

1. One dose only as suggested by you. We will report on the progress after some days. We will not repeat without your advice.

2. She was never diagnised as Ulcerative Colitis. He pain started at 10 PM and contiued till 2 am. Today again after breakfast it started around 915 am and is still there - left sided rib

3. We will use hyrastis 30 in the evening today.

Thanks sir. I hope my communication is clear.

Aditya

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 2 2017 |
|---|---|---|

she may not have been diagnosed but does she have a history of loose motion at specific intervals....? or irritable bowels....report on hydrastis...if it does not relieve use single dose of Lycopodium 200 and still if it does not releive use Merc sol 30C three times a day for one day.....if merc sol stops the pain then it should be understood there is an underlying ulcerative colitis....if it is lyco that gives relief then the apaana vaayu is pushing upwards.....and if hydrastis gives relief then it is gastralgia./gastritis.....

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: AdityaTrivandrum | May 2 2017 |
|---|---|---|

Sir,

She has a history of gallstones. Since January, after her ultrasound indicated enlarged liver, she has been having stools 2 or 3 times ( not loose). Quantity of food in take has been reduced ( which controlled the stools). But yes she has lot of food triggers which results in loose stools - like roti, spicy food, milk tea (no problem with lemon tea).

When the stomach gets more than half full she has to pass stool. This has been a general tendency more so since Jan. On 8th April, she had severe gastro-enteritis due to eating rasam prepared a day before.

After taking hydrastis 30% improvement in the sprain like constriction on left side. Should we repeat hydrastis or take Lyco 200 ?
Thanks you

Aditya

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 2 2017 |
|---|---|---|

you can repeat hydrastis ..it is gastralgia....the gall stone probability was my second assumption but then the pain in gall bladder stone do not confine to left under the rib......the possibility of both cannot be ruled out...for gall stone pain use a combination of calcarea carb 200C and Belladonna 200C 5 drops each in one half a glass of water and one spoon every 10 minutes until the pain subsides.

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: AdityaTrivandrum | May 3 2017 |
|---|---|---|

Sir,

Good morning. The pain has reduced by 80%. She could sleep as well.
Q1. Should we give one more dose - which is 5 drops in 1 ounce of water?

Q2. Also what you are suggesting is in future if she develops pain she could use calcarb 200 + Bell 200 for gall bladder pain. Am I correct?

Thank you so much..

Aditya

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 3 2017 |

1. yes..... yes you can
2. yes in split doses 10 minutes interval

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 3 2017 |

use Natrum Mur 30C for migraine from sinus. use spigelia 30C if it is due to congestion and left sided. use Dulcamera 30C if you are certain that AC is the cause. if not use Rhus Tox 200C single dose. It is a good sign that all her symptoms are coming out one by one...

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: AdityaTrivandrum | May 4 2017 |

Sir,
We took Belladonna 200 in split doses (10 min to 15 min interval) which you had suggested for pain. This helped in reducing and she could sleep.
Now I just checked your reply. Since there is less pain but still there, have given a dose of Nat mur 30.

. I shall allso keep dulcamara and spiglia handy. Many thanks

Aditya

|---|---|---|
| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 4 2017 |

natrum mur is the medicine you can give natrum mur also in split doses if the headache is pulsating.....like a thousands of hammer hitting the head.....

| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: AdityaTrivandrum | May 4 2017 |

Sir,

Sinus attack starts with mild pain at parietal bone on the head-back top both sides bone start paining. Then it gradually increases with pain on the temple both sides. Then eyes have to be closed due to too much pain.

After taking belladona 200 and nat mur 30, overall pain gone but on touching these two bones lot of pain.

Many thanks

Aditya

| | | |
| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 4 2017 |

it seems like congestion headache due to stenosis.....use spigelia 1M single dose with Sanguinarea 1M single dose......simultaneously. the pain when touching bone may not be bone pain but due to lack of blood circulation in the area. Continue natrum mur and also use Chionanthus Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day as liver tonic to break the periodicity of the headache.

| | | |
| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: AdityaTrivandrum | May 4 2017 |

Sir,

The 1M spiglia and 1M Sanguinaria will be available tomorrow. I am concerned now for stenosis. Is it something that needs some tests or will it get arrested by these 2 medicines.

Chionanthus Q will also start.

Looking at the current situation what is your advice sir as she is eating less, worrying and everyday some problem is being faced. There is no feeling of well being.

Thanks

Aditya

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Liver and Uterus problem | By: udaya kumar-- | May 4 2017 |

spigelia will correct if there is stenosis....just wait for a few more days...things would become better.

Thank you very much for the response. When I went for my ultrasound last June and was diagnosed for adenomyosis, the ultrasonologist told me if there S no spotting then there S no need to worry...

Does spotting indicate perimenopause or is it do with my uterus enlargement?

Respected sir,

The symptoms of the female sexual organs are most-prominent, and have been clinically verified. Especially adapted to nervous, lively, affectionate women. Patient weak and run down.

Mind.--Great sadness, anxiety, and dread.

Stomach.--Sinking, all-gone sensation in stomach (Sep). Hungry, must eat.

Female.--Conscious of a womb. Pulsation in neck of womb. Desire easily excited. Feeling as if something was pressing on a sore spot in the pelvis: worse sitting. Pain from right side of womb to right or left breast. Nymphomania. Least contact of parts causes violent sexual excitement. Sore pain in uterus. Menses irregular, profuse, frequent, large clots. Feeling of protrusion. Prolapse; enlargement of uterus, with pelvic tenesmus and sharp pains, extending toward breasts; aggravated lying down. Dysmenorrhśa and chronic endometritis, with displacement. Must keep legs tightly crossed. Leucorrhśa green or bloody, alternate with mental symptoms and aching in sacrum. Benign tumors in breasts. Pain in them during menstrual period.

All the above match ..

1. What is the next step for me? No spotting after that .

2. Should I continue with the medicines that I have been taking for the uterus - Acidum Aceticum Q,CONIUM 3X and Aurum Muriaticum Natronatum 3x?

Hi Dr Udaya! My husband age 39 yrs is facing sleeping issues for a long time.. i quote him 'i dont sleep more than 3-4 hrs.. even when i sleep its like my mind is wandering thinking, and dreaming with open eyes.. i need deep sleep.. i dont remember when i had it last' unquote

He has also been diagnosed with diabetes recently.. fasting sugar range is 130-140.. he feels its affecting his eyes.. he also has a problem of bloating.. in the morning his tummy is flat but by evening it protrudes a lot.. bt there is no pain or discomfort of any sort.

He is a cold person.. loves cold weather and cold drinks.. likes eggs and eat everything in general.

Mentally he is very emotional and sensitive. Cant see anyone in pain. Has strained relations with his mom which has affected him a lot and i feel thats the trigger point for all his mental stress and worries.. it took him many years to come to terms with it but still m sure deep down he is affected.

Have given him nux 30c in past which helped little.. then also gave 200 which also helped but not a permanent cure.. looking for ur help to treat his sleep issues and also to manage his diabetes.

Many thanks once again

| Re:Dr Udaya! Sleepless..Wanderin mind..diabetes | By: udaya kumar-- | January 16 2018 |
|---|---|---|

There are three things you can do for diabetes :
1. Exercise more than the sugar you eat. You can take sugar even if you have diabetes provided you exercise more than the calories you eat each day.

2. Fasting (Upavasam) on water only...Water would include Amla juice, lime juice, honey water, any other medicated waters and pure water. Not using any fried food or curry that is fried with oil...Oil can be put on the curry for taste but not used for frying. Use boiled food mostly when you are not on upvasa.

3. Use three glasses of Karela Juice, one in morning one in afternoon and one in night....Soak 10 grams fenugreek (methi) in water overnight and chew and eat it first thing in the morning.

For sleeplessness on strained relations with mother and other emotional issues of past hauting present, , use Ignatia 30C three doses a day for one day and Natrum Mur 200C single dose with Acid Phos 3X three times a day for three days.

Dear Dr Udaya

We were travelling for over a month and could not get hold of all the remedies.. before leaving we got hold of acid phos and i gave him thrice a day for 3 days as i prescribed .. It had an immediate affect.. made his sleeping better on the second day itself.. he was so happy and thriled.. but after a period of 4-5 days he said its again same like before please start again.. i didnt give again cz i couldnt check with you. I now hav ignatia and natrum can i give those as well.. or should we continue with acid phos 3x one more time

In the meantime he got his full check up done for official purposes.. his Hb1ac levels have reduced from 8.5 to 7 but choslestrol is high. Ldl is on higher side rest is ok.

Pls advise.

yes Ignatia and Natrum Mur are suggested to remove the blocks that cause the return of the malady.....repeat Acid Phos and use the other two medicines... HB1ac at 7 and its reduction indicates that the diabetes is being controlled. use Arnica 30C which will help here and to remove the cholesterol and other impurities in the blood and also help with his sleep.

| Re:Dr Udaya! Sleepless..Wanderin mind..diabetes | By: lal_anar | March 3 2018 |

You can also add
Abroma Agusuta Q to bring HB1AC levels down and also daily sugar level down.
Abroma is indicated for sleepless due to DM.

10 drops 1 x day before bed would be sufficient for 2 weeks, once the meds kicks in the blood system take it 2-4 x week to keep sugar in balanced level.

For cholesterol

Cucurma Longa Q ( tumeric ) take it 10 drops once a day and do same after 2 weeks.

| | | |

yes...... Abroma could be suggested against lab findings in males but in females if pregnant. abroma should not be used. Just a caution to be discriminate ....because it has tendency to expel the contents of the uterus be it menstruation, be it pregnancy......!. just as Pulsatilla should be avoided during these instances.

ok use earthen pots for cooking. There are three factors in aluminium toxicity....1. Non assimilation of aluminium and therefore its deposits in crude form at various levels. 2. Body's disability to synthesise or expel /detox aluminium and other toxic metals. 3, Consumption of various forms of aliminium as toxins in day to day life , .......from utensils on cooking, deodrants, toothpaste, aluminium foils, backing powder, self rising flour and food like muffins, doughnuts, cookies, pan cakes mixes of various kinds,microwave pop corn Pizza, over the counter medicines like antacids, vaccines, anti persiperants, lotions of creams of various kinds, cosmetics, shapoos and conditioners, soaps, Sun screan lotions, Cheese, wtc etc are some of the sources.....use raw and fresh vegetable and fruit juices made at home to chelate the toxins faster.....

Sir, for eyelid drooping, during 2014 Nov3, you had suggested Botulinum, but it was not available here. Now while purchasing Avenalfa from St Georges homeopathy, I saw the product, I am sending the link http://stgeorgeshomoeopathy.com/product_info.php?products_id=6565

Please advise whether it is the same suggested , and whether t will have curing effect for my eyelids drooping ....Sir please adice

Sri Udaya Sir, Happy New Year 2018.
I am reporting after nearly three months, mainly due to my desktop crash..I am fine, but for the occasional problems in hands movements and low back and drooping of eyelids when I go out esp in the evening.

I am taking Guarea200 once in a week, Cad Sulf 1M once in ten days and Gelsemium 1M once in 15 days and Avenalfa thrice daily

I walk for 40 mins in three stages and only climbing steps is difficult without hold.

Somehow, I have not tried Botulinum200c, though I got it from St Georges Homeo. Somehow, it is getting postponed.. Sir, pl advise whether I should stop the medicines taken now and try Butolinum, for eyelid droop and hands movements.

Sir, pl advice

| Eye condition caused by several problems | By: CodeboxSaudiarabia | September 17 2017 |

1. Age/Sex/Country/Climate:
32 years old male born in Pakistan, now living in Saudi arabia for about past 6 years which has dry & hot climate.

2. Current complain - from how long:
-Severe Photophobia and dryness in eyes due to Meibomian gland dysfunction
- More than 15 years but aggravated in last few years

3. Current medicine you are taking:
Ars Alb 5c

4. Sign & Symptom of disease:
-Severe Photophobia
-Severe dryness in eyes (Meibomian gland dysfunction)
-Eyelids swollen inflamed and sore; sticky fluid in morning
-Now Lower eyelid is more swollen but in the start of disease upper lid was more swollen (probably current medicine is making it under control)
- Some Eye lashes are turned inward and cause irritation
-Irritation in eyes due to dryness, fearful to move the eyeball that it might lead to scratch on cornea (previously happened but now improved)
-During sleep eyelids dont close completely which sometimes leads to scratch on cornea once eyes are opened first time after sleep (dried corneal surface).This leads to blurred vision and pain and discharge of tears. But this symptom is now improved with current medicine

5. Breif medical history:
My eye problem started in 2005 with sudden piercing pain and foreign body sensation in one eye. Some symptoms continued afterwards including photo-phobia, itching and watery discharge, lid inflammation and swelling. Doctors diagnosed kerato-conjunctivitis due to allergy 2007: Dr. Advised steroid injection in eyelid to reduce inflammation. Waited for second opinion.

2008: Diagnosed as kerato-conjunctivitis and dry eyes

2009: Steroid injections improved the condition for few months but had to stop due to risk of side-effects

Moved to KSA.
2011: Diagnosed first-degree entropion caused by continuous swelling of lids + scarring in conjunctiva + reduced tear production

2012: Tear ducts got blocked causing watery eyes. Had to undergo procedure to dilate the tear ducts with probe at hospital

2013: Did immunization therapy injecting different allergens and gradually increasing the dose... To improve immune system / to treat allergy

2015: Problem aggravated due to hot dry climate. Cornea got involved leading to frequent corneal ulcers (Superficial punctate keratitis - SPK) severe throbbing pains and very severe photophobia. Doctors said the cause was eyelid-margin inflammation + severe dry eye due to meibomian gland dysfunction (MGD). They kept occurring almost every month from june 2015 to start of 2016.

Had to use immunosuppressive ointment in eye to reduce inflammation.

Recent diagnosis was severe meibomian gland dysfunction (MGD), SPK (superficial punctate keratitis) and lid swelling.

Summarizing above, the problem started due to allergy in eyelids which developed further complications in cornea due to continued lid-swelling, conjunctival scarring and dryness. Photophobia has affected daily life and has got severe in recent years..

It is worth mentioning that all problems except photophobia got resolved when i once did a trip to Northern mountainous areas of Pakistan (having very cold climate), but light sensitivity has always been problematic

6. Family Back Ground:
Father had severe dryness in skin (atopic dermatitis) which is also present in me

7. Education and Nature of Profession of Patient:
A telecom engineer by profession; Job involves using computer for almost 8 hours a day which puts strain to eyes.

8. Desires and aversion of food:
Prefer salty dishes, and no particular aversion

9. Mind-behavior, anger, irritability, hurry..etc.:
Give attention to details; usually polite but very severe anger if angry; not irritated particularly; not hurried but want to be on time; not impatient. Shy nature, prefer not to speak. Not a lot of friends, family person, Not outspoken, Has patience; slightly stubborn; changing views is not easy

10. What makes it worse and what makes it better:
Becomes better in very cold climate,
Washing eyes frequently makes them better and clears the sticky liquid especially in morning
Closing eyes in dark room feels better
Gets worse without any obvious reason.
Irritation in eyes becomes worse and can get better any time
Photophobia is worse all the time

11. Thirst/Tongue/diabetic...:
Very thirsty, Sometime drink several litres of water during night.
Tongue is normal. Not diabetic

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: udaya kumar-- | September 17 2017 |

What you are suffering from is a case of Thygeson’s Superficial Punctate Keratopathy or Keratitis. All the symptoms are due to this one reason, the rest are all fall outs and complications from allopathic treatments taken....... Are you afraid of anything? Do you faint if you see blood....are you afraid of needles and sharp objects? what is your capacity to endure pain? Have you every fainted.....? Do you have any warts on your body....? What is your blood pressure.....is it always on the low side less than 70 diastolic?

Use the following medicine :

Spigelia Anthelmia 3X three times a day for three days and report benefits. use it for one day monitor report and continue for three days. Best wishes.

Thank you for your reply. Regarding fear , i am not afraid. No problem in handling sharp objects or needles. Never fainted ( as i remember). Not afraid of blood.. pretty much endurance when it comes to endure pain. What i meant when i mentioned that i am afraid of things getting worse will be clear from attached link of picture..

https://ibb.co/nMoTik
This used to happen a year ago when my condition was at its worse . A small scratch upon opening my eyes first time on waking up could lead to huge swelling and an ulcer on cornea and very severe inflammation that doctors had to put bandage contact lens to avoid corneal abrasions from swollen lids.. But this condition is much better now when i am on homeopathic medication.. now when i have a scratch in the morning, it heals on its own after some time. I can say that is due to better immune system now.. the problem is that it still happens although it gets healed easily now...
Regarding warts, i have developed a small one on my neck above my right shoulder from a couple of years but it is not painful.. blood pressure was normal but used to be on the higher side 140/80

The diagnosis that you have done seems 100% true to me (SPK) and it is the result of chronic atopic keratoconjunctivitus which begane more than 15 years..
I want to mention that here in saudi arabia, we dont have access to homeopathic medicines, so i have to get it from Pakistan when someone is coming.. if you know of some store in saudiarabia please do let me know..
please let me know if you think the suggested remedy is needed from me, as i will ask someone to bring it

In Saudi we have a lot of people taking treatment in this forum......mostly you have to get medicines through friends back home. You may need the following medicines also
1. Spigelia 30C as already indicated against eye symptoms which inter alia includes the following symptoms :

3. Eyes.—Neuralgia of eyes, esp. where there is great soreness, and can scarcely bear a touch; affections of the eyeball; eyelids; optic nerve; dilated pupils; ocular illusions—sees strange things, fiery, luminous rays, sparks, &c.—On shutting eyes a sea of fire appears.—Illusion as if hairs or feathers on lashes; < on moving them.—Impending amaurosis.—Pains in eyes, deeply seated in sockets.—Aching (pressure) in the eyeballs, esp. when turning them.—Pains in the eyes during movement, as if eyeballs were too large.—Digging, boring, and shootings in eyes, penetrating into head, sometimes with pain, which drives to despair.—Pains as if needles thrust into r. eyeball.—Movement of eyes and muscles of face < the pains.—Tingling in eyes.—Itching in r. eyeball, returning after rubbing.—Dry heat and burning sensation in eyes, which forces them to close.—Redness of sclerotica, with injection of blood-vessels.—Inflammation of eyes and of cornea.—Inflammation and ulceration of lids, with smarting pain as from excoriation.—Eyes confused and dull.—Profuse lachrymation.—Acrid, smarting tears.—Great sensitiveness of eyes to light.—Hanging down of lids as from paralysis.—Sensation as of a hard substance under r. upper lid, > by rubbing.—Violent burrowing stitch in middle of eye and in inner canthus that does not prevent vision, but presses upper lid down.—Upper lids feel hard and immovable.—Pain as if l. orbit were pressed from above downward.—Tendency to wink.—Weakness of eyes; in whatever direction they are turned they remain.—Difficulty in raising the eyelids, with painful sensation of stiffness.—Contraction and involuntary movement of eyes.—Squint; convergent.—"A dose of Spigel. always produced squint in us when children" (American lady's testimony.—R. T. C.).—Strabismus whether from worms or not (Macfarlan).—Pupils dilated.—Loss (momentary suspension) of sight.—Presbyopia.

2. Aconitum Nap 30C 1 drahm granules.
3. Rhus Tox 1M one drahm granules
4. Belladonna 30C one drahm granules.
5. Apis Mel 30C one drahm granules.
6. Ruta G 6C one drahm granules.
7. Lycopodium 200C one drahm granules

8. Arnica 30C one drahm granules.
9. Silicea 30C one drahm granules.
10. Gelsemium 30C one drahm granules.
11. Arsenic Album 200C one drahm granules.
12. Nux Vomica 30C one drahm granules.
............
14. Phosphorus 30C one drahm granules.

As far as I know Saudi permits homeo medicines.

I hope you may not need any medicines from 2 to 14. Spigelia itself should be able to cure you even if the peculiar symptoms are not present considering the eye symptoms. Due to non availability, it is worthwhile to have these medicines around. Rhus Tox can boost your immune system single dose once in 7 days. followed by bell 30c three times a day if needed.

But now all of the medicines arrived as listed by you except spigelia anthelmia 3x (was not available in stores with this potency) but i have it in 30c potency.. i have the following medicines with me now:

2. Aconitum Nap 30C
3. Rhus Tox 1M

for preparing granules take a one drahm bottle fill it with sugar granules pour 6 to 9 drops of the medicine into the bottle....close the bottle with the cap provided...place the bottle on the left hand palm and stroke the bottle towards you gently 10 to 15 times....the medicine is ready for use./...Do not touch the medicine or close the bottle with the fingers at any point in time...... I think you use three drops of spigelia 30C in one ounce water three times a day....you may prepare the granules later.

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: Codebox121Saudiarabia | December 14 2017 |

Dear Sir,
Please find below the notes:

- Right eye had a recent episode (a week ago) of inflammation/keratitis and this condition was present when I started spigelia

- Day1: started spigelia anthelmia 30c. Took one dose (3 drops in an ounce of water) at night before sleep, although felt fearful that it might aggravate the problem. But felth better on waking up. Took second dose in morning and 3rd dose at noon.

Improvement in morning (after first dose):
- Eyes felt lighter (heaviness and pain in right eye improved)

- Eyelids felt more light
- Eyelids felt better while moving them, and scratchiness/gritty feeling is less frequent now. (But it seems to have started to appear again after subsequent doses)
- Itchiness was present in right eye at the outer joint of the eyelids, now improving slightly
- Redness in cornea was improved but still present in right eye (especially around black circle in cornea)

Symptoms still present after 3 doses:
- Severe Photophobia still present (especially in right eye)
- Scratchiness still present at outer right edge of right eye (though improved)
- Lids swelling is still present
- Eyes feeling hot, lower eyelids dark red from inside still (difficult to keep eyes open looking at someone)

Below symptoms seem to increase again after 2nd/3rd dose
- dryness/redness appeared in left eye as well (lower outer edge)
- Eye lids feeling hot
- Sometimes gritty feeling on moving the eyeball from one position to another

Dear sir, i took 3 doses, kindly suggest if i should continue the dose and for how many days..

Thanks and Best Regards

Continue for three days......In fact, for inflammatory symptoms 3X is the best which unfortunately you could not procure and therefore it is taking time for the inflammation to disappear....In the circumstances after three days of use of spigelia use Arnica 30C three times a day for one day and report. Arnica is ACUTE to Spigelia and therefore it will remove the acute conditions of inflammation on the eyelids....you can repeat spigelia for any number of days. Is your blood pressure remaining low?

Dear sir,
I continued spigelia 30c for 3 more days as suggested.. condition was very good in first two days. On third day inflammation started appearing again (especially on left eye, so i suppose it was due to the high potency).. then i discontinued spigelia and started arnica 30c for one day as suggested.. inflammatory symptops have subsided after two days now that i am not using any medicine.. in the meanwhile i have ordered spigelia 3x from online store and it will take some days to reach..

Symptoms of inflammation which appeared while taking spigelia on third day of use were: eyelids feeling hot from inside, pain in left eye, excessive tearing in left eye, feeling of dryness while blinking.. i think all of these symptoms were a result of the higher than needed potency of spigelia.. so i intend to use the suggested 3x potency once it arrives..

I couldnt feel any symptom for the blood pressure.. But it was on 110/80 one day and 140/100 the other day yes spigelia need be used at lower potency. Your blood pressure is ok. you can continue with arnica 30C as long as you feel the sense of well being.

Please suggest.. and thanks for your support and guidance..

Please advise if i can take any other medicine for eyelids inflammation and swelling till that time.. i have all the medicines you mentioned earlier except spigelia 3x
Thanks a lot for your time..

Dear sir,
Took one dose of Rhus Tox 1M last night, followed by belladonna 30c today.. i am feeling much better today.. even the so stubborn photophobia is getting better.. inflammation in the eyelids is better, and swelling also seems improved .. and i am able to keep eyes open for a longer duration now.. working infront of laptop all day today and it is much better..

Thank you a lot for suggesting this remedy.. should i take it for more days ( i mean 30c belladonna )

|---|---|---|

Do not use Arsenic Album 6C., It is dangerous to use Arsenic in lower potency in material doses and for longer periods. It can be used in 30C and above ...You can continue belladonna for longer periods not more than a week at a time......you may use Ruta G 6C for fine tuning of the eye for the kind of work you do on lap top.....Rhus tox may be repeated one more time after two weeks.

Dear sir, i stopped using arsenic album one week before i started spigelia .. after spigelia 30c seemed to be high potency for me, i used arnica as suggested but that did not seem to help much.. after that time i used arsenic alb for two days as inflammation was getting worse.. then i used Rhus tox 1M as suggested by you and now i am only using belladonna 30c twice daily.. should i continue arsenic album 30c with belladonna 30c .. i am feeling improvement in inflammatory symptoms with current medicine.. so as suggested by you, i plan to continue belladonna 30c (but not more than a week as you suggested)
Still i want to tell that i had again a scratching on cornea during sleep tonight on my left eye (it usually happens almost once in every week).. and left eye had blurred vision after that the whole day.. this symptom seemed to be better when i started spigelia (3x potency is still not with me. It will take around 2 more weeks as someone has to bring it from pakistan to saudia)
Lastly, Ruta G is avaialble with me with 30c potency.. i have aso asked that person to bring 6C Ruta G alongwith spigelia 3x.. so i will use that later for eye strain..

Thanks a lot for your suggestions and time..

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: udaya kumar-- | December 30 2017 |

you can always repeat belladonna.

Dear sir,
I took the second dose of Rhus Tox 1M today. Overall my inflammatory symptoms are better in right eye and photophobia is also better.. (i took belladonna twice for few days and ars alb 30c in between) however i feel the problem of superficial punctate keratitis is still present in my left eye.. and nightly scratch in my left eye is frequently blurring my left eye's vision.. spigelia 3x is finally arriving on tuesday hopefully alongwith ruta g 6c..
I wanted to ask how to start spigelia 3x.. should i start it immediately or a gap is needed.. ( i took Rhus tox 1M today and took belladonna 30c and ars alb 30c for 2/3 days in last week)

Dear sir,
I started spigelia 3x and used for three days. But condition didnt seem any better.. i started having sticky whitish discharge in my eyes all the time during use.. also the discharge was causing irritation and sticking/rubbing of lashes iwith cornea.. recently i was on a trip to another city and could not go in that condition so i stopped spigelia.. for few days i used ars alb and belladonna to improve the inflammation and it seems to help..

I guess maybe i should give spigelia 3x another try. Kindly suggest should i do so..

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: udaya kumar-- | January 24 2018 |

It may be required for longer time.... The pus are after effects of Keratitis....use Silicea 30C three times a day for three days with repetitions....single dose of Lycopodium 200C and Gelsemium30 Rhus tox 1M will be beneficial.

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: Codebox121Saudiarabia | February 12 2018 |

Dear Sir,
I started spigelia 3x again the second time about a week ago.. and in last 3 days i used silica 30c alongwith spigelia 3x. I feel that silica has been benificial for the keratitis in my left eye ( the red mass on the cornea of my left eye which caused irritation when it touched the lids while eye was moved towards left... it has slowly improved and i definitely feel the benefit from silica.. the sticky whitish discharge is reduced but is still there especially in morning.. )
Now i will try lycopodium, Rhus Tox, Gelesemium in single dose as suggested by you and will report..
I think lycopodium symptom of the complaint moving from right to left is matching my condition of eye problems which shifted from right eye to left eye..

Dear sir,
After using silica for 3 days, the keratitis seemed to improve.. i have taken lycopodium one dose as well.. then i stopped all medicines to see the current situation.. it has been 3/4 days without medicines..

Current condition:
Keratitis of cornea (was present in left eye) seems improved and scratchy feeling is better especially after using silica.. there has been no scratch in left eye for more than 2 weeks now...

Vision is constantly blurred, especially left eye there seems haze/cloudy vision.. previously it happened after a scratch on cornea but became better after few days, now it seems consantly blurred, and puts strain while working in office on laptop screen..

Eyes are too sensitive to light.. sticky white liquid comes out in the morning or when have to go in sunlight (even when wearing sunglasses).. washing eyes makes them better as pus clears away..

Generalities:
I feel exhausted usually at the end of the day. Mind and body both are exhausted.. Eyes feel exhausted after looking at laptop screen in office all day, and sticky liquid keeps coming especially when eyes are exerted infront of screen or when in sunlight.. this liquid causes burning on skin near the eyes .. Sleep and rest makes eyes feel a lot better.. i have generally a great thirst of water.. easily irritable personality.. generally i feel heat from within the body..not so talkative..

I have used a lot of allopathic medicines for my eyes previously but they have probably only increased my complaints.. since last two years i am only taking homeopathic medicines and my condition has improved.. but it does not seem to be healed completely and seems to linger on..

Also please let me know if you think any possible medicines i might need in future as someone is coming from my country who can bring (homeo meds are not locally available in saudi) ..thanks a lot for your time and valuaable suggestion..

Also please let me know should i continue spigelia 3x ..and should i take silica for more days..

2. Euphrasia 6C three times a day for three days for inflammation and discharge of thick acrid matter...escoriating.

Thanks a lot or your time..

I also want to ask that i am feeling an increased blurr in my eyes these days.. can this be a side effect of homeopathic remedies..

| | | |

Homeopathic medicines have no side effects. It is made by dilution process and do not contain any medicines except the ionised particles which is just a memory of the medicine in ethereal terms....it only activates the life force within you and the body in its true nature does the healing....body in its true nature do not over do any thing.....the blur must be caused by a natural prognosis of the ailment or some other new iissues.

The medicines were suggested on your insistance.....they are basically aimed at removing any bacterial presence like that in the instant ailment or in blepharitis....You can always use Hepar Sulph at 30C or above....the bacterial /virus involved in hepar are usually streptococcus.....whereas in keratitis and Blepharitis if at all any bacteria is involved it is staphylococcus.......Petroleum is intended to remove the dryness, Selenium for regrowth of the eyelashes which are fallen off alongwith strengthening of Liver and Prostates.and Tellurium for eye lashes turning in, muco purulent discharges,, with microorganism and innumerable eye issues including cataract......as indicated in the following ruberics.

.─Deposit of chalky-looking white mass on anterior surface of lens (cataract).─Pterygium.─Herpes conjunctivæ bulbi; phlyctenules near edge of cornea; < from crying.─Pustular conjunctivitis with eczema impetiginodes on lids and much purulent discharge from eyes; offensive discharge from ears.─Scrofulous inflammation; < l. upper lid; lachrymation, itching, and pressure in lid.─Eyelids: thickened, inflamed, covered with pustules; pale red, œdematous, oozing.─Feeling as if lashes of lower lid were turned in.─Palpebral swelling of l. upper lid; ulceration on outer surface of lid, near outer canthus; pain < at night.

The link contains mostly nosodes and sarcodes where medicinal extracts are considered as germs of the particular ailment and using them in combination out of place would be your experiment and risk.....

Dear sir,
Thanks a lot for your valuable feedback... i am surely one of the beneficiaries/proponents of homeopathic way of treatments as i cannot tell you how much worse my condition was when i used to take allopathic treatment for my eye problems.. I just wanted your opinion as i was not able to find Staphylococcinum online.. so i will ask the person to look for it from local stores in pk.. For the first 3 i will be hopefully getting them by the weekend...

Two days ago, i had increase in watery discharge from eyes and increased inflammation/swelling.. so i started silica again .. i also took rhus tox one dose as i was supposed to take it after silica the first time.. still the discharge is not getting any less.. and it is getting more watery instead of thick/sticky.. but it is causing the same irritation on skin around the eyes/eyelids.. and causing redness of skin around eyes due to frequent wiping.. the swelling of eyelids is also increased since two days which is causing irritation when the lashes touch the eyes..

Allopathic treatments are usually focused on the eyes....Only earth part of the treatment should be focused on eyes...i,e, damages to nerves, damages to the eye as such, non functioning of any part of the organ physically due to weakening, wear and tear or injuries......the rest of the causes are in born and has source from various other parts and organs of the body and the other four elements...i.e. vision related issues are caused by imbalanced Fire element, winking, opening and closing of the lids, neurotransmission of various nutrients to the eye, etc. are caused by proper movement and presence of subtle Air elements.....Proper functioning of the tear ducts, dryness or tearfulness, lubrication, etc. are caused by the Water element including blood.....So the source for your purulent mucous secretion is caused by Water of Kapha dominence.and the subtlest cause to all functioning and its coordination is Ethereal. Therefore, the conditions becomes worse when the allopathy focus only on the eye by using eye drops and other repair materials. do not wipe around the eyes instead flush cold water in the eyes two to three times a day as per requirement. and sponge the water away by a soft turkish towel. You may or may not use Staphilococcinum single dose. but other medicines Boras Euphrasia also eyebright for external use has to be tried alongwith the three other medicines suggested thereafter. best wishes.

|---|---|---|

Dear sir,
I took gelsemium30c 3 doses alongwith ruta 6c yesterday.. i started to have increase in inflmmation in upper eyelids today.. there is a white spot at the inner end of the right eyelid (opening of tear duct i guess which seemed swollen and it was causing irritation in the eyeball) but this seems temporary.. i am also continuosly taking silica 30c these days..

The following medicines have arrived and i will use them one by one as suggested..

1. Borax 30C three times a day for three days. to stop ingrowing hairs damaging the eyeball...
2. Euphrasia 6C three times a day for three days for inflammation and discharge of thick acrid matter...escoriating.
3. Pulsatilla 30C single dose once only.

I have also received the following medicines:
- Tellurium 30C
- Petroleum 30C
- Selenium 30C
- Staphilococcinum 200C

Also received eyebright eye drops, should i use them directly in eyes or dilute them before application..

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: udaya kumar-- | February 25 2018 |

eyebright one drop directly in one eye only....monitor and report the benefits. repeat or use in both eyes only after checking the benefits. use the medicines only one at a time and report after each medicine.

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: Codebox121Saudiarabia | March 4 2018 |

Dear sir,
I discontinued silica for few days and then took only Borax 30c for three days.. overall i didnt notice any major change in eye symptoms... For eyelashes, lid swelling usually makes the lashes rub on cornea.. i usually have to pluck few misdirected lashes in my right eye every week or so.. so i will monitor if they appear again or not..

Overall i have been feeling better in last few weeks.. light sensitivity has been better as well.. however the after effects of keratitis are still present in my left eye ( sticky liquid every now and then witha feeling of dryness)

Please let me know to go ahead and try euphrasia and pulsatilla one by one..

| Re:Eye condition caused by several problems | By: udaya kumar-- | March 5 2018 |

continue with borax for one week more...it is specific medicine see the eye symptoms of borax in the link below:

Resp Sir as requested to put all the problems together

Resp Sir thank you very much for your detailed response to (1,25-Dihydroxy VitD )

Yes you are correct in giving me …. The following resultant ailments are possible..... I have all those symptoms except vomiting and constipation which I have at times.
I have stopped the supplements calmag 1.5 years ago and last nov 2016 the result was 182. Which was over the limit. I am due for an appt.

61 years of age, diab 1 met, hypothyroid 0.025 mg - blood pressure no meds
- and as far as herbal supplements these are what I take.

Milk thistle, multivitamin, selenium, vit a, vit e, omega 3 and garlic - are these needed to be stopped ??–

I was also intending to take a diabetic multivitamin after these supplements are over. This way I have 1 pill to take.

As far as homeo I take nux vomica 200, and sulphur 200 once a week, sabal, + eupatorium, arnica 30c, crategeus 30c, alfafa, mag phos, Rawfoulia MT. and have some Mother tinc mail ordered.

Calcarb – am abit concerned it say it is for individuals with a bit of bodyweight – I don't have much wt. left.

I will look thru the other suggested remedies and try a few at a time. – thank you very much.

My sincere apologies for not understanding how this forum works and did not want the dr. (you Sir) to feel overwhelmed with our symptoms.

Multiple problems….

2. Blue Potruding veins Sir Tamhankar is working with me

I had requested you to help me Sir Udaya Kumar

My veins are protruding out and are blue in color and many web veins on the heels of the legs are molted color. All the way down my from fingers to arms and down my legs.

All protruding and blue color. They don't hurt but at night many times I get up with shooting pains on the cuff below my knees.

I do anulom vilom pranayam

No improvement - they look so soft and chubby - hands - arms legs feet calves and the feet ones have a molted look bluish color.

at night i get severe pain not sure if it is the veins on my legs or what - but very painful

3. Shaking Hands and Body Jerks

For hbp no meds -had an ischemic stroke a few years ago and no meds were given for stroke.

My hands shake and find it difficult to type as my hands are shaking at times and I get jerks – at times just concerned when I use candle for prayers as hand may jerk.
I cannot clasp my hands without one had shaking or jerking.
Even carrying items semi heavy is abit difficult.
Please help – when I am trying to point the finger at one letter it hits the keys of the next alphabet.

4. Phase out of Allopathy synthroid 0.25 mg and take Homeo may 2017,blood test - tSH level is 3.36 – I don't mind taking homeo for any period of time – ONLY after the dr. says it is alright.

5. Skin looks like leather (snake) skin very dry and White Specs as I have lost so much of weight there are folds in the joints. Drink 3 -3.5 litres of water but it does not seem to affect the skin. White specs all over my clothes. I noticed this leather skin 2 months ago. All over the body. Vegetarian. When i apply moisturiser the cream does not get absorbed it just surfaces to top and one can see the snake skin with lines. If i use an petroleum jelly it comes to the surface and feels greasy.

6. Psoriasis in the Head

I realised I had the scabe when I offered my hair – and did not know what it was – now it has spreaded and in a few areas. The Brown/black scabe some don't fall off and some do but comeback again.
Since 2015. Only on the head. Use shikikai to wash hair

7. Thoracic Spine – Lspine Obliques

The report said slight dextroscolistic deformity centered over t8 at 10degrees – mildanterior endplate lipping throughout lumbar spine with early discsuspected at L1-L2,L3
Thoracolumbar spondylotic changes prominentat thoracic – mild to moderate posterior facet osteoarthritis at L5-S1.
will arnica mother tinc help?

8.BP/BS

you have helped me greatly and am working on it – God bless you. At night the veins and legs/toes hurt Neuropathy and I put essential oil and no pain. But working on the issues –

9. Sarcoidosis for over 4-5 years

The last test i did was in 2016 june i have not gone since. The dr. said nothing has changed since 2 years all is same - infact the dr. said that my liver is better than what it was.

They normally put one in a cage kind of and make you do different breathing it is abit harsh right now for me to go for this test. But i will be seeing the sarc. dr. soon. Many times i have suddenly cough with a kind of sneezing but i dont sneeze. They keep saying it is a rare autoimmune disease - so cannot give any allopathy meds.

My neck vein by my shoulders and behind my ears are painful many times - i think it is the BP.

I do alot of pranayama which has kept my breathing under control for the time being. thank God

Thank you for your patience in taking the time to read my post and helping me.

Resp Uday May good health be yours.

Resp sir Udaya - please when you have some time please read my multiple health post appreciate your kind help.

UPDATE

also the # 2 protruding veins the arnica 200 which Sir Tamhankar was very kind to suggest - no change.

#5 the specs of white skin has now become flakes and all over the body - my gp gave me a name of a moisturiser cream but that wont cover the whole body. I have made an appt with the dermatologist but that will be after 3 -4 months.
Is this considered dry eczema - notice Sulphur or arsenicum alb. are good for flaky skin.
I have started eating roasted pumpkin seeds about 1 tbsp and 5 raw almonds with skin (almonds ate for a while) any bearing?
I know this is of smaller importance #5 compared to the other multiple problems i have.

Please help with the multiple problem
Also the Vi-D hydroxy od on Vit d, which i took was not for 20 years but within 15 years - My apologies based instances i recollected. My sincere apologies

#8. BP/BS - i finally got MT of crateugus can i take it how many drop and how many times a day please and for how long my bp reading is 140/100 early morning.

10 Also terribly underweight - 94 lbs any thing for this - veg. I got some alfafa tonic with ginseng not sure if it will help thank you am not sure how you have the patience to read and patiently explain to us. God bless you.

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | June 18 2017 |
|---|---|---|

for protruding veins use the following medicines :
1. Calcarea Fluor 30C three times a day for one week repeat after some interval
2. Hamamelis 1M one dose in a fortnight.

The dryness of the sking and flakiness, underweight are associated with Sarcoidosis....Is there any lymphadnopathy., any fibrosis, any hepato/spleano megali ( what are you taking milk thistle for....liver ?)

Use the following medicines....Report after each medicine.

1. Psorinum 1M single dose (three granules or three drops in one ounce water) no other medicines on that day.(for 24 hours)

2. Thuja 1M single dose once only .... no other medicines for 24 hours

3. Rhus Tox 1M single dose.... After six hours use Bryonia 30C three times a day for one day.... Report.

4.. Next day use single dose of Alumina 200C.......Stop using Aluminium utensils for cooking food.

5... Next day use Bufo Rana 30C three times a day for one day and report the benefits from that medicines.

6. Next day onwards use Berrllium Metalicum 30C three times a day for three days and report.

Medicines are subject to change after each reporting.

Respected Sir Udaya – thank you for you're suggestions to some of my health concerns –
It will take a while to get the remedies for the some of the remedies suggested.

I don't have any aluminium containers.
Yes the the milk thistle was for the liver, before sarc problem I used to used liv 52 india then got milk thistle.

Sir may I please ask you some questions – the flake snake skin(the snake skin slowly diminishing) the snake skin just came recently. But the white dust on my skin and clothes and itchiness I was told it is apart of old age and the itchiness for diab. So I just accepted.

I thought it was eczema? Not sure. or me being hypothyroid and taking synthroid .25

My sarc. Problem is 4 – 5 years old approx. but I did not have this problem then.

Also my weight was about 115 lbs even thought I had I sarc. my height is 5 ft 3in The weight disappeared as I was told to take 2 met. I lost my appetite. Now I take 1 met according to my gp.

Somewhere I read that in homeo one counteracts with the other and they don't work. (please forgive me I don't know the way to explain.)

So now I was thinking of taking crateugues mt for my BP so I hope it does not cancel the other remedies. Also the alpha tonic homeo to make me hungry and gain weight.

SARC Problem : I am truly sorry that I don't have my dr. sarc. Report. He is a liver specialist – I was so happy to get permission to go to india – that I did not ask for the report

No meds are given for sarc.

All that he said was your liver is better than what it was 2 years ago. But becos I told him that I was having shortness breath (now I don't have) he sent me to a lung dr. even he lung said all is same.- no change.

Thank you dear lord. Now I will be seeing the liver dr. but I am hoping my BP will get lowered. Otherwise he will tell my GP –

The Alumina, Bufo, Berrllium Metalicum I will have to look for them – I will let you know.

Please please know that I have total faith in what you have mentioned but just mentioning my health situation. You have been Godsend to all of us.
I will follow all your suggestion and report as requested.

May Good Health be yours! God bless you.!

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | June 19 2017 |

The itchiness, dryness and flakes on skin are not diabetes related but psora related.... psora being the dominent miasm behind sarcoidosis, the other miasms behind are syphilitic and tuberculous.... .tuberculous miasm ends in wasting disease and Iodium factor loss of weight Arsenic Iodatum may be required in such cases ......most of your symptoms including liver and weight loss are related to sarcoidosis. Just have a look into the link below:
http://www.mayoclinic.org/diseases-conditions/sarcoidosis/symptoms-causes/dxc-20177970

Any lung disease, granulomas and nodosities, as it progresses will create dry skin and dry skin creates itching, scales, flakes and the like..... lung diseases will always have a bearing on liver.and liver on eyes and vision.....and spleen.........and constipation and ultimately to heart and head. In some cases of Sarcoidosis there is an alumina factor and if there is no constipation, you do not have to use it. Homeo medicines do not act with anything except awakening the life force, the body under an active life force does the cure not the medicine.

Use Cardus M Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day for Liver and stop Milk Thistle.....Milk thistle is the crude form of Cardus M and Cardus M is the purfied diluted form of Milk thistle......

Resp Udaya Sir

Thank you for the sarc link and your explanation of my health querries.

So i use the below remedies - do i use arsenic iodium?

I will use Cardus Mt instead of milk thistle.

Also where ever you mentioned report back thats when i let you know.

ques 1 please

Is it because my sarc. is not stable that the symptoms have arisen. How did they all come up now? the remedies 1-6 are for the skin problem?

i can omit alumina and am not constipated

1. Psorinum 1M single dose (three granules or three drops in one ounce water) no other medicines on that day.(for 24 hours)

2. Thuja 1M single dose once only .... no other medicines for 24 hours

3. Rhus Tox 1M single dose.... After six hours use Bryonia 30C three times a day for one day.... Report.

4.. Next day use single dose of Alumina 200C.......Stop using Aluminium utensils for cooking food.

5... Next day use Bufo Rana 30C three times a day for one day and report the benefits from that medicines.

6. Next day onwards use Berrllium Metalicum 30C three times a day for three days and report.

Thank you very much and i will follow your advice. May Good health be Yours.

Please report after use of each medicine.

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: bell | June 20 2017 |

Respected Sir Udaya

I am very sorry to have put you on the spot regarding asking if the it because my sarc. is not stable that the symptoms have arisen.
How did they all come up now? the remedies 1-6 are for the skin problem?
My sincere apologies.

This morning I took the Psorinum as suggested – so far by God’s grace all is fine

Sorry i feel a little weak and had a headache but now the head ache it is gone

Am sorry I am unable to get the bufo rana and berrillium – I will keep trying.

Also can I take my vit supplements?

I will be picking up the carduus mt.

Also my BP is not coming down. I was told that sarc patients also have BP problem I am taking crategeus 5 drops 3 times and rauwolfia 3 times 10 drops.

Thank you very very much for opening myself to the sarc symptom I neglected. While in India and after here I was concentrating on my BS and BP.

I have noticed that when I say AUM in pranayama I cannot say for a long time. And I do have a dry cough which i did not bother about.

Also i have been taking homeo alfafa tonic with ginseng i gives me energy and lowers bs. Can i takes it during this time where you mentioned not to take anything else as tomorrow also i take thuja with nothing else.
If it causes a problem then i will not take it.

Thank you very much for all your endless patience and energy you put into your sewa. God bless you use of vitamin supplements is not a sensible thing to do....you can continue use if you think you are malnutrient......otherwise it is always an assimilation problem and as long as that is not corrected, any amount of topping up will only remain as toxin in the body and would be of no vitamin value....if the assimilation is correct then there is no need for supplements as the body will extract anything and everything it wanted from the daily food......care should be taken to include all food items in a manner that all vitamins and nourishments are available within the food itself..... bufo rana and berrillium are important as they are main medicines aimed at sarcoidosis.....use pulsatilla 30C instead until they are received. use of Rauwolfa Q for longer period is not advised....use arnica 6C in wet doses instead.

| | | |

Keep your index finger touching the first phalenge at the joint between thumb and index finger on both palm when invoking AUM for more lung power.....In this Vaayu Mudra the lung power will increase and in due course you will be able to retain breath for longer periods....4844 is the Maatra for breath i.e 4 seconds inspiration, 8 seconds retention(Kumbhak) four seconds expiration, and 4 seconds interregnum between expiration and inspiration. This can slowly be raised on Abhyaas (practice) to 8-16-8-8

If there is dry cough use single dose of Bryonia 30C and the cough will stop and the lungs will also clear up from the smoke inhaled like feeling.

Alfalfa and ginseng may be stopped for the time being and can be introduced later if found necessary by yourself.

best wishes.

|---|---|---|

Thank you very much Udaya Sir for your response

Day 2 thuja 1M no other med taken with it – so far feeling well by Gods grace and your kind suggestion.

Yes vitamin assimilation will be hard I will take only omega 3 fatty acid and carduum mt. and alfafa tonic from day 3 as from day 3 there is no restriction for taking other stuff (Rhux tox day)

 Would you like me NOT take anything during the course of all this beautiful schedule you have laid out. – please let me know.

pulsatilla 30C how many times a day please and I guess until I find bufo rana and berrillium. Will do my very best to find them

Thank you very much for telling me about Vaayu mudra So very well explained –

Is sarcoidosis as a result of dust smoke inhalation… as my dr. said that I have travelled so much to india – hard to treat me.

May I please ask you a question – I have used Rauwolfia mt since april21/17 but I must say the body heat for which it was given was excellent and all gone excellent remedy – but actually I was looking for BP – when I go to the homeo dr.for refill the BP is good.
But when I do my reading in the morning it is high.
Today I read this on the forum…. Regarding sarspagandha -

Thank you for your help

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | June 28 2017 |

is it Eupatorium Purpureum or Perfolatum...? check both and let me know...as I do not remember the reason why I had suggested it earlier.

http://www.homeoint.org/books/boericmm/e/eup-per.htm

http://www.homeoint.org/books/boericmm/e/eup-pur.htm

I think it is purpureum because irritable bladder, enlarged prostate are a special field for this remedy

You can include them......

Yes it is Eupatorium Purpureum ...purpureum and purpuratum are same. It was suggested taking into consideration diabetes, strangury, irritable bladder, enlarged prostate all together, so it should give you respite within 3 days of use...... best wishes.

Resp Sir Udaya

Thank you for the remedy for the frequent urination it is 1 pill 3 times a day along with Sabal Serrulatha 1 pill 3 times a day.

Sir I finished take Bufo Rana for 1 day 3 times yesterday was the last dosage.

But i had severe pain on my Right side under armpit all the way until my waist - the clothing rubbing against that are made it even more painful. Even today the pain is less. Felt good doing pranayama breathing was full of air.

Today i start the Berrillium Metalicum - it is much like a tissue salt and takes awhile to dissolve under my tongue.

Is it alright if i put it in a glass and add 1tbsp of water and then take it under my tongue.
Please advise.

Very grateful for all your kind help. May God bless you

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | June 29 2017 |
|---|---|---|

Severe pain in right side arm pit disappearing on its own could be appearance of an old symptom which should be welcomed. you can dissolve that in one ounce water....use it for one day or maximum three days ....report benefits and then only continue....kindly report over all benefits from each medicine ......and the sense of well being.......which is hall mark to recovery....

Dear Resp Sir

The first 3-4 of the remedies you gave me - made the skin gradually smooth the flakes became less but the itch is about 90% gone.

There are layers of skin in my inner elbow and under my breastbone and stomach – due to the heavy weight loss.

By the time I started taking Bufo Rana the skin became better and no more fish scales and leather looking skin.

I am day 2 of the Beryillium. Breathing is better.

I have more energy, - I think the pain down the sides underarmpit are the lymph nodes? Now the pain is negligible.

Yesterday my hands were shaking left that I could not hold a jug of water but that problem is above and I don’t know if this is part of the sarcoidosis.

I am thankful to God and to you Sir for these results as in 2 weeks I will be having to see my sarc dr.

Thank you for mentioning about the Cardius Ma liver mt. which I am taking.

Dear Dr. Please help me and let me know if the beryllium metalicum will help with my lungs as I find it hard to go to the lung dr. to be put into that cage for breathing.

Is there anything that will help with weight gain – I am taking alfafa. tonic as when my liver dr. sees my weight loss he just keeps suggesting pregnozone.

I will keep you posted on my progress. Very grateful to you Sir.

prednisone is a steroid with immense side effects: https://www.drugs.com/prednisone.html

Beryllium is the medicine for sarcoidosis and should give you benefits ...we have to watch and see. If you are uncomfortable in closed places (cages) use Hydrastis 30C three times for three days along with single dose of Aconitum 30C. you will be benefitted in other areas also. for better breathing the following medicines in three doses for one day can be tried. 1. Carbo veg 30C. Bryonia 30C. Antim Tart 30C 4.Arsenic Album 200C single dose.5, Causticum 30C ...Causticum will help with shaking of left hand. Weight gain will happen when wasting disease is removed.
we are working towards that.

Resp Sir Udaya

Please help me i would be very grateful.

the electocardiograph came out fine by God's grace.

I went to the GP as my BP is fluctuating.

She increased the conversly to now from 2mg to 4 mg as the box says for hypertension one must take 4 - 8 mg.

Cannot increase more as my body weight is still at 94 lbs and she mentioned that my night reading of the bp is normal. and she is concerned if the bp suddenly goes down at night

Now it has been - 2 days since the increase. how many days will it take to show some progress Dr.?

Please suggest some homeo remedy as my reading is still 150 /100 range.

I heard/read that even though one has bp there are no symptoms but inside us the damage takes place.

Please help me i would be very grateful.

May good health be yours. God bless you

You need to stabilise the BP from your physician if it is fluctuating....

Resp Sir Udaya
Thank you for your response

Originally in july 2017 I did go to my dr and mentioned that my bp is fluctuating she took my bp and it was 130/80 and she refused then after I insisted she said she will put me on the bp machine for 24 hours

- when the reading was done it showed many normal readings and said she wont give me any bp pills but I was concerned about myself during doing volunteer work I don’t have time to check.

That’s when she gave me conversely 1 mg. But BP – no improvement.. Then she increased later to 2 mg. but again I went to her 2 days ago and she checked bp and it was 146/90 so she gave me 4 mg. she mentioned that she is increasing it based on one reading. now it is only 2 days since but no progress – not sure how many days.

That’s why I thought a homeo remedy will help – I made a remedy baryta today as it say for older folks - bp

Thank you for your time for reading my post

Dear Udaya Resp Sir

I am truly grateful to you and the forum members for all the information I have received.

Thank you very much to you for walking me through patiently with my multiple health issues.

I am feeling much better by God’s grace and your abundance of timely help.

Just wanted to mention that I am following the Ayurveda method that has been an eye opener for me and helped me to this level along with homeo. - had a lot of toxins

Working on my weight and BP – I read an article on some website that if you have done your best – then to continue taking the allopathy even if no results but make it an offering to the Divine – I hope I find that article. And now I am doing it.

Too bad there is no Ayurveda forum
You have helped us all without a thought about financial issues.

May You always have good health and strength to serve.

God bless you – heartfelt thanks to you.

http://www.homeopathyandmore.com/forum/viewtopic.php?t=3395&highlight=parasite

Dear Respected Sir Udaya

I liked your article regarding parasite in the above link
How does one allow these bacteria live in our bodies – please give an example -
I know when we treat all of mother natures creations with love they leave us alone. But what does one say to them to leave and where to go.
I know of a S.America she was scarred of cockoroaches and never slept at night as they were always there for her but her friend told here to sing a song to these creatures and thereafter no one came to her room. She told me this and I applied often – and without fail it worked always for many variety of friends.
But at times I don’t know where to send them.
Now I have these parasites and my dr. is putting me on hormone therapy to put in the private area. But am not going to do it but will use and try to use your technique.

Thank you for all your kind help to all of us. May God bless you.

The leg pain has gone - thank you very much.

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | October 26 2017 |

We are all larger forms of bacteria....!!
Look at the people moving around you....dont they have the capacity to attack, the capacity to kill, the capacity to be angry, the capacity to fight, the capacity to abuse,,.....etc. But, are they going around doing that every time all the time....No>>> but ofcourse they do it when they are faced with adversity warranting that...... similarly all bacteria move around harmlessly always everywhere.....and they become hostile only either on the face of adversity or when they have fertile ground to multiply and become parasite to the body they entered or settled or live in......the ideal and natural Law is to coexist harmoniously and peacefully one crossing the path of the other......but we as human beings have set our own standards and anything barging in or threatening the space of such standards are considered enemies and we become hostile before they become hostile.....Infact, homeostasis is defined as living harmoniously within and with the surroundings and that is perfect health....
You have asked for an example and I would suggest one : e.g. Helicobacter Pylori.....Read the description in any of the allopathic sites and you will find the poor thing accused as cause to many ailments......The common description on H. Pylori will read as : This bacteria can enter your body and live in your digestive tract. They cause sores in the lining of your stomach....infection may lead to cancer...Symptoms : An ache or burning pain in your abdomen
Abdominal pain that's worse when your stomach is empty
Nausea
Loss of appetite
Frequent burping
Bloating
Unintentional weight loss
Severe or persistent abdominal pain

Difficulty swallowing
Bloody or black tarry stools
Bloody or black vomit or vomit that looks like coffee grounds.

Another matter that is always emphasized by allopathy is that:::::Most people with H. pylori infection will never have any signs or symptoms. It's not clear why this is, but some people may be born with more resistance to the harmful effects of H. pylori.......

The basic thought that does not cross the allopathic mind is that H Pylori is harmless and it is required for the healthy cleanliness and maintainance of our guts. Since it is harmless, most of the people with H Pylori infection will never have any symptoms......It is a blunder to think that some people are born with more resistance to the harmful effects of H Pylori....Instead one should think that some people are normal human beings and therefore H pylori is harmless to them....whereas some people acquire abnormality in the body which causes H pylori to be hostile.

Now, where is the error or mistake....It lies in the thought that H Pylori is the cause, whereas the Human being and the human body itself is the cause....Let us see how.......The Human body in a normal person should be 80% alkaline and 20% Acidic. The life style and acquired genetic predispositions leads the human being to reverse this condition. What happens when the body becomes acidic and PH factor is fully derranged. ? It effects the body's capability to centrifugal forces.....Centrifugal forces expel toxins and centripetal forces retains life. These are created within the cells by the rotation and revolution of the protons., neutron, electrons or other sub atomic particles......These activities within the cells are possible only if the balance between the acid and alkali are maintained in the level in whicih it ought to be which is the ideal homeostasis condition which we call in laymen's language as Healthy. When body becomes acidic most of the scavengers like H Pylori within the body cannot survive....Therefore when there is presence of acid within the body and guts, the first reaction of H Pylori would be to hide away from the acids and that it does through making pores in the lining of the stomach which in course of time enlarges to the level that we call it ulcers. They are not deliberate hostility nor the H Pylori is hostile, it is trying to save itself from the onslaught of the acids......So what is required is to convert the body PH factor into alkaline and H pylori will not make any further pores in the stomach linings and what exists would be naturally healed by the body....that is the approach.....Another method is to drink enough water.......Have you seen the ants.......Thorugh some grains on the floor, it will come in very large numbers, from no where and remove all the grains from the ground within a period of time ... And pour some water on the ground or during the rain, they will come out in large numbers burrowing the ground....So when you drink enough water also, they will come out from the stomach linings and do useful work. Same is the case with cochroaches......they do clean up the kitchen.....But, then that is against the code of neatness, good health, hygiene and whatnot of human beings....Doom....we kill them....plenty of those harmful substances available in the market to kill those poor scavengers.....But is that the right approach...No.....Keep the area clean and seal all exists and entrances, gauze all doors and windows, do not spilt anything on the ground are the better alternatives........when they do not find their role in the kitchen they will simply vanish.

If we for example come to know as we already know Blata Orientalis which is medicine from Cockroaches is the best remedy available with us for asthma and similarly for the sake of example find out some other medicine from the cockroach for all kinds of cancers, aids, autoimmune ailments etc.etc. from cockroaches, then we will be rearing them rather than killing them.....It is human selfishness. .....For the sake of humor, she should take medicines like phosphorus, borax, coca, populus candicans, causticum Glycyrrhiza glabra etc. to improve her voice if she was scaring away the cockroaches by singing.....!!!

Dear Resp Sir Udaya

You have so wonderfully outlined your thoughts explaining with examples. So beautiful!

I am also one of those who have given many mother natures friends moksha being lazy and not bothered to put/seal things away.

Wow this is such an eye opener.
Thank you very much. Very very grateful for your elaborate detail in explaining.

I do drink lots of water and veg diet but are there any homeo pills to change the flora in my system from acid to alkaline. I will be using a higher dose of probiotics. I pray this will all work.

Thank you again for all your beautiful work and making us understand many things in a different way.
May the Divine bless you with His abundant grace

Thyroid and BP

Dr. Udaya

I just finished ayur verechana treatment in India

I am Hypothyroid and take 0.025 synthroid 1 pill a day.
My weight is 94 lbs

My tSh level is 3.50 and the dr. says it is in the normal range, but i still have the following symptoms tiredness want to sleep itchy skin fatigue appetite is good by His grace

I have all the symptoms relating to hypothyroid.

Is there anything i can take instead of the allopathy med.
one thyroid dr. while in india told me that the synthroid is causing the shaking hands.

I heard and taken EVC oil some time ago and it did reduce my tsh level. Is there any supplements or homeo i can take please.

BP
My BP i take conversly 4 mg in the dr. office tested in india and after coming here it is 110/80 or so.
But on the digital machine it is 150/110

My dr. wont up my dosage as she thinks i may feel dizzy and fall at night and my weight is very low.

Please help dr.

Also the recent report taken here shows my sodium level is 136 is there something i can do to reduce it a little

The verechana panchakarma is a true blessing to mankind.

Thank you very much for all your kind help - truly very grateful.

Virechana or purgation therapy for chelation is good for removing the pitha from the guts and purifying the blood...Arnica will prove a great remedy to follow it. for synthrop side effects and consequent dyskinesia use Nux Vomica 30C three times a day for one day....can be repeated if necessary.,

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: bell | March 5 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Thank you very much for your suggestion - i will follow thru

As for Arnica what is the dose and dosage please
So my understanding I use Nux vomica 30 C for shaky hands.

In lieu of synthoriod is there any homeo remedy to use or i continue using it as my TSH level is still high and take nux vomica 30C. for the effects of the allopathy

Dr. My weight is still at 94 lbs. I thought after all the toxins are out i will start gaining weight.

Please suggest.

Thank you very much for all your kind help.

| Re:Resp. Sir Udaya - Multiple-health problems | By: udaya kumar-- | March 5 2018 |

use Iodium 1M one dose a fortnight for gaining weight....Also use phosphorus 30C three times a day for one week....In case there is no appetite use alphalpha Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day.....Nux Vomica is for the shaky hands...you may replace synthroid by homeopathic medicine thyroidinum 3X...synthroid is usually used for hypothyroid whereas your weight loss indicates hyperthyroid and you should also be short tempered....Nux Vomica helps here.....When there is a combination of hypothyroid and hyperthyroid.....hashimoto should be considered.

I think the PSA level is normal ......nonetheless that do not resolve the issue......how he feels is more important than these mere numbers....the medicines are required for longer time and you must start cadmium ..........thuja 1M may be given once in 15 days.......the liquid drops will continue ...use one dose each of Colocynthis 200C and rhus tox 200C for pain. with best wishes.

In my previous post, I should have mentioned that the principal of killing cancer cell is to make the blood pH alkaline with simple use of Baking Soda (Sodium Bicarbonate) Do not use Baking Powder.

Its so simple yet so effective.

Respected Lal_anar,

I have posted the request on "Severe Headache" topic.

You are kindly requested to advise please.

Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery By: lal_anar April 16 2016

I read all your posts between Udaya and you.

First of all sorry for what you are going thru, its really hard.
Lots of prayers for your wife's health and well being of her family members.

My father also had gone thru sub-dural hematoma surgery.

Its a long term treatment and we recommend you to have lot of patience.

Plz start with;

Nux Vomica 30-C, every four hours for 24 hours, which means total of 6 doses in 24 hours.

No other med that day. ( continue with conventional meds which Drs giving her )

After you done with Nux give a gap of another 24 hours without any homeo med.

Nux is a polycrest, which means it carries all the functions which combinations of meds can do. But, we can not rely on Nux alone also, in this case.

When another 24 hours gone;
Start with

Arnica 200-C 2 x day, daily. ( this will be long term )

Lachesis 200-C, every day for a week, than stop Lachesis.

Calc phos 6c 2 x day.

To summarize;
Arnica 200-C 2 x day ( daily for at least 1 month or may be longer )
Calc Phos 6-C 2 day ( same as Arnica duration )

Lachesis 200-C for a week only.

Plz report after 1 week.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | April 16 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Thanking you very much for the prompt advise.

Will start the first remedy from tonight and follow the other remedies as advised.

We are giving Lecithinum 6x for lack hemoglobin in blood on daily basis. Shall we stop also.

She is bedridden following surgery. Physcio is keep her stand on tilting table for 20 minutes and BP is normal.

We will check Calc Phos and Lachesis, inform the availability of the potency.

Still bone flap is not done due the the brain bulge (it could be fluid retention), we gave Apocynum 6x and Hedra Helix 200C twice. But, still the bulge is there, it is blowing like while coughing.

We will inform you the further development.

| | | |
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | April 16 2016 |

yes, u can continue Lecitthinum while giving Nux.

But, stop other homeo meds.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | April 17 2016 |

We have started Nux Vom as advised from last night.

We do not have the remedies of Calc Phos 6C and Lachesis 200C.

We have Calc. Phos 12x and Lachesis 30C.

Her BP is low always since long times. Some time it is going lower than 80/60 and giving Spigelia 30C as advised by Udayaji.

Your kind advise to proceed these remedies.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | April 18 2016 |

U can give Calc Phos 12x 3 times a day and Lachesis 30-C 1 x day for 3 days only than Stop. ( 200-C was for the whole week but, 30-C for 3 days. )

Low BP can also be controlled by Nat Mur and Cactus Grandiflorus. Both in 30-C

We may use other meds slowly, as go along, based on symptoms.

Dr. Nash wrote a detailed article about Lachesis, some important ones are;

1) stops coagulation of blood / blood clotting

2) Controls Abnormal bleeding

3) Black bleeding internally

4) Symptoms becomes worse during sleep

5) Circulatory disorders

6) Headaches

7) Bleeding from Nose, black or clotty.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | April 19 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Thanking you, we have started the advised remedies from to day.

They have taken for ENT consultation yesterday to remove trechostomy, but the could not do the test. There is swelling in right nose and cound not insert fiber optic tube and NGT in left nose.

They advised to remove NGT and patient should feed orally prior to next consultation.They did not give any medication for nose swelling(Right).

We start to feed semi solid from yesterday like biscuits in milk mix.

Your kind advise please.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | April 19 2016 |
|---|---|---|

its very common to develop Rhinosinusitis from NGT.

In allopathy its treated with antibiotics like, mycins group. ( erythromycin, cipro, etc )

Drs are right not giving any antibiotic at this time, if there is Septic they might consider it. There may be a fever due to sepsis.

U can add Calc Flor ( 6x or 12x ) with Calc Phos.
Mix both together 2-4 tabs of each.

Lachesis should also take care of blockage in nose.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | April 26 2016 |
|---|---|---|

We are continuing the remedy and NGT being removed from 24th April, 2016.
We are giving food orally.

Today they sent for ENT consultation and they diagnose the vocal chord is movement is sluggish and can not remove trechostomy now.

They have reduced the dose of Keppra from 500mg to 250mg and giving at night.

Urine output is low since she is not taking enough liquid.

She is sleeping most of the daytime and unable to feed.

You are kindly requested to advise.

|---|---|---|

Please give daily 2 doses of Kali Bichromium 30-C for 7 days.

Following salts will help for water imbalance in body, all cell salts can be mixed together 2 tabs of each

Nat Mur
Nat Phos
Kali Mur

along with Cal Phos and Calc Flor

After 7 days of Kali Bichromium, start Nux again for a week.

All these meds shall help in elctrolyte imbalance.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | May 6 2016 |
|---|---|---|

We continue the remedies as advertised.

Her swallowing is very slow and not taking enough food properly. Her food intake is too less. Getting aspirations while swallowing. Potassium level dropped thrice in week. We gave Kali phos for potassium earlier and stopped after your advise.

Not responding left side and limb movement also very minimal.

Again Doctor suggested for ENT consultation for examining vocal cords by Sunday, the 8th May.

She is alert and not oriented. Follow commands sometimes.

Your kind advice please.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | May 6 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Kali Bichromium is also alternative for Low potassium.

Plz arrange;

Plumbum Met 30-C 2 x day daily for a month.

Thuja 30-C Daily ( 1 dose )

Continue with Arnica 200-C daily ( do not stop Arnica )

Cell Salts, daily 2-4 times a day. These salts can be dissolved on the tongue. If its hard to put on tongue, you can add all the salts in Cup of water, stir the water and give spoon each time. or via dropper

Each spoon is = 1 dose.

You can do the same for C potencies. ( Do not mix them in same cup with Cell Salts )

Kali Mur ( also for low potassium )
Kali Phos ( low potassium )
Mag Phos ( low potassium )
Nat Phos ( water shortage )
Calc Phos ( also for low potassium )
Nat Mur ( water shortage in body )

We also need to look at other functions, live heart kidney etc.

Depending where u live, it may be hard to arrange Q remedies.

See if you can get them by mail or thru someone traveling to your place.

Cardus Q ( liver )
Ceonthus Q ( liver kidney spleen )
Crataegus Q ( heart and blood circulation )
Solidago Q ( kidney function)

These Q can be mixed together.

Please let me know if u need further clarification.

keep informing. Thanx

|---|---|---|

Thanking you, we have Plumbum met 30C and giving as advised. Also, we do not have Salidago Q and other three is available. There is any other remedy in place of Salidago.

There is trembling her lips while chewing the food and taking long time to swallow.

We follow as advised. Shall we give Ginko Biloba 3X for responses to right side.

Your kind advise is appropriated.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | May 7 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Thuja is also alternative of Solidago lips trembling due to weakness in muscles, Plumbum should take care of it.

Yes, u can add Ginko Biloba.

U can mix it with other Q remedies u have, if its in pills, add 5-10 pellets, or if liquid 5-10 drops.

If you have Berb Vulgaris, u can also add with other Q remedies

Stir the water and give 1 spoon 4 x day or stir water with spoon, suck in dropper, each dropper also = 1 dose how is her BP?

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | May 7 2016 |

We have Thuja 200c liquid. Will take all advised remedies in equal portion and take 5-10drops in each dose as advised.

BP is normal most of the time and dropped some times. But never increase to high.

This is for your kind advice.

| | | |
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | May 20 2016 |

Assessment made for vocal cords and found it is normal. They removed trechostomy. But she is having urine infection continuesly and MDRO. They gave antibiotics just two weeks ago. Again they are going to give colistin.

She is not swallowing the food taking long time to swallow.

You are kindly requested to advise the remedy for urine infection and swallow inability.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | May 20 2016 |

Continue for Plumbum Met same dose 2 x day for another 2 weeks

Give Thuja 200-C 3 x week and Ars Album ( 200 C or 30 - C ) 4 x week.

U can set days for Thuja and Ars. Lets say ( M - W - F ) Thuja

Tue - Thr - Sat - Sun Ars Album

Q remedies shall continue, 1 - 2 x day.

Thuja and Ars can control MDRO and Urine Infection.

Our focus should be strengthening immune system, so body can fight bacteria and viruses. Too many antibiotics makes bacteria stronger rather destroying them.

Ars Album comes in to play here.

Swallowing problem actually starts from weakness of Oesopahgus muscles, rather neck / throat muscles.

Again Plumbum Met and Nat Phos 6x will be very helpful here. Continue with salts as usual.

Continue with above meds for two weeks.

In the mean time, arrange the following meds

Gels 30-C
Baptisia 30-C
Graphites 30-C
Carbo Veg 30-C
Argenta Met 30-C
Conium 30-C

After 2 weeks, Conium shall come in for more muscular power.

lets wait at this time.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | May 22 2016 |
|---|---|---|

Thanking you,

We will continue the remedy as advised for MDRO and swallow to correct.

She is not responding left side and Can we start Causticum as it is left remedy. She is not talking even after tracheostomy removed.

Will prepare the Q remedies and how to give.
Is Phosphrous for muscle toning? We are making her stand and legs are bending.

Please advise.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | May 23 2016 |
|---|---|---|

You can alternate with the meds at different days

Lets say
Causticam on Friday Sat Sun

Phosphorus Mon Tue

Plumbum Wed Thr

you can give each remedy 2-4 x day in 30-C

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | May 28 2016 |
|---|---|---|

The suggested remedies on 20th May is going on.

They (Hospital) discontinue Keppra from four days which was given for anti seizure. Can you suggest homeopathy remedy for anti seizure.

I have arranged the following medicines as advised.

Gels 30-C
Baptisia 30-C
Graphites 30-C
Carbo Veg 30-C
Argenta Met 30-C
Conium 30-C

Also advise me about the Q remedies to give.

Awaiting for your kind advise.

|---|---|---|

No need for anti seizure med in homeopathy either.

Q remedies can be mixed together and can be taken 2-3 x day.

lets wait and watch the remedies you are administering now. continue with the same meds for another 2 weeks.

|---|---|---|

Thanking you for the advise. Done the culture test for urine and shown bacterial infection and MDRO is gone following your advise.

She is not swallowing after removal of trechostomy. No response on left side like how is she active on right side.

Due to the diaper, the skin become black colour on that part.

You are kindly requested to advise.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: lal_anar | June 7 2016 |
|---|---|---|

U can stop
Phos
Causticam
Ars Album
Thuja

Continue with Arnica as usual

Start with
Conium 30-C 2 x day ( Mon-Tue-Wed-Thr )
Calc Flor 30-C 2 x day ( Fri-Sat-Sun ) repeat them for a month as mentioned above.

Q remedies can be given with gap of 30 min - 1 hour

1 x day of Q remedies is enough.

| Re:Attn: Respected Lal_anar: Post Head Surgery | By: mibara0810Gulf | June 9 2016 |
|---|---|---|

We will give the remedy as advised.

You are requested to advise for the remedies required in future, some one going to come from India by Saturday. We can get them.

Respected Udayaji,

Gave her Ignatia30C three times yesterday and yawning is subsided. She is sleeping at night (Did not sleep two nights following Astrrias R 30C). She is trying look right side while laying, but not looking right side while sitting position.

You are kindly requested to suggest the remedy for the bulge. Worried about the bulge, which is main cause for everything with brain related.

loose mucus, running nose and sneezing are good signs.....use three doses of phosphorus 30C for one day and repeat arsenic album 200C one dose a day for three days and then as and when there is an attack..........need not use inhaler as arsenic will control it within half an hours time.....if it does not then use,blata orientalis 6C three times a day for three days and repeat arsenic album.....

Dear Mr. Udaya Kumarji,

Following your kind advise and taking the remedy - Ars Album a dose being taken today. Yesterday took Phosphorus.

Sneezing to much today with loose mucus, noticed that sneezing is due to getting external heat. I am feeling that my body is hot today and irritation in throat. Normally it is symptom for the catching cold and fever.

Itching on palate also during night. Usually I have taken Wyethia 30C before, for the itching on Palate.

Waiting for your kind advise.

Dear Mr. Udayaji,

Following the Ars Iod sneezing is completely stopped and cough has started.

Could not sleep whole night, mouth full phlegm was expelled on each cough till 2.00am and then dry cough till now. But suffering from cough till now (2.10PM).

Getting pain on head like to explode and both rib sides while coughing.

As a SOS went to clinic and they gave nebulizer and salbutamol inhaler.

Your kind advise is highly appreciated.

| Re:Attn: Mr. Udaya Kumar - Please Help to Get Rid of Asthma | By: udaya kumar-- | October 10 2014 |

use Bryonia30C for dry cough and Arsenic Iodatum 200C one dose a week.....The situation is that body is trying to remove the ailment and you are suppress it using inhalers and nebulizers....the present condition itself is a stuffed up situation from which the body is trying to find ventilation....Sneezing is body's way of expelling foreign and toxic substances from the body, lungs and respiratory system.....running nose is body\s way of expelling germs and stopped flows and discharges.......coughing out phlegm is yet another way of expelling the mucus causing congestions.....when you take those allopathic medicines you are trying to go against the body and its defense functions.....those should be welcomed...... give the medicines times...they will work...do not use continuously but can be used for any longer times as repetitions......or as and when situations arise....the medicine for such a kind of cough is drosera but I would not like to suggest that at this stage as it may worsen the condition......use hepar sulph 30C for cough or belladonna 30C as per your symptoms....

Dear Mr. Udayaji,

Thanking for the advise.

Did not use any type of inhaler since suffocation is subsided even an emergency. I think that, it is miracle of ARS.

Will continue the Ars for three days and give a day gap to see the results and start again if required.

Will take Hepar Sulph for the cough.

Cough is giving much trouble now. could not sleep. Thick phlegm coming out on each time, slightly white in colour.

Do we need any medicines for Hernia from India?

Please advise.

Dear Udayaji,

I suppose to stop the Ars from today, but need to take as 6 hourly.

But, this evening got the severe attack while bowing the head to earth during prayer and forced to use Ventolin. Taking Hephar Sulph for cough and feel that cough is subsided.

Will try to stop the Ars by tomorrow.

This is for your information and further advise.

| Re:Attn: Mr. Udaya Kumar - Please Help to Get Rid of Asthma | By: udaya kumar-- | October 15 2014 |

use three doses a day for two days of kali mur 30C...... you need blata orientalis 6C followed by Arsenic Album...cough on bending down again indicates bryonia........but since it is not a dry cough I would suggest continued use of hepar and if needed use Nux Vomica 30C Sulpher combination.nux would help in hernia also.

Respected Udayaji,

I have completed one week with Slicea 6X as advised. But, Ventolin usage being increased following Slicea like 2-3 hours of interval. Feel that something in the left ear like water fill. (Right ear is with hole in drum.)

I have monitored that getting suffocation while urine retention and got up following stools ( on normal WC).

You are kindly requested to advise please.

Best regards,

| Re:Attn: Mr. Udaya Kumar - Please Help to Get Rid of Asthma | By: udaya kumar-- | February 25 2018 | and got up following stools ( on normal WC).

I did not understand what you tried to convey...kindly elaborate.
Silicea is the best possible medicine for perforated ear drum...and for sensation of water in the ear.....You may also check hepar sulph and chamomill, causticum for the symptom left ear like water filled.....The whole is consequent to formation of pus behind the right ear which had drained out earlier causing the perforation......use of hepar then would have dried up the pus and the abscesses behind the ear drum due to infections through Eustachian tube and stopped drainage and perforation, whereas since the perforation has already taken place, use of silicea should close it....this is now happening to the left ear. use of hepar and or chamomilla should abort otitis media. use higher potency of silicea in 6C of 30C if it is interfering with your breathing....single dose a day.

| Re:Attn: Mr. Udaya Kumar - Please Help to Get Rid of Asthma | By: mibara0810Gulf | February 25 2018 |

Actually I want to convey the information regarding suffocation take place while retention of urine and after passed stools.

I will take Slicea 30C as advised. What potency for Hephar and Chamomilla and how to take.

Please advise.

| | | |
| Re:Attn: Mr. Udaya Kumar - Please Help to Get Rid of Asthma | By: udaya kumar-- | February 25 2018 |

I would consider it as suffocation on movement rather than on retention of urine or passing stools (discharges).....the medicine that are related should relate to oedema in or around lungs and therefore Bryonia and antim tart...... all medicines in 30C including hepar and chamo.....and restricted to three days at a stretch.

Respected Udayaji,

It is a good sign that the symptom is descending .......unless this is a mind symptom. Just as S R Pathak mentions in his Materia medica ...sudden debility and lack of reaction, esp in chest and heart affections....It affects the Mind and Brain causing bluntness of special senses....read with Urinary symptom specific to you i.e. Urine retained, suppressed, involuntary, with palpitation and suffocation, and fainting...

with respiratory symptoms: Larynx and trache raw, suffocation, gasps for breath, on sitting up, shallow breathing, dyspnoea with sensation that he is unable to raise the chest walls >lying down, Cough tickling, spaspmodic, nightly, phthisis, short, dry of cardiac origin < lying down...Bloody or scattered with bloody dots....gelatinous expectoration, low voice,......the medicine is Laurocerasus Q 2 drops in quarter glass water two times a day for one day.

Respected Udayaji,

Took the remedy Laurocerasus 3X as advised (3 doses) and feel little comfort at morning. But cough started often with phlegm. Could not monitor with urine retention in day time. Tried to retain urine at night, even got up 12.30 and sslept again. Got up with cough at 3.20am and experienced suffocation. Used ventolin more than 5 puffs to get relief. Again this evening around 4 pm gone out without any protective cover and got severe suffocation as soon as reached home and forced to have nubuliser.(had nubuliser 40days before).

You are kindly requested to advise please.

Took:
Rhus Tox 1M single dose 1 day
Hepar Sulph :3 doses for 3 days.
Today from morning no symptoms of runny nose and sneezing.
still no improvement in Khansi.

problem of sneezing and runny nose started (and starts yearly from last 4-years) in end of February,at end of winter season.May be due to pollens. As long as i keep nose covered with cloth,feels ok as i remove cloth nose starts running.
Took allergy medicine levocetrizine daily for one month along with inhaler.
After that took ayurvedic medicines Septilin and Bresol.

Taking homeopathic medicines from 09.04.17.

sir, i think pollens have already gone but still i am not feeling completely relieved; sneezing , runny nose , right nose blocked is still there however much reduced.but no relief in khansi.

Allergic Rhinits-from last many years

sir i request you to please suggest:
(1) Further course.(Khansi is troubling more)
(2) homeo medicines to be taken before February to prevent/ reduce onset of allergy/pollen effect.

Thanks & Regards.

Pain in upper back area reduced but no relief in stomach pain.
Belching and gas passing gives some relief.it may be due to overdose of nux vom 30 or it is not related with nux vom.
Pl advise for stomach pain.

Is there any tonsil enlargement? The elongation and swollen Uvula are probably caused by dehydration from your mouth breathing which is further caused due to right nostril blockage.....use t==Pulsatilla 30C three times a day for one day and report..... you may stop the BP medicine ...it is not required....what is your BP? use Arnica 30C three times a day for keeping the BP in control.

Took Pulsatila 30: felt relief in right nostril block.
Whenver i feel cold due to cool air, (Sitting in Ac/cooler) or even sleeping in fan in early morning hours,throat sores, feel like Uvula touching on tongue,runny nose, khansi ,body pain.
Taking following BP medicines from last 12- years:
(1) Losartan potassium + Hydrochlorothiazide.:one daily
(2) Amlodipine 5 MG+Atenolol 25 : one daily.
BP readings before Medicines:160/100
On taking medicines: 120-130/80-90
Should i stop both and start Arnica 30: 3 doses day
And what to continue for Cough,khansi,sore throat,right nostril block.
Tonsil enlargement not noticed,however Right maxillary sinus diagnosed.
Thanks and regards.

Continue with Pulsatilla 30C for three days more and in the meanwhile space the medicines and decrease its dosage and slowly wean it off within a period of 15 days to one month....at the same time start Arnica, report your conditions and take other homeo medicines as required.
just have a look at a single medicine side effect not to speak of all the four.

Dear Shri Kapur,
Usually One dose of Rhus Tox 200 and three doses of Causticum 30 next day should give you respite from the pain and relief, but may not be curative as you have mentioned osteo arthirits as the reason, which is a degeneration of the bone. Since you have mentioned that the pain is in walking please take three doses a day for three days of Bryonia 30. The rest of the medicines need not be taken together but spaced for longer durations towards cure. All those medicines are aimed towards bruised bones, bone regrowth and strengthening. The gap between each medicine is three hours. You may take Rhus Tox and Causticum on the same day and next day on wards Bryonia which will help lubricate the bones with sinovial fluid. with best wishes.

|---|---|---|

Now please tell me the benefits you have received after Rhus Tox. Please tell me the benefits you have received after Causticum and please tell me the benefits after you used Bryonia.

In the absence of a complete case taking, I have suggested the medicines according to possible symtpoms :
1. Rhus Tox - for an Arthritic background,blockage of air movements, subtle body liquid movements.

2. Causticum - of Rheumatic constitution and mainly left sided problem.

3. Bryonia - To regulate the supply of mucuous and sinovial fluids and smoothen the movements of joints so that the pain in movement is reduced with underlying causes.

4. Argentum Metalicum - for possible osteo arthritis.

5. Ruta G- As a general tonic for the tendons, miniscus, cartelages and bruised bone endings. etc.

Both the above medicines are at lower potencies and can go well alongwith or with a space of 3 hours between medicines.Space of Six hours is not necessary for 30 and lower potencies. Even if it is taken alongwith the Bryonia, it will only give benefits. With best wishes.

Both Calcarea Phos and Calcarea Fluor will benefit the bones and strengthen the bones. You can use that with Argentum Met and Ruta G.

Respected Dr. Udayaji,
Thanks for reply. Sir, here in Palwal Argentum Met-6c& Ruta-6c are not available, however both the medicines are available in 30c potency. Pls, advise.
As regards to pain, it has been localized, to the right side of left knee.
With regards,
Kapur.

Dear Kapurji,
If it is not available in Palwal, you may try in Ballabgarh, Faridabad or Delhi. It may not be beneficial to use higher potency for body ailments in particular that which are in the form of Mahabhoota (Gross element) Earth,at the body level the correlative are flesh, muscles, veins and bones. Since Bone is involved here, I would recommend lower potency.

Check and ask for a good bedside prescriber from M/s Jain

Respected Dr.Udayaji,
As per ur advice 1) I am taking Ruta G 6, Cal Phos-6x, Cal Flour-6x continuously., three doses of each per day 2) Causticum-30 once a week ,upto now two doses. 3)Taking Arnica-6c for last eight days ,three doses per day.
As regards to knee pain it is still there on walking, after walking 220-250 steps, i feel heaviness around the knee,& have to take rest for 8to 10 minuets,to restart walking. Swelling around the knee is still there, increases on walking. I feel, as if, progress towards healing has stopped.Pls advice. With Regards, Kapur.

Check the functions of ferrum phos from the materia medica link below and if its symptoms suits you use it. Its fundamental function is correcting assimilation of Ferrum (Iron) and therefore good in 3X potency for building the blood and for anaemic characters. with best wishes.

You may take occasional doses of Rhus Tox 200 and Causticum 30. Otherwise Ruta G, Calcarea Phos and Calcarea Fluor, Arnica 6C are your main medicines and need continued treatment at lower potencies as there is dhatu kshaya which need time to recoupe.

My mother just gone through CABG (bypass surgery last month. Mom is extremely allergic to allopathic meds... and have mostly on homeo/ herbal treatments for other ailments like body/joints pain management, constipation etc.

But after bypass surgery she has been on allopathic post-op drugs causing extremely dry cough that ends every time in vomiting. She says her throat gets dry causing cough spell. This coughing problem is quite old (some 10 yrs old). Previously the only homeopathic remedy she was effectively using was Ant. Tart 30/200 c but it is not responding at all.

Is there any homeopathic help to assist the allergic cough control?

Dr Udaya please help.. Bedwetting and Tantrums in 5 yrs old

| Dr Udaya please help.. Bedwetting and Tantrums in 5 yrs old | By: serenity2906New Delhi, India | January 15 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Dr.Udaya

This is regarding my 5 yrs old daughter who has following issues:

1. Bedwetting which has started from last one year.. she stopped wearing diapers from age of 2.5 and use to wake up even in the middle of night if she had to pee but now for one year im struggling with bed wetting.. At times she is in such deep sleep that she doesnt get to know anything at all. On the other hand if i try to cover her with a blanket then she will throw it within seconds. So on one hand she is in deep sleep but on the other hand she gets to know when she is covered. She gets very irritated whenever she is covered. Wants to sleep without any quilt or blanket even in winters.

2. Burning Sensation in Urine: At times she complains of burning sensation which when i wash with cold water gives her respite. We got her urine tests done they were fine as there was no infection. I can see the vaginal area is very red like nappy rash when she complaints of burning. Also some white discharge is also there. Doctor advised deworming did that but not really helpful.

3. Weak Immunity: Falls sick atleast 3-4 times every year. Always affected by cold and cough whenever there is change of season. Coughing and wheezing persisted for 3-4 weeks. (gave her arsenic album 30 this time and saw immediate relief coz even nebulising wasn't working)

About her: In general she is a very emotional and sensitive child but she is very moody.. At times she is an angel trying to please me and making me happy. But at times she becomes very angry and shouts and screams without any significant reason at all. She has this thing that she doesn't want to be told what is to be done. She is extremely independent and doesn't want to listen to anyone. At school she is extremely sharp, very good in academics and listens to her teachers. But in school also during class activities she wants her way and is not very considerate about her classmates. However whenever she goes out to attend any party or play dates with her friends she is extremely soft, polite and follows proper etiquettes. I have always got gushing compliments on how well behaved she is, which is a little strange for me. Also she is very artistic and her illustrations are too good for her age.

On stage she is a natural performer and she never had any stage fear. But at times she is so shy and reserved that she wont even greet the guests and sometimes she gets involved in long and interesting conversations with them.

Thermals: She says she hates winters coz she has to keep herself covered and she waits all the time for summer so that she can start swimming and can have ice creams. So basically she likes cold stuff and hates warm clothes.

Food Habit: She likes to have milk, greem veg and chicken. Egg also she takes. The most worrisome thing for me is that she doesnt eat fruits at all. Cant even touch them with her hands. Though she happily drinks canned fruit juices but not if i try to give her fresh juice. When she was a baby she use to have all fruits but stopped eating after she turned 2.

Thank you very much for your valuable time and help.

| Re:Dr Udaya please help.. Bedwetting and Tantrums in 5 yrs o | By: serenity2906New Delhi, India | March 1 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Dr Udaya!

I gave her belladona but didnt notice any change in her behavior or bedwetting. Actually its very difficult to know whether remedy is workinh cz she doesnt wet the bed everyday.. i mostly try to stay awake till late so that i take her to restroom 2-3 hrs aftrr she has slept and then she is ok.. but at times which happens rarely she pees even an hour into deep sleep. So tjere is no set pattern. It can happen anyday.

Secondly im concerned that she is gaining weoght also.. she is chubby in comparison to all her classmates. Also she is very tall so looks 7-8 yrs old though she is just 5. One thing imp inforgot to mention last time is that she is very reluctant to try anything new.. its a challenge to start anything new with her.. she is very cautious doesnt like adventure.. but if im with her she feels safe and is ready to do anything like for example she will take all rides in amusement parks and water parks if im with her and she will b thrilled and shouting and enjoying.. but when she went for her school camp she didnt do even basic stuff which was little aurprising for me.

Do u think she can benefit from calcarea carb?i read bout calcarea kid they say growth is less and mind is also not sharp..so this doesnt match at all.. i thought calcarea is common remedy for weight gain and bedwetting so might give it a try.
Request u to pls assess her and see what can be good for her.
Many many thanks once again.

| Re:Dr Udaya please help.. Bedwetting and Tantrums in 5 yrs o | By: udaya kumar-- | March 2 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Use Calcarea Carb 30C three times a day for one week and then use Calcarea Carb 200C one dose a week. Calcarea was indicated in your initial post itself....but with redness as prominent description you gave Belladonna became the first choice and Calcarea Carb the second one against your description """ red like nappy rash """ Use of Sulphur, Calcarea Carb Lycopodium in that order would be added advantage.....Apis Mel was ruled out as the doctors have told you that there is no infection.......Your description growing chubby confirms calcarea carb which may be used individually or in Hahnemans as mentioned above in 30C potency.....
Whenever you use Arsenic Album for breathing problems use it in 200C potency and when it is for abdomen related problem use it in 30C.......In abdomen Fire is the element involved and therefore lower potency is needed....whereas in chest /lungs Air is the element involved and therefore higher potency is required to contain it.....Anything for fire i.e. digestion, assimilation, metabolism, and anything for water, circulatory system, lymphatic system, sweat and excretion processes And anything for the Earth i.,e. bodily ailments, organ ailments, bone, nerve, flesh muscles ailments etc....lower potency is to be used ideally 30C or lower including for acute cases.....whereas when air or ethereal plane including materialistic mind and spiritual mind or spirit is involved, or for the soul in its genetic passage of evolution, is to be supported by higher potencies......reason being, only purest form of anything only can reach their subtlities. and to be pure, the substance has to be highly diluted.....LM potencies therefore should work the best.....though it is not widely available or practised.

Strongly believe overload of western vaccines given frequently under the age of 2 causes development delays. Can homeopathy do damage control ?... is the main purpose of this thread.

Son was given double hep-b at birth, given all other vaccines - sometimes multiple vaccines on the same dr visit. we voluntarily stopped all vaccinations at the age of 3 but i strongly feel the damage as already done.. kid had 3 ear tube surgeries, tonsils and adenoids removed (before age 5), no eye contact, no speech, brain fog, non responsive to toys family, pets, no pain when hurt, drank lot of a1 milk betwn 0-5 years, would sit gazing ceiling all the time ( i was naive and had just moved to US and not knowledgeable in their food processing fiascoes), very low muscle mass.

DAN doctor did chelation (dmps, dma, you name it - lot of aluminium, mercury, lead in tests. kid got very sick. stopped intravenous chelation after 1 year at age 9. did ayurvedic treatments - bacopa, vachha, brahmi, shankapuspi, ashwagandha, - seen improvements in speech but no expressive lang. words of a sentence are mixed up as if the flow of thoughts is faster and cannot coordinate the words to express his thoughts.

Homepathy road
carsinosin - 30c, 200c, 1m (all 30 days apart, 1dose each)

Boils all over body, regression but after 30 days of 1m, saw good improvement in eye contact, walking gait but no speech improvement. should have given him more time to normalize(I think), but we started the cease therapy.

cease therapy for vaccine detox. son reacted very strongly to mmr 1m and 10m, fell sick with persistant fever, boils, no eye contact, gazing either celing or floor. even tried the chlorum protocol- no reaction.
not much improvement with cease after 1 year but only regression or no reaction.

stopped cease - per Titus smith - needed to give every mon/thursday - which i think was too much burden. he has regressed so much that he does not wish to go out of the house. tired all the time, vertigo, cant very walk around the house, rapid movement of head and hands. has become very thin with no muscle mass, just wants to be left alone. plays video games flawlessly, but struggles to talk and communicate his needs, zones off at school( like not mentally present in class). I feel i have medicated him enough. it might take long as its slow to act, so we make a conscious decision to stop the vaccination detox homeo meds rather than continue and wait for all reactions to subside.

I read about Dr Amy http://www.nesh.com/articles-on-homeopathy/map-of-hierarchy-case-of-autism-amy-rothenberg/and tried it. what i noticed is medorrihnum is the only thing that does not have any negative side effects. jump in speech, alertness, social skills, happy . all this is short lived - max 2 days of giving the medo. i hear it should not be repeated often( so far given him 2 doses of medo 1m -30 days apart) everything else has a negative impact or no reaction at all - including opium, stramonium, salts, 5-phos, tuberculinum, nat's, kali's, silicea, sulph, thuja(absolutely no reaction),cina, hellebros, bufo, i recently read in the other post where doc Uday suggests the following protocol for detox.

so just started it this week. I have given all the meds before (random, not in order), but did not see any startling wow changes.

- diet -> gf/cf; millets(trying to cut rice).

Nux Vomica 30C three times a day for three days.
Pulsatilla 200C one dose a day for three days.
Sulphur 30C three times a day for three days.
Silicea 30C three times a day for three days.
Thuja 30C three doses a day for three days.
Mercurious 30C three times a day for three days.

meds i have not tried yet but would like to in the near future - Lycopodium, bryonia and anacardium.

| Re:homeopathy for developmental delays in male kid | By: blessedkids | August 30 2017 |
|---|---|---|

Dr Uday,

Nux Vomica 30C three times a day for three days.
Update : It has been 3 days since the first dose of Nux Vomica. we saw drastic changes in behavior on the very first day. Son suddenly feels free, he has been smiling a lot and has been very happy. He is suddenly aware of his surroundings. Gazing the ceiling or floor has reduced. he used to watch his tv shows through the corner of his eyes-That has stopped.

Will start the Pulsatilla 200 today.

Thank You

Good. Next medicine after Mercurious would be Natrum Mur and only Natrum Mur will make him talk fluently...thereafter Lycopodium for cognitive skills and Bryonia to chelate aluminium.......Kindly report after each medicines so that we can add or remove medicines that are necessary or not. Anacardium need be taken only later....if necessary..
best wishes.

Thanks Dr Uday, Will do.

Naziml,

About the chlorum protocol. I followed the protocol listed by Dr Didier.

http://www.homeopathe.org/FR/Autisme_Avril2017.html but skipped the blood iso therapy.

I am no expert, but I think each child is different as the root cause is different with each child. I have seen many kids just snap out and become normal, 2 weeks into gfcf diet. That has unfortunately not been the case w/ my child. Thanks and best regards.

Hai blessedkid
Sorry for disturbing again,
I know each child is different, I too had different experiences with different diets.

But what am I asking is what about your kid responding to chlorum,I am asking this because that site says it is universal protocol for autism.I just wanted to try chlorum only ,not the whole protocol.
Sorry for disturbing u,I searched Alot about the use of chlorum in Autistic children, but no info elsewhere except that site.I found out that u tried it, so asking just your opinion as a parent.

Please reply.
Praying for recovery for all Autistic children,
Warm regards
Nazim1.

As I said before, I gave the vaccination detox with chlorum per protocol. did not notice much change on the chlorum weeks but maybe it was masked by regression of vaccine detox. It might have helped him and there is no way of knowing. I say this because he was on mms before that, so may be chlorum detoxed the chlorine he might have accumulated.

Dr Uday,

Update on Pulsatilla 200:

- Sound sleep and did not wake up in the middle of the night.
-Has become a little emotional and edgy. He is typically very gentle and says yes to every request, but now he is says "no" which I think shows individuality ( which is good, its just that the rest of us are not used to him saying "no" )
- His constant spitting (foamy w/ little yellow mucus) has reduced.
- Continues to be happy -Which is a big plus.

Question - He complained of wisdom toothache (not sure why its erupted early), what can I give him that will not be an antidote to Pulsatilla 200. Please do advise.

as always....Thank you

Sorry Doc,

Also, Can I combine the next three prescriptions and give the combo for 3 days

Dr Uday,

Sulphur 30c since 4th of Sep:

- Nux benefits seem to go away. eye contact is become poor.
- sleep patterns have changed. sleepy during the day (mid morning)
- wants to lie all the time and wishes to be alone.
- cognitive is good, but no social/communication development.

question- can i give him sulphur 200 or do you recommend 30c ? Please let me know.

Thanks

For wisdom tooth use Arnica.30C...My observations are that no medicine antidote the functions of another medicines, only antidotes the ill effects (which we perceive as ill effect but is actually a process of healing crisis).. Sulphur can go well at the start of any treatment and Thuja and Silicea are complementary medicines therefore there is no issue in combining the three. Nux and Sulphur antidotes each other and carry on the good work and therefore, what I usually suggest is Sulphur in the morning and Nux after sun set and continue that in that order which is curative in many different types of cases where they are indicative including asthma. When you say Wishes to be alone Natrum Mur is indicated or Natrum Mur is already working within if you have given it....Starting with Sulphur in 30C is better and you can go up to 200C...1M of sulphur mostly are counterproductive in these cases. When you are giving 200C it should be spaced to one dose a week. because it is a long and deep active remedy and chronic to Aconitum Napillus.

Thanks Doc,

Started Silicea 30C three times a day for three days.

Things I noticed late evening
- still irritable and easily gets frustrated (especially while doing his h/w)
- talking to himself ( like repeats dialogs from his favorite cartoon shows - like spongebob, angry birds) with no relevance. i feel his brain is running the cartoon shows in his brain all the time and he is not living reality. he is in his cartoon world all the time. that is frustrating as a parent.
- reduced spitting.

I am about to buy Mercurious. I just checked the net and looks like there are many types and i am not sure which one to get- mer sol ? mer vivus ? Please clarify when you find some time. as always....Thank you. ps: please send me your contacts at blessedkids@gmail.com for the mental blocks which is irritative use Bacopa Monnieri Q five drops in one ounce water three times a day.....

| Re:homeopathy for developmental delays in male kid | By: udaya kumar-- | September 8 2017 |

Use Meerc Sol. When Mercurious is said it is always Merc Sol....other medicines in mercury category are always spelled out fully. like Merc cor..Merc.vivus etc.

Hello Dr Uday,

Update on 3 days of Silicea 30C 3x for 3 days + 3rd day one dose of Silicea 200C

- His vertigo (unable to walk- feeling dizzy) reduced tremendously.

- still wishes to be alone.
- repeats dialogs from tv shows he watches
- irritable, will not listen to instructions. does what he wants to do ( I think this is a teenage thing, so he has gone from being a gentle, does what everyone instructs him to do, fearful of everything) to being more independent, says "no" to everything, wants to left alone ( and plays video games, watches his tv cartoon shows on you tube- by himself), sleeps throughout the day till late afternoon ( again another teenager attitude).
- He used to love to travel and will come with parents to malls, shopping, even small drives. I think that is why the prev doc gave him carsinosin. but now does not want to step out of the house.
- Not much improvement in lang communication and in being social. Does not care if siblings friends come home...he is just not interested in any thing except his games and tv shows.
- His cognitive skills are excellent. will play all sorts of video games.

Next steps - I will continue your detox protocol and give him Thuja 30 C for 3 days followed by mer sol another 3 days.

will start natmur 200c 1x for a week then 1m 1x for 3 weeks and then 10m 1x monthly( 10m was not available in one store, will need to look around). What can we give to develop social skills ? Please do let me know if this is a good plan.

and Thank you for everything you do. I had lost hope in Homeopathy, but with improvements with Nux, we have renewed out commitment and will continue using homeopathy.

Thank You

| Re:homeopathy for developmental delays in male kid | By: udaya kumar-- | September 10 2017 |

Wishes to be alone will be corrected by Natrum Mur ...Irritable to some extent would have been addressed by Nux

Vomica....Pulsatilla should remove the repetitive actions as it will also correct the abdomen.....(like celiac) We may further work on it by tonics like Bacopa Monnieri Q which will open up mental blocks. Please start with Natrum Mur 30C immediately after Thuja and continue with the same potency until and unless higher potencies are indicated. best wishes.

| Re:homeopathy for developmental delays in male kid | By: blessedkids | September 13 2017 |

3 days of Thuja 30C :
- was tired and sleepy all day and night.
- teenage acne seem to dry out.
- congestion and spitting (ropy) reduced.
- behavior - more calm and composed. does not disrespect. reduced anger and yelling issues (yay!!, he is back to his old self) next steps: will give Mer sol 30c starting today.

not sure if I can combine bacopaQ and Natmur 30c with mersol 30c. will wait for your advise Dr Uday.

Thanks

Hi 'Blessed'....thanks for the reply....you're welcome to have a look at the following for general info. (entire article can be found here: www.wonderbaby.org/articles/audio-description-blind-viewers
As I mentioned, I'm not sure where you're located and what might be available there. This particular article is American; I just picked it because the info is good. Myself, I'm somewhat 'electronically challegened' but my husband tells me the technology is widely available now (compared to when I was teaching). As far as other programs specifically for processing, I'll send some info along soon.
Regards,
Tara
WHAT IS AUDIO DESCRIPTION?
The Media Access Group at WGBH defines Audio Description as an audio track that “conveys the key visual aspects of a film or television program by describing scenery, facial expressions, and costumes during natural pauses in dialogue.” A very important fact to note is that audio description is not the regular narration we hear during the movie, but a well-prepared description of the important visual aspects of the media, which ensures the storyline is abled to be followed throughout the duration of the movie or television episode. Audio Description is also used in reference to similar accessibility services at museums, amusement parks and other public facilities where visitors may use audio descriptive headsets during their tours for access to description of the visual pieces such as art, statues, and other elements which may be off limits to touch.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF AUDIO DESCRIPTION?
There are many benefits of audio description for children with visual impairments, as well as all children, including those diagnosed with autism. Besides giving important visual information to viewers without sight, it also has shown to promote literacy, social skills, and comprehension among children. Since many programs for children are full of visual cues and general phrases such as, “The fish is over there,” instead of “The fish is on the right side of the screen,” audio description makes learning more fun and social among children of all sight levels. The increased usage of foundational words and meanings in descriptive audio promotes comprehension of skills that are often delayed among children with visual impairments, such as the meanings of directional words, adjectives describing size, shape, and especially colors. If you’d like to see for yourself, WGBH also offers an example video of The Lion King, with and without description, to show the importance of description for blind viewers.
WHERE CAN I FIND AUDIO DESCRIPTION?
Audio Description can be found on a variety of many television programs and movies for children, both educational and entertainment! The Audio Description Project’s website from the American Council of the Blind is a popular resource that is updated often, giving parents information about description, categorized lists of movies offering description, and recent news surrounding the advocacy and advancement of accessibility services. Thank You Tara - I did checkout the websites and yes, I never knew the options/links were on netflix. Thanks a lot! Son did enjoy some of the kids movies streamed under that genre.

Dr Uday - I am still waiting for the Aurum met 1m as i have placed an online order. Its much easier in India- we can just go to a shop and buy it 😕 but its not so in the US. Its the system.

I am not giving him any meds. I did the belladona 30c and sulphur 200.

He has had some rough days at school, he does not want to talk...i know he can...but he woke up this morning and started to point to oat meal...all he had to say was "mom I need oatmeal". So that is frustrating and he is a teenager too so going thru hormonal issues..so has an attitude and will not comply. I asked him to help clean the car and take the trash bags(which is his chore), but all he did was show his palm to me(which btw means...stop talking mom, i will not do it)

Thanks

Dr Uday,

My family thinks son is very allergic to cinnamon. Is there something I can give him? I remember you recommended pulsatilla for wheat allergies, Atheusa for dairy. He had some oatmeal with cinnamon and he is rolling his eye's, making weird pet noises (like a puppy- hmm, hmm). Still waiting for Aurum met.

Thanks

Hello Dr Uday - My apologies I have not been able to give an update.

I did give son Aethusa30 3times for 3 days. Jan 30 - 2nd of feb.

I have not given him anything since then. the sudden head jerks has stopped.

This friday, I received his work sheets from school and i notice he has not done much. he just writes/copies the questions in the answer line. simple questions like "what is today's date". He has written "what is today's date" (same thing as the answer).

looks like he has a brain freeze. So I sat with him and explained what he was doing. He has definitely regressed from what he was in India.
He just wants to sit and not do anything. After a lot of explaining, he understood and finally wrote the answer.

This is very scary. He is uable to think, very lethargic, not alert but in his own world. Please advise and kindly help.

Great day Udaya,

So happy to be on here!!

Being a very sensitive empath, every vibrational energy I come in contact, I automatically analyze it and do what I can to fix it, if needed.... I try not to, but because it’s deep within me, I can’t help it. So, I was wondering if there is a remedy I can take to keep me focused on the task which I’m currently doing. Sometimes, to many energies is very overwhelming. If the mental concentration is centered and focused, maybe it can be more combative.

I’m thinking if these two remedies:

Hyoscyamus
Or Tuberculinum

What do you think and at which potencies

Thank you Udaya
Wishing you well

Vitiligo

Hi Dr. Udayakumar,

I desperately need your advice for my 7 year old daughter's vitiligo. I am not sure if it is a coincidence, but she developed vitiligo one month after her MMR vaccine. This happened one year ago. Since then the spots have been increasing on eyelids, knees and feet and some spots on fingers and body. Makes us very sad to see a beautiful little child with all these white patches. She has also had the swine flu vaccine one year ago. I am wondering if there is a connection.
Right now she is taking hydrocotyle asiatica 30 and thuja 30 twice a day. You think this medicine and dosage is appropriate. Is it possible to reverse this vitiligo with these medicines. Please advise.

|---|---|---|

Take three doses a day of Thuja 30 for three days followed by three doses of Natrum Mur 30 for three days then start using Arsenic Sulph Flavum at 3X along with hydrocotyl asiatica 30 with best wishes.

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | October 20 2010 |

Dr. Udaya Kumar,
Thank you so much for your quick reply. The medicine that I am giving my daughter right now, a combination of hydrocotyle asiatica 30 and thuja 30 I ordered from India and took about 2 months to reach me. I live in a remote area in Canada and there is no way I can get the medicines that you suggest. It will probably take another 2 months to reach us. Will the medicines that I am giving my daughter now not work? atleast till I can somehow get what you prescribed.
Once again, thank you for your time. Do think vitiligo in a 7 year old can be reversed? Best wishes, Doc.

|---|---|---|

Yes. Vililigo in 7 year could be reversed. Do not give any food or drinks containing citric acid now including curds. Hydrocotyl is usually used when Arsenic Sulf Flavum(ASF) fails. Since you do not have ASF you may use Hydrocotyl. Each individual responds differently and therefore it is hard to predict the results. One dose of Tuberculinum 200 in the beginning of the treatment is good for faster benefits. Perhaps thuja itself should correct it if it is a result of vaccination ill effects. with best wishes.

--

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | October 20 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Dr. Udaya Kumar,
Thanks so much for your support. I will keep up the hydrocotyl asiatica and thuja regime until the time I can somehow find ASF and Natrum Mur and Tuberculinum. So at the point is it alright to start Tuberculinum? although you say it should be given at the beginning of the treatment.
It is wonderful what you doing in the website helping out people like myself. God bless you.

| Re:Vitiligo | By: udaya kumar-- | October 20 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Tuberculinum can be used as intercurrent remedy i.e. in between one single dose only once in 15 days. Upto three doses only. with regards.

--

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | October 22 2010 |

Dear Dr. Udaya Kumar,

Thank you for your prompt reply. About my daughter's vitiligo a friend from another city has found that she could send me natrum mur, but could not get ASF or tuberculinum. Is it ok to take the current medicines (hyd.cotyle +thuja) and natrum mur? Would that work? Or should I stick to the present medcines? Thank you for your advice.

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | November 10 2010 |

Dear Dr. Udaya Kumar,

I have been travelling and meanwhile my friend could not send me the natrum or ASF and tuberculinum suggested by you. I have ordered the medicines from India and my guess is it will take a month to reach here.
Like I posted earlier, my daughter is taking hyd.cotyle and thuja at the moment. Is it ok to be on thuja for such a long time. She has been on this combination for one month. Earlier on, she as only on hyd.asiatica for 4 months. Could you please advise if thuja is ok for more than a month?
Thanks and regards.
Earth

| Re:Vitiligo | By: udaya kumar-- | November 10 2010 |
|---|---|---|

No. It is not ok for e month or more. You have to watch the symptoms for such high potency to continue for such long period. Give intervals. If no improvements are seen for longer periods stop the medicine. Monitoring the changes, and the benefits or ill effects if any and continuing or stopping or introducing longer gaps between medicines or changing the medicines according to new symptoms is something which need a doctors supervision or if you are self medicating, one should be careful in following closely the changes. I can only suggest medicines according to the symptoms you are telling me.

If painstaking observation is not possible, one should not attempt to medicate and leave the work to a doctor.

with regards.

Thank you, Dr. Udaya Kumar,

I have been getting these medicines from India prescribed by a homeopath there. He had prescribed hyd. asiatica for 4 months and the current combination of hyd.asiatica and thuja is for the next 4 months. She has been on this for the past month.
I consulted online and got the medicines shipped to me. What are the symptoms that I should watch for? Since vitiligo is such a slow progressing condition that it is difficult to see any changes easily. Some small spots disappear and then new spots appear somewhere else. To be honest, I am at my wits' end. The homeopath is not very responsive to my questions. Keeps assuring it is safe. But from reading your posts, I feel it is not safe to give thuja for so long.
On the basis of your reply, I will give you a whole picture of my daughter's conditions and answer the questinnaire so you can advise me on what to give her.
Thank you and best wishes,
Earth

This is the problem with homeopathic treatment. Your doctor must be a good doctor and he is prescribing correctly. A good classic homeopathic doctor giving you four months medicine does not really mean that she is being given 4 month's medicine. The best treatment in homeopathy is achieved by giving one dose of medicine at higher potency and giving 15 days of placebo. I hope you understand.

Dear Dr. Udaya,

I have been away from the forum for a while now. I am continuing the hydrocotyle asiatica and thuja 30 for my daughter's vitiligo. As I said earlier, few small spots have faded but the big one keep expanding. Anyway, I am waiting till this course is completed in January 2011 to figure out if I want to continue with the aforementioned medicines or not. Just thought would give an update. And also wondered if it would take this long to know if the medicines are actually working? She has been on this combination for close to two months and previous 4 months just hyd. coty. asiatica.

Meanwhile, my daughter is due for her DPT and MMR vaccines now and this is mandatory in the province that we live in. I shudder thinking about what is going to happen with this vaccine. I have always doubted that the earlier dpt and mmr have caused some damage to her and that her vitiligo is a sideeffect of a vaccine. What is your advice? Right now I am so worried that her vitiligo might spread rapidly or some other autoimmune problem might start with these shots. Any input from you will be greatly appreciated.
Thank you and take care.

| Re:Vitiligo | By: udaya kumar-- | December 9 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Arsenic Sulf Flavum is to be used. I cannot comment on the vaccination as it is compulsory. Certainly, you can expect what you are fearing. What is the choice?

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | December 10 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Thanks for the reply. When you say Arsenic sulf flavum can be used, would this be a protection from the side effects of the vaccine? Should it be given before the dptp shot is given? How does it work? Like I posted earlier, my daughter is on hyd.cotyle asiatica and thuja 30 right now. Would Arsenic sulf flavum be in addition to that? Could you please advise how much of it should be given and how many days before the shot?
Thank you so much for all your support.
Regards,
Earth

| Re:Vitiligo | By: udaya kumar-- | December 10 2010 |
|---|---|---|

No. I meant Arsenic Sulf Flavum may cure the larger areas. It is of no use giving it before dptp shot. Giving Thuja 30 may perhaps help. Thuja can be given for three days before the shot.
with best wishes.

Thank you Dr. Udaya,

Can I give Arsenic Sulf Flavum in addition to hyd.cotyle asiatica and the thuja that she is already on? If so how what is the dosage?

As for taking thuja before the vaccine shot (as protection), since she is already on the combination (hyd.co.asia.+thuja), would I give a separate dose of thuja before vaccine and how much?
I am sorry I have so many questions. Thank you for your patience.

Regards,
Earth

|---|---|---|

Yes you can give Arsenic Sulph Flavum in combination with Hydrocotyl and thuja. Thuja need not be given separately before the vaccines. Its continuation until the vaccine day itself be a good antidote to ill effects of vaccine. Arsenic Sluph flavum may be given in 3X potency, if improvement is not seen after prolonged use, use 30C or 200C. Use Psoralea 3X as external application as an oil. Use 5 to 10 drops in a cup of water. regards.

|---|---|---|

Thank you Dr. Udaya,

How many times in a day should Arsenic Sulph flavum be given? And for how long? Is Psoralea 3X available as oil? My understanding is that I should mix 5 to 10 drops of the oil in water and apply it on the depigmented spots only. Am I correct?

Thank you and regards.

Arsenic Sulph flave 3X three times a day as long as required. It may be like 15 days before a visible change is seen. It is available in oily form when dropped in water. Apply it externally. Use less water like an ounce or little more would be sufficient.

| Re:Vitiligo | By: earth | December 14 2010 |
|---|---|---|

Thank you Dr. Udaya,

I am a little confused. Is Arsenic sulph flav available in oily form or the Psoralea?

I think you mean my daughter should take Arsenic sulph flav 3X three times a day and besides apply Psoralea 3X topically which is available in oily form. Please correct me if I got it wrong.

I am not able to find Psoralea 3X in the place that I live in in Canada. How do I get it?

Regards,
Earth

| Re:Vitiligo | By: udaya kumar-- | December 14 2010 |
|---|---|---|

The oily form is Psoralea. Arsenic Sulph flavum at 3X will be usually in pills forms(like tablets).

"I think you mean my daughter should take Arsenic sulph flav 3X three times a day and besides apply Psoralea 3X topically which is available in oily form. Please correct me if I got it wrong" is correctly understood.

Read the following link to familiarise with the medicine:
http://www.wisegeek.com/what-is-psoralea-corylifolia.htm

http://www.herbs2000.com/herbs/herbs_psoralea.htm http://www.vitiligoguide.com/vitiligo-home-remedies/

Also see to it that the area is not exposed to sunlight when using this medicine. If there is any contra indications stop application.

I do not know where you can get the medicine in Canada,

Regards.

|---|---|---|

Thank you Dr. Udaya,

I have ordered the medicine Arsenic Sulph flavum 3X and it is on back order. Still waiting. Psoralea oil is not available here. Just an update. Meanwhile, my daughter is still on Hydrocotyle Asiatica and Thuja 30 prescribed by her homeopath in India. A couple of very small vitiligo patches have faded, like I posted earlier. She is also on UVB light treatment twice a week. A couple of other spots on her eyelids have light brown freckles on them. At this point, it could be the effect of light. Anyway, I am hoping something will work for her.

My daughter has a very bad cold right now. No fever. Since she is young (7 years old) and is in constant contact with little kids some of whom have bad colds and cough, she may be headed towards a flu. Flu season is in full swing in Canada. What medicines can I give her?
And also is it possible to explain how exactly thuja, hydrocotyle asiatica and arsenic sulph. flavum would work on the skin condition vitiligo. I ask you this as a layperson who does not have much knowledge of homeopathy. Thank you once again for making the effort to help others. Best Wishes for a happy

Holiday!

|---|---|---|

It is a long term strategy. Vitiligo has much immune deficiency. You need patience and perseverance.You may continue with Hydrocotyl and Thuja. You may also use Natrum Mur 30 to increase the power of the adrinals and Sepia30 as yet another great skin healer, in the absence of ASF.

For Flue and cold the following should be the strategy:

1. Aconitum Nap 30 upto three doses for one day only for common colds with fever sudden onset and due to exposure to cold winds or cold when body is warm. Fear of death and prediction of time of death is lead symptom. The patient will say viz " yeah the cold is so bad, it is so bad, it will kill me tomorrow yaar" that kind of casual talk predicting time of death because of the uneasiness he feels with the cold, cough, fever etc

2. If there is redness, heat, fever, partial fever, with moaning with each breathing, and calling mom and dad mmmm...mom,.....mmmmmm.....mom use Belladonna 30.

3. With high intermittent fever and with dry cough use Bryonia 30. Also in pneumonia, chest infection, meningitis, typhoid, pain going up the side of the neck is the lead symptom in major cases like typhoid.

4. Influenza of any kind :
===========================
1. Rhus Tox 200 single or upto three doses.
2. Gelsemium 30 three times a day until required. High fever, Chill going up and down the back

3. Bryonia 30 if chest is infected with dry cough pain in chest, tendency to pneumonia, feeling as if smoke in lungs.etc. Use Bryonia with Antim Tart 30

4. Arsenic Album 30. three times a day upto three days. Nausea, Vomiting, lose motion, restlessness, chill, high fever, headache, indigestion, appetite loss, not able to sleep. Restless is the lead symptoms. Wheezing, chest infected. Asthmatic breathing use 200C and follow it by 30C three times a day.

5. Eupatorium Perfoliatum 30/200. Body pain like that in Dengue fever, chicken guinea.
5. Ipec 6C/30/200. High fever and nausea with vomiting and nose bleeding not controlled by Arsenic like Malaria.

6. Fever and cold etc. with worm symptoms. -Cina 30.

7. Nux Vomica for all kinds of colds and coughs it can be tried if no other medicine is available.

8. Hepar Sulph 30 - If throat infection is the cause for fever, ,tonsilitis, cough,. nose stuffiness etc.

9. Causticum 30 If infection takes a stage where sputum cannot be brought out -here Antim Tart 30 can also be used. No need for using more than three doses.

10. Pulsatilla 30 Long standing cold with green or yellow mucus.

11. Breathing through Mouth, - Aurum Triphilatum 30 (see other symptoms)

12. With polyps and sinus, stringy mucus - Kali Bich 30. (see other symptoms)
13. Phosphorus 30 single dose for voice loss follow by belladonna in Laryngitis.
14. .Medorrhinum 1M single dose, Tuberculinm 1M single dose Bascillinum 200, single dose can be used one medicine at a time to remove the susciptibility to catching respiratory ailments. (other symptoms should be checked in these medicines and use it in supervision of doctor).

15 Calcarea Carb can be used for the obese plump anaemic type of children who is susceptible to catching cold constitutionally.

16, Thuja, Natrum Mur, Allium Cepa,Nux Vomica, Arsenic Album, can cure almost all ailments of the respiratory system normally termed as allergy.
With best wishes..

Thank you Dr. Udaya for your advice for the cold and flu medicines.

About my daughter's vitiligo, I have her current medicines (hyd.asiatica and thuja) for until February. I am going to give it till then and if there is no change with her skin condition, I am hoping that you will somehow be able to help my daughter.

I have been following your post advising the mother of a 11 year old autistic child and I see the tremendous improvement in the child. Similarly I have faith that you will be able to help us be rid of the this psychologically debilitating skin condition.

Thank you and have a wonderful New Year.

Dear Earth,
I see that you have not yet started with Arsenic Sulph flavum. It should be used before we try any other medicines for the ailment. Wishing you all good things that the new year can bring.

There are no specific dosage in homeopathy. Minimum dosage, minimum medicine is the golden rule......one dose of Tuberculinum 1M once only and sepia 30C three times for one week and report to me was my suggestion,......vitiligo can develop in all races and colours and at all ages....

Dear friends,

I Would like to post an update to my vitiligo problem with the sole intention that it may be of some help to people with similar disorder.

I had posted my problem around 2 months back and though i did not receive any reply or suggestion from any expert on this forum, I believe I owe it to other patients who will visit this page looking for answers. But kindly keep in mind that each ones body responds differently to different treatment regimens.

As I have mentioned in my previous post, my vitiligo patches were highly localized to upper chest and upper back region only and have been there for past 4 to 5 months and kept increasing in size.

A friend referred me to a dermatologist who suggested that I get my vitamin d level checked. Reports came back as 9ng/ml which is extremely low. Vitamin d deficiency is associated with vitiligo.

He immediately put me on vitamin d supplementation the details of which i will not post here because dosage is decided after careful consideration of age, sex, pre treatment level, sun exposure etc and I do not want anybody to randomly dose themselves based on my post.

Also, he asked me to purchase a hand held nb uvb device as I would not be able to visit clinic for nb uvb therapy due to frequent work travel. Basically its a portable device with uvb bulb which emits narrow band uvb radiation in the spectrum of 312 nm. It has to be used very carefully.

Within 10 days my patches started showing pigmentation around the hair follicles. They have resolved by almost 90 % now. After complete repigmentation I will be put on maintainence therapy for a few more months. I hope this information will be helpful

Hi Udaya,

I'm wondering if you can help me out again? I'm quite down and have been for a few weeks now. As you may remember I was flooded out my flat over a year ago and had post flooding issues that haven't been resolved as yet. It's taking its toll. I do nothing now except look after my pets. I don't want to go out as I'm physically, mentally and emotionally drained. When I speak to friends, I'm in tears. When I'm on my own, I'm the same. Sometimes feel like I just don't care about anything (except my pets) anymore. I'm too tired even for that. My urine is still smelling sweet - I had numerous tests carried out a few months back and all came back normal. I'm constipated, this has been a long term problem. If I don't take laxatives, I go very little and end up with a build up. Concentration is poor. I worry about the dog if I leave her so I now generally don't which isn't helpful for her either in relation to her separation anxiety. I suspect that neighbours have complained but I've been told not to worry about it as it's known I take great care of my pets and it's an anxiety problem with the dog but I'm not reassured by that. Generally feeling everyone's on my back and I'm stuck in a situation i can't do anything about and getting all the grief for it. Bit of a sorry state really. If you could advise further, I would very much appreciate it.

Best wishes

Hi Udaya,

I don’t know if you’ve seen this yet or not but I think I may have it partially covered. I don’t think I know every remedy that covers sweet smelling urine, psorinum hasn’t cleared it up so it’s definitely not that although it has done some great work elsewhere. I’ve looked at ones that have come up (online search) and I’m thinking ferrum iodum- also potentially right sided complaints and although maybe not a complete cure for the constipation - may do some good there too? The essence of the remedy seems also close in some aspects to myself - single, sense of freedom etc and I’m also now thinking at the moment I may need phosphoricum acidum. Again, its not going to be the complete answer but all these tears are very exhausting and I do still really miss my mum. I think if these two are needed it can only be positive - I can only try. If you have any thoughts, I’d happily hear them

I’m also putting this here as it’s a remedy I’ve never came across before and has just struck me with extreme love for animals, Aethusa cynapium - I talk to mine and everyone else’s all the time and ther s obstinate constipation in the materia medical so may be something else to look at? I have no knowledge other than what I’ve just read and don’t want to forget. Thanks Udaya

I think I had already suggested Ferrum Iodatum to you long back and the sweet smelling urine (usually contains Ketones) and a hidden high diabetis subject which can be made to surface by the use of Sacharin officianalis or in some cases Arsenic Album.where the diabetes would be as high as 600 or above, assymptomatic and never noticed in any of the diabetes tests. Hahnemanns trio as well as opium can cover most obstinate constipation and since Psorinum has been tried and Sulphur follows psorinum very well to complete the job started by psorinum, and since it is right sided ailments, the trio can be a good solution. Aethusa works well in persons having Milk allergies/lactose intolerance and the like...and is a great medicine when convalescing......I have tried that many times myself to see how it works. It works in the nerve sheaths and where aethusa is indicated Kali Phos and Kali carb would also be indicated. Opium 200 can remove obstinate constipation ...single dose.

Thanks Udaya,

Memory isn’t my strong point just now and have no recollection of what was/wasn’t suggested. I’ve ordered ferrum iodatum so I’ll see how things go with that from there. I don’t think it’s antidotal, I had arsenicum years ago but I’m thinking ferr i has probably been quite strong with me and just hasn’t been picked up as yet or was maybe confused by others up to now. It’s a new one for me so I can only learn.

It’s many layers with me but as long as I keep working away at it, things can only get better. The urine and constipation definitely need to be addressed now.
I will keep you posted and many thanks for your further thoughts.

With aeth, fear of family dying, ailments from over excitement, fear of not waking up after surgery. I don’t want to start writing lots of details but if the ailments are correct for this one. It goes way back. There’s quite a few remedies I’ve picked up on but again it’s time and patience waiting for my body to heal. I’ve read it’s also comp to calc.... I’ve also been doing the talking to myself a bit recently and it’s not staph.

With opium, I had been wondering about that also for a while now due to the long periods of not going to the toilet which started when my mum took not well. Lots happened from her initial diagnosis and since. I have quite an issue with the dying and also now after the flooding, probably more so. With calc carb having the fear of natural disasters (flooding) me staying home it’s making a lot of sense - to me anyway :0) in theory anyway. If I get nothing from it. I’ll try with opium. I will definitely keep you posted though as it has been a tough few years and this one, especially. I’ll sort myself out a bit first and then deal better with the dog again too.

Best wishes

Thanks Udaya,

It may not be the only one needed (I have a neurological condition, food intolerances, several past surgeries, haven’t been looking after myself as well as I could of, life events on top of all that) but now I’ve read as much as available online inc a list of radar symptoms, which got me convinced it can only be a good thing as it seems to be the uppermost symptoms at the moment and things will continue to follow a little easier. My back, bladder and bowels do seem to be my weak points..... I am and was hoping that Psorinum would help there also as when I’m particularly overly stressed my body does show symptoms of serious illnesses that from an allopathic perspective amount to nothing diagnosed and before my intolerances were diagnosed I was in a very sorry state - suspected cancer, infertility and numerous others. Time and my body will soon let us know :0) the curvature of right sided dorsal spine significantly improved a few years back when I tried Bowen therapy (photographs were taken) so it’s not fixed/unable to be improved on either. It’s just a case of trying to figure out what’s causing it all. I couldn’t afford to continue with the Bowen therapy but it was very interesting.

| Re:For the kind attention of Udaya | By: udaya kumar-- | November 14 2017 |

When bowels are bad bladder and back goes wrong and bad. Auto intoxication is a very strong factor in continued morbidity. Whereas all other factors particularly that is pointing towards psorinum have their origin in genetic mutation and consequent acquired food intolerance, non assimilation of vital nutrients and subsequent fall outs from them. Psorinum is indicated the day you are diagnosed with gluten non assimilation and pulsatilla, aethusa, sepia, antim crudem etc. when milk intolerance is detected and subsequent allergies if any......The spine curvature yet again is indicative of non assimilation of vital elements like Phosphorus, Calcium, and the like and in particular Phosphorus. Non assimilation of phosphorus causes loss of muscle tone and loss of density and strength to bones consequently,. the muscles do not keep the bones in place or gives enough flexible space for them to curve.Scoliosis, Kyphosis, Lordosis, pegion chest, Spondylosis, spondylolithesis, ankylosing spondilitis, Osteoporosis, Discitis, Chiari malformations, Juvenile Lordosis, Congenital kyphosis various kinds of dystrophes including pseudo muscular dystrophes are possible fall outs. Use of Phosphorus 30C continuously for longer periods helps in regaining the muscle tone and strengthening the bones that if used in early stages are usually curative to large extent particularly when delayed milestones are seen in infants, like not able to stand, delayed speech, apart from protruding belly, tip toeing, repetitive actions, hyper activities etc. are noticed. Here we can be only alleviating the sufferings to the minimum.....than attempting to change the curvature ..... Best wishes.

I had phosphorus upto 50M at the beginning of my homeopathic treatment (commenced 10+ years ago) and periodic doses throughout but it has never improved that area. It went into the bottom of my spine and straightened that up but nothing further... I was in the fourth stage of pthsis by that point and was given 48 hours to live. The 10M wasn't deep enough and was a good while later increased.

Can't remember if it's alumina, platina or bromium but one of them has no extention of the hip, I also have that problem as well and will look into it more when I'm far more able and a lot less to worry about :0) my spine does appear to be very symptomatic of calc phos too. It may well be numerous remedies needed for overall improvement - I wasn't perfect to start with (although what's perfect :0) ) but I still aim for improvement and especially good health. It's more of an additional symptom and not necessary. Restricts movement but nothing else.

Thanks Udaya

Hi Udaya,

Just wanted to report some good news. I decided to go with LM potency with aeth due to my weakness level. I get to understand the remedy better to. First dose earlier tonight. My back feels more relaxed, there was plenty of movement in my bowel and I've had a very small movement. I'm peeing loads as well, breathing feels better, and the overall feeling I got was - it's going to be ok now :0) you prescribed Ruta for my back a while ago and that was a "wow" remedy interms of how much better it made me feel, that also helped at that stage with bowel movement. I think this one is going to be the same. I'm actually a bit excited about it. It was getting quite worrying, especially over the last few weeks. I could feel myself getting weaker and weaker. I'll report back in a week, unless there's lots happening.

Thanks again Udaya

Hi Udaya, got some further good news this morning. I think it was yourself that helped when I had an abnormal smear result over 5 years ago. For numerous reasons, I hadn't had any further since but again with everything that happened lately and me going to the dr, I got that sorted out as well. Results in this morning and it's normal! :0) I had been worrying about that as well so I can cross that off my list and thanks once again. I'll try and explain the situation here with regards to my initial post once I've worked with the aeth this week.

Best wishes,

Hi Udaya,

I hope you're well. This is just an update as quite a lot happened yesterday. I’ve also just noticed sweet smelling urine in aeth as well, which I think I might have missed and I’ve also remembered something in relation to psorinum - a few months after my mum died (I was also threatened with homelessness for a year) I got hit with a winter virus which I had managed to dodge for a few years. The day before I ended up in bed, I felt great, probably the best I had felt since it had happened - cooked and everything! Then I was floored for 5 days. I wouldn’t quite say I’ve completely gotten over the fear of homelessness yet although it has lessened somewhat. That’s another concern I still have. Anyway, yesterday tears in abundance for several hours - feeling destroyed, fearing for myself and my pets. I am actually more concerned for them, the cat not so much as she can climb/go high. I reluctantly leave the dog now only occasionally and only left her once with a home boarder when she wasn’t well (who absolutely loved her) so I could have a night out. She wasn’t fully recovered which was an added reason. The vet approved it. I’m still waiting to hear how things are going to be here as I can’t go on like this for much longer. It’s our home so I don’t want to leave unless I have to. Other thoughts, feel like a prisoner in my own home, although sometimes I feel I just occupy because I pay my rent. I’m not feeling quite as destroyed today and have a bit more strength about me. I was also and have been upset over the prospect of losing them, this would destroy me/break my heart. If I end up homeless and needing emergency/temp accommodation- they don’t allow pets. My friend has told me, if that becomes the case, they’ll help me move. I wasn’t prepared to lose Nuala and Molly (at the time) and had essentially made myself homeless before I moved here, I had a week before I was sleeping in my car. So, feeling a bit better today on a mental level - stronger. Urine still sweet but it has been on and off for a while now, I’ll keep an eye on that also. On a physical level abdominal area feels stronger, I ate a toastie (gluten and dairy free) yesterday with a little less bloating. 3 tapas has been enough to make me vomit although I haven’t been sick now for a few months. It’s also part of my extreme stressed states, my digestive system is rubbish when I’m well.... I’m assuming with me feeling a bit better today, this is all coming from the aeth. If you see anything else, please let me know. I'll take a further dose tonight or tomorrow.

Best wishes

I've just remembered something else, stool can pass unnoticed when walking so I'm wondering if aloe may also be needed? Follower of sulphur but I've read lycopodium is an antidote so if that was needed and a contributing factor, same question I keep asking when I appear to need remedies that are also antidotal - would, in this case taking lycopodium (later if still needed) antidote aloe or, as it's possibly needed, and not the actual cause of symptoms - not act against neutralising it?

Had the same question with pulsatilla and calc phos - calc phos symptoms weren't a result of taking pulsatilla

A couple of doses of Petroleum 30C should help with mind symptoms :
Mind.--Marked aggravation from mental emotions. Feels that death is near, and must hurry to settle affairs. Irritable, easily offended, vexed at everything. Low-spirited, with dimness of sight.
And a dose or two of Kali Phos.

Thanks Udaya, further dose of aeth last night. Woke this morning feeling a lot calmer and I've noticed my facial skin softer, linea nasalis has significantly reduced. I noticed and looked as if I've aged about 20 years since my mum died. I look young for my age - apparently 10 years younger but the facial lines are and where quite significant. Things can only get better from here on in :0) think there's still a lot to work on but time and patience on my part.

I'll dose every second day for now, report any improvements and I'll report further after petroleum and kali phos once I've finished taking them.

Hi Udaya,

I hope you're well! Further improvements today. I had a slight aggravation - cold sweats and nausea but no vomiting which was my symptoms, with the vomiting. This lasted about 30 minutes. This morning, urine quite dark and a little cloudy but no sweet smell and bowel movement a little better. I'll just keep reporting and if you see anything further, I'd be greatful if you let me know. I'm taking the petroleum tonight and tomorrow morning and I'll take the kali phos today. I'll also increase my fluid intake.

Morning Udaya,

I hope you are well! Slight further improvement from petroleum, I've just taken the second dose. I'm wakened this early because the cat wanted fed :0) I slept well last night. I haven't remembered much of any dreams for a while but I dreamt last night that I made a payment with my card and was refused due to lack of funds. I've woken feeling a little stronger in myself and a little calmer. Urine is clear, no sweet smell but still dark. I'll post any further updates as they happen. Haven't had a bowel movement today. I'll keep an eye on things and hopefully things start moving again.

Thanks Udaya,

Urine a little sweet again but pale and cloudy and nausea. I'll dose further with aeth again to see if that's going to clear it and continue from there. Will continue to report improvement and further symptoms. Still no bowel movement and was starting to improve. Urine isn't profuse and eating is something I still need to work on, more regular which probably doesn't help with the ketones.

Thanks Udaya,

The sweet smelling urine has passed again, but no bowel movement. I think there's old symptoms in ferrum iodatum so I will try a dose of that and see how I get on. Eating is still a bit of an issue but I am working on it. I've had sweet smelling urine, on and off for over 10 years but it is featuring strongly now.

First dose of lac -c. Profuse urination, my throat burned for about 20 seconds (old symptom) spine, neck and shoulder (right especially) feel less tense, have more movement in my shoulder than I've had for years. Something else I've thought about and don't know yet if it's related. I used to always wear rings and haven't for quite some time, except if I'm going out as they've been annoying me, touching next fingers. Just noting as another symptom to see if that changes also. I will update on further improvements as they happen. Bowels moved a little this morning also.
Gums seem to be less swollen, I don't have the fear of losing them anymore (merc/psorinum) but I do think it looks really ugly when I see them. Far from healthy but again, further improvement. Feeling quite tired with a slight sense of determination/emotional strength about me, also sharp pain in right ear (few mins and wore off) also pain in left molar which has also now passed, it's been filled so assuming old symptoms as well as ear - I had a lot of ear infections/hard wax for which I got syringed. All stopped, when I excluded cow dairy except one which I remember was aggravated by foot steps on the floor and extremely painful to lie on (that one was about 5/6 years ago.
Continual improvement on spinal tension and improved energy/ sense of optimism over the last few hours. Not sure at the moment if this relates to the exclusion but I have quite strong thoughts with “I’m not going anywhere” (this seems to be regarding the family) already starting to feel like it’s no big deal anymore (I’m probably scratching the surface at the moment but so far so good) profuse perspiration (warm) lasted about 10 mins hands still a little clammy but it was a dripping sweat which had also subsided. Maybe quite a lot happening with this one so I’ll let all this pass before any further dosing. After the first few days, I’ll keep my own notes and summarise so as not to be continually posting.

With Bacillinum, I’m a lot less boney, round my upper chest (I’m not underweight at all) this happened (more than usual) very quickly (overnight) when I had the flu virus. It’s not completely better but I can pinch a small amount of flesh that wasn’t there before.

So things are improving and I’ll post better results hopefully once I get to know the remedies better.

Best wishes

Thanks very much Udaya! I woke up this morning feeling the best I’ve felt for a while! Feel as if I’ve had a really good sleep - refreshed and quite energised. Not great yet, but getting closer to it! I do like checking with you that I’m on the right road so thanks for further advice.

Hi Udaya,

Just a quick update. Checked my weight yesterday as I hadn’t for quite some time. I have a bmi of 22.7 and if I did lose any weight during the virus, I’ve put it back on. This is my ideal weight for me and I’m generally consistent with it. Just need to keep working with the remedies now to restore my health. I’ll just note here also, I find it really offensive being called skinny, which I found just as offensive as being called fat. I also, don’t imagine illnesses. Never have. So that’s something that isn’t relevant here. The belief in this, tends to come from medical professions. As a child, you don’t know any better but I grew wise to that.

Morning Udaya,

Some further improvements with lac c - again, slight pain in left molar, duller than last time. Gum recession improving - interdental sticks (small size) isn’t going through as easily and I appear to have new gum growth in lower middle teeth. The front of the gums haven’t improved much and there’s also a slight improvement in the side teeth, again lower jaw. My right thigh is feeling slightly stronger also - there was a very slight dull pain (same symptoms as explained) for about 10 mins. Again, slept well and feel as if I have. Yesterday, I carried quite heavy bags back to the car which I wouldn’t even normally attempted and found it quite easy. When I got back to the car, I realised I had left my phone so had to go back. I would have found that a real effort but I had quite a bit of energy and strength about me that I haven’t had for quite a while. I’m nowhere near as fit and strong as I was but a notable improvement. This is more on a mood front, I also reversed my car in to some boulders that I didn’t notice lying against a hedge, fair bit of damage - there’s no half measures with me! :0) I’ve taken it far better than I would have even a few weeks ago. Managed the rest of the day without anything else happening so could have been worse! I’ve also been cooking the last couple of nights and eating better. Bowels have moved better than last time, still hard balls but more. My throat is feeling tight and feeling a bit anxious with it, shoulders tense and a bit achey as well, and my neck and getting angry now and a lot of hatred which I’d expect under the circumstances so again, I’ll wait for this to pass and shouldn’t last long. Neck and shoulder pain relieving and left arm weak and shakey. Coughing up quite a bit of phlegm although clear and slightly more relaxed breathing/ calmness returning with a kind of numb, tingling feeling over my chest and a slight sharp pain on the front of my head - right side, hasn’t lasted long. LM potency was definitely the way to go with this and don’t mind posting symptoms. Further bowel movement which is getting softer. My body seems like it can’t wait to get rid of all this.... :0) I have a very thin top on, not high necked or anything and it’s now sitting quite comfortably.

Hi Udaya,

Just a further update on lac-m. Self care goals are being implemented. Wouldn’t say effortless yet, but I am thinking more of myself in amongst what feels like utter chaos. For a few years now, I’ve just been tying my hair back unless I’ve been going out somewhere, then I make the effort. This is changing. Dealing with the contamination takes a lot out of me, physically and mentally and I find myself stressing over it more than doing something else, putting things off until it’s sorted but again I’ve noticed over the last few days, this is happening less and I’m dealing with the domestic situation a lot better. It is very basic changes but it’s positive. I’ve always felt I would have went home to my mum if she was still here after this happened to keep my strength and struggled with that aspect, but again, this is also becoming less of an issue. Things in general are starting to become easier again. I'm stressing less and doing more/ have a bit extra energy to look after me I think is the easiest way to put it. Still a lot more to be done for myself but happy with the results in just a few weeks so I'll keep working with that too. Also, forgot to mention. I can't remember if the orphan theme is lac m (it's one of the two) I know that's in other remedies as well. I had a period of feeling like an orphan after my mum died I also had periods of feeling nothing, not even numbness which I did experience also but regarded that as feeling something. The nothing was the worst, and I had a return of the orphan feeling which lasted a few days so I'm thinking it's lac m as it's cleared at this level anyway. I'm going to take a further dose of that on Monday I think it is so again I'll keep you posted on how things are developing there. I also did a fair bit of reading a while back, there was a lot of pressure on me from others to take medication for "depression" which I'd never do and insisted I wasn't clinically depressed. Complicated grief has similar symptoms but it's a different condition and as far as I was concerned, my feelings in relation to my mums death had to be dealt with from a different perspective and I'm now glad, I stuck to my guns and that I've found the remedies I need to help me recover from it all and not treat it as a mental illness.

Thanks Udaya,

I will do. Thanks also for the additional link. I had found and read that online. I wasn’t entirely sure how similar the materia medica was for lac-h (milk from 1) and lac-m (milk from 9) I’ll assume, unless you say otherwise, to save you replying, that they’re considered very similar. Which does and will give me a greater understanding. I looked at anything I could find, specifically for lac-m which there wasn’t a huge amount for. I did see a few points in lac -h and hadn’t/haven’t completely excluded it. I thought I’d have enough to contend with, with the other two and would wait to see how things went?

Maybe a better way to put it, when I looked at both, there was similar symptoms in both but lac-m seemed to cover more with a few other symptoms not covered in lac m that were in lac h, which made me think of this for a bit later, once I’m more familiar and managing them better - giving you updates.

Hi Udaya,

Just a further update on lac c (further LM dose) becoming less traumatic at the moment anyway. The tightness round my neck, was the sensation of the hand squeezing my throat, didn’t last long. My right leg is gaining strength, this is my shorter leg (1 inch) and can’t/don’t usually put much weight on it. It gives way if I lift my left leg. It’s holding more weight. My gums seem to still be improving, left side has a slight improvement now. Slept well again also and a further bowel movement with same improvements since last time. I’m thinking alternate days with this now but I’ll see how this one goes and report further. Anxiety is something I do get, I’m more on the high energy until I get burnout. If it’s just me managing/living day to day without any trauma/events or the neurological symptoms - exercise and meditation keeps me healthy and focused. I’ll get back to that state eventually! One thing I was thinking about, I was on beta blockers many years ago now (approx 20) and stopped them when I read about the diabetic link which apparently stops when you stop taking them. I’ve had periodic sweet smelling urine (nothing just now) for many years so although, no diabetes maybe a link with the anxiety and trauma involved and therefore a symptom of it. There’s also not eating properly and poor digestion. Just a thought especially as it seems to be in a few of the remedies. I’ve also just remembered something else in relation to lac c - milk diet and love of chocolate. I’ve been drinking a lot of soya chocolate milk. Carcinsosin is the only remedy I know of that has this rubic and I tried that long ago as I’d had it before. It seemed to me I wanted milk which I couldn’t drink and also wanted chocolate which I can’t eat - I do have mint flavoured plain chocolate or moo free (dairy free brand which is ok) and that’s why I was doing it. I’ve noticed I’m drinking less of it recently. I’ve never actually liked milk or fresh cream on its own, it had to be taken in something or disguised with the flavour of something else.

Best wishes

Hi Udaya,

I hope you’re well! On reassessing, ive decided it would probably be better to start taking lac h just now. This was a late teenage phase for me especially, and probably still relevant today in some aspects as well.

Estrangement from family - no connection.

Feel as if my mum was the only person that really knew me.

Loss of ambition, pointless trying - quite a lot for this at the moment. I knew it wasn't staphysagria so hoping this will change that. I don't know how much you got to read if anything at all before I had to delete posts but I was (before all the botched surgery) what I call Miss global organisation. Things were in the early stages and the long term goal was consultancy. I seem like a completely different person from that now. As far away from it as I could possibly get.

Love for one parent, hatred for the other. That hadn't changed.

The sacrificed feelings where definitely a teenage thing. Once the abusive relationships were out the way and both our healths were good, my mum didn't stop me from doing anything, fully supported and encouraged me in fact. When I did find myself and my purpose she was behind me all the way. I was so strong mentally and physically, knew exactly who I was and what I wanted and nobody was stopping me. My health was the reason for that. There was still the lac c circumstances surrounding this to some extent but again, for most of it my life was outside the house. It is quite complex but again, homeopathy is making it much more simple.

The protectiveness, partly. Also the element of you can do what you want to me but you're not doing it to her.

The isolation may be here also.

It doesn't feel particularly traumatic and probably more beneficial than anything at the moment. I don't have any financial/domestic concerns, in terms of management. If anything I'm a saver/budgeter.

I did get back in touch with some old friends, who I'm no longer friends with but all that made me realise was, why we stopped being friends in the first place. Still being single, when my friends are all married with kids is probably the hardest part. It's just different lives. Aside from the health aspects, I'd still say I'm single because I haven't met anyone that makes my life any better than it is being on my own.

That’s the sort of reasons, I’m looking to this now. I should have it later this week and will keep you posted on that also. I think I’m now able to differentiate between the 3

Best wishes

Hi Udaya,

Just a further update on lac m. I had considered up until this morning increasing to 10M which I think will be beneficial but I’ll wait for a few more 1M doses. I’m feeling really dizzy and spaced out. I also was feeling like I wanted to cry but couldn’t get it out, the tears have come in abundance, feeling really sad for my mum thinking what it must have been like for her, when I was born and not knowing the outcome. Going through that on her own. On a more positive note, I’m taking a more positive roll in terms of cooking from the last dose. Also, I’ve noticed I’m slightly less preoccupied by what others are saying. Feeling a little stronger in that respect. Feeling slightly less threatened. I’m also feeling like I understand things from my own perspective a little more, things are starting to feel a little less chaotic.

I also, realised a few nights ago that I’ve only been taking lac c for about a week. It seemed a lot longer. That’s quite a substantial amount of healing that’s happened there as well. I’m feeling quite proud, wouldn’t have expected those changes in such a short period of time. I was actually dreading this and found myself having to talk myself in to taking it which has never happened before but it’s been manageable.

Also, with lac h. I went to speech therapy when I was in nursery (my mum couldn’t remember this/didn’t seem to know) I had a slight stutter which they said was because I talked too fast, couldn’t get the words out quick enough. I was about 3 before I started talking and my mum said it was as if I went to bed and swallowed a dictionary, spoke in full sentences. Did joke, I've never shut up since. So, again maybe another symptom for that. I think it was taken in to account for sulphur which was my 3rd remedy and been periodically repeated but I am starting to notice subtle differences in remedies so again I'm mentioning.

Further from this morning, I've slept most of the day (which I'm a bit annoyed about) and feeling very demotivated. I know this will pass and it's obviously worked on a deeper level. I feel like I've wasted a whole day. I do get quite heavy healing crisis's at times. I might have to consider the LM potency for this as well. I'll see how things go though. Previous symptoms have stopped and feeling better in that respect. I've also just remembered, I heard my mums voice saying my name as I woke up. I'm not upset about this, there was no distress. I had this happen when my uncle died also although it was only a few days after. I may have new hair growth. My hair has been very sparse for a few years now, very little growth at the sides which sepia didn't improve. There is what seems to be very short spikes of new hair. I will keep an eye on that also. Apologies for the continual updates, I seem to be battering through this as well and I doubt I would remember it all if I didn't report. Once things slow down, I'll try and condense to weekly at the least. Further old thoughts - give me a PhD any day over domestic duties.

A little question for you if you don't mind. Is there much or any difference between lac h (divya) and lac h? - I now know who divya is. Hadn't heard of her before. Although plenty of Sankaran. Neither lac m or lac h is available to order as LM potencies so if I was going to go ahead with that, I'd need to request and if there's any difference between the two, I'm better knowing which one. I'm thinking LM is probably best for these just now. We have heavy snow forecast for the next 3 days so there won't be much getting through this week. There's no hurry for me to order. I'm struggling to think clearly today, shopping list is proving difficult which I'm starting to see the funny side of (knowing it's just a healing crisis) feel a bit guilty as I should have had the dog out but there's plenty time and just doing what I can before the snow. It tends to limit me somewhat. I'm also going to leave lac c tonight to let this pass.

Best wishes

Hi Udaya,

Healing crisis is over thankfully. Feeling better today. Was very tired most of yesterday, and extra sleeping didn't affect my sleep last night either ( if I'm just tired during the day, I don't allow myself to sleep as it knocks my sleeping out completely) . Feeling slightly more laid back in terms of the enormity of sorting out my life. One step at time, health first. In terms of strength I carried 7kg in from the car yesterday and hasn't caused any discomfort. My plan between now and next week for myself is to eat better (food ordered) and to get myself back in to the gym. I'm usually very self motivated, so I'm going regardless. More improvement. So you know where I am with certain aspects, I have considered going back to Uni - I hate institutions and education (biased) but I do love learning and the intellectual stimulation/research. I would also need to study something I loved and right now I don't know what else that is. So that's what I'm hoping to figure out. I did wonder about Graphite's at one point until these remedies came up so I'm going with it, focusing on regaining my health and fitness and will deal with the next step when I'm in a better position to do so.

I've enquired about LM's. If it's decided it's not feasible I'll just need to schedule better and take the remedy on quiet days. I will let you know either way.

I'll take Lac c tonight and report further on that.

Best wishes

Hi Udaya,

I’ve heard back from the pharmacy regarding LM potency. I can order LM in lac h but not Lac m. Unless you have any concerns, I’ll continue with the 1M, schedule it better so it doesn’t interfere with anything if there is going to be further healing crisis’s/ aggravation’s. It did only last a day. It’s got to come out so I’m thinking I just need to get on with it and work round it better.

I’ll give you my reasons for not going for a lower potency. Phosphorus was one of my first, two remedies. I had a massive aggravation with 10M after a few doses. The homeopath I was seeing didn’t believe that’s what it was and continued with that Potency. I ended up with a burn trying to deal with the pain in my back and going for acupuncture. I eventually said to go deeper (I was very new to homeopathy at the time so took a wee while for this thinking) and potency was raised to 50M and within a week all symptoms had cleared with much improvement. On the other end, I saw a homeopath who worked with very low potencies and that ended up quite messy with unsuppressed symptoms that continued to aggravate and I had to sort that out myself. I don’t think raising the potency at this stage would be best - longer aggravation, and lowering may have the same effect. I can be very sensitive initially with LM being easier to manage but as that isn’t an option, I just keep it as it is as it’s proving beneficial with a limited aggravation which is going to happen regardless.

Best wishes

| Re:For the kind attention of Udaya | By: udaya kumar-- | February 28 2018 |
|---|---|---|

The principles of homeopathy illustrates to us that aggravation would be possible only in lower potency.....and higher potency should abort the aggravation caused by lower potency......It is the allopathic mind programming that programmes ones mind to think that higher potency can aggravate in the same way as high powered allopathic medicines can be damaging ...which is not true with homeopathy......Higher potency in homeopathy means more purified and divine in content ....all devinities are benevolent and NOT malevolent ///that which flows from divinity are soothing blissfulness and cannot be hurtful. So LM potencies are smoothest and without any aggravations whatsoever.....whereas Q potency in material doses ( I repeat material doses) can be aggravative and harmful......subject to the toxic content within that medicinal extract.....like Lachesis Q used in material doses like 40 drops or 60 drops can be dangerous again subject to immuno efficiency of each individual......

I do not understand your allusion Divya....

Again, """" I also was feeling like I wanted to cry but couldn’t get it out""" this seems Ignatia. best wishes.

Hi Udaya,

Regarding Divya, this there are 2 lac h mentioned, one being lac h (divya) she was one of the provers and writer of materia medica like tub (Koch)

Further improvements today, took of advantage of the weather conditions yesterday, cleaned out cupboards and cooked. I did forget to checkout my home delivery though and attempted to dig my way through 7” of snow this morning but it didn’t happen. With lac c I had quite a bit of discomfort in my right groin area where the abscess was (once surgically drained and the 2nd hepar sulph opened it) so hopefully got to the root cause now. If the snow clears I’ll be out tomorrow for a while and will report any further changes/improvements. I’ll take a further dose of ignatia.

Definite further improvements all round today. I have at times, had pain in my leg walking in the freezer isle (which I forgot about) I ended up just wading through the snow at parts up to past my knee. The pain has significantly reduced. And again in terms of self care, I went and got the bare essentials of what I needed which I doubt very much I would have even attempted a few weeks ago. Things definitely seem to be quieting down with lac c so I’ll leave posting to longer intervals.

Thanks again Udaya
Best wishes

January 20 2018
Must report amazing result when I took 6 granules of Carcinosinum last week.

2tuff had recommended a 'dose' from time to time to 'clear' the system.

All the signs of my previous problems have disappeared:-

*No more swollen feet and legs
*Legs had slimmed right back to normal
*I could walk without pain
*I slept all night instead of waking every two hours with urgent pee problem. I had not slept well for two years.

I should like to thank 2tuff for this 'cure' and ask if there is anything else to do.

Very best wishes

Wait for a couple of days as the medicine is working. the burning in parts and receding on its own shows that Sulphur is working still. Use single dose of Arsenic Album 200C and next day use higher potency of the same medicines i.e
Sulphur 200C day one.
Clacarea Carb 200C day two Lycopodium 200C day three and wait for one week for complete result to show up. with best wishes.

No homeopathic medicine works on diseases as programmed into the modern psycho that a germ enters the body and start attacking the body causing diseases. Homeopathic medicines only activate the life force into functioning the way it ought to function. No there is nothing of that sort. Microorganisms called germs are in the air, they do enter the human body through many ways and channels. They will settle or do harm only if they are received, and if there are predispositions to receive them. They would also become hostile when conditions within the body warrants it. In other words, the problem is within the body and not in the guests that enter the body. Disease should be understood only as Dis-ease or not at ease.
keep me posted.

3.I am worried because of the weight loss.Regularly I am taking protein,vegetables,lintel etc. In spite of that I have lost weight. as a layman first think come in mind that nutrients absorption from food may have impaired?

Udaya,
18 years old boy under treatment of epilepsy during.

His seizures triggers due to lack of blood sugar or missing lunch or dinner.

I am thinking to start him on Sacchrum

Can you add your input ?

Thanks

| Re:Question for Udaya | By: udaya kumar-- | February 28 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Saccharum officianale is technically appropriate medicine.....should also correct Dopamine, nephrine, epinephrine as it is indicated for scurvy......Saccharum may bring out to surface undiagnosed diabetes and therefore well advised for hypoglycemia....yet another medicine is Kaoline in the form of Alumina Silicata which has also epilepsy and convulsions, with hypoglycemia and hypoxia....whereas Kent gives modality as worse eating, better fasting.........which is contrary to worse missing lunch or dinner as stipulated by you........Therefore, it has to be evaluated whether it is hidden hyperglyzemia or testable hypoglycemia .....because epilepsy can be triggerred inter alia all the following causes:

- Hypoglycemia (low sugar level)
- Hyperglycemia (high sugar level)
- Hypoxia (low oxygen level)
- Uremia
- Hyponatraemia (low sodium level)
- Hypernatraemia (high sodium level)
- Hypocalcaemia
- Liver diseases

If Hyper or Hypo natraemia is the leading cause then Thuja and Natrum Mur are definitely necessary...... use of single dose one granule only of Alumina Silicata 200C as test dose or in LM potency is not out of place...... Check also Cina and Anacardium.....use of Arnica will be complementary....

Namaste, My husband had a heart bypass surgery 3 years ago. He is fine now. The doctor who operated on him said that the effect of surgery lasts for 15 years. Someone suggested that homeopathy medicine Silica will help his heart to remain healthy and he will not need any more surgeries. Could you please advice.

Arnica 30C would be a better option..... with three doses of Aconitum 30C for one day only.......

Crataegus Q can be used as a heart tonic and is beneficial/....it can be used five drops in one ounce water three times a day for one week initially and repeat if necessary. Arnica 30C three times a day is also very good for heart with or without surgery.

| Re:Homeopathy after bypass surgery | By: 2tuff | February 25 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Test how you react to the Cratageus and if all is well you can take up to two-and-a-half millilitres twice daily of this wonderful heart tonic. Hawthorn berry can be taken in higher amounts but stick to that dosage of a 1:2-1:5 herbal tincture. You'll also find occasional use of Capiscum cayenne pepper herb and Garlic very useful. Look up a book called 'Left for Dead' by Dick Quinn and read it.

Dear Dr.

Mom is extremely allergic to allopathic meds... and have mostly on homeo/ herbal treatments for other ailments like body/joints pain management, constipation etc.

But after bypass surgery she has been on allopathic post-op drugs causing extremly dry cough thhat ends every time in vomiting. she says her throat gets dry causing cough spell.

her doctor has been reported and he changed suspected drug named Perindopril (Coversam) to Norvas (both for HBP/beta blocker).

Is there any homeopathic help to assist the allergic cough control?

Hi Udaya,

It's been a while since I spoke to you last. I hope you are well.

You have previously treated Nuala my dog and I'm hoping you can again?

She's 12.5 years, red cocker. Last weekend I had her at the vet for what was thought to be gastroenteritis. She was given anti sickness injection and a course of antibiotics. She picked up considerably within 24 hours and was almost her usual happy self by Thursday. On Friday there was what seemed to be straining for stool but she did pass some and I walked her across the road to the local park where I just let her wander around for a while. She collapsed, managed to get her up on her feet and took her straight to the vet. She was scanned and there was fluid to be found which was either from her intestine or womb. She was given an anti-inflammatory injection and an antibiotic injection (can't remember names) yesterday morning no improvement (temp was 104) and emergency surgery was done. The vet said they nearly lost her. They said her womb was full of green type puss and she had very early stages of peritonitis - small amount of fluid. I was told the womb was difficult to remove (she's had a full hysterectomy) she was out of surgery by midday (longer than expected) and was up and on her feet by 1.30pm yesterday afternoon. She's eating , drinking and happy in herself. The power of homeopathy! Ok, I woke this morning to find her struggling to get up. I managed to get her on her feet and I also tickled her paw pads from which she pulled away so there's feeling and non paralysis - her hind legs are very weak. I did call the vet and spoke to him this morning and he confirmed what I hoped - extensive, life saving surgery, pain, weakness. She's eating etc so things for now are as expected. I have just given her Arnica about 20 minutes ago and she literally just got up there and walked for a drink! I've managed that one! At the moment, I'm thinking bellis perennis and staphysagria for the wound but with this being so serious I'd be very grateful if you could advise and treat the recovery for her?

I collected her yesterday at 2.30 - she remained stable throughout the anaesthesia and was walking, albeit a bit wobbly and very happy to see me. Big shock for us both and a huge relief to have her through the initial stages. She is currently on metronadazole and synulox and loxicom for pain management.

Thanks Udaya and I look forward to hearing from you,

Best wishes

Newark,
At human age Naula is 87.....! The Gastroenteritis and consequent constipation are addressed by Bryonia...Bryonia incidenatally has pain in movement and therefore cannot get up...would work in the current situation....It also regulates fluid in the body......Use of it three doses for one day and repeat is adviced......

Total Hysteroctomy makes it difficult for homeo medicines to function within the womb.....To my mind there is a Scirrhus somewhere. Use of Scirrhinum 1M single dose followed by Aurum Muriaticum Natrosum 3X three times a day for one week would be beneficial......Merc Sol., Sepia, Chamomilla, Arsenic Album, Carbo Animalis are other indicated medicines.

The problem could be viewed in two ways. One is ascites and peritonitis where Scirrhus or other related malignancy.....The other one is Green Leucorrhia and catarrhal conditions of the woumb due to infection.....In all cases Apis Mellifica is required and should be used in 30C potency alongwith Cantharis30C.

Best wishes.

|---|---|---|

Thanks Udaya for getting back to me so quickly. I know, she's great for her age and all going well will make a complete recovery - even through all this she's still wagging her tail!

Since Arnica yesterday, sleeping deeper and more relaxed. She's still sleeping this morning. She is still liking getting outside for some fresh air even just for the toilet, She's on her feet more. I noticed she lies for about half an hour (looking very relaxed and content) before she actually manages to get up. The back legs are still more affected. Last night I was finding once she's on her feet she's much more able and moved/turned a bit too quick which resulted in her ending up on her backside. She's happy for me to help her. She has some strength of will for sure

The concerns with the vet at the moment is post op infection and either a reoccurance of the peritonitis or any subsequent organ failure - no signs of anything at the moment and hoping it stays this way.

She is more howling than barking at the moment - when someone is passing to come to the door for example.

She's just woke up and she sat up straight away her happy wee self, rolled over to get her tummy tickled which is a first but back legs still weak.

You've mentioned lots of remedies for different reasons. Could you advice on how to proceed.

Best wishes

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 12 2017 |
|---|---|---|

I had her outside for a small 5 minute walk this morning. She had a small solid/soft but dark bowel movement and she enjoyed the fresh air. She's quite energetic on her feet considering what she's been through but definitely wanting to do more/ move quicker than she's able at the moment

Her symptomology is still new to me so I'll try and present as any symptoms for her as I see them.
Thanks Udaya,

Newark

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: udaya kumar-- | June 12 2017 |
|---|---|---|

there is nothing new in symptomology as long as it is Pyometra... use one dose each of the following medicines in the order given

1. Pulsatilla 30C single dose
2. Sepia 30C single dose.
3. Pyrogenum 200C single dose.
4. Cantharis 30C single dose.

Six hour gap between Pyrogenum and cantharis three hours between 30C medicine.

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 12 2017 |

Thanks Udaya,

I gave pulsatilla ( she's very characteristic of pulsatilla) and pyrogenum prior to going to the vet. It did pick her up a little but not enough to expel the pus as there was no change at the second scan. Also, forgot to mention when she went to the vet the week before when it was thought to be gastroenteritis. She apparently had no inflammation and her temperature was normal - it seemed very sudden for the extent. She was also still in season. Approaching the end of her second week.

When I say new, I mean in relation to how she's handling all of this. I have all those remedies here so I'll start tonight and report back

Pulsatilla is green, Sepia is yellowish green and green.....and other two medicines also promote green mucus or pus....but, there is no pus to expel as hysterectomy has been performed and their function now confine to stopping the formation of pus and stopping the infection....

--

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 13 2017 |
|---|---|---|

Thanks Udaya,

She's continued to improve. Her strength and energy is coming back. She's determined to get on the sofa since last night so I'll speak to the vet to see how much walking she's allowed.

She has an Elizabethan collar (lampshade) to wear. It was noted in the vets before I picked her up that she wasn't too happy with this. No aggression just a sad look that makes you feel very sorry for her. She hasn't shown any interest in her wound so I took it off her. It's back on so I can try and prevent her or at least catch her early before she does something she shouldn't yet.

I'll post after the remedies....

Thanks,

Newark

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 16 2017 |

Thanks for the kind well wishes Udaya. 120 + years would be lovely!! :0)

I waited until today to report back as Nuala had her check up. The vets really pleased with her progress. Tummy feels good and wound so far, is healing well. She still has one day left of what I think is Co-ammoxiclav (vet name different) the metronidazole is finished.

She was on a strict no exercise regime until today. She has energy in abundance which is great in one way but not so great for the healing process. I'm hoping she'll settle quickly now I can walk her as much as she is able/likes but anything more is restricted until week 3/4. I've had to build a barricade round the sofa as she's determined she's sleeping on that but not allowed yet. Overall, super excited about everything again! :0)

She had 2 massive bowel movements today, having not been allowed out (except to pee) she hadn't done the toilet until today. Solid, normal consistency and colour.

She has slept since coming back from the vet and rolling around - relaxed and happy.

The vet did say due to her energy levels she's a bit of a danger to herself so prescribed calmex - L-Theanine, L- Tryptophan, Piper methystian, and b-vitamins as I'm worried about leaving her by herself in case she gets up on furniture/bed etc which she'll definitely do. I caught her through the night last night aiming for the sofa again.

Overall, a very different picture from last week. All going well, there's still plenty of life in this old dog! The vet hasn't asked to see her back unless we run in to any problems. All good news today. If you could advise further it would be much appreciated.

Best wishes,

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 16 2017 |

Hadn't had a bowel movement since Monday (that should have said) I took her out to the car - about 4 min walk and her bowels moved then.

Thanks

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: udaya kumar-- | June 17 2017 |

Give Bryonia 30C three times for one day and she would have no risks after that in moving around fast even if vet advice otherwise....! Bryonia will take care of the bowel peristalsis issue if any....

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 17 2017 |

Thanks Udaya, I have Bryonia here also. I'll give her that today and report back at the start of the week.

We did 15 mins on her first walk and she managed it no bother. I aimed for five minutes initially but she needed more. I have a much more settled dog today. Aiming for 2 walks today so I'll see how we get on.

Thanks again Udaya

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: Newark | June 20 2017 |

Hi Udaya,

I hope you're well! I haven't used any of the calmer's from the vet. She still has loads of energy, up to 35 mins walk and sleeps afterwards. With her bowel movements, they were a bit orange on Sunday. I read this could be a side effect of the antibiotics (bile/liver) there was no other signs to cause immediate alarm and I'm pleased to say, everything is normal again. Wound still healing well also.

I have a day out planned at the weekend, vet said she should be ok for that so I took her to a home boarder to introduce her and his dog, plus a couple on day care and she did great! The guys more than happy to have her. Last time I kenneled her was 5 years ago and she's never got fully over that - still refuses to sleep on a dog bed. She was definitely happy today so the home environment definitely suits her. I will keep you posted on how she goes. If you want to advise further at this stage, please do as she's healing very well.

Thanks Udaya,

| Re:For the kind attention of udaya - pyometra post surgery | By: udaya kumar-- | June 20 2017 |

very good....you can continue use of Bryonia and Pulsatilla..... Bryonia will fortify the liver.....and ease out all movements.....lubricate the joints and make movements easier......best wishes.

Thanks Udaya,

Apologies for the delay in getting back to you, my phone/network was playing up.

Nuala is doing great and no problem with her wound. That's her half way through the recovery today. Providing nothing happens to open her wounds, the next few weeks should be less of a worry. Thanks very much for your help so far.

How often would you want me to repeat?

Hope you and Tuckoo are well?

I have some great news this morning. Nuala is officially all better! I will be taking it a bit easy with her (as much as she allows) but no restrictions and back to normality. Thanks so much for all your help. Any problems with her, I'll post and seek further help. She's up lying on the couch as I type :0)

Reasons for lac can. I'll add as I remember, can think more about this. I'm keeping it simple and going to see if this works. Also, I watched a documentary about cat and dog behaviour, dispelling the myths and reporting on recent studies. Apparently, it's been proven that dogs want to be part of the family (which mine are) look to their owners to make things better (which she does) and aside from that, as I've mentioned before, she has an extra affection, positive reaction to people that have helped us in times of great need - she remembers whose been good to us.

Separation anxiety, minor now. Definitely was other issues and surgery/anaesthetic, 24 hour care from me, never being on her own etc now doesn't seem to be an issue with her.

Aside from the kennelling. There is issues with her when she's put in the room (excluded) for health and safety reasons when there's workmen in. The only time she's treated "like a dog" and it's been frequent here.

If I'm going out and leave her because, In society there's certain circumstances, dogs (unless service dogs) aren't allowed. Again, she's being excluded which from most of my life, she isn't.

I don’t treat my animals or train them in terms of how society see’s can see them. I prefer them to be unsupressed with their own unique personalities so this is my next chain of thought with her. Might be barking up the wrong tree but I’m going to try and see what happens

Hello Newark....hoping you and the pets are well....apologies for the delay....and never worry about my name....I'm happy answering to TaraJoy, Tara, TJ, JT (for 'Just Tara')....with six brothers I've more nicknames than I can count.

I'm not remembering if we'd chatted about the milk remedies - but if you found it in the threads then there it is! (It's often I'm picturing you shaking your head and wondering, 'what outlandish thing is this mad woman going to be on about next?'). Fortunately (or unfortunately!) you'll not be wondering long. :0)

I'm recalling discussing the Matridonal remedies with you at one time and while I'm on that, I'm just going to put this down here to remind myself even though it's not pertaining to you - one of the other moms on the forum mentioned something about her child getting into gaps and I'm picturing that mentioned somewhere under one of the Matridonal remedies. Have to give that another check.

Do let me know if you've had a go with the Lac Canium for yourself and/or Nuala. I'll pull out my own notes as well. I recall it reminding me of Pulsatilla in some ways, so that could be part of why you're seeing it for Nuala?

With warm regards,
Tara(Joy)!

Thanks Tara,

You’ve got a big family! Not mad at all! I had an experience with a homeopath many years ago now with a lac remedy. I’ll say no more on that but was aware of them. Just don’t always trust my own judgement at times these days but that seems to be improving. It’s just the past jumping up to bite me again ;0) no doubt with circumstances here setting it off so it’ll be another blessing in disguise when I get it sorted. I do have to protect myself now though so it’ll be relatively private. I’ll see how it goes though, the wonders of homeopathy never cease....

Animals are all good, Maisie’s settled back down thankfully 😁 and Nuala’s just being a dog, who likes her home comforts hopefully! I will keep you posted on that one! One thing I forgot about with pulsatilla, mainly because Nuala doesn’t do it anymore is, they (Maisie too) won’t go to bed on their own either 😁 Maisie was getting a bit wound up and noticed when I asked if she wanted to go to bed, she answered in her own wee cat way - she has different meow’s for when she does or doesn’t want something, there’s an in between one as well.

My head isn’t up for doing anymore than I am at the moment but hopefully, again like everything else - that’ll change soon enough.

Happy belated Birthday Tuckoo! Hope she enjoyed herself!

I hope the exams are going well or all over and things are a bit easier for you.

Speak to you again soon,

Newark

Had Nuala at the vet for her annual check up today. Healthy and happy apart from a touch of eczema which I’m going to have a wee look at. She rolled on something on Sunday and seems to have came from there. No infection or anything. Still the issue with the nodules but they haven't changed so there's no immediate concern and no howling either! Which is a first in a long time. Yay!! plenty life left in the old dog yet.

Speak to you soon,

Hi Newark....I absolutely understand and totally respect your privacy....I'll delete anything of a personal nature from my earlier post. (done) I'll just say this - I think you're right in noticing a 'blessing in disguise'. Whenever we get 'the past jumping up to bite' then it's no longer 'the past' but 'the present' because the present is the only 'place' 'it' can be healed. Speaking from experience there!

Thanks for the good wishes. Tuckoo had a grand birthday and we're not done with the school bit but getting there.

The pets are lucky to have you, with your compassion and your finesse. I wish you the best things in life. You deserve to be happy!

Hi Tara,

Don't worry about anything you've written! That's not that personal! Thanks for such a lovely message! I won't keep you chatting, good luck with the rest of Tuckoo's schooling - a well deserved break for you both, coming up soon hopefully!

Nuala is neither up nor down, eczema which at the moment isn't giving anything except basic symptoms. Full of energy and happy in herself. She has discovered how to get the collar off though  hopefully I'll get it on her long enough to let it start healing. A follow up from yesterday, the eczema is healing nicely. Looking good this morning, so I'm just letting her own immune system deal with this at the moment anyway. Noticed later on last night she wasn't getting irritated by it anymore so let her sleep with the collar off and it's formed a nice little scab. Redness/inflammation all settled down.

There will be no stopping us soon ;0) take care and I'll speak to you again soon.

Best wishes

Hi Tara,

Change of plan for Nuala, left her today for 2 hours. When I go out, I leave her with a dentastix or I fill her K9 connectable toy. I've kept that consistent. Today on coming home, she was sound asleep - doesn't sound like a particularly anxious dog. I wouldn't expect a deep sleep from her if she had been anxious for any length of time. She was happy and excited when I woke her up and no sign of any disruption to covers or anything. So, as she's doing well at the moment, I'm leaving her be for a while. There is the issue with the nodules - obvious one due to her age would be Conium which she's had. I might try her with that again and see if anything happens. I have also wondered about calc flour. She did really well with silicea before as well and that's a compliment - she isn't in "pain" with them but she doesn't like them being touched. The only barking issue she has is when she's shut out when work men are in. She's fine on her own if it's just me. Still considering lac c for symptoms I've mentioned and may cover the nodules as well so going to have a further think about it and will keep you posted on any results and with what. She's definitely improving all round and her general health is looking really good so think I'll concentrate on myself for a wee while and just keep an eye on her, see if I can pick up on anything to give me an answer.

With Conium/ reasons for not, she doesn’t have weakness in her legs, she still jumps about and leaps through the air to get her ball (plenty energy)..... if only they could speak English! :0)

Speak to you soon,

Newark

Just a quick update on Nuala, the eczema which appears to have been made worse by her licking, chewing at the itchiness , is doing great on its own. I kept her collar on as much as I could have, she’s been very clever this time round in finding ways to get it off. But this morning, it’s half the size and some of the scab has come off and it’s all nice pink/white healthy skin underneath. Not sure if it was/is an allergy reaction with her but whatever it was, her immune system dealt with it. Collar is off so far this morning so I’ll see how she goes as the day goes on. All going well, she’ll leave it alone and another few days should see it healed completely. You may remember (can’t exactly remember when) she got tracheitis a while back. We had similar weather conditions to that day (suspected a grass seed or something may have triggered that) and when I had her at the park last week, she literally just stood. Wasn't remotely interested in being out in it. It reminded me of that day, I was dreading going out in it myself but it was the first I'd seen her react like that. So that's what made me think again of a possible outside allergy rather than an irritant. It's healing so more useful for future if need be. Just checked with the vet there, the tracheitis was April, 2016 so a few months out for an annual aggravation. The weather for me, is rhus tox - It was extremely wet, cold and windy. Painfully cold!! I will see how she goes. I know I've mentioned this before but just to keep these symptoms fresh and on one post - Nuala has always had a dry/scaly nose. I recently tried coconut oil on it (weather dependant - don't want her getting burned) and that clears it up. When she has what now appears to be an inflammatory response, it gets worse. That also happened with this and is starting to improve again also. She did get a steroid injection when she was very young but it just came back so was decided not to continue.

Best wishes

Slight separation anxiety with Nuala - may well just have lessened rather than being completely cured. Had her with me yesterday seeing a friend who I hadn't seen for a few weeks, she was extremely excited about it and being very cutely submissive. She was doing her blocking when we were talking (pulsatilla) and I had to put the bins out when we got back and there was a bit of barking so she may be barking for a short period, I've given her a dose of pulsatilla and will see how that goes with her. Eczema is almost completely gone. She doesn't bother with it anymore so the collar hasn't went back on.

Best wishes

Just a wee update on Maisie (Nuala’s eczema patch healed completely on its own from just stopping her licking and biting at it, just the hair to grow back now) with Pulsatilla, she’s back to being all cute again. Doesn’t want cuddles all the time but she’s more settled and wants closeness - lies beside me to get her tummy tickled, lies beside me or sometimes on me in bed at night. She has periodically guarded the front door (periods lying at it) and she also chewed the clip on the dogs halter - wether she was trying to stop us going out, I don’t know :0) the constant need to play was sorted with a dose of Lachesis - constant need to play, over stimulation - if she wants to play, I play with her but it was excessive. She also seemed to be a bit bored with the laser, so I changed that from one with just a dot to one with shapes and playing better for shorter periods. She sleeps better through the night, waking 7/7.30 which is a huge improvement. No physical complaints, just behavioural. She’s a lot happier. Me being not well definitely seemed to have an impact on her

Best wishes

Dear Udaya,

Good day today, hope yours is well. I have a beloved that has Glucoma. He has done everything you possibly can to treat it. This includes surgery and every day eye drops. The eye drops made him gain 50 pounds. He stopped using the eye drops.

Every once in awhile he gets migraines. He knows it’s from the glaucoma. I’ve looked on the history for cure of Glucoma but I don’t really know if there is a cure in homeopathy. For the extreme headaches, what would you recommend?

Thank you so kindly for all what you do no heat , no redness, no pain on pressing on it ,just a mild fluid retention behind the left exterior side .

Dear Maryam,
Where were you skiing ? Is it in artificial conditions in warm state or in cold places like Alps or Calgary( Canadian Rokies)...? If in cold places the medicines should conform to positive RA (Rheumatic Arthritis) the medicines are Benzoic Acid, Calcarea Fluor and Calcarea Phos, Ruta, Rhus Tox, Rhododenteron, Formica Rufa, Bryonia, Pulsatilla as per symptoms . If it is artificial in warm countries like Dubai use Croton Tig 30C three times a day for one day and it will disappear. best wishes.

Miniscus tear will be repaired by Ruta.....Rhus tox will relieve pain....use Calcarea fluor and Calcarea Phos in 6X as complimentary medicines for long term use with Ruta.

Dear Uday Kumar
My son, aged 36, has problem of excess uric acid, gout and hyperacidity.
First attack of gout was in June 2015. Left toe was affected.Uric acid was around 10.

The pain reoccured when medicine was stopped. The problem continues even now. Uric acid level increases to around 10 or more when he stops medicine. There is no pain problem except slight intermittent pain in right ankle.
Recent blood test shows uric acid level of 10.3

In addition he has acidity for some 5 Yes. Very often Burning in stomach
He has to travel a lot, eating outside without much exercise.
Endoscopy has shown problem in the valve between stomach and oesophagus that allows acid from stomach coming into the oesaphagus.
Please advise.

The GERD (Gastro Esophaegal Reflex Disease or Disorder) as you may call it is caused due to Acidity and Uric Acid Diathesis stiffening the Sphinster Valve between Esophaegus and Duodenum Stiff and open. It is possible to restore the flexibility of the valve....Sometimes Hiatel Hernia adds to the condition. Use single dose of Arsenic Album 30C and Borax 30C for the condition......Nux Vomica 30C and Natrum Phos 6X are other effective medicines arising from sedenteric life style and overweight respectively...Natrum Phos helps in reducing weight....... For Gout and Uric Acid please check the other symptoms of the following medicines and let me know which medicines matches with his other symptoms in particular extremities and peculiar symptoms if any

Dear Sir,
Thank you very much for your prompt reply.

I have gone through medicines Colchicum, Benzoic Acid, Lithium Carb and Guaiacum from the links provided by you and from some other sites. I list the symptoms to select or eliminate one or more of these remedies:

Inflammation of great toe, red, hot, swollen. Tearing pains; worse, in the evening and at night and worse from touch. Cold applications relieved pain to a certain extent.

Habit of remaining awake till late in night in connection with work and even otherwise.

Headache specially when unable to have food in time. Tendency to vomit.

However not much thirst. Smell of food does not cause nausea and vomiting

Does not have any symptoms associated with colour and odour of urine.

Does not have the cardiac, eye or urinary symptoms

There is no deformities and contractions.
Though cold application relieved pains, heat, in general, is not intolerable. At the moment there is no symptom of gout

I do not know if ,on the basis of the above symptoms, any of the remedies may be selected or eliminated.

Some other symptoms are :
Affectionate, loves all family members, but angry and hurts them at times to apologise later.
About 20 years back had an attack of Hepatitis B. No problem thereafter.

Very much allergic to dust, polon and odour. It causes sneezing and running of nose.

Currently he is in Zurich, Switzerland. He was here for a few days. Went back on 10th. Feb. He has taken Ledum Pal and Berberis Mother tincture to continue there. Please suggest if he should take any of the four medicines suggested by you.

The pain is of patellofemoral origin..the cause is in irregular movement of knee cap which is associated with loss of muscle tone in the thigh and softened carteleges.

The main indicated medicines are Causticum and Phosphorus....Causticum is for carteleges and phosphorus for muscle tone......Tendons would also be involved and therefore Ledum Pal would also be required....There are three further issues..

1. Inflammation 2. Aggravation in Movement 3. Injury to carteleges,bones, miniscus, and tendons....The following additional medicines therefore should be supplemented

1. Rhus Tox 1M single dose in two weeks. Start treatment with this medicines and no other medicines on that day.
2. Bryonia 30C three times a day for three days with Pulsatilla 30C three times a day for three days....Both can be taken together.
3. Ruta G 6C with Calcarea phos 6X/ tjree times a day as long as required.

The regimen should be as follows

1. Rhus Tox 1M single dose. no other medicines on that day...report.

2. Causticum 30C three times a day for three days.
Report.
3. Bryonia Pulsatilla combination for next three days.
4. Phosphorus 30C three times a day for one week repeat after few days gap. for another week.
5. Ruta G and Calcarea Phos 6X can be used after causticum every day as long as required.
6. Ledum Pal 30C three times a day may be used if no improvement is seen after Sl. No.3. treatment.

Report after each medicines so that according improvements noticed medicines can be discontinued. best wishes.

put a pillow between the two knees while sleeping so that pain is not felt while sleeping.

Hi Doctors,

I get stiff neck and shoulders every now and then. It happens mostly during winter times. I am a male of 37 years working as a software engineer. Is there any muscles relaxant medicine in homeopathy?

Please help and advice at the earliest. Thanks in advance

| Re:Stiff neck and shoulders every now and then | By: udaya kumar-- | February 2 2018 |

use Rhus Tox 200C single dose once a week. In case you have a cervical spondylosis background use cocculus indicus 30C three times a day with Calcarea Fluor 6X three times a day......For muscle tone use Phosphorus 30C and for pains arising out of metabolic defects which ultimately end up in frozen shoulder use Phytolacca Dec. 3X three times a day for longer periods. Since this is happening mostly in winter, you are of vata constitution and otherwise an active person and sportsman like...your blood pressure may be on the lower side....Rhus tox will be corrective. Otherwise Bryonia 30C is the best medicine for stiffneck to be used three times a day for one day on sos basis.......best wishes.

Hello Dr. Udaya Kumar,

I have procured the medicines as directed by you.
Please let me know how many days I should take cocculus indicus 30C and Calcarea Fluor 6X thrice a day.

And yes, I have cervical spondylosis background, but my blood pressure is not low but is high and for this purpose I take allopathic medicine Amlovas-M(2.5/25) once in the morning per day.

So as per your suggestion should I take Bryonia or Rhustox ?

| Re:Stiff neck and shoulders every now and then | By: udaya kumar-- | February 6 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Use Rhus Tox 1M single dose once only followed by cocculus indicus 30C and Calcarea Fluor 6X three times a day for three days. Please report after 4 days.

| Re:Stiff neck and shoulders every now and then | By: ImtiyazMumbai, India | February 14 2018 |

Hi Dr. Udaya,

I have taken RhusTox 1M single dose and followed by cocculus indicus 30C and Calcarea Fluor 6X three times a day for three days and now reporting after 5 days.

I see around 50% improvement in my condition related to the stiffness in neck and shoulder but the stiffness is still there.

Further to this condition I have developed another condition of my eyes strain due to which i get headaches in afternoon. My vision becomes blurred many times and i had to refocus on things. I work closely on computer screen so it might have caused eye strain.

Please let me know about further treatment.

| Re:Stiff neck and shoulders every now and then | By: udaya kumar-- | February 14 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Rhus tox should help with eye strain cocculus and calcarea fluor has to be repeated for longer periods....use Jaborandi 30C single dose for blurring of eyes....you need to use appropriate glasses until the cause is found and removed.......if it is Amaurosis the following are some of the medicines of value :
Aconitum Napellus (due to anxiety fear nervousness)
Aurum Muriaticum
Belladonna
Benzinum Nitricum
Capsicum
Carduus Benedictus
Causticum (this goes well with rhus tox and cocculus and is for stiffness of neck also particularly left side).

Cover the area three times daily with your fresh urine. Also look at using Nat Sulph 6x, Silica 12x and Nat Bicarb 12x tissue salts. A heated castor oil pack once a day may also be of much use.

| 6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: ImtiyazMumbai, India | February 9 2018 |

Hello Dr.

My 6 year old daughter is suffering from cough since a few days. Actually she had an eye stye 1 week back so i had given her HEPAR SULPH 30C since 4 days 3 times daily. But now she has developed cough which is very severe in the morning. There is no phlegm as such but it seems that she has phlegm inside and she complaints of THROAT PAIN WHILE COUGHING. She also complains of watery nose sometimes.

Hepar sulph 30 and some allopathic ointment has improved her eye stye but it is still there.

NOTE: My daughter always get the sough every now and then for which i take her to doctor then she prescribes antibiotics and anti allergic medicines.

Is there a good immunity booster in homeopathy ?

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: udaya kumar-- | February 9 2018 |
|---|---|---|

The immune boosters in homeopathy are Thuja, Natrum Mur, Arnica, Rhus Tox, Calcarea Carb,to begin with.

use Pulsatilla 30C three times a day for one day only for the condition she is in including styes.....

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: ImtiyazMumbai, India | February 9 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Thank you dr. Udaya. I will start with Pulsatilla 30C and report back after 2 days.

By the time please suggest a good immunity booster that can be given on daily basis for my daughter.

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: udaya kumar-- | February 9 2018 |
|---|---|---|

One dose of Rhus Tox 1M every week and Natrum Mur 30C three times a day for three days and then weekly three doses for one day....

|---|---|---|

Hi Dr.

I have given the suggested medicine to my daughter and here is what i observed. On the very first day when i gave her the medicine her cough in the morning was less and during the day very less. But from the next day onward I didnt find any further improvement.

Her eye stye is still there and there is no improvement in that too. Earlier when i gave her Hepar Sulph 30 , it was slowly coming down.

Please advice.

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: udaya kumar-- | February 14 2018 |
|---|---|---|

where is the stye in the upper lid or lower lid or near internal Canthi ? Use Staphisagria 1M single dose a day for three days if Pulsatilla fails. Is there any pus formation? If you want to continue with Hepar, it should work for cough also and therefore it is indicated whereas there will always be pus formation in Hepar.

--

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: 2tuff | February 25 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Udaya another good immune booster is the Carcinosin nosode which also makes for a great multi Miasm approach to core health.

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: udaya kumar-- | February 25 2018 |
|---|---|---|

yes I agree...

--

| Re:6 years old daughter suffering from cough | By: 2tuff | February 25 2018 |

In herbal work then you'd look to Astragalus, Olive Leaf (olea europa), Echinacea, Reishi and Boneset (Euph Perf). The Astragalus is better than Echinacea as its actions last longer and can continue for weeks after ingestion.

Stop all allopathic medicines :
use the following medicines :

1. Caulophyllum Q
2. Ledum Pal Q
3. Beriberis Vulgaris Q.

Use five drops each in one ounce water three times a day for one week. All medicines can be used in the same glass of water.

PS: It is dangerous to use medicines 15 drops directly on tongue at every 2 minutes x 4 times particularly if it is in Q potency and derived from toxic source....The medicines are capable of proving in lower potency in MATERIAL doses......

| Re:Rheumatoid Arthritis | By: shahidr100montecarlo | February 10 2018 |

Thanks Dr.Udaya.
I am not sure whether its a Q potency or not. Nothng is written on the bottle except his code.

Anyway I'll try the above medicines.

Can I continue other homeopathy doctor's medcs alongwith it or should i stop it.

One more thing. 5 months back before starting homeo, RA blood test was done. It showed >200.
Yesterday again i got blood test done. It shows 72.

Ok can i mix the meds 1,2,3 -- 5 drops each in one ounce of water or shd I ask my wife to take it individually?

| Re:Rheumatoid Arthritis | By: udaya kumar-- | February 10 2018 |

you can mix the medicines in same glass of water . For the first three days do not use any other medicines.....if improvements are felt, and sense of well being prevails, continue with it and no other medicines would be required, if not you can restart the other medicines alongwith these three, used separately and away from other medicines.

Hello Udaya Sir,

I've been experiencing burning sort of sensation on the right side in the lower abdominal area. This is just above the pubic region on the right side . This is happening from couple of weeks. Can you please advice. I am 32 yr old male.

Thanks

|---|---|---|

Do you suffer from frequent or urgent urination? Seems a case of Interstitial Cystitis......use Beriberis Vulgaris Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day for one week.....use single dose of Lycopodium 200C once only....repeat one more dose if necessary after one week..... best wishes.

--

Hello Udaya Sir,

There is no urge to urinate frequently nor there is any discomfort while urinating. The burning sensation is somewhat like hot flashes. So I can feel some heat in that area. There is also some burning in the thigh region. Not sure whether it is related to this or not.

Thanks

you may use the medicines suggested.....if there is burning pain in thigh region obviously at the joint of thigh with groin region, there could be a herniation and perhaps a strangulation causing the restricted blood flow and therefore the burning pain....this angle has to be looked into if berberis and lyco fails.....Lyco incidentally helps with to resolve right sided hernia.....

I know with the 'C' potency the usual method to raise a thyroid function is the 5C potency or below. I know to lower thyroid function we use the 30C and above. I know that the 6C potency is used to help regulate and lock in the correct level.

What I'm now wondering is how will the LM potency range work with this Nosode for the same issue.

Dear Udaya Sir,

I am so grateful to you for treating my Fissure/fistula, asthma and stomach as well as back pain in the past. For the last 1 month the back pain (L5s1 and now spreads like sciatica on both sides of thighs) has returned for which I tried rhustox 200, causticum 30 and gnaphalium 30. When I take Rhustox 200 atleast 2 or 3 doses it settles for sometime half day but again comes back. The acupressure point which you have suggested for stiffness (the middle of the curve in the leg) is useful but again comes back after 30 min. Since the pain is like a nerve one please suggest.

Thanks

| Re:Back Pain -disc bulge l5s1 and radiates on both sides | By: Sunny | June 26 2016 |

Also I have switched to a flat wooden bed and using a yoga mat instead of a mattress. Despite that I am unable to sleep beyond 3 am. Before going to bed I try for hot water bag and keep a pillow under the legs. I am also have lumbar lordosis as per X-ray.

I am doing backward bending exercises as well as per your suggestions in the posts.

|---|---|---|

No sir. It could be any time of the day. What I meant was with great difficulty I am able to sleep till 3 or 330 AM.

I want to know whether I should keep continuing with rhustox 200 as Udaya sir always says use but give a break. So if I take 5 to 6 doses and take a break of 1 day and again repeat? Usually Udaya sir says repeat after a week.

Anyways I tried colocynth 200 ( read in one of the posts of Udaya for severe pain) and it has subsided my pain 50%. I need a sustained relief, so what should I take regularly. My lower back was very stiff in the morning and was better after walk.

Thanks

Dear Udaya sir,

So glad to see you back. this is regarding my back pain, which alternates with flatulance. When I have flatulance the pain stops and when my bloating is better back pain starts.

I have tried rhus tox 200,. When I take it helps but returns. But the important point is the moment gas comes in may pain stops and bloating starts.

During your absence I tried many things like causticum, heyericum and ruta all in 30 potency. Then calc phos a well.

Tried physio and exercise. But the pain automatically stops when there is gas.

Thanks

Dear Udaya sir,

I got myself check by a gastro-enterologist for my bloating, gas problem. He says it is post infectious IBS and has suggested anti-parastic antibiotic for 3 days and rufagut which does not go thro the blood stream. He says IBS is different than post- IBS.

I have an alternating problem of back pain -l5s1 and when this subsides bloating starts and gas formation begins. And when this subsides back pain begins. Have tried rhistox 200 weekly and SOS, causticum 30 (if it is left sided) . For Gas, Lyco 30, China 30 and arsenic album when there fullness as if vomiting.

I also did a stool test last week and nothing came out.

In a way I am trying to follow your prescriptions but when things go beyond limits I consult an allopath but I am yet to take any antibiotics.

Please suggest as I am having continuos gas, bloating and large solid stools. When the gas passes feel comfortable but again it comes back. Some people are saying it is SIBO.

You have already almost cured me of Fissure/ Fistula and asthma. I rarely have these problems now.

Pl advice.

Sorry fforgot to mention that I am constantly having a feeling of gas trapped and when it gets released I feel better. Meanwhile another trap happens. I have also tried kutajbilwa and hepatomed for 10 days as a liver and IBS supplement. Still there is no respite.

Thanks

just do the following only you will be ok.
Drink 4 glasses of warm/hot water first thing in the morning FOR ONE WEEK and eat anything only after half to one hour.....on the first day eat only fruits and raw vegetable salads......next day onwards light food with fruits and salads. third day onwards you may continue with fruits and veg with light food or return to regular food strictly without spices. Within a weeks time your back pain as well as stomach problems as well as gas and ibs will disappear. best wishes. use cardus M Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day to strengthen the liver. You can use khus ( https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Chrysopogon_zizanioides ) or any other herbs like katechu ( http://www.toxicologycentre.com/karingali-%E0%B4%95%E0%B4%B0%E0%B4%BF%E0%B4%99%E0%B5%8D%E0%B4%99%E0%B4%BE%E0%B4%B2%E0%B4%BF/) for taste... Drink as much warm/hot water as possible during day time.

One question sir:

I am assuming no tea or coffee should be taken on the first 2 days or the entire week?

Thanks

|---|---|---|
| Re:Back Pain -disc bulge l5s1 and radiates on both sides | By: udaya kumar-- | December 28 2016 |

Coffee and tea should be avoided the entire week..... the mind will become clear within a day or two and you wont feel like taking coffee or tea....you will feel and observe yourself how toxic they are compared to the clean self you are while therapy is on......

| Re:Back Pain -disc bulge l5s1 and radiates on both sides | By: Sunny | December 28 2016 | thanks sir. It's day 1. Only fruits and salad. No tea/coffee.

( till 9 am was ok. after that bloating started)

1. Took 4 glasses of warm water in the morning
2. 1 Apple and salad in the morning
3. 2 glasses warm lemon water during the day
4. 1 guava and some salad for lunch

Flatulance is there. Gastric pain is also there which is getting eased once the gas passes. Also passed 1 stool. For some time there was relief. Stomach is empty. again gas started apple constipates, guava is full of gas....use water melon...papaya, .....banana or other sweet fruits....use cucumber, carrot, beetroot, tomatoes onion, prominently for salad...4 glasses HOT TO WARM water...lemon water ok....

| Re:Back Pain -disc bulge l5s1 and radiates on both sides | By: udaya kumar-- | December 28 2016 |

|---|---|---|

Waiting for half to one hour after drinking the four glasses of water is very significant....the water should reach every part of the body where it is not reaching in the normal routine.....before taking solid food which basically obstruct the passage of water in pure form.....living only on fruits and salads bring youthfulness back to an ageing person......

Day 2 progress : I was alright till 830 am in the morning. After which bloating started and continuing. Had 4 to 5 glasses of warm water and took poha after 1 hour. Curd rice and salad.

Instead of tea or coffee took fresh tomatoe juice.

Should I add any medicine or wait. In the night I will have steamed rice and moong dal.

Sir,

Today I am having belching from 4 PM as well as if there is a nausea feeling. I did 4 KM walk in the evening.

This is the second time nausea type feeling in the last 15 days. Normally my bloating pushes the gas for my relief and never upwards.

Thanks

Thanks sir. I was reading your prescription in this forum for vomiting and on that basis took a dose of arsenic album 30. I felt better after an hour, after which bloating came downwards. I could have my dinner.

I will apply the hing paste but it is late to get 3x now.

How much time I should give to see some difference. The symptoms are the same:
1. Gas stuck
2. Feeling low
3. All my energies focussed on stomach
4. Discomfort/ feeling of mild nagging pain.

Thanks

6c if 30C is used it has to be used to separately and less frequency.

OK Sir. I will try to get 6c. IF it gets delayed then would use 30c say after 30 minutes of taking the other combo.

I will take 30c potency twice a day for 3 to 4 days.

I am in early 30's and i have diagnosed with Otosclerosis 5 years ago. I had problem hearing from right ear but never thought that i have a hearing problem which need a treatment but all of the sudden i started having problems listening people and i went to ENT doctor who diagnosed "Otosclerosis" and said my right ear is worst but now my left ear is also getting impacted. Currently i am wearing hearing aids which helps and other than hearing aids the only other option i have is "stapedectomy" surgery and i am very afraid to take that path as there are chances to lose hearing on that. Is there any Homeopathy medicine for this problem which can help to get better to atleast to stop it getting worst?

Hypericum is needed for you due to the nerve damage caused during surgery....all other medicines are good enough....use Magnesium spray over the back region to alleviate pain of fibromialgia....statin based medicines should stop.....Magnesium regulates the supply of calcium and statin reduces the magnesium presence in blood while magnesium can dissolve calcium and correct its level in blood and its supply to bones and other areas.....including thyroid and in heart.........so statin should stop.... use phosphorus 30C three times a day as specific to muscles and fibromyalgia.....use crataegus oxydentali Q 5 drops in one ounce water three time a day to reduce cholesterol.

I can experience Arnica 200 giving me some relief in fatigue,
But also suspect Arnica is causing Urticaria,
Last 10 days I am getting Urticaria attack at-least once a day, please suggest some remedy to counter Urticaria.

Colocynthis and lycopodium are for right sided sciatic pain....use it if the pain persists.....There are no specific brands you must get it from medicine shops......it will penetrate through the skin if not available lie down in a tube of warm water with magnesium sulphate or Epsom Salt in it....that will remove all the pain......

use Kali Phos 30C three times a day with Sterculia A Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day for chronic fatigue.....use passiflora Q 5 drops in one ounce water three times a day for insomnia...if sleeplessness is due to neuralgic pains use conium mac 30C otherwise Kali Phos will take care of it. Use Bryonia 30C three doses for one day for [pain in back dorsal region.

Good Day Dr Udaya,

please note
1)Taking Kali Phos 30C, regularly, could not get Sterculia A Q5 drops anywhere, have only slight betterment in fatigue.
2) Dorsal Pain better after taking Bryonia
3) Taking Passiflora Q5, but not much difference in sleep, have to take allopathic sleep medication.

Please advise for below problems,
1) Should I continue Kali Phos 30C for fatigue,
2) Cervical Spondylisis pain still persisting (back of head and Neck Pain), neck very stiff difficult to turn side ways.
3) Any other medicine along with Passiflora Q5, for better sleep.

thanks and rgds and Happy Christmas

3)applying Lacto Calamine on skin to relieve itch and burning of urticaria.
4)Taking Crategus Q as suggested.
5)Taking ABANA(Arjuna pill) by Himalaya pharma for cholesterol control- does this interfere with other homeopathy remedies.??

Please suggest how to tackle urticaria, and other pain aspects.
Have to frequently keep out of work due to pain and fatigue.

use Thyroidinum 3X three times a day for one week alongwith Sulphuric Acid 30C three times a day for one day. Report after each medicine.....urticaria should be welcome sign as it is on skin level....if it suppresses it normally takes the shape of asthma or similar ailments. Also use Arnica 30C for CFS (Chronic fatigue syndrome)

Good day Dr Udaya,
Many thanks have got good relief from urticaria and other symptoms.
How ever sorry and apologies, in the distress and hurry I did not mention some sequence of events in between, 4 weeks ago.
In an effort to find a Constitutional medicine my local doctor, with help of Electronic (Radar)repertory found it to be China, I started taking China 30C/3 times a day and within a week my condition deteriorated, I was extremely fatigued, tired and exhausted, with both feet and soles sore and paining excessively.
I started getting a buzzing sound in my left ear, but it resolved after 36Hrs on its own.
*I stopped taking China.
My doctor on his experience basis then found my problems mostly related to Calc Carb.
on doctors suggestion I took Calc Carb 200C, and was feeling better.
*##Then I was advised, 1M Calc carb, this was Eureka for me, I had many symptoms (60%)Ameliorated, and a sense of well being after a long long time. ***
###However in a euphoric state and to become well fast, I took One more 1M Calc dose after 2 days.
*But it was disaster I started getting Buzzing sound in my left ear, its extremely annoying, I lost all the happiness achieved by Calc Carb.
I am now waiting for the ear noise to die down on its own(my doctor suspects 2 successive doses of Calac Carb 1M might have caused the condition, OR China as it was completely unsuitable).
In case Calc Carb is my constitutional remedy, how should I go about taking It.
What are your views, please enlighten me and kindly suggest remedial action for this ear buzzing sound.

You would need Hepar Sulph, Phosphorus and Belladonna as pharyngitis and Laryngitis are common afflictions in cold countries.....Further you would need spongia, Rhus Tox, Arsenic, and Bacillinum 200. You may also carry camphora 30C to antidote ill effects of medicines. Other medicines required are silicea, calcarea carb, cuprum met, mag phos for cramps from cold weather.....Rhus Venenata Q may be carried for local application in chilblains (frost bite) which will give immediate relief. Check symptoms for pain between scapula http://www.homeoint.org/clarke/r/rh_v.htm and if it agrees with your symptoms use it in 30C potency.

Petroleum, Silicea, Nitric Acid, Pulsatilla etc. can help with frost bite.... for cracking knees use Argentum Met, Pulsatilla, Bryonia, Natrum Mur, Arnica, as per symptoms. .
Petroleum 30C and Petroleum jelly will help with dryness from radiator heating. use of a vessel of water over the radiator will control the humidity in the room, if dehumidifiers are not used.

alternatively grow money plant or other oxygen producing plants near the bed room. .

Natrum Mur and Kali Bich are main medicines for sinusitis.
Constipation can be addressed by Alumina, Bryonia, Opium, Nux Vomica
Ledum Pal can be used any number of times in that potency, Use one dose a week if you intend to use it for long term.

Keeping the ears covered by a woollen monkey cap is the thumb rule to reduce chill by 50%. Having palm covered by gloves is additional protection when exposed to blizards. or cutting winds when you are in minus 4 to minus 70 temperatures.

Namaskaram Udayaji, as I Told you I am in a cold clime,with excessive physical activity, going up down 6 floors atleast 3-4 times a day, have to move around hot machinery inhaling hot machine oil vapours (basically hydrocarbon.around 40-45 degC another work hazard is work is more on shopfloor and come to control/rest room for rest which is cold 20DegC.

Life is hectic and demanding,
1) I am getting neck pain in cervical vertibra and rheumatic pains between scapulae. - taking Rhustox200C/Arnica200C/Hypericum200 Sometimes,
2) there is cracking noise in both knees, and pain also when getting up from chair,
3) some cramps in region of lower ribs,
4) Ocacassional cramps in both feet sole,- taking Tartaric Acid 30C gives relief.
5) Quite some Fatigue, we have dinner at 7pm after that at 7.30 i get drowsy and delerious, I get couple of bouts of extremely mini .sleep very light in nature, also weakness of lowback spine and extra general fatigue observed.(what rubric is this).
6)Take Calcarea Fluoricum 30C - suspect gives constipation/and enhances tinitus,
7) Take Calc Phos 6x this also enhances tinnitus.
8)Taking Symphytum200 once weekly.
9)Ache in Low Back where I have had fusion, sometimes great debility.
10) Arms muscles are loose, feel some emaciation on upper chest and arms - taking phosphorous 30 regularly.
11)some loss of animal heat of upper spine between scapulae - Ledumpal 200 provides that heat.

I do not know whats wrong have very low energy and endurance levels.
have to here atleast one more month.

Request to send me a regimen Itemwise.

I am carrying few common medicines. lets see my luck, or will try to procure from indis,
7) Take Calc Fluor

Please tell your views over my condition and advice proper regimen to be followed for a month..

thanks and best rgds

| Viral Infection Recovery | By: izhome | January 31 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Udaya,

My son is recovering from a viral infection. I took him to the Dr. yesterday and he tested negative for the flu and negative for strep throat. It started last week with a runny nose, then caughing, fever, body aches, sore throat, no appetite, tiredness.
I have given the following:
Friday: 1 x Rhus Tox 1m pellets in evening
Saturday: 3 x Gelsemium C200 wet dose
Sunday: 3 x Gelsemium C200 wet dose
2 x Belladonna C30 pellets and Phosphorus C30 pellets
Monday: 1 x Belladonna C30 pellets and Phosphorus C30 pellets
2 x Gelsemium C200 wet dose
Tuesday: 2 x Gelsemium C200 wet dose
1 x Bryonia C6 pellets at bed time for persistent dry caugh, did not help
1 x Belladonna C30 pellets at bed time for the persistent dry caugh, it helped Wednesday: 1 x Bryonia C30 pellets for head ache, did not help

I also gave him children's Tylenol and children's Advil for fever and bodyaches on Sat and Sun. And one dose of Advil today but it did not help his head ache. I gave him Robitussin twice for the caugh but it did not work.

He has been fever free for 1.5 days, but still experiences congestion in his head and chest, some productive caughing, some dry caughing sometimes the dry caugh is hard to stop. He still has no appetite and has a head ache.

Please advise what to give to clear the head and chest, and for the head ache and appetite.

Many thanks!

|---|---|---|

Use single dose of Ipec 30C and Merc Sol 30C.....repeat Ipec at 6 hourly interval. Use Arsenic Album 30C single dose and it will improve appetite.

--

| Re:Viral Infection Recovery | By: izhome | February 5 2018 |
|---|---|---|

Thank you Udaya. On Thursday I gave a single dose of Ars Alb 30C in the morning. Midday, I gave Ipec C30 and Merc Sol C30. In the evening just Ipec C30.
On Friday I gave two doses of Ipec C30. Same on Saturday and Sunday.

The appetite is better, headaches are gone during the day at least. He did wake up the last 3 nights at 10pm and said his head hurt. But I am not sure if he uses that as an excuse for not wanting to tell he has nightmares.

There is still periodic coughing, mostly productive, but by far not as much as before. Head/Nose is still draining too.

Should I keep going with the Ipec C30? Or is something else in order now?

Thank you again!

| Re:Viral Infection Recovery | By: udaya kumar-- | February 5 2018 |

You may stop Merc sol. Ipec and Arsenic album may coninue maximum three doses each at longer intervals. Use single dose of Belladonna if headache persiss.

Thank you Udaya. He has completely recovered from the viral infection.

However, during his recovery phase he started having nightmares. About every other night, sometimes 2 nights in a row. And they haven't stopped. He does not want to talk about them but did say he hears a gruffly voice.

Is there a remedy that can help him so that he won't have these nightmares?

| Re:Viral Infection Recovery | By: udaya kumar-- | February 21 2018 | did you use arsenic album if not use it single dose in 1M potency two granules once only.

Respected Udaya,
I am taking homeopathic sulphur 30c and cicculus indicus 200c for sone conditions. First off can they be taken together? Also, is it OK to take them while breastfeeding 2 months old baby?

| Re:homeopathic remedies while breast feeding | By: udaya kumar-- | February 13 2018 |

yes they can be used one after the other. It will not effect breast feeding 2 months baby...In case there is any skin eruption in the baby it will subside on its own.....Do not use sulphur continuously. only repeat sulphur as per requirement.

three to five grandules can constitute a dose. Bryonia will take care of the increased weight in one leg if not use lycopodium 200C single dose once if it is right leg and causticum30C single dose if it is left leg.

| How to make ACETANILIDUM | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | October 1 2006 |

Almost same as Tylenol, Paracetamol, acetaminophen, Panadol

Acetanilide has analgesic and fever-reducing properties; it is in the same class of drugs as acetaminophen (paracetamol). Under the name acetanilid it formerly figured in the formula of a number of patent medicines and over the counter drugs. In 1948, Julius Axelrod and Bernard Brodie discovered that acetanilide is much more toxic in these applications than other drugs, causing methemoglobinemia and ultimately doing damage to the liver and kidneys. As such, acetanilide has largely been replaced by less toxic drugs, in particular acetaminophen, which is a metabolite of acetanilide and whose use Axelrod and Brodie suggested in the same study.

How to make Acetanilidum

Dissolve any of the: Almost same as Tylenol, Paracetamol, acetaminophen, Panadol in 1000 parts of water, shake it very well or rather bang the bottle. It is now 3x potency.

| Re:ACETICUM ACIDUM | By: healthwikerLocation | December 7 2012 |

The blood uric acid test measures the amount of uric acid in a blood sample. Uric acid is produced from the natural breakdown of your body's cells and from the foods you eat.

Most of the uric acid is filtered out by the kidneys and passes out of the body in urine. A small amount passes out of the body in stool. But if too much uric acid is being produced or if the kidneys are not able to remove it from the blood normally, the level of uric acid in the blood increases.
More information can be found: http://www.md-health.com/Uric-Acid-In-Blood.html

Aconite
(Hopeful alternate despair)

1. Delusion that he has incurable disease
2. Fears imaginary things
3. Hopeful alternate despair

4. Wants assurance.
5. Cannot stand music.

If a patient comes back after getting his medicine (Like Colombo always does) Prescribe him Aconite. All other diagnoses are ignored.

If patient says or means:
“I am taking this medicine continuously, why am I not getting cured. Do you hope I will be cured”.

Opium I am continuously taking this medicine for long time, Why am I not getting cured.
Aconite I am continuously taking this medicine for long time, are you sure I will be cured Aconite fears that he will get sicker. Or he is having cancer or some thing bigger. But he is hopeful and wants assurance. He thinks some thing is going bad in his body.

Sulphur Gets nervous with music (palpitations) + Soon regrets after getting angry
Crocus Sativa Cheerful from music + immediately regrets after getting angry Natrum Mur. Music makes him/her better + late repentance after getting angry
Ignatia Weeps from music + late repentance after getting angry Aconite Cannot stand music, everything frightens him.

| ACONITUM NAPELLUS Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 23 2006 |

Aconitum napellus

Aconite is a remedy for healthy and energetic persons who become acutely ill after exposure to intense coldness exposure to cold, dry wind sometimes exposure to intense heat draughts of cold air on a sweaty skin nervous shocks, fright or fear the shock of birth (in babies).

The moment of intense fright, that led to complaints with fear and heat, can be in someone's personal past; the moment itself can even be forgotten, like the shock of birth.

What determines the choice for Aconitum is the mental state of the person: there is enormous fear, nervous excitement and anxiety of mind. The person can be too scared to go outdoors. There is great fear of death or incurable disease. Aconitums are so afraid to die when they are ill that they even predict the time of their death (but they are not always right about that). They are restless both mentally and physically. They act in great haste, cannot stand music, everything frightens them. They often change position, especially at night or during fever they are tossing and turning.

Aconitum is a remedy for intense symptoms: acute congestion of the head with redness and heat, fever, grave fear and panic, convulsions, acute inflammations and infections, palpitations. Bleedings are bright red. During fever the skin is dry and hot; the face is red, or alternately pale and red.

Pains are unendurable and drive the patient crazy and restless. The pupils of the eyes are very small and narrowed. Children desire to be carried around. There is great thirst for large quantities of cold water.

Aconitum complaints get worse in the evening and at night, in a warm room, when rising from bed and when lying on the affected side. These people feel better in the open air.

Aconitum is often the right remedy for the acute complaints of persons who's constitution usually asks for homeopathic Sulphur.

1. Age/Sex/Country/Climate:
72. female. UK ... Cold/mild/hot/windy very variable!!

2. Current complain - from how long:
Arthritis, worse after sitting. (I have taken Bryonia for that reason) I am definitely better from using the Arg Met and Arnica ( I take 6 pot) every night, and every morning

3. Current medicine you are taking:
ARG MET and ARNIC, as per your advice to others. Also take Co-proxamol, but not so frequently these days as I used to do.

4. Sign & Symptom of disease:

5. Breif medical history:
Very bad cough and catarrh cold as a child. Used to suffer with swollen glands in throat, after getting over tired etc. This problem went after the age of about 13.
3 Children, the 1st at age 21, 2nd at age 25 and 3rd at age 29.
Generally fit and well otherwise, but because I was given a Constitutional remedy, back in 1996, and I had an increase and pain in the bones at the base of my thumbs, near to wrist area, the constitutional remedy caused extreme pain in my arms, down back, and a badly swollen knee. (The knee swelling went down after 3 months)
Obviously the constitutional remedy was trying to bring out the arthritic problems, but it couldn't eradicate them, and caused me to have arthritic pain, which stayed with me ever since. I saw my GP and was given Co-proxamol, back in 1996, and still prescribed it today (I have no wish to take Cortisone) But I no longer take so much Co-proxamol as I used to.

The Arg Met and Arnica are helping alot. I am thinking of trying the Act Spic, as that might help with any back pain I have, which comes from the Scolliosis in my spine. That was never a problem to me until the last couple of years or so, and is more of a problem since having my hip replacement operation.
I slipped down on a wet field, when on a walk in early 2008, and I think that might have caused the arthritic inflammation in my hip, as it was not a problem until after that. I had the operation late 2010.

6. Family Back Ground:

7. Education and Nature of Profession of Patient:
Professional secretary/ transcriber.

8. Desires and aversion of food:
Find it difficult to give up sweet foods. Eat lots of salads, fruit, fish and chicken.

9. Mind-behavior, anger, irritability, hurry..etc.:

I am a calm person, compassionate, fair minded. Will work as long as I have energy ... I would be the person who would complete the job as long as I am able to lift a finger!! My constitutional remedy is Arsen Alb. I love my home to be tidy and in order. I am quite fastidious re my appearance. Had always walked quickly, prior to arthritis, and so that's a great nuisance to me.

10. What makes it worse and what makes it better:
Sitting still is better. Rising from a chair can be painful, but I'm okay when I start walking. I love gardening, and do quite alot of it, even though I might be in some pain, I carry on and it does me good, I think. I am aware that there is also arthritis in my other hip, and at some point I may have to have an operation on this one too.

11. Thirst/Tongue/diabetic...:
I drink a fair amount of still water. I drink tea, but not coffee. Occasionally like a glass of wine - used to drink more alcohol years ago.

ADRENALINUM
An Internal Secretion of Suprarenal Glands (ADRENALIN)

Adrenaline or Epinephrine, the active principle of the medulla of the suprarenal gland, (cortical secretion not as yet isolated), is employed as a chemical messenger in the regulation of the activities of the body; in fact, its presence is essential to the activity of the sympathetic nerve. Adrenaline action on any part is the same as stimulation of the sympathetic nerve endings thereto. Local application (1: 1,000 solution) to mucous membranes promptly induces transient ischemia, seen in a blanching, persisting several hours from conjunctival instillation. Its action is very prompt, efficient, evanescent, owing to rapid oxidation and therefore practically harmless, unless too frequently repeated, when atheroma and heart lesions--myocardial--in animals have been reported. Arteries, heart, supra-renal bodies and vaso-motor system are prominently affected. The main action of Adrenaline is stimulation of the sympathetic endings, notably the splanchnic area, causing constriction of the peripheral arterioles, with resulting rise in blood pressure. This is especially observed in stomach, intestines; less in uterus, skin; nil in brain and lungs. Furthermore, is noticed, slowing of pulse, (medullary vagus stimulation), and strengthening of heart beat (increased myocardial contractility), resembling Digitalis; increased glandular activity, glycosuria; depression of respiratory center; contraction of muscular tissue of eye, uterus, vagina; relaxation of muscular tissue of stomach, intestines, bladder.

Uses.--Its chief therapeutic use depends on its vaso-constriction action; therefore a most powerful and prompt astringent and hæmostatic; and invaluable in checking capillary hæmorrhages, from all parts, where local or direct application is feasible: nose, ear, mouth, throat, larynx, stomach, rectum, uterus, bladder. Hæmorrhagic condition not due to defective coagulation of the blood. Complete bloodlessness, ischemia, may be induced with impunity. Locally, solutions (1: 10,000-1: 1,000) sprayed or applied on cotton have been very efficient in bloodless operations about the eye, nose, throat, and larynx.

Congestions of the ethmoid and sphenoid sinuses, also hay fever, have been markedly alleviated by warm spray of Adrenaline chloride, 1: 5,000. Here compare, Hepar 1x, which will start up secretions and so facilitate drainage. Werlhoff's disease, hypodermically, 1: 1,000. Externally, it has been used in neuritis, neuralgia, reflex pains, gout, rheumatism, as an ointment, 1-2 m of (1: 1,000) solution, along the nerve trunk at point of skin nearest its origin which could be reached (H. G. Carlton).

Therapeutically, Adrenaline has been suggested in acute congestion of lungs, Asthma, Grave's and Addison's diseases, arterio-sclerosis, chronic aortitis, angina pectoris, hæmophilia chlorosis, hay fever, serum rashes, acute urticaria, etc. Dr. P.

Jousset reports success in treating, homeopathically, cases of angina and of aortitis, sub-acute and chronic, when Adrenaline has been prescribed per os and in infinitesimal dose. The symptom guiding to this is, Sensation of thoracic constriction with anguish. This, with vertigo, nausea and vomiting have been produced by the drug. Abdominal pain. Shock or heart failure during anæsthesia, as it causes very prompt rise of blood pressure by its action on nerve endings in the vessel wall.

Dose.--Hypodermically, 1-5 m (1: 1,000 solution, as chloride) diluted in water. Internally, 5-30m of 1: 1,000 solution.

Caution.--On account of its affinity for oxygen, the drug easily decomposes in watery and dilute acid solutions. The solution must be protected from air and light. It must not be too frequently repeated, owing to cardiac and arterial lesions. For homeopathic use 2x to 6x attenuation.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

|---|---|---|

Aesculus hippocastanum

The substances aescine (from the seeds) and aesculine (from the bark) of the Aesculus treat disturbances in the blood circulation.

The horse chestnut is a good remedy for persons who tend to haemorrhoids (piles) and varicous veins with a purple color. The veins are full and swollen. There is a feeling of burning, fulness and itching in the rectum. At the same time the stool is hard and dry, what results in burning pain in the anus for hours after defaecation. In general the venous bloodcirculation is far too low and other body processes are slowed down too.

The person has the feeling that the veins are overfilled. This sensation of fullness can also be felt in the heart, lungs, stomach, brains, pelvis or skin. The palpitations can be heard and they can be felt in the extremeties. Characteristic is the dull pain in the sacrum and the hips when walking! Especially during pregnancy or in case of uterus prolaps. This remedy image knows much backpain with a feeling of heaviness, weakness or lameness and fatigue in the back. Other signs of stagnation of the blood are a dull and constant pain in the back of the head, and enlarged veins in the eye with a sharp, shooting pain.

To feel better these people need to speed up their blood circulation. Therefore it is understandable that they feel better by calm movements, cool air and being outdoors. For the same reason they feel worse after sleep, lying down and by standing.

The person is often sad, desperate, gloomy and irritable. Mental concentration is difficult; there is dullness and confusion in the head, and they are often dizzy.

A hangover headache: http://www.md-health.com/Hangover-Headache.html is a throbbing, pounding misery. A character in Kingsley Amis's "Lucky Jim" described the feeling this way: "A dusty thudding in his head made the scene before him beat like a pulse. His mouth had been used as a latrine by some small creature of the night and then as its mausoleum." Indeed, a hangover is aptly named.

Aethusa cynapium

This is fool's parsley, a plant you'd better not consume. The Latin name is derived from the Arab word 'ai' what means burning, since the plant causes burning pains.

The homoeopathic Aethusa mainly cures complaints with the nervous system and the digestion. Aethusa symptoms are violent and intense. Think of this remedy in cases of cholera infantum and difficult dentition: severe vomiting and diarrhoa in children, the defaecation is yellowish-green and slimy and the child is very weak and exhausted after throwing up. The child experiences severe burning pains, high fever with raving and excitement, and sleepiness and confusion afterwards. The child is frightened, restless and easily crying. It absolutely cannot tolerate milk, which will be thrown up immediately. Other food will be thrown up within an hour in undigested white or cheesy yellowish substances.

This symptom image often occurs during hot summer weather or the heat of the night. It fits children and grown-ups who constantly eat or drink; at a certain moment their digestion simply stops working. Another background is indigestion due to problems with the brains. In that case the symptoms are a hot head, perspiration, vomiting, exhaustion, sleepiness, possibly together with epileptic spasms, eyes turned upwards, clenched thumbs, prostration, foam at the mouth and dilated pupils.

Grown-ups who need this remedy are persons with strong and intense emotions, but they don't easily show them. They work through their emotions during sleep; this causes sleepwalking and a very deep sleep. Aethusa characters fear that they will not wake up from this deep sleep. (Aethusa can also be helpful in case of fear of not waking up after an operation). These people feel a great love for animals. In contact with humans they can be very irritated.

They like cheese and pastas, salt food. They dislike fruits.

Aethusa's are afraid of darkness. They feel worse by heat, milk, 3-4 o'oclock at night, after eating or drinking. They feel better in open air.

AGARICUS MUSCARIUS
Toad Stool-Bug Agaric
(AGARICUS MUSCARIUS-AMANITA)

This fungus contains several toxic compounds, the best known of which is Muscarin. The symptoms of poisoning do not develop at once, usually twelve to fourteen hours elapse before the initial attack. There is no antidote, treatment, entirely symptomatic (Schneider). Agaricus acts as an intoxicant to the brain, producing more vertigo and delirium than alcohol, followed by profound sopor with lowered reflexes.

Jerking, twitching, trembling, and itching are strong indications. Incipient phthisis; is related to the tubercular diathesis, anæmia, chorea, twitching ceases during sleep. Various forms of neuralgia and spasmodic affections, and neurotic skin troubles are pictured in the symptomatology of this remedy. It corresponds to various forms of cerebral excitement rather than congestion. Thus, in delirium of fevers, alcoholism, etc. General paralysis. Sensation as if pierced by needles of ice. Sensitive to pressure and cold air. Violent bearing-down pains. Symptoms appear diagonally as right arm and left leg. Pains are accompanied by sensation of cold, numbness and tingling.

Mind.--Sings, talks, but does not answer. Loquacity. Aversion to work. Indifference. Fearlessness. Delirium characterized by singing, shouting, and muttering; rhymes and prophesies. Begins with paroxysm of yawning.

The provings bring out four phases of cerebral excitement.

1. Slight stimulation-shown by increased cheerfulness, courage, loquacity, exalted fancy.

2. More decided intoxication-great mental excitement and incoherent talking, immoderate gaity alternates with melancholy. Perception of relative size of objects is lost, takes long steps and jumps over small objects as if they were trunks of trees-a small hole appears as a frightful chasm, a spoonful of water an immense lake. Physical strength is increased, can lift heavy loads. With it much twitching.

3. Third stage produces a condition of furious or raging delirium, screaming, raving, wants to injure himself, etc.

4. Fourth stage-mental depression, languor, indifference, confusion, disinclination to work, etc. We do not get the active cerebral congestion of Belladonna, but a general nervous excitement such as is found in delirium tremens, delirium of fevers, etc.

Head.--Vertigo from sunlight, and on walking. Head in constant motion. Falling backward, as if a weight in occiput. Lateral headache, as if from a nail (Coff; Ignat). Dull headache from prolonged desk-work. Icy coldness, like icy needles, or splinters. Neuralgia with icy cold head. Desire to cover head warmly (Silica). Headache with nose-bleed or thick mucous discharge.

Eyes.--Reading difficult, as type seems to move, to swim. Vibrating specters. Double vision (Gels), dim and flickering. Asthenopia from prolonged strain, spasm of accommodation. Twitching of lids and eyeballs (Codein). Margins of lids red; itch and burn and agglutinate. Inner angles very red.

Ears.--Burn and itch, as if frozen. Twitching of muscles about the ear and noises.

Nose.--Nervous nasal disturbances. Itching internally and externally. Spasmodic sneezing after coughing; sensitiveness; watery non-inflammatory discharge. Inner angles very red. Fetid, dark, bloody discharge. Nosebleed in old people. Sensation of soreness in nose and mouth.

Face.--Facial muscles feel stiff; twitch; face itches and burns. Lancinating, tearing pain in cheeks, as of splinters. Neuralgia, as if cold needles ran through nerves or sharp ice touched them.

Mouth.--Burning and smarting on lips. Herpes on lips. Twitching. Taste sweet. Aphthæ on roof of mouth. Splinter like pains in tongue. Thirsty all the time. Tremulous tongue (Lach). Tongue white.

Throat.--Stitches along eustachian tube to ear. Feels contracted. Small solid balls of phlegm thrown up. Dryness of pharynx, swallowing difficult. Scratching in throat; cannot sing a note.

Stomach.--Empty eructations, tasting of apples. Nervous disturbances, with spasmodic contractions, hiccough. Unnatural hunger. Flatulent distention of stomach and abdomen. Profuse inodorous flatus. Burning in stomach about three hours after a meal, changing into a dull pressure. Gastric disturbance with sharp pains in liver region.

Abdomen.--Stitching pains in liver, spleen (Ceanothus) and abdomen. Stitches under short ribs, left side. Diarrhœa with much fetid flatus. Fetid stools.

Urinary.--Stitches in urethra. Sudden and violent urging to urinate. Frequent urination.

Female.--Menses, increased, earlier. Itching and tearing, pressive pains of genitals and back. Spasmodic dysmenorrhœa. Severe bearing-down pains, especially after menopause. Sexual excitement. Nipples itch, burn. Complaints following parturition and coitus. Leucorrhœa, with much itching.

Respiratory Organs.--Violent attacks of coughing that can be suppressed by effort of will, worse eating, pain in head while cough lasts. Spasmodic cough at night after falling asleep, with expectoration of little balls of mucus. Labored, oppressed breathing. Cough ends in a sneeze.

Heart.--Irregular, tumultuous palpitation, after tobacco. Pulse intermittent and irregular. Cardiac region oppressed, as if thorax were narrowed. Palpitation with redness of face.

Back.--Pain, with sensitiveness of spine to touch; worse in dorsal region. Lumbago; worse in open air. Crick in back. Twitching of cervical muscles.

Extremities.--Stiff all over. Pain over hips. Rheumatism better motion. Weakness in loins. Uncertain gait. Trembling. Itching of toes and feet as if frozen. Cramp in soles of feet. Pain in shin-bone. Neuralgia in locomotor ataxia. Paralysis of lower limbs, with spasmodic condition of arms. Numbness of legs on crossing them. Paralytic pain in left arm followed by palpitation. Tearing painful contractions in the calves.

Skin.--Burning, itching, redness, and swelling, as from frostbites. Pimples, hard, like flea-bites. Miliary eruption, with intolerable itching and burning. Chilblains. Angioneurotic œdema; rosacea. Swollen veins with cold skin. Circumscribed erythematous, papular and pustular and œdematous lesions.

Sleep.--Paroxysms of yawning. Restless from violent itching and burning. On falling asleep, starts, twitches, and awakes often. Vivid dreams. Drowsy in daytime. Yawning, followed by involuntary laughter.

Fever.--Very sensitive to cool air. Violent attacks of heat in evening. Copious sweat. Burning spots.

Modalities.--Worse, open cold air, after eating, after coitus. In cold weather, before a thunder-storm. Worse, pressure on dorsal spine, which causes involuntary laughter. Better, moving about slowly.

Relationship.--Compare: Muscarine, the alkaloid of Agaricus (has much power over secretions, increasing lachrymal, salivary, hepatic, etc, but diminishing renal; probably neurotic in origin, stimulating the terminal fibers of the secretory nerves of all these structures, hence salivation, lachrymation and excessive perspiration. Atropin exactly opposes Muscarine. Resembles Pilocarpin in action). Amanita vernus-spring mushroom-a variety of Agar Phalloides-Death cup-active principle is Phallin, active like Muscarine. Amanita phalloides (Death Cup-Deadly Agaric). The poison is a toxalbumin, resembling the poison in the rattle snake and the poison excreted by the cholera and diphtheria germs. It acts on the red blood corpuscles, dissolving them so that blood escapes into the alimentary canal and the whole system is drained. The amount of this toxic principle is small, even handling of specimens and breathing of spores affects some people unpleasantly. The poison is slow in development. Even 12 to 20 hours after taking it the patient feels all right, but vertigo violent choleraic symptoms with rapid loss of strength with death the second or third day, preceded by stupor and spasms. Fatty degeneration of liver, heart and kidneys, hæmorrhages in lungs, pleura and skin (Dr. J. Schier). Vomiting and purging. Continuous urging to stool, but no gastric, abdominal or rectal pain. Intense thirst for cold water, dry skin. Lethargic but mentally clear. Sharp changes from rapid to slow and from slow to rapid breathing, extreme collapse, suppressed urine, but no cold extremities or cramps. Agaric emet (severe vertigo; all symptoms better, cold water; longing for ice-water; gastritis cold sweat, vomiting sensation as if stomach was suspended on a string). Tamus (chilblains and freckles). Cimicif; Cann ind; Hyos; Tarantula.

Antidote: Absinth; Coffea; Camphor.

Dose.--Third to thirtieth and two hundredth potency. In skin affections and brain exhaustions give the lower attenuations

Good wishes. Milap Singh

Agaricus muscarius

The image of this remedy mostly resembles a delirium tremens or a situation that looks like one.

Agaricus especially fits persons who are mentally slow, confused and foolish. Mentally as well as physically these people are clumsy and awkward. They are very dizzy and feel drugged or intoxicated. The brains don't seem to work and reactions come late. These people sleep very deeply. The face has a foolish or idiotic expression. From time to time they also have their active periods; activity is alternated with stupidity.

Trembling and spasms are a strong symptom in this remedy-image. The trembling and jerking can affect a small part of the body, but it can also cause moving and dancing of the whole body. There is twitching of the muscles in the face. Epilepsy is also possible.

The Agaricus-condition may arise in cases of alcohol intoxication or in persons who become delirious in fever or with pain. The symptoms can also be caused by spinal irritation. Agaricus-characters are dependent and indolent and have a weak will. They do whatever they consider to be the right thing; if that fails their whole world falls into pieces. An Agaricus-child will be late in learning how to walk and talk, and it will have jerks and spasms.

These people are extremely hypochondriac about their own health and the health of loved ones. They show a great fear of cancer and aids as well as a great fixation on death.

They are very chilly persons whose condition aggravates by cold air. They have a sensation of icy cold in their body, as if a thousand ice-cold needles stitch into their skin. On the other hand there can also be a sensation of very hot needles or a burning pain in body-parts. This proves that their nervous system is upset. The spine is very sensitive to touch. Agaricus is a good cure for chilblain of hands or feet, which itch and burn intolerably. The remedy namely relaxes the constantly cramped muscles in the veins.

This plant grows all over in India and considered a waste but in many countries espacially in Mexico it is used as sugar.

Famous liquor tiquilla is made by fermenting the juice of the stem. There it is grown in deserts. Mexican natives used its liquor and when Spanish arrived in Mexico and ran out of their liquor they started making Agave liquor (also called maguey). Liquor is still famous in whole America Continent.

Improve as a homeopathic remedy. As a herb it could prove otherwise.

ARBORIVITAL TINCTURES

These are prepared as follows.

1. The selected plant must be growing in the soil of the planet earth – not a pot--.The reason for this is that only in this way is it in connection with all the energies of the earth, which include gravity.
2. The living plant with its connection to the roots at all times, is bent over so that the flower with buds and stalk are in a small screw top container. This is then lightly bruised between the thumb and finger. Bruised without destroying any part of the plant, this is solely to allow the alcohol easy access to the interior of the plant.
3. A sunny day is necessary as this is part of the energy we are drawing into the remedy. When the plant is thus set up then it is submerged in alcohol/rectified spirit. It is then left for 60 minutes , simply topping up as there is evaporation.
4. At the end of this time put the lid on – you have your tincture.
5.To use it you need a small eye dropper bottle , into which you put a small quantity.

GET ONE DROP ONLY IN THE DROPPER AND PUT IT ON THE TONGUE. THIS IS A DOSE , AND IT SHOULD NOT BE REPEATED FOR 3/4 WEEKS.

ENT clinic in the late 19th cent
Records of Dr R.T.Cooper
Who used arborivital remedies to cure cases of Cancer.

The case is in every way characteristic of the , remedy a tendency to free discharge from mucous membranes, relaxed condition of the system generally and a proness to take cold on exposure to cold winds. Its action certainly reminds us of scilla maratima, next to which is usually described in works on botany both being of the same natural order , the liliaceae.

I have seen however, sufficient of the action of the remedy to convince me that there are strong points of difference between the two, and that in the bluebell of the wood we have a remedy for children which in some points is of extreme importance. Bear in mind the improvement above recorded, resulted from a single dose,the occurrence of a vaginal discharge while under the In influence of the remedy is very interesting , for more than once I I have observed irregularities in this sphere of the organism to be modified by it There was no change of diet or mode of living whatever , and a like remark applies to all the cases unless otherwise stated.

Another case we may mention is that of a girl 5 1/2 years for whom, on the 10th of September 1892, agraphis nutans was prescribed. She had a sore throat a week ago leaving profuse discharge from the left ear with deafness, the child's general condition being feeble. improvement in every way was recorded, child in every way stronger and better, ear discharge much less and deafness apparently gone.

In the case of a girl of 12 where post nasal growths and enlarged tonsils had followed upon diptheria some six years previously, a single dose of agraphis nutans was followed by a lessening of the symptoms, viz,talking in the sleep , mouth open, fulness of the tonsils, twitchings of the nose ,loss of smell, recurring colds in the head, and improvement has continued under the same given at intervals of several weeks.

A governess of 30 admitted the 10th September, 1892, very deaf in both ears for five years. with hissing tinnitus,cause unknown, very nervous and weak, easily tired, constant headache across the forehead and bridge of the nose ,aggravated by high winds [has just returned from a sea voyage which in every way made her ears worse], dry feeling and burning in the throat, monthly period followed by profuse leucorrhea, no pain or backache. Repeat agraphis nutans. Ist October1892, hearing much improved, tinnitus less, head lighter,deafness appears much less and the creaking in her head , as if a bell was ringing is much less.

At the same time the force associated with the material particles of the plant, the original growth force,derived from potentization by means of exposure of the living plant in spirit will represent as nearly as possible, each of them a definite power, which in contrast. with ordinary homeopathic preparations , is in Agraphus Nutans ,vel Hyacinthus Nutans,vel Hyacinthus Non Scriptus, the common bluebell of the woods, natural order Liliacae . Tincture made with rectified spirit and juice of the budding stalk and young leaves March 1892 .

This remedy which was one of the first, that engaged my attention and which has continued to interest me more and more every day, posesses an action that seems in every way definite and distinct .

The plant itself has at all times been a favorite ; one of our earliest spring flowers, it brightens and lends colour all the early year to our shaded woods.The bluebell shades itself in shrubberies and while nestling close to the wood-anemone takes care to be well shaded by the smaller hazel twigs, beneath which it is so often found , from the cold easterly breezes.

Its action as a remedy finds remarkable illustration in the case of a little girl five years of age living at Brixton, who was admitted under me at the L. H Hospital June 11, 1892, with deafness and otorrhea of both cars, dating twelve months back. and a history of three had attacks of bronchitis; one at a year old, one at two years and a third at three. Her eyes and nose discharged profusely and had to be bathed every morning. The little girl has always been subject to cough and for four or five months has been bringing up dark gray mucus. Bowels, are regular appetite poor, and perspires much in bed.

Agraphis Nutans . June 25 1892, altogether better but has a hacking cough with beady phlegm first thing in the morning, discharge much less from both eyes and nose:.August 6th, 1892.- Once during the interval a discharge vaginal in situation and catamenial in appearance, was noticed but did not continue. In every possible way the child has improved ; hearing much better the eye and nose no longer require bathing, and through discharge is still seen it is very much less.

Many times additional alcohol has been freely added from time to time to prevent evaporation. All I aim at in the preperation is to secure and preserve the growth force , and to prepare the tincupre in such a way as to leave as little doubt about its presence. For this reason I advocate the preparation of Arborivital tinctures in the field from the living plant , the preparer carrying with him a container into which the budding stalk and youmg leaves of the plant are placed fresh as they grow , and upon these simply crushed between finger and thumb should be poured rectified spirit. But more than this, In order the efficacy of the tincture and to secure with certainty the power of the growth-force am in the habit of plunging the living stalk while yet connected with theplant into the spirit, and allowing the strongest sunlight that usually plays upon it in its native habitat to fall upon the phial filled with the spirit the stalk being at tile same time immersed in it.

Thus our tinctures are presumably potentised and each potentisation will represent five minutes exposure. When the branches are thus subjected to the spirit and the sunlight for an hour I find that the branch and its leaves have in most cases withered ; at the termination and therefore, of each twelfth potency a fresh branch or stalk are subjected to the same process.

Thus: Plantago lanceolata A will be plantago lanceolata 12th arborivital mother tincture. The12th I have used that thus the remedy has has a more certain curative influence

To say that such preparations are stronger than others as has been claimed for the homeopathic dilutions, would require a definition of the word stronger and I therefore avoid this statement purposely , all I comit myself to is that tinctures thus potentized represent powers different from those prepared ill the ordinary way, and that their curative properties are as far as I can judge from clinical experience , more certain. The arborivital tincture., will, therefore, be potentised directly from plants as they grow,and are hence to coin a word , termed heliosthens and a drop of a high heliosthen say 12 , will mean a drop of as definite material strength as it as it is possible to obtain from a plant by the action of rectified spirit upon it , plus any strength communicated to it by our method of potentising and which of necessity is of purely hypothetical quantity .

Agrimony (Agrimonia eupatoria)
Agrimony - mental torture behind a cheerful face

Optimistic, peace-loving people, cheerful in spite of underlying worries, are those who need Agrimony as a remedy.
These people are difficult to spot for the simple reason that they do not show the extreme mental tension, but seem carefree and happy.

Friendly, fun-loving people who like company because it distracts them from their troubles, but who do not discuss their problems. These are peace-loving persons who dislike quarrels and arguments with or even between others and will go to great lengths to avoid such unpleasantness.

Very restless sleepers - dread bedtime because they find it hard to keep still.

The physical conditions most likely to go with this mind state are skin irritations and joint pains from suppressions.

|---|---|---|

All you need flowers, rain/mineral/river/spring water and a transparent glass pot.

1 Soak the flowers in the glass pot.
2 Place the place the pot in the sunlight for whole day.
3 At evening remove the flowers and water is your remedy.
4 Remedy can be diluted infinite times but make sure to shake the dilution vigorously otherwise it is not a homeopathy grade medicine.

To preserve the remedy you can put some Ethyl-alcohol/whisky/grain-alcohol.

Rock Water is the water from any mountain river or rather homeopathy grade Silicea.
Or soad some granite rocks in water in sunlight for a day, that is your remedy.

ALFALFA
Medicago Sativa, California Clover or Lucerne

From its action on the sympathetic, Alfalfa favorably influences nutrition, evidenced in "toning up" the appetite and digestion resulting in greatly improved mental and physical vigor, with gain in weight. Disorders characterized by malnutrition are mainly within its therapeutic range, for example, neurasthenia, splanchnic blues, nervousness, insomnia, nervous indigestion, etc. Acts as a fat producer, corrects tissue waste. Deficient lactation. Increases quality and quantity of milk in nursing mothers. Its pronounced urinary action suggests it clinically in diabetes insipidus and phosphaturia; and it is claimed to allay vesical irritability of prostatic hypertrophy. The rheumatic diathesis seems especially amenable to its action.

Mind.--It induces mental exhilaration of buoyancy, i.e, a general feeling of well being; clear and bright, so that all blues are dissipated. Dull, drowsy, stupid (Gels); gloomy and irritable, worse during evening.

Head.--Dull, heavy feeling in occiput, in and above the eyes, worse toward evening. Pain in left side of head. Violent headache.

Ears.--Stuffed feeling in eustachian tubes (Kali mur) at night; patulous in morning.

Stomach.--Increased thirst. Appetite impaired, but chiefly increased even to bulimia. He must eat frequently, so that he cannot wait for regular meals; hungry in forenoon (Sul). Much nibbling of food and craving for sweets.

Abdomen.--Flatulence with distention. Shifting, flatulent pain along colon several hours after meals. Frequent, loose, yellow, painful stools, with burning of flatulence. Chronic appendicitis.

Urine.--Kidneys inactive; frequent urging to urinate. Polyuria (Phos ac). Increased elimination of urea, indican and phosphates.

Sleep.--Slept better than usual, especially in early morning; it induces quiet, reposeful and refreshing sleep.

Relationship.--Compare: Avena sat; Dipodium punct; Gels; Hydr; Kali phos; Phos ac; Zinc.

Dose.--The best results are elicited with material doses (5-10) drops of tincture, several times daily. Continue its use until tonic effects ensue.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

Nunni,

I have found the easiest way to put on weight is to have milk in the night with honey for a few days!

And the easiest way to reduce fat around waist is to have a glass of very warm water with honey and with/without Lemon. And ofcourse Mr.Joe's NatPhos therapy.( though we have to strike the correct dosage and potency suitable for one's constitution)

Alfalfa in homeopathic potencies do not have any side effects. It increases the digestive potential and appetite invariably correcting the underlying causes that lead to that state of affairs. It is therefore not directly helping in weight increase in any way. When digestion power is improved and normalised, the system works efficiently and the benefits can be reaped in the form of gaining weight for the under-weights. You may add Gentiana Lut Q alongwith Alfalfa for benefits. Five drops each in one ounce of water three times a day. It usually gives benefits within three days. Use of it more than a week , therefore, would be redundant and unnecessary.

Specifically, alfalfa contains vitamins A, D, E, K, U, C, B1, B2, B6, B12, Niacin, Panthothanic acid, Inocitole, Biotin, and Folic acid. Alfalfa also contains the following minerals: Phosphorus, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium, Chlorine, Sulfur, Magnesium, Copper, Manganese, Iron,zinc,Cobalt, Boron, and Molybdenum and trace elements such as Nickel, Lead, Strontium and Palladium. Alfalfa is also directly consumed by humans in the form of alfalfa sprouts.

it also contains: Alpha-carotene, beta-carotene,chlorophyll, alfalfa saponins, an alkaloid. Stachydrine, a bitter principle. Coumestrol, a hormonal substance.Saponins block absorption of cholesterol and prevent the formation of atherosclerotic plaques.( More research is required to confirm this a on a large group of humans)

Here is how to make Allium Cepa at home:

One drop juice of Red onion mix it with 1 liter mineral/river/spring/bottled/canal/rain water (in a 2 liter bottle).

Clean empty Soda water bottle would be fine.

Shake/bang the bottle vigorously.

This gives you 3C Allium Cepa. To make 6C drain out the bottle and without washing it add another 1 liter water. Just one drop hanging inside would be the base for next stage.

-Amended-

Okay, I think I am missing something here, so let me review.

To arrive at a Homoeopathic potency designated as a 3c, a crude substance is diluted 1/00, three times, and given 20 strong sucussions between each stage. The end result is a 1/1 000 000 dilution of the original substance which has been sucussed 60 times.

Now, considering 5ml=app. 100 drops, can you explain to me exactly how one drop of the crude substance placed in 1 litre of water, which more than anything else is only ONE stage of dilution, and approx. 20, 000 drops therefore giving a dilution rate of 1:20 000, even comes close to being a 3c?

Also, a 6c is 1 drop of the crude substance which has been through 6 stages of 1:100 serial dilution and is therefore 1:1000 000 000 000, yet the method described above to reach this potency, has simply used two stages, and the end result is a dilution rate of 1:400 000 000.

This is most definitely not how Homoeopathic remedies are prepared, and what concerns me most about the above is you are using a dilution rate closer to the LM scale than the Centesimal (although thankfully not sucussing as much, or using the same very precise preparation process), and this produces remedies of very great strength. Very worrying indeed.

| Re:ALLIUM CEPA (Red Onion) | By: garcotBangalore | March 3 2010 |

Worrying is our biggest enemy. It is better, we oberve our breath ( breathing pattern ) during such an emotional distubance, to know what is worry all about and whether it is worth the effort to belittle ourselves.

Thousands of people are getting immensely benefitted by a simple technique, which Girilal has outlined here. One can always modify the process of dilution, potentisation etc., to suit once own needs to cure themselves of many maladies which are food related.

We don't need exact potency of either 3c/ 6c /12c/24c etc to cure ourselves and there is nothing dangerous /worrying about the process described here.

I'm sorry, but where are you getting this information girilal? The above method does not give you either a 3c or 6c potency.

| Re: ALLIUM SATIVUM (Garlic) | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | February 23 2007 |

Dear JacobScott

My intention was to give a home-remedy. Mother tincture is usually considered as saturated solution. Even if we take out the juice of garlic, it is not the base tincture to calculate potency but about 1x or probably 2x.

Well you are also correct that the resultand solution would be in 3x or 6x potency. My mistake.

My 8 yr old daughter has astigmatism in both her eyes. The reading numbers in both eyes is +4.00 and distant number is -2.00. Her Amblyopia got diminished in November 2008. Is there any remedy in homeopathy to cure Astigmatism? Please let me know

| Re:ALLIUM SATIVUM (Garlic) | By: udaya kumar-- | April 28 2009 |
|---|---|---|

There are three remedies mentioned in homeopathy for astigmatism:

They are :
Gelsemium,
Lilium Tig(Myopic astigmatism) and Physostigma
Amblyopia is also covered by these three medicines, though there are over fifty medicines for amblyopia.

Please click on to this link http://www.homeoint.org/books/boericmm/and click the respective alphabets G,L and P for gelsemium, Lil.Tig & Physo. and check the whole symptoms. It would be adviseable to consult a good homeodoctor and administer medicines under his constant monitoring. Glesemium is an excellent medicine for memory and eye of children. Physostigma is also an excellent remedy for eyes but its spinal symptoms are prominent and since the nerves to the eyes and ears have its origin from spine, the weaknes of the spine naturally effects the eyes and in particular the accomodation. This mostly is evident when a patient vomits in travelling buses and in such cases a few doses of cocculus indicus will also be very helpful. with best wishes.

Allium Sativum is specific for cholesterol. But it depends on individual symptoms. The homeopathic principle of like cure like should apply inorder to see benefits. Raw garlic therefore stands a fairer chance to beat homeo medicine in this respect. That is my opinion. With best wishes.

Raw garlic 1 pearl a day does reduce the triglyceride levels considerbly, taken over 3 months. Years ago, mine was brought down from 425 to 220. These days it is 96 which is considered by medical community as ideal, though my experience suggests that it is individualistic. I still prefer it to be around 140 range for my constitution to feel stable.

So monitor and maintain a range with which one feels comfortable.

And does taking garlic this way hinder or affect homeopathic medicine intake since many Homeopathic Practitioners advise not to eat raw onions/garlic ?

To get the max effect, it is to be chewed. Yes, ideally, we need to have a space of about 2 hours between it and homeo medicines. However, I have seen in me and many others, homeo medicines work even otherwise. My logic is simple. We consume water, juices and other salty food after/before about 30 minutes of homeo medicines. What about Homeopathic Natrum

Mur ( say 30c or 200c) which when taken with the same procedure. Is it not the un-potentised salt suppose to be much stronger and anti-dote the potentised one? or for that matter sulphur or pulsatilla or Lyco? They are contain sulphur in homeopathic quantities!

Calcarea Carb and Milk? or any other food that contains calcium? ( which food doesn't contain calcium?

No.... The homeopathic medicines definitely work very differently.

Infact, there was a famous homeopath ( Dr.Koppikar) in India, who when patients complained they cannot avoid coffee, told them to put the homeo pills in coffee and take. It worked !

Has been used successfully in the treatment of consumption by giving the pure juice.

Head.--Headache alternates with lumbago, with intestinal and uterine affections. Disinclination to mental labor. Aches above forehead, with heaviness in eyes, must partially close them. Headache after stool. Dull, pressive pain; worse from heat.

Weak feeling, as if diarrhœa would come on. Great accumulation of flatus, pressing downwards, causing distress in lower bowels. Sensation of plug between symphysis pubis and os coccygis, with urging to stool. Colic before and during stool. Burning, copious flatus.

Rectum.--Constant bearing down in rectum; bleeding, sore, and hot; relieved by cold water. Feeling of weakness and loss of power of sphincter ani. Sense of insecurity in rectum, when passing flatus. Uncertain whether gas or stool will come. Stool passes without effort, almost unnoticed. Lumpy, watery stool. Jelly-like stools, with soreness in rectum after stool. A lot of mucus, with pain in rectum after stool. Hæmorrhoids protrude like grapes; very sore and tender; better cold water application. Burning in anus and rectum. JAPANESE ALOE VERA

|---|---|---|
| ALOE VERA | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 30 2006 |

Aloe vera's sticky leaves are mostly silicea and silicates.

Any time I visit Peru I drink Aloe Vera tea, I love to make it at home but it is a hastle. It is also available in Columbia and Equador but not often. In Peru it is found all over, street peddlers sell twenty kinds of herbal tea.

How to make Aloe Vera tea:

With a very thin knife, peel off aloe vera and crush gel with something and put it in hot water, you can also put some sugar.

I have experimented with jade plant, it is even more potent than Aloe vera but it is not tasteless so some people may not like it.

Alumina

Alumina reminds me a story. We had a sump pump to discharge excess water from the foundations of our home. Soil around out home was mostly clay. That pump was almost always busy pumping the water out of the basement.

One day I thought of utilizing that water so I installed pipes to irrigate the backyard plant. On one very hot day I took a bath from that water and same evening I noticed my skin was completely dry in hot humid weather when it was suppose to moist.

BECAUSE that water contained Alumina or Clay.

That’s what Alumina is used: for dry.
Dry intestines, dry skin, dry eczema. Everything dry.

From that day anytime I used Alumina I potentised my sump pump’s water. Few days ago my friend asked me for a medicine. His left nose was stuffy and blocked. He said it stays dry, no mucus or waterier feeling at all. Alumina was one of the medicine indicated and since I had it so I just added a spoonful of water from my sump-pump to a 200 ml spring water bottle.

Miraculously that patient recovered. He lives in Wisconsin and even visited India to get a cure for his ever blocked nose and consulted several homeopaths too.

How to make Alumina at home:

Dissolve some clay in water (1 part of clay in 100 parts of water) in a clear plastic bottle.
Empty and clean soda bottle would do.

Shake/bang the bottle several times.

Drain out most of the liquid but keep some drops and fill ¾ of bottle again with clean mineral or spring or rain or river water. Don’t fill it to the top otherwise it would be hard to shake the water vigorously. In Homeopathy magic happens by shaking as well as diluting. If you omit one step it is not potentized. Potentized means dilution plus agitation.

So Alumina is ready. Take just two drops of it and watch the effect.

ALUMINA (Fears Accidents)

1. Fears accidents. Fatal accidents (Only alumina)
2. Delusion and dreams of accidents (Only alumina)

Anytime kids of Ms Mary went out she got very depressed, she was found crying. She was always thinks about them; they may get involved in some fatal accident. Any phone call scared her that it is from police or hospital, informing her about the accident with her children.

Here there is no more need to write anything about Alumina. Above two rubrics are enough to solve many cases with just single dose.

| ALUMINA Personality/Constituion | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 23 2006 |

Alumina (Aluminum)

Aluminum is a very light and easy transformable metal, associated with the planet Neptune and the sign Pisces. In astrology Neptune has to do with fading away, dissolving, excarnation, anonymity. This excarnation can work out in a positive way (mysticism, visions, psychic abilities, spirituality, dreams, ecstasy, inspiration) but it can also bring about confusion, intoxication, poisoning, decadence, delusion, addiction, degeneration, deformation and decay: the material world looses its solidity and stability. Pisces 'rules' the feet.

Keeping the above in mind we can understand that the image of the homoeopatic Alumina is about slowly moving away from the daily reality and from the reliability of the mind and body. These people are no longer on firm ground.

The most striking characteristic is the enormous slowness of mind. Alumina's think very slowly, they need a lot of time to come to a decision and to actually perform things. They can only do one thing at a time. Working under pressure blocks them.

Although they know that they are slow, they still have the feeling that time passes too slowly, an hour seems half a day.

Their nervous system is affected. Physically it leads to great weakness that will first be noticed in the legs (numbness of the feet, unstable walking, and problems with the coordination and later on paralysis of the legs). Mentally it results in irresolution and the inability to give words to their thoughts. They feel confused and there is vagueness of the mind. " What was real to them, now seems unreal. When he says something he has the feeling that someone else says this, when he sees something it is like someone else sees it, it is the sense of dissolving into somebody else and only than being able to see." So Alumina suffers from a great loss of identity. Apparently their soul leaves their body; it is as if they live in two worlds. These people have a very bad memory; they forget words and names, even their own name. Still they try very hard to memorize things.

Alumina-people have great difficulty keeping hold on their own lives. This results in irritation, somberness, grief and desperation about their ailments and possible recovery. They fear they are becoming insane. Alumina's can be suicidal, especially at sight of a knife or blood.

Another important characteristic in this image is the great dryness, resulting from a bad circulation and partly paralyzed nerves: a dry and itching skin, dry mucous membranes, the tongue seems to be glued to the palate, little urination and serious constipation.

This remedy is of importance in diseases like Alzheimer, Multiple Sclerosis, Parkinson, numbness and paralysis, after a stroke. Alumina's feel better in the evening and outdoors, and they feel worse in the morning, in a warm room and by eating potatoes and salt. They feel a preference for dry food and indigestible things, like chalk and charcoal.

Dread of people and wants to be alone.

Feels insulted.

This remedy suits people who carry the burdon of some insult in the past.

Sad dispair, loathing of life.

I solved some cases where people were sad, dread of people. There was always a feeling of insulted.

Example: A man was demoted on his job and he never told this fact to his family but got sick and depressed. A dose of Ambra Grisea fixed him for good.

| Re: Ambra Grisea | By: harryFRANCE | September 6 2006 |

Once I saw a smelly white substance on the sea-shore in Nome Alaska. It was just morbid smelly. I asked a native about what is this. Ambergris is a fatty substance from the intestine of a whale. Personally I am very curious what brought someone to the idea of testing this stuff for its healing properties. One thing is for sure: this person did a good job.

Ambra is the solution for the shy or nervous and sensitive person who's mind goes completely blank when others are around. In company or public appearance they are unable to perform even simple things. Their mind is filled with nothingness, confusion and embarrassment. In company they blush and tremble and cannot think anymore. Somehow the mind becomes 'locked up'. Conversation even makes it worse, thoughts disappear in the middle of a sentence, making oneself clear is impossible.

Another sign of the embarrassment Ambra experiences is the impossibility of having stool when others are near.

Why do these things happen? Persons who need this remedy are nervous and easily excited. Their nervous system is out of balance because of longtime overwork in combination with sleeplessness. Being 'worn out' severe exhaustion together with great sensitivity to outward impressions mental shock (great disappointments, bad luck in business, or deaths) general weakness in old persons weakness and sleeplessness in anemic persons feelings of failure or embarrassment.

An expression of Ambra's weakness is a feeling of numbness in several body parts, or numbness of the complete body in the morning. Ambra can be a good remedy for old people: The hearing or eye sight is diminished without organic disfunctioning. The circulation is weak. Bleedings easily appear. The body can feel cold, but there can also be pulsations all over the body. Other symptoms are trembling, unstable walking, dizzyness, jumping from one subject to another without waiting for an answer, thoughts disappear.

These people feel worse through music, the presence of others, anything else than regular things. They feel better by slow movements in the open air.

Actually girilal is more correct in his few words that Ambra suites to people who carry the burdon of insult.

Girilal,

Do you have any idea, how to prepare jiuce out of it?

Can it be given to young children? I have seen young children developing severe cold after eating Amla. What is the truth? Is Amla cleansing the body of the child?

What is the right dose for young children?

Thanks

I have never thought of making Amla juice and I believe it should not be used because it makes it a concentrate. Eating a small piece of amla would be fine and I love its taste. Later on when you drink water you feel sweet.

Cut some pcs of Amla, boil them in some water.
After straining...add the liquid to tomato soup and take the soup.

That way you don't have to worry about its bitter taste.

Have done it many times.
Amla is wonderful for those who have eye problems.
Also ....is a skin cleanse.

I am taking juice of Amla daily on an empty stomach... We just cut the Amla or gooseberry and throw away the pit. The rest is ground in the mixie with some water. I grind about 250 gms and keep it in the fridge. Enough for 10 days or so. The taste is acquired only..

Jayashree,

How long you have been taking Amla juice? Just Curious. For people, who catch cold after eating Amla, a potentised dose helps. I have seen it happening with me and my daughter. The preparation is similar to all the home homeo remedies Girilal prepares.

Though, I haven't noted all other symptoms, I can confidently tell that it removes a cold in a day

Amla contains many more magical ingradients other than Vitamin C.

I will update on the entire list of contents soon.

Gum ammoniac is the sap of the plant Dorema Ammoniacum. Like gesso, it is period (1100-1600). Many binders can be used to hold gold to paper or parchment. Gum ammoniac is very different from them because it remains active for its life (900 years and counting).

But it is very smelly.

Synonym— Synthetic Benzoic Acid.

Physiological Action—A solution taken into the stomach produces warmth and slight irritation. It is nontoxic, is decomposed in the presence of hippuric acid. It is of considerable, power as an antiseptic and germicide.

This acid acts, directly in neutralizing alkalinity throughout the system, upon the urea in the processes of conversion of that substance into hippuric acid, robbing it of its nitrogen. There is thus a reduction of the amount of urea where this acid is administered in large quantity. If there is a lessened quantity of uric acid it is because of the appropriation of nitrogen by the benzoic acid, and not because of any solvent properties the agent has upon the uric acid.

Therapy—Its direct action is exercised upon the urinary apparatus. It is specifically indicated in conditions where the urine is alkaline, inducing frequency of urination with more or less irritation and pain in nocturnal enuresis.

It is a good remedy in excessive excretion of the phosphates exhibited by phosphatic sediment—insoluble phosphates in the urine—a deposit of phosphatic gravel. Its influence is chemical and does not persist after the withdrawal of the agent. Incontinence of urine depending upon the irritation caused by the presence of this gravel is cured by it.

Incontinence in cases where the urine is excessively alkaline, from whatever cause, is quickly cured by it, as it is one of our best agents for the neutralization of excessive alkalinity of the urine. It has been used by the writer for nearly twenty-five years in the treatment of cystitis where there was ammoniacal urine. Its influence is prompt and satisfactory, rapidly promoting the processes of healing.

It is useful in gonorrhea where the urine is alkaline, and in general urethral irritation from the presence of an excess of alkaline constituents. It is readily dissolved by the addition of sodium borate, decomposing the acid, but not interfering with, but rather enhancing the beneficial results of its action. It requires three parts of the borate of sodium to effectually dissolve two parts of the acid in thirty parts of water.

For a lot of women, giving birth to twins is a dream come true. Imagine one first day of kindergarten, one high school graduation, and one prom. That's not even to mention the close and special bond that twin children share with one another. See here: http://www.md-health.com/How-To-Conceive-Twins.html Women who have a family history of twins are more likely to have twins, but how does one conceive twins when it is not in her genes to do so? While there is not a medically proven way to conceive twins, there are a number of pregnancy myths which are believed to increase a woman's chance of being able to get pregnant with two babies.

You’re most fertile when an egg is released from your ovaries (ovulation). However, for the best chance of getting pregnant, have sex every two to three days throughout the month.
http://www.md-health.com/When-Is-A-Woman-Most-Fertile.html
Although you’re most fertile during the days around ovulation, if you’re trying to conceive, you don’t need to time having unprotected sex to match when you’re ovulating.
Trying to plan sex around the time you’re ovulating can be stressful. If you’re stressed you’re less likely to have sex as often, which can affect your chances of getting pregnant.

It is a prolific climber, reaching heights of 20 to 30 m in the wild. It climbs smooth surfaces using small forked tendrils tipped with small strongly adhesive pads 5 mm in size. The leaves are palmately compound, composed of five leaflets (rarely three leaflets, http://goo.gl/2kmZ6 particularly on younger vines) joined from a central point on the leafstalk, and range from 3 to 20 cm (rarely 30 cm) across. The leaflets have a toothed margin. The species is often confused with Parthenocissus vitacea, which has the same leaves, but does not have the adhesive pads at the end of its tendrils.

| Anacardium Orientale Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 23 2006 |

Anacardium orientale

Anacardium is made of the Marking Nut, a tree that produces ink, and people who need this remedy somehow want to leave their mark. They are led by a strong need to constantly prove themselves out of a great lack of self-confidence.

They have lost their self-confidence in a personal history of abuse; they have often been beaten, despised, humiliated or sexually abused by people who taught them that they were absolutely worthless. The typical reaction of an Anacardium-personality is "I will show them all!" They demand a lot of themselves and will never give up proving that they do have their value and their qualities.

Anacardiums feel a lot of anger inside, based on a sense of inferiority and dissatisfaction. The combination of a heavy inner aggression together with a great lack of self-confidence lead to cruel and aggressive behaviour only when they feel safe. These are the people who only dare to attack when they are in company of some 'soul mates', or who only hit when nobody notices it, or when their victim has no possibility to defend himself. Expressing their cruel and sadist side provides them a sense of superiority and pleasure, in fact it is some sort of revenge on what has occurred to them. This can also be the dictator, lacking radiance and self-confidence, but forcing people to obey him by harshness. Anacardiums feel an irresistible desire to curse and swear. Yet on a consultation they often act sweet and soft, expressing grief.

Anacardium-characters have an inner duality; they feel they have a dark, evil side and a lighter side fighting it. It is the sense of an angel on one shoulder and a devil on the other one, as if he has two wills, antagonism with himself. I think this can be explained as follows: they are no bad people (the light side, the angel), but their great pain has conjured up such an amount of anger and aggression that it has taken shape of an inner person (the dark side, the devil). Often these people hear voices, commanding them to do things or to hurt themselves! In a later stadium they can become schizophrenic.

These people feel a strong irresolution and a sudden loss of memory; everything seems to be as in a dream. If you are in a situation of suppression it does not matter what decision you take, they are all wrong anyway, so for Anacardiums it somehow makes sense to be irresolute. Another reason for their irresolution is their inner duality; they don't know whether they should choose for their good or their evil part. They have two trains of thought, and the delusion of being double. Their memory is weak or very confused; their paralyzed thinking is a result of great fear. Please note that Anacardium is a great remedy for the blackouts during an examination, occurring when you have studied real hard yet kept the idea of "not knowing it".

A very special symptom is this: in glass they see the reflection of everybody except for themselves! (I have literally heard a woman say this).

They have complaints on the left side of the body or starting in the left body. Many feelings of constriction, as if there is a band around a part of the body, or as if there is a plug in inner parts. Problems with the knees. Bulimia and anorexia nervosa.

Anacardiums feel worse by mental exertion and anger, and many symptoms disappear while eating.

Anacardium Orientale

Mind: This remedy is full of strange notions and ideas.

The mind appears to be feeble; almost, if not complete imbecility; seems as if in a dream; everything is strange; slow to comprehend. Marked irritability; disturbed by everything; cursing.

Weak memory. Forgetful of things in his mind but a moment ago. All his senses seem to vanish and he gropes around as if in a dream.

Change of states; after states. Dullness and sluggishness of the mind prevail. He is in a continuous controversy with himself. Irresolution marks his character. He cannot settle between doing this and that, he hesitates and often does nothing. He cannot decide, especially in an action of good or evil.

He hears voices commanding him to do this or that, and seems to be between a good and an evil will. He is persuaded by his evil will to do acts of violence and injustice, but is withheld and restrained by a good will. So there is a controversy between two wills, between two impulses. When this is really analyzed by one who knows something of the nature of man it will be seen that the man is disturbed in his external will, but the internal will cannot be affected by medicine.

His external voluntary is continuously excited by external influences, but his real will, in which is his conscience, restrains that and keeps him from carrying the impulses into effect. This can only be observed when its action is on a really good man.

He has a controversy when his external will is aroused, but in an evil man there is no restraint and be will not have this symptom.

Hallucinations: a demon sits on one shoulder and an angel on the other.

He is disposed to malice and has an irresistible desire to curse and swear. Laughs when he should be serious. So it is carried on until all things in the external will are inverted. Internal anxiety, i. e., the internal will is in a turmoil. over this external disturbance.

"Contradiction between will and reason" is an attempt to express what the individual knew nothing about.

"Feels as though he had two wills."

That is better. It finally destroys or paralyzes the external will, and when a man is naturally evil and is under the paralyzing influence of Anacardium he will do acts of violence.

A wicked man is restrained, not by his conscience, but by fear of the law. Anacardium paralyzes the external will arid places him in a position of imbecility, and he does acts of violence from his own natural perverted self It has so acted on a portion of the mind that it teaches a great deal.

I have learned much from Anac., Aurum and Argentum of the strange action of medicines on the human mind.

Psychology must be figured out by the action of drugs on the human mind. By this means we get at facts and can lay aside many hypotheses.

Ideas as if nothing were real, all seems to be a dream. Fixed ideas. He thinks he is double. This comes from a vague consciousness that there is a difference between the external and internal will, a consciousness that one will is the body and another is the mind.

Dwells on thoughts about salvation. That a stranger is by his side, is another recognition of the two wills. That strange forms accompany him, one to his right side and one to his left. This mental state drives him to madness.

Alternation of his moods and understanding. One moment he sees a thing and another moment he does not understand it. One moment she sees it is her child and another that it is not. One moment it is a delusion and next moment it is an illusion.

One moment thinks it is so and next moment has enough reason left that it is not so .

Delusion is an advanced stage of illusion.

In the Repertory we have the same remedies often in illusion and delusion, it is a matter of grade.

When the intellect is slightly affected it is an illusion, and what he sees he knows is not so.

He sees demons, and at first he knows from his intelligence that a demon is not there, but later, he wants you to drive him out.

It does not matter which, they are similar symptoms, and it is a matter of degree, and so, in the Repertory, delusions and illusions are not given separate places.

Anac., Hyos., Stram, and Bell., are important in bringing out the quality of the perverted human mind as to the intelligence and affections.

Whenever a medicine makes a man desire to do something it affects his will, and when it affects his intelligence it is acting on his understanding. Medicines act on both.

Low-spirited, disheartened, fears be is pursued, looks for thieves, expects enemies, fears everything and everybody.

Full of internal anxiety. No peace. He is separated from the whole world, and he despairs to do that which is required of him. Cowardly in the extreme.

Fears some dreadful thing will happen. Morose, sulky, sullen.

Unsocial; complains of weak memory. Slight causes make him excessively angry. A strong feature is that all moral feeling is taken out of him. He feels cruel. Can do bodily injury without feeling.

Cruel, malicious, wicked.

Bad effects of mental excitement. Weak-minded. Consequences of fright and mortification. Suitable in religious mania when the conflict between the external and internal will is kept up. It is analogous to Hyos.

Many complaints are ameliorated by eating.

Sensation here and there of pressure, described as if a plug, all through the body, in the head, eyes, in the navel and down the spine.

Objects appear too far off. Things have a strange look, sometimes uncanny. Illusions of smell, burning timber, pigeon's dung.

Chronic dry coryza.

The whole body has been well covered by symptoms; but it seems that the mind represents the principal aspect, and A will seldom be used excepting for such mind symptoms.

Usually when the mental symptoms are strong the physical are also covered by the remedy.

Full of trembling and paralytic weakness. Tetanus; epilepsy.

Sensations as of a hoop or band around the body, limbs or head; pressing as of a plug.

Skin: The eruptions are like Rhus in many respects; erysipelatous eruptions dark, dusky and of malignant types.

It is an antidote to Rhus poisoning.

Eruptions all over. Yellow vesicles are common. Intense itching of eruptions. Warts on the palms like Natrum mur. Skin burns much. It seems closely related in its symptoms to all the Rhus family.

Hello,
Can anyone tell me the correct dose and potency of anacardium and for how many days.

I am a 20 yr old male engg student and has developed memory problems especially in studies. Inspite of studying so hard I am not able to remember during exam. I am experiencing it from about one year. Very recently I noticed a complete blackout situation where I forgot everything that I've studied. I am facing concentration problems also.

Reading the mental state of anacardium is like I am reading about myself. Some points that match are-Sudden loss of memory,Lack of confidence in himself and others, When walking, is anxious, as if some one were pursuing him; suspects everything around him, Hypochondriac, Strange temper, laughs at serious matters and is serious over laughable things, They have lost their self-confidence in a personal history of abuse; The typical reaction of an Anacardium-personality is "I will show them all!" They demand a lot of themselves and will never give up proving that they do have their value and their qualities, Anacardiums feel a lot of anger inside, based on a sense of inferiority and dissatisfaction. The combination of a heavy inner aggression together with a great lack of self-confidence lead to cruel and aggressive behaviour only when they feel safe, Anacardiums feel an irresistible desire to curse and swear. Yet on a consultation they often act sweet and soft, expressing grief,

Please note that Anacardium is a great remedy for the blackouts during an examination, occurring when you have studied real hard yet kept the idea of "not knowing it", Many feelings of constriction, as if there is a band around a part of the body.

One more thing that I want add is that I am also suspecting ill-effect of masturbation over years behind this but not sure about it.

Please advice as there are currently exams going on these days. I am taking kali phos 6x biochemic pellets since 3 days but have not noticed any effect.

Due Date - Movie Review

In the end,Due Dateis really nothing more than aPlanes, Trains and Automobilesrip-off that ultimately fails to impress. While Robert Downey, Jr. and Zack Galifianakis turn in some solid performances, the script just isn't there to let this stand on par with Todd Phillips' previous outingsThe HangoverandOld School. Granted there are undoubtedly some funny moments inDue Date, the rest of the movie just seems to drag on and leaves you rather wanting in comparison to last year'sThe Hangover.

With previous hits likeOld SchoolandThe Hangover, Todd Phillips is quickly making a name for himself in the comedy world. However, withDue Dateit appears the director has taken a step back. This movie will most likely end up going the route ofSchool for Scoundrels: providing a few laughs, but ultimately being forgotten.

Downey plays soon-to-be-father Peter Highman. Highman is a high-strung man with anger-management issues who is on a quest to get back to his wife before the birth of their first-born child. However, due to a run-in with a stranger, Ethan Tremblay (Galifianakis), Downey is landed on the no-fly list and must find an alternate way home. In a race again time, Highman is forced to catch a ride with Tremblay which leads to all kinds of mayhem and mishaps that risk Highman ever getting home safe...let alone on time.

The premise of the movie, coupled with the starring duo and the director, seems like grounds for a very funny movie. Todd Phillips' experience in the genre should lend well to the pairing of Downey and Galifianakis. However, at most times, this odd-couple comedy duo is usually just more odd than comedy. I won't put this on Downey and Galifianakis though. These two turn in solid performances and try their best to carry the film. Unfortunately though, their work is in vain as the material just isn't there despite their greatest efforts. There are definitely some funny moments (even laugh-out-loud moments), but those are more few and far between than the movie's idea really promises. This is not at all helped by insensible points in the plot.

Downey's character puts himself through hell in an effort to get back to his pregnant wife. So, evidently he appears to be a dedicated and promising father. Yet, halfway through the film we're supposed to overlook and keep that image of his character as he sucker punches some little kid in the gut. This was funny, albeit, and something the little brat deserved. However, it's not something you'd expect so much from a man that is ultimately setting out on an adventure to grow up and become the responsible father that he apparently wants to be so badly. That aside, there are several other places that just don't make sense in the movie and seem contrived. Now maybe I'm not up on the law, but evidently carrying a pipe with traces of weed still in it through post-9/11 airport security doesn't warrant being grounded. How you get through security like that (with only a slap on the wrist and the pipe being confiscated), is beyond me. Moreover, you can get away with that, but talking on a phone and berating the man behind you for saying "bomb" and "terrorist" on the plane is a sure-fire way to get you on that no-fly list. This type of misstep in the plot sums up the movie well for me I think. Where opportunities are presented, Phillips stumbles and seems to bypass them only to march on to other nonsensical routes.

| Re:ANANTHERUM MURICATUM | By: garcotBangalore | March 5 2010 |

Dear Baskaran,

Yes, it is the same. It is called Poppy seeds and it is the one that contains Opium. But to extract Opium from these seeds we need to go through a rigorous process.

Poppy seeds are found in poppy heads. They are recommended in many prescriptions for tonics. Poppy seeds consist of moisture, protein, fat, fiber and substantial amount of carbohydrates. Its mineral contents are calcium and phosphorus.

The sap of the plant contains oxalic acid and opium which has 25 alkaloids, the chief being codeine, morphine, thelaine, narcotine, narceine and papaverin.

Some of the medicinal properties:

Poppy seeds on the stalks, which have not been slit to produce opium have soporific properties and are used for relieving pain. They can be used beneficially in gripping pains after childbirth, colic and pain in the testicles.

Opium is beneficial in rheumatism, tumors of different kinds, cancers, carbuncles, abscesses, ulcers, leprosy, syphilis or scrofula – that is, tuberculosis of the lymph node in which pain banishes sleep, especially at night. The commencing dose is 6 centigrams of the extract. If it is insufficient, up to 18 centigrams may be advised to those who are unaccustomed to opium. Beyond this, it is unsafe to go without any professional advice. This may be combined with 12 or 18 centigrams of camphor. Opium is very effective in spasms of bowels, relieving of pain and irritation of the bladder caused by stone.

- Poppy seeds ground to paste with lime juice are effective when rubbed on the areas affected by dry itch.

- Opium is beneficial as a liniment for soothing both muscular and neuralgic pains. The liniment can be prepared by mixing 90 centigrams of opium in 15 grams of coconut oil. It even soothes painful piles. In painful teeth cavities, a centigram of opium is put into the hollow of the tooth, but the saliva should not be swallowed.

Precautions

Opium can cause great harm if used without proper precautions or in case where the person is intolerant to its action or gets upset even with a smallest dose. In such cases, the drug should be avoided.

Infants and young children have poor tolerance to opium and they should be administered only under medical advice. It should be avoided during pregnancy and in kidney diseases.

Ref: http://www.home-remedies-guide.com/herbs/poppy-seeds.htm

I don't use it often, as a kheer made of it, if consumed beyond 1/2 a cup, puts me to sleep! Using poppy seeds in india is legal and though poppy seeds contain opium, it is not the same as using opium which is illegal and banned all over the world.

Hello raanee,

Welcome to the forum. Obiviously there is a confusion.
Yes, it is funny because of multi-lingual society that we live in India! ( Khus-khus and khas-khas as one takes us to heaven and the other one keeps us grounded). Raanee,in tamilnadu, poppy seeds are indeed called as khasa-khasa and I am basically from South.

Vetiveria (tamil) zizanioides (or, as it's more popularly known, khus-khus) is an Asian grass that's native to the tropics, where it has enjoyed a reputation as both an erotic perfume and an ingredient in island cooking. Also known as vetiver grass, its roots yield an oil that is prized for its ability to fix other aromas, so they linger on the skin. In India, khus-khus has long been an ingredient in perfumes, and dampened khus-khus mats were used as fans to simultaneously move and scent the air.

Although it's generally benign, khus-khus has been the focus of some political problems because, in India and many Arab countries, the grass is sometimes known as khas-khas -- a term also used for the ripe seeds of the opium poppy (Papaver somniferum) -- and having those on your person can lead to legal problems beyond belief.

The plant's generic name refers to "vettiver," an old native Tamil word, while "zizanioides" harks back to the genus Zizania (from "zizanion," an old Greek name for a weed found growing in grain).

I remember during my childhood days, we used to just pluck this grass roots from the ground, just wash with the well-water and eat them. Yes, I remember, it is sweet with a peculiar fragrance.

ANANTHERUM MURICATUM - Vetiveria zizanioides L / Cus-Cus / Cuscus Grass / Khus-khus grass / Kuskus / Vetiver / Vetiveria

Thanks for pointing the difference.

Vetiver essential oil has an earthy aroma, some say similar to that of Patchouli with a touch of Lemon. It is a thick amber liquid with a scent that, also like Patchouli, improves with age. The essential oil is distilled from the roots of a tall densely tufted perennial grass. An important base-note perfume constituent, the oil provides a rich and tenacious characteristic that serves as a fixative for Oriental blends.

Vetiver is an ancient remedy within Ayurveda - the root and its essential oil are used to alleviate thirst, heatstroke, fevers and headache. The essential oil is applied as part of a liniment to relive inflammatory disorders of the joints and skin, and may be used for rheumatoid arthritis and eczema.

In terms of Oriental medicine, Vetiver essential oil is cool and moist in energy. It clears heat, nourishes, calms and uplifts. From a vitalistic viewpoint, the roots of any plant are innately nourishing, strengthening and grounding. Belonging to a family that feeds the world, the roots of Vetiver are especially so - a fact reflected in the very richness of the essential oil.

Vetiver essential oil is used for emotional grounding and stabilizing the emotions. It is considered relaxing to an overheated, hyperactive mind an nurturing to an insecure self-identity. The oil may then be suited to the type of individual who constantly strives for perfection, but who loses touch with the ability to absorb and replenish, not letting things just be.

Vetiver essential oil is said to provide stimulation to the endocrine glands (in cases of estrogen and progesterone insufficiency associated with premenstrual syndrome as well as menopause) and circulatory system, and may generally support a weakened immune system. Vetiver Oil has been noted to have an effect on lowering rapid heart rate and breathing, helping return the cardiorespiratory system to a calmer state.

Other well known traditional uses for Vetiver oil include application for arthritis symptoms due to its anti-inflammatory properties. Vetiver oil may also be useful acne, anxiety and depression.

Ramacham (Vettiver) (khus grass)

Ramacha vishari (literally fan made of Vettiver) and sleeping mats made of Ramacham and thailam or perfume extracted from its roots are a range of products used in Kerala since ancient times during the hot summer. Even though their purposes are 'better' served today by the modern electrical amenities, they still are luxurious ethnic items seen in Kerala homes.

Botanically Ramacham is Vettiveria zezanoides. The grass and its roots are used widely for medicinal purposes.

Usually water is sprinkled on the Ramacha vishari so that it gives cool perfumed breeze. Ramacham mats used as blinds would also be sprinkled with water to keep the rooms cool and soothing during the hot summer days.

The poor man's airconditioner, an indigenous device, is made using water, Ramacham roots, and an electric motor. The breeze from this contraption is not only fresh and cool, but also healthy. Bits of the roots of this plant are put in the earthen water pots to make the drinking water sweet. Drinking such water is believed to bring down the high body temperature quickly. It is also a common practice to spread dried Ramacham on the roofs and sprinkle them with water on summer evenings to cool the rooms below.
http://www.naturemagics.com/kerala-shopping/kerala-ramacham.shtm

Khus grass is used in fragrance and in food used in herbal medicinal water for drinking purposes.

Vetiver

Ramacham (Malayalam Name)
Vetiveria zizanioides (Botanical Name)

Used to keep drinking water fresh and cold. Supposed to have many properties like action against cancer cell growth, anxiety, stress, heart problems, thyroid problems etc.

Khus grass is an excellent medicine in Visha Chikithsa ( against deadly poisons). The more fragrant the substance is, more pure the ether content in it, one need to know that fundamentally. The more pure the ether content is, the more medicinal should it value be against what causes death i.e. poisons. It is therefore an excellent detoxifier.

M/s Garcot/Udaya Kumar,
Vettiver is used as a coolant during hot summer days in Tamilnadu.We add this to water stored in mud pots.Vettiver infuses a sweet taste besides giving a jasmine like frangrance to water..We have also noticed the water has the attributes to quench thirst even when taken in small quantity and is also rejuvinating.Along with Vettiver another herb that requires to be mentioned here is "Nannari Ver" which I believe is Sarasaparilla
I would like to know that Khus Khus /Khasa Khasa Vettiver denotes the same

ANHALONIUM LEWINII
Mescal Button
(ANHALONIUM)

Mescal is a strong intoxicating spirit distilled from Pulque fuerte. Pulque is made from the Agave Americana of Mexico, locally known as Maguey and is the national beverage of Mexico. Indians call it Peyote. It weakens the heart, produces insanity. Its most striking effects appear in the auditory nerve for it makes each note upon the piano a center of melody which seems to be surrounded by a halo of color pulsating to the rhythm of the music" (Hom. World).

Causes a form of intoxication accompanied by wonderful visions, remarkably beautiful and varied kaleidoscopic changes, and a sensation of increased physical ability. Also visions of monsters and various gruesome forms. A cardiac tonic and respiratory stimulant. Hysteria and insomnia. A remedy for brainfag, delirium, megrim, hallucinations, with colored brilliant visions. Motor inco-ordination. Extreme muscular depression; increased patellar reflex. Paraplegia.

Mind.--Loss of conception of time. Difficult enunciation. Distrust and resentment. Lazy contentment.

Head.--Aches, with disturbed vision. Fantastic, brilliant, moving colored objects. Affected by beating time. Pupils dilated, vertigo, brain tired. Polychrome spectra. Exaggerated reverberation of ordinary sounds.

Dose.--Tincture.

Relationship.--Compare Agave. The intoxication of Anhalonium is similar to that of Cannabis Indica and Oenanthe.

Anhalonium lewinii
Has great acuteness of the senses and hypersensitivity to touch, and oversensitive hearing, smell, and vision. This was vividly demonstrated to me in a case of a hypersensitive man, presenting with massive fluctuations of energy and tiredness and constant headaches. He was overly sensitive to everything, the wrong seat in a restaurant, images form the television, food, airborne allergens, everything, who said ‘my favorite place would be a glasshouse in the middle of the desert’. Anhalonium was very useful. They can experience either great energy or extreme fatigue. And as Rowe reports ‘there is tendency towards, nausea, gas, diarrhea and spluttering stools. The nervous system shows shooting pains and sharp stitching pains through the body. There can be trigeminal neuralgia, headaches or migraines’. Sankaran and Rowe report that they experience the world in a transcendental way with deep spiritual insights. There is a strong tendency towards merging with all of life. Recreational drugs and drug experiences are an attractive option. Mystical and spiritual seekers. ‘There often is a feeling of floating and separation from the physical world; a feeling of having no roots. They may be so focused on their inner life that they neglect the outer. There can be feelings of depersonalization and disorientation. There is a loss of sense of time and space and identity. ‘Who am I really’.

Mezcal and peyote is not the same thing. Maybe you are confuse with mezcaline which is the active agent in peyote.

What are the Symptoms of Gestational Diabetes?
Gestational diabetes is a condition in which a pregnant woman suffers from higher then normal blood glucose levels. Medical science does not know the exact cause of this form of diabetes but many think it is linked to the stress of pregnancy on the woman's body. For the majority of women there are no noticeable symptoms of gestational diabetes and they are unaware that they have this condition until they are tested.
It is believed that the placenta and how it works during a pregnancy is the main cause for gestational diabetes. The placenta is the life support system for the baby in the uterus. During a pregnancy the placenta produces a multitude of different hormones, many of which negatively affect the effectiveness of the mother insulin. This results in high blood glucose levels because the insulin is unable to move the glucose out of the blood and into the cells. The mother may produce up to three times her normal amount of insulin to effectively deal with the effects of the placental hormones. This is known as insulin resistance.

Antimonium Crudum

(Love Sick)
1. Gets angry when his emotions are touched
2. Weeps when his emotions are touched
3. Love sick

Meaning of Love Sick here:

Feeling of a warm personal attachment for someone which has taken over the mind so deeply that it has start5ed affecting him like a disease and is not free from it at any time of the day.
A remedy, when feelings or sensitivities are affected. When words and thoughts touch the mind and provoke strong displeasure and desire for retaliation.

Examples:
He was making repairs to his brother's home for free. But brother told him that he has hired a contractor. He started crying. Complained for years about why did his brother did this. He did not talk to him for long time.

She loves her brother's family and visited there very often. One day his brother died and later on she came to know that her brother's in-laws mistreated the brother.
This thing touched her heart and she exploded with emotions and anger and cried. She stopped her relation with dead brother's wife and kids.

Just one dose of Antimony Crudum cured both cases.

|---|---|---|

Gangotry, a pilgrim town situated at 12000 feet, where holy river Ganges originates from the Himalayas. Paths open for pilgrim from April to mid November then town stays inaccessible, only few hermits stay there with all the provisions to survive the long harsh mountain winder.

I happened to be there at the last days. Last bus was ready to depart; it was already about to snow.

A monk asked me to send him some medicine to cure his warts on both hands. His both hands were just became two bleeding cauliflowers. Now hard warts were also appearing on his foot sole.

His medicine was in my mind: Antimony Crudum (Antimony Tartrum also works, Thuja also works but gives partial relief) I felt helpless because:

Had I had a medicine it might cure the poor selfless monk. He was just a burden on the Asham, before he used to cook and serve.

On the last bus, a lady had black Soorma in her eyes, I asked her, if it is real soorma she said yes it was real, not the one prepared from the soot.

No she didn’t have it. She was with a group they halted at Uttarkashi in the half way and left most of their belonging there to make a day trip to the remotest town of India.

I asked her for a drop of tear of eye wipe, tried to bribe the bus drive to stop the bus for another half hour but he refused the money but promised to stop.

I ran back to the establishment and diluted the tear drop.

Next year I got the news that monk started healing in hours. Till today he is wart free.

Antimony Crudum is freely available in India. People put Antimony Crudum powder in their eyes as cosmotic and better eyesight purpose.

Its use in the eyes is getting obsolete but it is still available in the markets because astrologers tell people to burry the lumps of Antimony Crudum at some deserted place at Saturday, to protect them from the ill effects of the plannet shani (saturn).

Antimony Tartarate is used to induce vomitting but is a bit hard to obtain because its use has become obsolete.

Hi,

I have been recommended to take antimonium crudum 200c once a day on an empty stomach for a month for the following symptoms:

-constant burping, regardless of whether I have eaten or not; it's like a rule to burp several times in the morning and then throughout the day I burp all the time. If I am hungry and the burp does not come out, I can feel the air in my intestines.

-I've lost weight because of depression, and I am taking St John's Wart. It helps to increase me appetite in the sense that it makes me feel very hungry, but even then I do not want always want to eat. I have never been overweight, and right now I am quite thin. I used to be size 6 now I am 4.

-I am also taking vitamins: B, C, and Iron (for minor anemia).

-occasionally I feel like my head is in a fog. It could be that this happens either before I get my period or when the air in my room is humid. I use a humidifier, and it seems that i feel better if the humidity is not high.

From what I've read about Antimonium Crudum, it seems to help patients who are prone to obesity and who have a thick white coating of the tongue. I am neither prone to obesity nor do I have a white coating on the tongue.

Can you please let me know if I should be taking Antim Crud or something else? Thanks.

Apis Mellifica
Honeybee

Skin:
This remedy has so many symptoms on the surface of the body we will study the outer aspect first. All over the body is found a thick rash, sometimes of a rose color.
It is rough and can be felt as a rough rash under the fingers. The patient at this time is greatly distressed by heat and the skin is sensitive to touch with the rash or without it. Nodular swellings here and there come and go.
Then comes an erysipelatous inflammatory condition, in patches, here and there, about the head, with great tumefaction about the face, eyes and eye-lids.
Erysipelas may occur anywhere, but it more commonly belongs to the face and runs to a high degree of inflammatory action, with stinging, burning and oedema. In the extremities we have a marked dropsy, swelling with pitting upon pressure.
A general anasarca may appear. The face is greatly swollen at times, the eyelids look like water bags, the uvula hangs down like a water bag, the abdominal walls are of great thickness and pit upon pressure, and the mucous membranes in any part look as if they would discharge water if they were punctured.

Puffing or oedema, with pitting upon pressure, is a general condition that may be present in any inflammatory state, There is a general amelioration from cold and aggravation from heat.
The skin symptoms and the patient are aggravated from heat.
This prevails also in the mental state, in inflammatory conditions; in cardiac conditions, in dropsy, in sore throat, etc. Sometimes this aggravation amounts to aggravation from warm drinks, warm room, warm clothing, warmth of the fire, etc.,; if it is heat the patient is greatly disturbed.
Brain:
In brain troubles, if you put an Apis patient with congestion of the brain into a warm bath he will go into convulsions, and consequently warm bathing is not always "good for fits."
It is taught in old school text-books so much that the old women and nurses know that a hot bath is good for fits, and before you get there just as like as not you will have a dead baby.
This congestion of the brain, with little twitchings and threatening convulsions, makes them put the baby in a hot bath, and it is in an awful state when you get there. If the baby needs Opium or Apis in congestion of the brain the fits become worse by bathing in hot water.
If the nurse has been doing that kind of business you have learned the remedy as soon as you enter the house, for she will say the child has been worse ever since the warm bath, has become pale as a ghost and she was afraid he was going to die.

There you have convulsions worse from heat, pointing especially to Opium and Apis. That is the way with Apis all through. It is not laid down in the books that Apis is worse in the throat symptoms from warm drinks and wants altogether cold things, and will not take warm things which aggravate, but one of our graduates wrote me that by making use simply of the generals, as he had been instructed, Apis conforming to all the rest of the case, he made a beautiful cure of a case of diphtheria which had the relief from cold, which shows how generals are continued into particulars and how they can be made use of.

The generals continue to build and enlarge our Materia Medica.

Upon the outer surface then we see that Apis is full of dropsy, red rash, eruptions, urticaria, erysipelas, which inflammations extend to the mucous membranes.

The outer part of man is his skin and mucous membrane. When we are dealing with man from centre to circumference, we think of the innermost as the brain and heart and internal organs that are vital, while their coatings and coverings are external.

Apis affects the things that are external; it affects the envelopes, the coverings. You notice how frequently it affects the skin and the tissues near the skin, and it also affects the envelopes or coverings of organs; for example, the pericardium. It establishes serous inflammations with effusion. Apis produces an inflammation of the membranes of the brain. In the serous sac which encloses the heart, pericardium, and also in the peritoneum it produces the same kind of inflammation.

Thus we see that the coverings are especially affected by Apis, viz., the skin and mucous membranes and the coverings of organs; and with these we get dropsy, catarrh and erysipelas.

In all of these inflammatory conditions there is stinging and burning; burning like coals of fire at times, and stinging as if needles or small splinters were sticking in.

Mind:

The mental symptoms of Apis are very striking, and the most striking thing throughout the mental state is the aggravation from heat and from a warm room,

The symptoms themselves are great sadness, constant tearfulness without any cause, weeping night and day; cannot sleep from tantalizing thoughts and worrying about everything.

Depression of spirits with constant weeping. Sadness and melancholy; extreme irritability; borrowing trouble about everything. Foolishly suspicious and jealous. Absolutely joyless. Absolutely indifferent to everything that would make her happy or joyful.

No ability to apply things that would make her happy to herself, they must mean someone else. Foolish, silly, childish behavior in a woman in confinement, in a woman in advanced years; talking foolish twaddle, such as a child would talk, on serious, occasions.

Another aspect of the mental state is the delirium, which comes on in serious forms of brain affections in children. The child gradually goes into a state of unconsciousness.

Lies in a stupor, one side of the body twitching the other side motion less, rolling head from side to side; head drawn -back rigidly; pupils contracted or dilated, eyes very red, face flushed, a stupid state or state of semi-consciousness. Child lying with the eyes partly, closed, as if benumbed.

It is suitable in congestion of the brain, meningitis or cerebro-spinal meningitis with opisthotonos when all the symptoms are aggravated from heat.

Child:

The child puts on a more dreadful state if the room becomes overheated; become extremely death-like or pale if the room becomes overheated.

If the child is able to do so it kicks the covers off. If it is in a position where it can look into a large open grate it will be much aggravated. I have seen Apis children who had to be removed from near an open fire.

They will cry, to get away from the heat that comes upon them from the register or open fire. The heat increases every symptom, and sometimes causes them to break out in a cold sweat all over the body, which does not ameliorate their fever nor the burning heat.

Very often the head is rolling and tossing, the teeth gnashing, and the eyes flashing with threatening convulsions, the child carrying the hand to the head at times, a state of semi-consciousness, and the child screams out with that peculiar scream which is known to mean congestion of the brain - cri encéphalique - the brain cry.

The shriek is a very strong Apis feature. The child cries out with this shriek in sleep when going into brain troubles. It says in the text:

"Sopor interrupted by piercing shrieks."

We must be able to see in the general beginning of provings the disease which they resemble, for we do not always see the remedy in the advanced state.

We see the diseases in a state of progress, and must be able to see it in its beginning. As was the disease in the beginning so was the remedy in the beginning. Things that have similar beginnings may have similar endings.
Apis also has muttering, delirium and loquacity. All kinds of screaming and shrieking, shrill and otherwise, violent and less violent. Premonition of death, dread of death, fear of apoplexy.
"Very busy, restless, changing kind of work, with awkwardness."

Awkwardness is especially found under the fingers, toes and limbs in Apis. The whole nervous system shows a disturbance in co-ordination. This disturbance in co-ordination runs through the remedy, awkwardness, staggering with the eyes shut.
Dizziness when the eyes are shut.
"Ailments from fright, rage, vexation, jealousy or hearing bad news."
"After severe mental shock paralyzed on the whole right side."
Violence and rapidity:
The complaints of Apis are attended with violence and rapidity.
They come on with great rapidity, rush on with violence, until unconsciousness is reached. It has been my fortune to see many violent cases of poisoning from the sting of the honey-bee.

When the over sensitive patient is poisoned by the sting he is dreadfully sick. The majority of people in the course of their life have been stung by the honey-bee and a mere little swelling occurs in the region of the sting, a swelling as big as a robin's egg or 4 hen's egg at most, without constitutional states; that is, when the individual is not sensitive to Apis.
He may have been stung in half a dozen places, and each one gives him a little lump.
But you meet one who is sensitive to the sting of the honey-bee, and if he gets one little sting on any place in his body, he comes down with nausea and anxiety that makes him feel that he is dying, and in about ten minutes he is covered with urticaria from head to foot; he stings and burns and wants to be bathed in cold water; he fears that he will die if something is not done to mitigate his suffering, rolls and tosses as if he would tear himself to pieces.

I have seen all these symptoms come on after Apis. The antidote for that is Carbolic acid. I have seen Carbolic acid administered in that state, and the patient described the sensation of the Carbolic acid going down his throat as a cooling comfort.
He says:

"Why, doctor, I can feel that dose go to the ends of my fingers."
When you administer an antidote under such circumstances listen to what your patient says. When you get the true natural antidote, and, at times, when you get the true curative medicine in a case, no matter how high the potency is, the patient will say:

"I feel that to the roots of my hair and to the ends of my toes."
Such is the feeling it gives when the true antidotal medicine goes to the innermost portions of his economy, and that is the way we want to get our medicines always, to be guided by the symptoms of our patient that they will tell us what medicine to administer, and when the medicine is administered its highest reaction is of that sort.
Eyes:
If we are well acquainted with the symptoms of Apis we can many times get along without having a specialist to treat the eyes. They make more people blind with their lotions, caustic solutions, etc., than they benefit.
The old-fashioned way was to cauterize with copper and silver nitrate solution, and the modern things are not much better. At the present day, the homoeopathic physician who is not capable of taking eye symptoms as well as lung symptoms and symptoms of any part of the body is not competent to practice medicine.
Eye cases can be prescribed for by the physician. In Homoeopathy there is no such thing as treating the eye and other organs of the body, but the patient with all his organs, not the patient with one or two organs.
Apis is a great remedy for the eyes. It has deep-seated inflammatory complaints of the eyes as a result of disease.

Inflammations that are erysipelatous in character, that leave thickening of the mucous membrane and lids, and white spots over the eye; opacities.
Inflammation with opacities very extensive or in patches.
Enlarged blood vessels.
Face:
When the inflammatory condition is active it is attended with oedema of the lids, both upper and lower, and the whole face is sometimes in a state of oedema, such as you would expect to see after a bee sting.
The swelling of the mucous membranes of the lids is so enormous that they roll out, looking like pieces of raw beef. The fluid will run out over the cheeks in great abundance. Burning and stinging like fire, better from washing, from cold applications, worse from heat.
Chronic eye troubles that are worse from looking into an open fire, worse from radiated heat; wants something cold applied.
Chronic granular lids. The results of chronic inflammation are numerous and extensive. Worse from looking at white things, worse from looking at the snow.
Pain in the eyeballs, pain deep in the eyeballs, stitches, burning, stinging and shooting. Chemosis. Apis is often suitable for old scrofulous affections of the eyes. Vascular. affections, the veins are enlarged.
"Iritis."
"Congestion to the eyes, blood-vessels injected;" whole conjunctiva inflamed.
Photophobia. Rheumatic ophthalmia, that is, a high grade of inflammation of the eyes in rheumatic subjects. Catarrhal inflammation of the eyes; scrofulous inflammation of the eyes.
Hot tears gush out of the eyes; burning in the eyes.
Erysipelas of the eyes and sides of the face, extending from the right to the left. This direction is an Apis feature in many other respects.
Erysipelas commences on the right side of the face, extends over the nose to the left side.
Inflammation commences in the right side of the abdominal viscera and extends over to the left. In inflammation of the ovary the right is preferred to the left. The right side of the uterus is preferred. Pains in the whole right side of the pelvis extending over towards the left. Burning stinging here and there extending from right to left.

Inflammation of the middle ear in connection with or after scarlet fever.

Throat:

Now we come to the throat troubles of Apis. We have much throat trouble.

Apis cures diphtheria, especially when there is a high grade of inflammation and the membrane is scanty or comes slowly or insidiously, and it is somewhat of a surprise the gradual progress it makes; the parts are oedematous and the soft palate is puffed like a water-bag, and the uvula hangs down with a semi-transparent appearance like a bag of water.

All around the throat and mouth there is an oedematous condition looking as if it would flow water if pricked. Burning, stinging pains in the throat ameliorated by cold and aggravated by heat. Aversion to all warm substances and drinks.

The tongue swells until it fills the mouth, worse on the right half of the tongue, or involving the right side first. Raw beef appearance, denuded appearance of the tongue and buccal cavity and throat.

Various kinds of swelling in the throat; benign swellings, with burning, stinging and redness. Ulcers in the throat that come as a result of this inflammation. Apis is suitable in the severest forms of sore throat accompanying scarlet fever.

Scarlet fever:

It cures scarlet fever when the symptoms agree, and it is not an uncommon thing for Apis to be suited to scarlet fever, though the rash is sometimes rough.

The scarlet fever rash is not always smooth and shiny. When the rash does not come out at all the face is very pallid, with a high grade of inflammation of the throat; the scarlet fever is in the family, and the skin is red without any rash; in those cases that are worse from heat, want the covers off, and are sensitive to the heat of the room.

The patient desires a low temperature in the room, is worse from heat, wants cool things, worse from radiated heat especially, or hot air that comes from a register or fire.

He suffocates when a little warm air is radiating over the body.
He is disturbed from heat even in the chill of an intermittent fever; if in a warm room when having a chill, he suffocates. So it is with the scarlet fever, with the sore throat, and in diphtheria; from the least whiff of radiated heat he suffocates.

He wants the doors and windows open, wants something cold.

Sometimes the scarlet fever patient will go into convulsions because the rash fails to come out.

Apis is sometimes a suit able remedy and must be compared with Cuprum, Zincum and Bryonia. A warm bath will intensify the convulsion.

"Sensation of constriction and erosion in the throat in the morning."

Throat sore and swollen; stinging pains.

"Could not shallow solid food."

With these complaints there is often shivering, shuddering, little chills intermingled with the febrile state. Many times you will think to comfort him by covering him up with a warm blanket, but it will make him worse, he will throw it off.

A child will kick off the covert an adult who is shivering while covered up will kick off the covers. These strange and peculiar things are guiding features, things that cannot be accounted for.

Stomach and abdomen:

In Apis there is vomiting, nausea, retching and vomiting, with great anxiety. Vomiting of bile and everything eaten. Vomiting of bitter and sour fluids Apis causes soreness and tightness throughout the abdomen and hypochondria. Sensation of tightness runs through many of the complaints of Apis. The abdomen is distended with gas. Meteoritic condition, great tension and fullness, hard and drum-like. In all inflammatory complaints, in peritonitis, inflammation of the liver, inflammation of the pelvis, there is great tension, tightness; but this tightness is not always general, sometimes it is local; sometimes it is with little congestion, but tightness prevails throughout the abdomen, and this tightness makes it impossible for the patient to cough for fear something will burst. The cough makes him feel as if something would be torn. Cannot strain at stool. This is common in the abdominal and pelvic complaints of women. The woman will say she cannot strain at stool, because of the feeling that if she strains something will break loose.

The same state exists in the chest It seems that on coughing something will tear loose, as if the fibres are in a state of tension or stretching.

Hypersensitive state of the liver; inflammation of the liver and spleen. Pain under the short ribs, worse on the left side.

"Pains from below the ribs spreading upward. Obliged to bend forward from a painful contracted feeling in the hypochondria."

All the complaints are likely to make the patient bend forward and flex the limbs, because the state of tension is painful.

Sensitiveness of the stomach to touch. Over the whole abdomen she is so sore that touch is extremely painful; in all the inflammatory complaints of women the abdomen is very sore and painful. Soreness, distension and stinging burning pains through the abdomen. Burning beat in the stomach.

In the external abdomen there is an oedematous state. Dropsy, sometimes alone, sometimes with anasarca. Limbs swollen to the full extent, pitting upon pressure, the feet and limbs swollen, with burning, stinging and numbness in the limbs.

Feeling as if the intestines were bruised. Watery diarrhea is common in Apis; yellow stools, green stools, olive green stools, watery stools, etc.

Every day six to eight diarrheic stools, which smell like carrion. It is especially useful in a peculiar kind of stool occurring in children and infants, and intermingling of blood, mucus and food, giving the stool an appearance like tomato sauce.

The anus protrudes with stool and seems to remain open, an open anus like Phosph, and Puls. Chronic diarrhea dysentery, haemorrhage from the bowels.

In its constipation it is related more commonly to head troubles. He goes many days without a stool. The bowels seem to be perfectly paralyzed, with congestion of the brain and acute hydrocephalus.

Urines:

The urinary troubles are numerous in Apis.

The urine is scanty, coming only in drops. Much straining before the urine will start, and then only a few drops; dribbling a little hot urine, burning urine, bloody urine. As soon as a few drops collect in the bladder the urging comes, constant, ineffectual urging.

Later the urine is almost suppressed. Infants go a long time without passing urine screeching and carrying the hand to the head, crying out in sleep, kicking off the covers. Very often a dose of Apis will be found useful.

It is often called for in scarlet fever when the urine is loaded with albumen. Urinary troubles, with swelling of the genitals, and the swelling is oedematous Scanty urine in little boys, with the foreskin enormously distended, or in hydrocele. Every time the call to urinate comes he will shriek, because he remembers the pain he had the last time. Inflammatory complaints of the kidneys and ureters, bladder and urethra.

The whole urinary tract is irritated, very much like Cantharis, and these two medicines antidote each other. If you are called to a child that has been drugged with crude Apis you can generally antidote it with Cantharis. If you go to a woman who has taken Cantharis for vicious purposes, you can very often overcome it with Apis. The violent frenzy that has been brought on by Cantharis will be overcome by Apis.

The smarting, burning and stinging along the urinary tract will be found under Apis.

"Flow of urine, unconscious."

Stitching pain in the urethra with enuresis. Morbid irritability of the urinary organs.

"Strangury. Agony in voiding urine. Retention of urine in nursing infants."

It is queer how the old women knew, long before Apis was proved, that when the little new-born baby did not pass its water they could find a cure by going out to the bee-hive and catching a few bees, over which they poured hot water, and of which they gave the baby a teaspoonful.

Some domestic things like that have been known among families and among nurses, and it is consistent because it is just like what we give Apis for.

"Urine scanty and foetid, containing albumen and blood corpuscles."

Especially in acute albuminuria. The acute inflammatory affection of the kidney with albuminuria, such as occurs in scarlet fever or diphtheria, or after these, such as occurs as a sequel of acute disease.

Inflammation of the kidney closes up the case and kills off a good many in allopathic hands, never in homoeopathic hands. It is closely related to the genital organs of both male and female. Swelling and oedematous state of the genitals. Apis is a great friend of the woman. It cures all of her inflammatory complaints it seems, when the symptoms agree.

That is to say, it produces inflammation of the uterus and ovaries and dreadful sufferings in the external and internal parts, and we have only to discover when the symptoms agree to cure most of these inflammatory troubles.

It even stops abortion. It will stop abortion after some miserable scoundrel has attempted to get rid of the offspring, and she has taken drugs and brought on pains, pains strong enough to expel the contents of the uterus, especially in the first, second and third months.

A little haemorrhage has come on, a mere threatening, the membranes are not yet ruptured, but they soon will be, and she has stinging, burning pains, and lies uncovered and suffers from the heat, probably from the overdose of Ergot.

Apis will overcome this greatly to her regret. This kind of villainy prevails. But women have accidents and weakness. whereby, in spite of the fact that they desire to hold their offspring, they are threatened with abortion, and Apis is a great friend to the prospective mother.

Burning and stinging pains in the ovaries, especially the right; when greatly enlarged and even cystic, Apis has proved a curative remedy, has often cured tumors, and has caused cystic formations to stop growing or to disappear.

The right ovarian region is very sensitive. Pain in the uterus and ovaries before and during menstruation. Stinging, rending, tearing pains cutting like knives, worse from heat.

It is a very easily got symptom, because in most painful symptoms heat or the hot water bag are tried with the natural hope of relief, but with this remedy it aggravates. She throws it aside, for the pain is worse from heat.

"Ovaries enlarged", etc Dropsy of right ovary. Ovarian tumor.

Apis mellifica (Bee Sting)

Apis is homoeopathic potentized poison of the honey bee. Ever felt the sting of a bee or wasp? Then you know exactly what kind of pains this remedy cures:

Apis will heal burning, stinging and sore pains that get worse by touch, heat or pressure and get less by cold. Usually these pains are accompanied by oedema, swelling or blister-like skin eruptions that are very sensitive to touch and pressure. Symptoms often start on the right side of the body. The skin is hot and dry. Yet the patient has no thirst. Both the physical symptoms and the mental state of the patient aggravate in warm surroundings.

Apis can be helpful in many cases, as long as the above described characteristics are present:

after a bit or sting of an insect or other animal, for instance jelly-fish blisters on your feet pain and swelling of burns urination with burning, stinging pain (bladder inflammation) other inflammations with burning, stinging pain; for instance of the throat, kidney, liver, ovary, rheumatic inflammations skin eruptions with heat, redness, burning pain and possible swelling (like measles, scarlatina, urticaria) allergic reactions with swelling and burning pain meningitis with braincry; sudden piercing screams of children in their sleep.
Apis characters behave a bit like bees: they are very protective towards persons around them and can be jealous at newcomers. They spend many buzy hours with looking up things and organizing those around them. They are restless, nervous and irritable. When opposed they will show their stinging emotional side. If an Apis personality is ill, he/she will be very sad, crying all the time, expecting problems everywhere. They will be restless, dissatisfied and clumsy, letting things fall. These people can get ill from jealousy, fright, anger, vexation or bad news. (This psychological image can be helpful in understanding the chronic Apis complaints, like allergic reactions. But in acute cases like measles, burns or painful blisters on your feet please forget it. Check if the characteristics of the symptoms of the patient match the characteristics of Apis - and give/take the remedy.)

Apis symptoms aggravate by warmth, touch, pressure, in the afternoon. The patient feels better by cold (for instant washing with cold water), fresh air.

Important: Don't take Apis in a potency lower than C30 when you are pregnant!

I gave a woman Apis 30c, 3 pellets in 500ml spring water. She has suffered severe hives all over her body on and off for many years. They often started on her breasts and moved about on different parts of her body, such as on legs arms, face, back and between toes and fingers. She went to many allopaths for help and was always prescibed prednesone, but these hot raised rashes would soon re-appear. She had comfort within an hour of taking her first wet dose. She awoke the next day and they had begun again. She then took another tspn of the wet dose, they went away and she has not complained since and that was over a month ago. She called me with a tearful thanks and told me that she could just kiss me, because she has never found relief before.
Apis can obviously be quite substancial in alleviating hives and itchy raised rashes.

Being healthy is possible when we discover that it is up to us as individuals to find and pursue the correct alternative, even if it takes a lifetime.

Hoe to make Apis Mellifica

This medicine can be made by using whole honey bee and potentizing the liquid.

In africa tribals still make arrow dipped in crushed honey bees to run away elephants from their dwellings places. Elephants have intense pain after being hit by even a tiny bit of arrow head.

Found all over USA and Canada. I wonder if it really kills a dog. It is mild narcotic but I doubt if anybody uses it anymore.

I use it very often for Rheumatic problems, gout, joint pain etc.

How I make this medicine.

I fill up a bottle of hot water and when I pluck a leaf, milk drips out and I take few drops of milk in that bottle and the medicine is ready.

Just take 2 drops of that water under the tongue.

APOMORPHINUM
Alkaloid from Decomposition of Morphine by Hydrochloric Acid
(APOMORPHIA)

The chief power of this drug lies in the speedy and effective vomiting that it produces, which becomes a strong guiding symptom to its homeopathic use. The vomiting is preceded by nausea, lassitude and increased secretion of sweat, saliva, mucus and tears. Pneumonia with vomiting. Combined alcoholism, with constant nausea, constipation, insomnia.

Head and Stomach.--Vertigo. Dilated pupils. Nausea and vomiting. Violent inclination to vomit. Hot feeling all over body, especially head. Empty retching and headache; heartburn; pain between shoulder-blades. Reflex vomiting-pregnancy. Seasickness.

New studies show that people who eat betal nut never have glucoma. Also eating betal nut once a while keeps one away from glucoma but action is always short lived so must be taken at least once a week.

When Areca is a proved medicine (made from Areca nut or betal nut ) serviciable in glycoma should we necessarily addict ourselves with the habbit of chewing areca nut?

I think araca is not addictive but tobacco is addictive. Araca only becomes a medium so one can keep chewing it on and on.

Best way is to soak betal nuts in water for few days and then chew on a small piece once a while or may be each day.

Yes Areca is not addictive. I used to love eating the nut everyday, 8-10 times, 4 years ago and now it is down to less than once everyday. So once in a while the nut, may be flavoured but NO sugar, is okay.

The words "addict oneself" was meant literally i.e to occupy onself or involve oneself, just like watching TV or playing vedeo games. It was not intended to meant in its medical connotation i.e. 'to be physiologically depended on a substance, abrupt deprivation of which produces withdrawal symptoms'. I hope you agree. But arecanut gives discomfort to some people. Some people complaints contraction in oesophagus after chewing areca nut and a suffocating sensation with sharp pain which are normally relieved after drinking some water; while some others who are in the habit of keeping it in mouth under the lips have complaints of lock jaw. I don't know whether I can ascribe these completely to areca nut or is it the body reacting to certain things differently?

To some people it gives, constriction like feeling in the throat.

| Re: Areca (betal nut for glucoma) | By: JayashreeCalcutta, India | January 17 2007 |

Yes, that also depends on the quality of the nut. All nuts do not give this discomfort, I know it is very painful, have experienced it myself. Actually in Assam, the tea gardens grow a lot of the nuts, I have a palm in my house too.

In a way you are lucky that it is not used around you in Israel. It is used in South East Asia, people chew it and spit it all over.

| Re: Areca (betal nut for glucoma) | By: udaya kumar-- | January 22 2007 |

ha. ha! I enjoy that.

Areca and betel nut is one and the same thing. Areca nut perhaps got this name because it was always seen as a twin brother with betel leaves. These are traditionally used in some states of India for rituals and ceremonies with certain amount of sanctity attached to it. The chewing was credited with certain status in olden times and had chillums or special bowls in each household for the purpose. The present value is confined to what Giri has described. The pan is a combination of betel leaves, lime, tobacco and areca nut. The betel leaves(green) with chunna(white) (lime) is magical combination giving out a red colored end product. The areca nut trees are of approximately 8 inches diameter and grows to a height from 20 to 30 feet. Areca nut count could vary from anything above 50 nuts in a bunch. The outer cover initially green turns to yellow when it is ripe. Once peeled, the nut is approximately of an inch diameter. The trees are similar to coconut but not so thick and useful.

It is an alkaloid and induces salivation useful for chewing. In Homeo medicine areca is a preparation worth existence of the tree until some other discoveries are made. Like a marble, It is easy to fall if you step on an areca nut. In a plantation an expert move from one tree to another like a Tarzan with utmost ease by just by swinging the tree. The children love this gimmick. For those who chew, it is a delicacy. It may not grow in Israeli weather conditions or drip drop system. It needs plenty of rain. Rgds.

I disagree with girilal.. people do not spit the betel nut but the Zarda or tobacco they eat with it. One cannot take in the saliva with zarda so they spit [echh] it out.. there are red spit all over the walls in Govt bldgs or in public..
But we are moving away from the topic.. Does it really help in Glaucoma??

I read in a John A Michener's book that originally New Guinea savages used to eat areca with betal leaf. Later on they discovered if they add a pinch of lime (by burning coral reef pieces) to it kills its mouth burning character so a tradition was born. Since this was mildly narcotic and this made to almost whole south and east Asia.

ARECA CATECHU
Betel Nut
(ARECA)

Of use in Helminthiasis. Its alkaloid, Areolin Hydrobrom contracts the pupil, acting more promptly and energetically but of shorter duration than Eserine. Serviceable in glaucoma. Acts also as a salivatory like Pilocarpin. Also increases the amplitude of pulsations of the heart and promotes the contractility of the intestines.

Also called Supari (Betal nut)

People in India/Pakistan chew it in the beetle leaves. Recently it is banned in many western countries because it gives thorat and many kinds of mouth cancer.

Argentum nitricum (Silver Nitrate)

This is silver nitrate, a very 'warm' remedy, meaning that it fits warm-blooded people. There is also Argentum metallicum, the homoeopatic metal silver, and that one fits very chilly persons. Argentum nitricum and Argentum metallicum are quite alike, although Argentum nitricum has a more distinct image and is much more renown.

Argentum, silver, is the metal of the Moon. The Moon collects the surplus of magnetism of the Earth and gives it back when necessary. Astrology places these qualities with the Moon: reaction, reflection, mirroring, following, reproducing, the first seven years of life (being the period in which we learn by reproducing and following others), habits, the audience - the mass (for instance people who dare not depart from fixed customs), our feelings and emotions, femininity and the mother.

Argentum is a remedy for people who somehow still live in their moon-phase. It fits persons with the psychological image of a scary little bird, nervous, almost trembling and frightened, spasmodic and nervous. This is an important remedy for fears and phobias. Many complaints from anticipation like anxiety anticipating an engagement, or when a time is set, or fear when ready to go to a certain place. In such occasions they react with diarrhea, headaches, stomach-complaints, hyperventilation, trembling and nervousness. Argentums are very anxious; there is fear of public places, fear of narrow places, fear of high places, delusion high walls and buildings will fall upon them, fear of falling, fear of evil, fear of fainting, fear of death, insanity or impending disease, fear of possible scary persons, they are superstitious, they fear to walk certain corners or to cross a bridge or place, they fear to be alone, there is fear of failure, fear of loosing self-control, fear of thunder-storm, fear of death, fear of undertaking - you name it. When we keep the image in mind of a child, finding itself without the company of a parent in the strange, new world of grown-ups, than these fears become clearer. (Argentum has the delusion of being forsaken and being despised.) Argentums have problems with taking challenges; they would somehow prefer the helping hand of a parent to show them first. They long for a soft, friendly world. Other reasons for their fears are a low self-esteem with a great sensitivity to negative criticism. They can have the sense of incapability, needing more time than others to perform something, what makes them act hastily and nervously.

Argentums are very impulsive people. With their combination of excitement, nervousness, impulsive behaviour and a late realization of what they are about to do, they can react on any idea that pops up in their minds. (This can explain their fear of loosing self-control).

In public these people act yielding and timid, but in the safety of their own place they dare to show their assertivity and tenacity. They need someone to talk to, a counselor, and they will follow any advice they get.

They can suffer from nervous complaints: trembling, jerking, cramps and spasms, tics, numbness, shooting pains, dizziness, concentration-problems and forgetfulness, nervous head-aches, nervous stomach- and intestine-problems, incoordination, palpitations, hyper-ventilation. Many eye- and throat-complaints.

These people feel a strong preference for sugar and sweets, but sweets at the same time cause stomach-complaints.

Gelsemium and Causticum would suit him better than Argentum nitricum. Nerve problems should be clearly understood as different to nervousness problems. As I understand nerve problems are related to brain and spine while nervous problems are related to stomach and gas. Though all problems have its origin in stomach. rgds. Medicines should be taken in consultation with a homeopathic doctor.

Arg Nit is an excellent remedy for phobias. Things like fear of driving over bridges, where a person gets to the point where they refuse to drive at all.
I used to have a phobia with avoidance. I took 2 doses of ArgNit and a few weeks later the phobia stopped bothering me.

| Re: Argentum Nitricum | By: udaya kumar-- | February 22 2008 |

yes. The root cause for all phobias can be traced to derrangement in Gas. The cause further to autointoxication basically from constipation. In the case of driving over bridge the phobia is of height. Thoughts are behind the phobia and thoughts as I mentioned elsewhere are product of Gas and ether combination. Any disturbance in it is intolerable to itself and to the mind if we think that they are separate. with regards.

thanks for the reply....he doesn't have any phobias, I belive...but he is hesitant to venture into new things..

The problem started with stomach upset and severe vomiting...which later in a few days led to gait and weakness in lower extremities...he already has spinal canal stenosis....all doctors said the new problem with walking may be due to spinal canal stenosis. But, when he was asked to undergo final tests before spine surgery, the chief doctor found something strange and referred him to a neurologist....there he was diagonosed as having CIDP....I am giving below his complete case history....

Vertigo on raising suddenly.

Family history: Father had sugar and Glaucoma. Mother is suffering from osteoporosis and is bedridden for more than a decade. His immediate elder brother has similar back bone problem.

Local doctors/orthopedic and neurologists suggested that this problem is due to spinal stenosis. But, further checkup for spinal problem lead to neuro studies. The nerve conduction study indicated conduction blocks in peripheral nervous system and has been diagnosed as having CIDP (chronic inflammatory demyelinating polyneuropathy). Got steroid treatment for a week. Blood investigations turned out to be normal.

Later, nerve biopsy was done and spinal fluid was investigated. He has only elevated protein level in the spinal fluid. In the nerve biopsy study, the reason was suggestive of metabolic disorder i.e. possible thyroid problem. But, further investigation on thyroid was normal.

He is now on vitamins only. His condition has improved to some extent. But, still he has difficulty in walking and with muscles of his right foot. The left leg has improved.

Nerve Biopsy:
The nerve biopsy, especially in longitudinal plane showed significant oedema (bluish) and depletion of large diameter fibers. The fibre loss is asymmetric, involving mostly large diameter fibres and clusters of regenerating clusters and empty bands of bungner are seen. Randomly distributed, occasional thinly myelinated fibres are seen The vessels are essentially normal, and no vasculitis. The features are suggestive of a metabolic axonopathy with secondary demyelination, in spite of asymmetric nature of involvement and axonal sprouts.

Possibility of hypothyroid state may be considered.

The stomach upset and severe vomiting were the catalysts that triggered the prolapse. The cause we will address separately while the result is what is the subject right now here.

i.e. the violent vomiting contracted the abdominal muscles pushing the natural gas present there towards the spine with force rendering a prolapse of the already weak and herniated disk pushing them to compress on the nerve roots resulting in sclerotic condition as well as lack of supply of blood to extremitiesand muscles which starved in nutrition losing its elasticity and capability to expand after the contractions, thereby effecting his ability to walk.

Stenosis and herniations are part of spinal degenration and herniation to some extend is connected with the occupation and nature of job of the patient i.e. mechanical work of lifting heavy metals. Lead and Arsenic, Silver Nitrate poisoning from occupation cannot be ruled out which can also cause vomit (remember here the main symptom of Arsenic Album is nasea and vomiting).

The disk degeneration, sumptoms of brother, osteoprosis in mother are pointers towards genetic /hereditary factors or siphilitic miasm which may have to be addressed at some time. Arg. Nitricum is very handy here.

Another question left is whether he was subject of any electric shock at any point in time?

Now: The first remedy for the contraction of muscles particularly left sided and since he has been diagnosed with CIDP would be one single dose of Causticum 30. (This may be given upto three consecutive doses but not more than that. May repeat later if found valuable) ii. Ledum Pal 30 to stop contraction of Tendons and ligaments - maximum three doses. Ledum will also help in detoxifying the system.

iii. Low BP indicates Hypothyroidism. This is an inevitable fall out alongwith nervousness, anxiety etc. Few doses of Kaliphos 6X or 200C would be necessary.

iv. He has to be put on Avena Sateva Q for a long period as tonic to compensate for fibre loss, weakness of muscles. mental, physical and other debilities.

v. Light yoga without combining with any other exercise. Acupressure for relaxation of back.

vi. Nutritious diet for spinal regeneration.

vii. Phsophorus for muscle building but should not repeat not be used near Causticum.

viii. Use of Hypericum or Neurobion are helpful.

ix. Arnica, Rhux Tox, Gnaphalium, Ruta G, may be required at different stages.

x. A lump somewhere along the spine or sciatic nerve cannot be ruled out.

xi. All medicines need be used upto three doses and repeated wherever necessary. Use medicines in globules 3 to 5 at a time. Do not touch medicine with hand.

xii. he should not be lifting any weight whatsoever and bending forward.

xiii. The slightly inclined walking style originates from fear. Fear of pain, fear or aggravation, fear of the unknown going to happen, or one side paralysis.

Argentum nitricum will help in many places but to achieve complete cure with this one medicines is in this case would be a rare phenomenon. Too many doses, however, are not advised.

. Before I forget let me tell you three things: 1. Auram Metalicum ii. Cortico steroids.
iii. Phosphorus.

i. Aurum Metalicum will help in herniation of the bones along with Calcaria Flour.

ii. Cortico Steroids which you must have administered by now for CIDP is not good for Adrenal glands.

iii. Phosphorus is the antidote for electric shock. I mentioned shock, because one is the physical shock we experience and the second one is when the bone caries or bone itself touches the spinal chord, a electric shock like feeling is generated. The feeling is similar to suffering a shock grasping a live wire. Both the shocks directly affect memory, will power, confidence, nerve power, independence and the like qualities of the brain. When that particular part of the brain is affected, where a shock normally has its centre of attack, the legs fail to carry, fundamentally because the WILL to stand, will not depend on others etc. somehow gets abolished. The person tends to become a nervous wreck depending on others. By using this antidote Phosphorus, these faculties can be regained and natural healing does the further miracles.

We have dwelt upon the immediate causes and the immediate remedy to some extent. The root causes and the solutions to neutralize those causes are what I intend to look into here. In order to send the point home, let me quote J. Ellis Barker for you:

He wrote in one of his works and I quote :

“ Mr. N.L. (the name of his patient) of Black Pool wrote to me on 16th September, 1927……I was a working man…….I am 58.. and suffer from weakness in the legs which prevents me from walking in the street without guidance…..I am also restricted to speech…my ailments dated from 1918”

I gave him diet rich in Vitamins and mineral essentials, with an abundance of BRAN, Milk, Eggs, fruits, vegetables and take paraffin if necessary to activate his bowel, drink plenty of water between meals, and massage body vigorously with unrefined Code Liver Oil”.

“After a week, the muscles of the calves and guiders behind the knees and at the back of the thighs are firmer”

28th Sept NL wrote “ Your diet is entirely satisfactory. I never felt better in life….
9th Oct “ Leg muscles much firmer, speech progressing satisfactorily….
11th Oct “ My general health has never been better….”
13th Nov. “I feel much better, more sure of myself, and can walk by myself nearly half a mile, and have improved much in speech also, and am confident that before long I shall be fully cured” and he did.

There are many cases in his book “How to cure the incurable” where he achieved miracles through minimum medicine along with the diet restrictions and control. His main help here being Bran. Bran making its presence in the stool and having the quality of absorbing water, softens the stool to the required texture that the person do not get constipated and thereby plenty of toxins induced into the blood system by autointoxication is averted and avoided. The skin texture improves and the skin reflects the health of an individual. Here Sulphur, Silicia and that kind of Centrifugal forces are very very helpful.

A constipated person has a spoiled stomach, and a spoiled stomach ends in constipation. A unhealthy stomach lacks digestive and assimilative powers and therefore the supply of nutrients to faculties are drastically impaired leading to wasting diseases like bone degeneration and spinal degenerations etc. etc. And metabolic axanopathy is its fashionable name. For secondary demyelination I have found phosphorus, petroleum, kalmia, kali phos, aurum met. Calcaria flour, neurobion, lyco and Argentum Nitricum helpful in complete recovery. I cannot pinpoint which one is the best because the recovery was full and complete, when all these medicines were in use. I hope these little observations would help you somewhere somehow. With best wishes.

Thank you for the details.

I have a clarification...what you have mentioned is interesting..that is pertaining to spinal degenration..but what about auto-immune disease like CIDP...it is an immune disorder...though he has spinal affections-the symptoms also coincide...the affection of upper extremities, smell and taste points to CIDP-auto-immune disorder....can you please elaborate on this point.

Aslo, I have gone through the medicines mentioned by you....mostly Argentum nitricum suits him except the point that hurry hurry. he is a bit slow doing person and very talkative. Only difference is this point. Otherwise, it corresponds to many of his ailments. Arg. nit. covers paraplegia Myelitis The other Gelsemium covers less ailments than Arg. nit. I am giving you below the details.

Can causticum 30 c (one dose as you have sais) and Arg. nit (potency & dose?) be given apart from Ars.alb (30c) and Kali phos 6x and then later Avena sativa Q for long term....please advise

Kali Phosphoricum:

One of the greatest nerve remedies. Prostration. Weak and tired. Especially adapted to the young. Marked disturbance of the sympathetic nervous system. Conditions arising from want of nerve power, neurasthenia, mental and physical depression, are wonderfully improved this remedy.
Extremities: Paralytic lameness in back and extremities. Exertion aggravates. Pains, with depression, and subsequent exhaustion.
Modalities: Worse, excitement, worry, mental and physical exertion; eating, cold, early morning. Better, warmth, rest, nourishment.

Avena Sativa:

Has a selective action on brain and nervous system, favorably influencing their nutritive function.

Causticum:

…progressive loss of muscular strength, tendinous contractures….Local paralysis..extremities….
Extremities: Left-sided sciatica, with numbness. Paralysis of single parts….Heaviness and weakness. Unsteadiness of muscles of forearm and hand. Numbness; loss of sensation in hands. Cannot walk without suffering…

Argentum Nitricum:

In this drug the neurotic effects are very marked, many brain and spinal symptoms presenting; themselves which give certain indications for its homeopathic employment. Symptoms of inco-ordination, loss of control and want of balance everywhere, mentally and physically; trembling in affected parts. Paraplegia Myelitis and disseminated sclerosis of brain and cord Nose: Loss of smell.

Mouth: Taste coppery, like ink.

Stomach: Desire for cheese and salt.
Back: Spine sensitive with nocturnal pains, paraplegia; posterior spinal sclerosis.
Extremities: Cannot walk with eyes closed. Trembling, with general debility. Paralysis, with mental and abdominal symptoms. Rigidity of calves. Debility in calves especially. Walks and stands unsteadily, especially when unobserved.

Gelsemium Sempervirens:

Centers its action upon the nervous system, causing various degrees of motor paralysis. General prostration. Dizziness, drowsiness, dullness, and trembling. Paralysis of various groups of muscles about the eyes, throat, chest, larynx, sphincter, extremities, etc. Muscular weakness. Lack of muscular co-ordination.
Mind: "Apathy regarding his illness. Absolute lack of fear. Emotional excitement, fear, etc, lead to bodily ailments.
Extremities: Loss of power of muscular control.

I forgot to mention...he has already taken liquid doses of phosphorus 30c for a couple of days four months back. It was stopped as no improment has been noticed. It was suggested by a homeopath in another forum and also the search in ABC with symptoms pointed to this phosphorus.

Following are accepted autoimmune diseases:

Acute disseminated encephalomyelitis, Addison’s disease, Ankylosing spondylitis,, antiphospholipid antibody syndrome, aplastic anaemia, auto immune hepatitis,Autoimmune Oopheritis, Celiac Disease, Crohn’s disease, Diabetis mellitus type 1., Gestational Pemphigoid, Goodpasture’s syndrome,

Grave’s disease, Guillain-Barre syndrome, Hashmoto’s disease, Idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura, Kawasaki’s disease, Lupus erthematosus, Mixed connective tissue disease, multiple sclerosis, Myasthenia Gravis, Opsoclonus myoclonus syndrome, Optic neuritis, Ord’s thyroiditis, Pemphigus, Pernicious anaemia, Primary biliary cirrhosis, Rhematoid arthritis, Reiter’s Syndrome, Siogren’s syndrome, Takayasu’s arteritis, temporal arteritis, warm autoimmune haemolitic anaemia, wegener’s granulomatosis,

In the first place the homeopath need not belief in the words auto immune, immunity,resistance, kill germs, attack, antibodies, etc. etc. For him the life force is the important factor. To Rejuvenate the life force which do not receive diseases is the only consideration in homeo. Once the morbid condition is set in the medicines are prescribed not to fight the malady but to rejuvenate the life force that the morbidity has to transform into healthy cells and healthy conditions and healthy body.

2. Now talking about Auto-immune disease and CIPD. Here I consider only CIPD which is degeneration of the sheaths of nerves causing powerlessness to the arms and feet. The condition is an outcome or fall out of the spinal stenosis and spinal degeneration and disk herniation and prolapses if any and not repeat not is cause. For stopping the further deterioration and damage of the Myelin sheath, the cause has to be addressed first. The symptoms you are seeing is no doubt that of Argentum Nitricum and Argentum Nitricum is certainly required to finally address the problem but before that we need to plug the cause. So that on the one hand we rejuvenate the Myelin sheath and on the other hand it degenerates because the cause is not addressed would lead to a counterproductive exercise. That is the way I look at it.

In all cases of disk prolapse and such ailments of the spine this degeneration normally happens. Some doctors understand it and investigate further, some do not. There used to be one name for it " Creeping Paralysis". Now it has taken too many names.

The imminent SOS condition is his muscle incoordination, cannot walk, cannot stand straight and numbness of the arms. I fully agree with you with the symptoms of Argentum Nitricum. Its Generalties are like :

Affects the mind causing neurotic effects. Action on Cerebro Spinal nerves. produces incoordination, loss of control, loss of balance, mentally and physically. useful for dried, withered up and prematurely old with trembling and weakness. Emaciation is progressive. Ascending paralysis. violent pains shooting like lightning. grinding or radiating, cause starting; extending down back or legs. Loss of voluntary motion, Paraplegia. Sinking downward from head. Myelitis. Disseminated Sclerosis of brain and cord. Symptoms appear on the left side. Conjoined mental and digestive symptoms. Unable to walk with closed eyes.

Neck and back: Pain in the small of the back, aggravates rising from sitting, standing or walking. glands of necks indurated. throbbing in spine or weak spine.

extremities : trembling hands, cannot write. numbness of finger tips, ring and little fingers. fingers half clenched, cannot be separated. lassitude and wearniness of forearm and legs, with trembling. Weakness, rigidity of twisting in calves. Paralysis, with mental and abdominal symptoms., cannot walk with eyes closed. Walks and stands unsteadily. aggravates when unobserved. As if a weight is hanging from the coccyx. Chorea-like convulsions, legs drawn up, arms jerked outwards and upwards. Peripheral neuralgias. Oedema of legs. Legs feel as if made of wood or padded. Paraplegia, after debilitating causes.

NOW, the numbness of the forearms amounts to ataxia and is due to degeneration of the nerve sheaths. For that Arg. Nitricum,Petroleum(though in petroleum these proovings are not there), Kalmia, Neurobion, Kali Phos, helps. The more the numbness become the more difficult it would be to lift the hands. That is the stage where anxiety disorders take over and that is the stage when gas disorders in stomach becomes prominent and that is where Argentum Nitricum is certainly required alongwith Kali Phos.(Here blood pressure will go low). The weight on the coccyx is very prominent and the patient will not be able to get up or lift his waist from the ground if in lying position because of this. He cannot stand properly because of this. The symptom that when no one observes is not the correct one I would put it like this " When the patient is alone, the anxiety is at it height and therefore the aggravation of feeling of weakness and leg cannot support the body is become very evident" The person will "feel like a sack of potato without the potato in it. Not able to stand straight". This aspect normally the patient would not like to share with others as it causes some kind of hurt to his ego. He will also be claustrophobic.

Now, coming to the medicines, Argentum Nitricum can be prescribed straight away in 30 or above potencies. (particularly if the weight in the coccyx is there). Phosphorus is not required at this stage. It is required at a stage when strengthening of the muscles are the prime objective. Causticum 30 one dose and Gelsemium 30 three doses can be give one after the other. It will control a lot of the paralytic feeling. After a day or two you can put him on Kali Phos 6x for prolonged period. "Abhayarishtam" in Ayurveda can be of much relief. Arsenic Album need not be given now unless stomach symptoms are present. Rhux Tox, Aurum, Arnica and other medicines connected with spine would be required as and when symptoms present by themselves. with best wishes.

Thank you Dr. Udya kumar for the very elaborate information, which I have been looking for and for the valuable time to answer my querries.

I will ask him to take Arg. nit 30c first (please tell me how many doses?) and then follow with Causticum 30 one dose and Gelsemium 30 three doses and then Kali phos 6x for prolonged period.

You have mentioned that CIDP is an "outcome or fall out of the spinal stenosis and spinal degeneration and disk herniation and prolapses if any and not repeat not is cause. For stopping the further deterioration and damage of the Myelin sheath, the cause has to be addressed first.The symptoms you are seeing is no doubt that of Argentum Nitricum and Argentum Nitricum is certainly required to finally address the problem but before that we need to plug the cause. So that on the one hand we rejuvenate the Myelin sheath and on the other hand it degenerates because the cause is not addressed would lead to a counterproductive exercise" The cause here I presume is spinal stenosis. Is that right? I think Arg. nit. will address the cause also. I am a bit confused at this point. Sorry.

It is always good to give just three doses and watch for a day before next medicine is administered or repetition is done. You can also gauge if an higher potency is required as well antidot in case of any contra-indications, which is not expected any how from Argentum Nitricum.

with best wishes.

Dear Dr. Udaya kumar,

he has taken Argentum nitricum 30c three doses and today is the third day since he taken the medicine. But, so far no visible improvement (may be slow acting!!) or aggravation of the conditions. Shall I ask him to take causticum 30 c one dose and then Gelsemium 30 c three doses? or shall I ask him to wait further or repeat Argentum Nitricum 30 C again or take higher potency (like 200c)? Please advise.

See my first post of 21st January, 2008. Argentum nitricum will be required later when he is recovering when he will show gastric problems. But now Gelsemium 30 three times a day for atleast a week and Causticum 30 three doses for one day is the indicated medicine. Both can go together well. Ask him to take Gelsemium 30 three doses a day and please keep posted about improvement. If he is anxious or blood pressure goes down give him Kaliphos 6X. on continuous basis. Don't give kaliphos when there is fever which anyhow I don't expect. with best wishes.

Dear Dr. Udaya kumar,

An update on his condition. He took three doses of Gelsemium 30c. After the first dose on 5th night, his speech has become clear (I didn't mention it earlier because, we are not sure whether his speech has been impaired or not....lot of arguments...so I am not sure about that). Clear in the sense, much better than what I heard him before he took Gelsemium

(We understood that he got problem with his speech also along with other symptoms). He could able to move his foot and toes up and down more freely this time (much movement).

He used to go for a walk in the evening daily. After 3 doses of Gelsemium, on 6th evening he felt pain in calf and thigh muscles while walking. That was not felt before Gelsemium (though he feel the pain when he exceeds certain distance of walking). He has got difficulties in walking also. He felt the difficulty in walking and pain after walking a short distance. So, he has to cut short his walking. Otherwise, he is ok.

I could not able to post a message yesterday as I was on travel and has no access to internet. I asked him to stop Gelsemium for a while until I get back to him.

Shall I ask him to continue gelsemium (what do you think about wet dose?). Please advise.

| Re: Argentum Nitricum | By: muruganrsa | March 8 2008 |
|---|---|---|

Dear Dr. Udaya kumar,

I am waiting for your advise.....

| Re: Argentum Nitricum | By: udaya kumar-- | March 8 2008 |
|---|---|---|

the pain in the calf must be a muscular spasm or muscular pain. Gelsemium has nothing to do with it. Gelsemium knows only how to cure. Gelsemium can continue. A dose of Causticum 30 will take care of the muscles in the calf and thighs unless it is a sciatic pain. Even if it is Sciatic pain if it is only on left leg Causticum 30 can remove the pain with one dose. Causticum is advised only upto three doses in one stretch. May repeat if necessary after a few days. Wet dose or minimum dose the principle is the same. Best wishes.

This is a post from a site about the uses of Arnica:

Arnica Montana
Known for its mind and body healing properties, the herb Arnica has been harvested for centuries from the mountain pastures and lowland marshes of Europe and North America. The perennial plant with orange-yellow, daisy-like flowers has a pleasant spicy smell and is renowned for its curative and restorative powers. The flowers and rootstocks are dried, the most valuable part being the flowers. This amazing herb, sometimes brewed as a tea, but often made into a lotion and infused with oil or cream for injuries such as falls, is a known homeopathic cure for stress, impotence, sleeping problems, baldness and emotional shock and trauma caused by past incidents.
Arnica once almost completely disappeared because of over harvesting but is now grown and gathered sustainably to ensure that the herb remains in use for future generations. Arnica Montana is now available for general use.
It is estimated that 70 per cent of our immune response is emotional; to be unhappy or depressed lowers our resilience to illnesses and we become more susceptible. Arnica Montana, taken daily when necessary, will help to prevent this occurring. A sudden death of a family member or friend, a prolonged illness, business worries, the stress of working and running a home, working long hours, struggling to pay the bills or worrying about other's problems are things many people have experienced. Arnica Montana can help to heal emotional and mental stresses.

Homeopathy's founder, Samuel Hahnemann discovered in his experiments with the herb Arnica over 200 years ago that it could relieve emotional and mental problems caused by past trauma. Hahnemann discovered that by taking Arnica, other remedies would work better because the body was in a balanced state, and that further healing could take place. It is as a homeopathic remedy used internally where it has far greater healing powers.

Hahnemann, pioneering a system still used by homeopaths today, experimented with Arnica on hundreds of subjects and discovered its powers were vast, particularly in the realm of emotional trauma. He asked his human subjects - unaware of what they were taking - to note the effects of Arnica over a long period of time. He found it helped heal everything from baldness and impotence to incontinence, cramps, bruises, general soreness, forgetfulness, travel sickness, sleeping problems, gout, rheumatism and emotional problems.

Arnica was made into a homeopathic remedy in the 18th and 19th centuries following Hahnemann's research. Today, Arnica Montana is the first remedy used by homeopaths to heal people affected by shock, trauma or injury to the body, and is as appropriate for a mental, emotional or spiritual shock as much as physical injuries.

In first aid homeopathy Arnica Montana is safe to use as often as is necessary. Hahnemann found that illnesses relieved by Arnica included:

- mental or emotional symptoms,
- stupor, forgetfulness, memory loss,
- delirium
- hopelessness and indifference
- a fear of being struck by others or of being touched
- vertigo
- severe headaches
- mechanical injuries resulting from concussion, skull fractures or compression of the skull
- meningitis after concussion, bruising or falling where there was partial paralysis of the tongue, iris or limbs
- eye inflammation
- retinal hemorrhage
- eye troubles resulting from blows and injuries

- hardness of hearing since concussion
- nose bleeds
- toothache
- bad breath
- vomiting blood and soreness after injuries
- indigestion
- offensive flatulence
- diarrhoea and bladder problems
- fevers
- dysentery
- acid urine
- swollen penis and testes after injury
- threatened abortion from falls or shocks
- soreness after labour and birth
- sore nipples
- asthma from fatty degeneration of the heart
- coughing causing bloodshot eyes or nosebleeds
- pleurisy after injuries
- strain of the heart from violent running
- fatty degeneration of the heart
- low pulse rate
- paralytic pains in all joints while moving
- feeling too hot or too cold between frequent attacks of violent convulsions

What makes Arnica Montana work?
The herb has excellent healing effects but it is not known which substances are responsible for them.
Arnica Montana contains 0.1 per cent volatile oil containing thymol and thymol ether in the florets. Other components are alcohols (arnidiol and faradiol), flavone glycosides and carotenoid pigments.
The constituents in the stems, leaves and rootstocks have a different composition from those in the florets.
The nonirritant extract is used in anti inflammatory and regenerative creams and in hair cosmetics. The extract can also be used in cleansing creams, skin lotions and as an ingredient in facial steams before the application of face packs.

| Arnica Montana Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 23 2006 |

Arnica is a famous first aid remedy. It does great work in cases of traumas, damage or injuries, whether they are physical or mental/emotional, whether it occurred recently or years ago.

What is the healing factor of Arnica?

On the physical plane it cures because it stimulates stagnating blood on injured places to move on. The blood gets absorbed into the circulation, what takes off pressure and pain on damaged areas (think of bruises, concussions, apoplexia). So fresh blood will reach the damaged area with healing and nurturing properties. The healing process is promoted and things like suppuration and sepsis are prevented.
This remedy image also has a mental experience of being damaged or beaten. If ever you meet someone who explains his/her feeling about maltreatment with the words "I feel damaged by what happened then" or "my soul is teared into pieces" immediately think of Arnica. In these cases the remedy can do the psychological clearing up.
Important characteristics of this remedy are:

A bruised feeling all over the body
The feeling that the bed is too hard. This person keeps moving from place to place (trying other beds) or constantly changes position in bed in order to find a soft spot for his/her painful body.
This person will tell you that he/she is well; he wishes to be left alone and sends the doctor away, no matter how serious the complaints are. He does not want to be touched, approached or spoken to. This means that it is difficult to discover the person who needs Arnica for psychological injuries, because he will pretend that everything in his life is okay.

The person has a hot head and a cold body. - Injured body parts tend to discolorate blue.
Arnica's are often irritated and bad tempered because they wish to be left alone. Meanwhile they are afraid to die. You won't notice this overday, because then they often seem to be okay, but at night they suddenly wake up in panic or have nightmares. This is well known behaviour after a shock or an accident; the person consciously wishes to continue his life but emotionally has not worked through it yet.

Examples of situations that ask for Arnica:

physical and psychological injuries: accidents, falls, wounds caused by a weapon, being raped or beaten up, other forms of maltreatment complaints after physical injuries, even when it happened long ago. For instance headaches after a severe fall on your head haemorrhages and blue discolorations of the skin after mechanical damage concussions and apoplexia (immediately give it in a C30 potency) inflammations with a bruised feeling and too painful to be touched, for instance appendicitis heart complaints giving birth (with a bruised feeling; give a C30 potency) bruises, sprains, fractures and muscle-pains psychological fear of being touched (for instance after being beaten in the past).
Arnica can be used internally (in a homoeopathic potency) and externally (as cream) on the injured place. In case of deep wounds (especially in the belly) don't choose Arnica, but consider Bellis Perennis.

Warning: never apply Arnica externally on an open wound! (In that case choose Calendula cream).

The symptoms of this remedy get worse by touch, exertion, moisty coldness, wine. These people prefer to lie down, and to lie down with the head lower positioned than the feet.

I would like to add an article that lists my experience using Arnica for the treatment of many ailments some of which are not listed in the current text books now in use, which may be of interest to members :

I am noting below a few case histories where I have used Arnica to cure various ailments which may be of interest to members. These are all based on my personal observations and I have added the links wherever possible to give more details of each case.

I would welcome the response of members who may use this remedy for their patients when their own observations will be useful to add to this list.

Arnica is known to ease the flow of blood throughout the arterial system and especially in the minute capillaries under the skin and it thereby ensures that the blood is able to oxygenate the many areas where the blood supply was lacking. I believe that this is the reason why this amazing remedy can be used successfully to help stabilize and in many cases cure many ailments which have not been listed in the classical MM's and Repertories.

WOUNDS 30c
Arnica 30c is the classical remedy to help cure wounds. It is best used in the wet dose which is made by inserting 3 pellets or 2 drops of the remedy in Ethanol into a 500ml bottle of spring water which is shaken hard to ensure bubbling every time before a teaspoonful which is a dose is sipped 3 times daily.

GENERAL TONIC IN DAILY USE 30c

I have used Arnica 30c for the last 10 years every night or more often in the case of need like after surgery. I believe that I owe to it my sense of wellness. I do not have any ache or pain in my body and I have proved that it is to Arnica that I owe my BP 120/80 with pulse 65 at age 76. I invite others to use it and to record their response to this remedy.

SUBSTITUTE FOR MORPHINE POST MAJOR SURGERY 200c and 30c
I have used this myself after my Retropubic Prostatectomy and can confidently recommend it for use after any major surgery. I used the dry dose at that time as I had not converted to the wet dose at that time. Dose 2 pellets taken sublingually twice daily on the before surgery and immediately before surgery 200c. When I regained consciousness after surgery, I noticed the Morphine syringe attached to the IV line and promptly ordered it removed to the consternation of the nursing staff and the surgeon, who warned me that I could even suffer from a major shock due to the pain without the morphine. I stated that I will use my Arnica alone to control the pain and they were very surprised to note that I was relatively free of pain after a few hours. I was able to leave my bed on the third day without any pain medication except for the Arnica I used 2 pellets sublingually every 2 hours at first and every 3 hours the day after. I was discharged on the 5th day and walked to my car. They were all amazed at my extremely quick recovery in 2002 when I was 73 years old.

EXTRACTION OF TEETH 30c
The patient takes Arnica in the wet dose 1 teaspoonful 3 times daily on the day of surgery and the day after. No pain or other discomfort will be noticed. Bleeding will be minimal.

EASES URINE FLOW CAUSED BY BPH 30c Wet Dose
I was prescribed Hytrin for my BPH (Benign Prostatic Hyperplasia or Enlarged Prostate) but was allergic to this drug as it depressed my BP dramatically thereby making it impossible for me to stand up. I then changed over to Sabal S and Conium but discovered when I used Arnica for a slight wound that it was far superior to the other remedies I used for BPH and I stayed with it from 1996 up to today.

HELPS TO CONTROL INCONTINENCE AFTER TURP 30c
It amazes me how this remedy that I have given over 20 patients who were suffering from the after effects of the TURP (trans urethral resection of the prostate) surgery who were incontinent due to some misadventure on the part of the Uro who had obviously damaged the sphincter muscle in the neck of the bladder. Arnica gave more time between visits to the toilet and in many cases it stabilized the incontinence in a few months. Others use it on a twice daily basis. Always in the water dose.

JET LAG 30c
I have used it for many years on every overseas trip. Dosage is 1 teaspoonful taken 3 times on the day before departure. 2 pellets in the dry dose to be taken every 3 hours on board and 3 times on the day after arrival.

LACK OF MOTOR FUNCTION OF EXTREMITIES IN 82 YEAR OLD 1M Wet Dose
The patient gradually lost motor control of his hands and feet for about a year and was confined to either his bed or a chair where he was placed by his children. Drugs that were prescribed were not effective. This case was referred to me and my response was an act of faith on my part in giving him Arnica 1M which I gave him in the water dose. He was completely cured in 2 months. The dosage used was 1 teaspoonful (capful) twice daily. He is now quite mobile and I have given him Arnica 30c which he takes in the wet dose twice daily.

MENTAL DEGENERATION IN THE AGED 1M
I used Arnica 1M dose 1 tsp daily in the case of a 75 year old who was showing signs of Alzheimer's and he showed perceptible improvement in 2 weeks which was continued thereafter. He is now permanently on the Arnica. Dose 1 tsp daily.

COMA IN A 21 YEAR OLD AFTER MOTOR ACCIDENT 1M

http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/40936
This patient was on a respirator for 6 weeks. I prescribed Arnica 1M and in a few days he woke up and is now at home with a broken back in a wheel chair.

CHRONIC ACHES AND PAINS 30c
I have used it very often when the patient complains of general body pain (not arthritic). It is also useful for chronic back pain due to previous injuries. Sciatica is also helped by a twice daily dose.

INSOMNIA 30c
Almost everyone who has taken 1 teaspoonful of this remedy in the water dose prior to sleep has noticed the deep unbroken sleep that they experienced during the night. They wake up quite refreshed with a zing in their steps.

ECZEMA 6c
I have used it in over 50 cases some of which were chronic for over 10 years and within a week, the patient is usually cured. The success rate is better that 80%. I recommend that the remedy is continued on a daily basis but some who did not do so after about 3 months discovered that they do not require it anymore and can be considered permanently cured. The skin condition after this time resembles Vitiligo especially in the chronic cases which had eroded the melanin in the skin which does not regenerate but there is no discomfort or itchiness.

I have also dabbed the water in which a few pellets of Arnica 6c are dissolved in a spoon directly on the lesion and have observed that it accelerates the healing process.

CELLULITIS 30c
I first used this remedy for a 79 year old lady who was suffering from recurrent reinfection of her legs. She had been to hospital every 6 months on 3 occasions for about a week each time where she was treated with the most powerful antibiotics which left her drained out like a rag. When she came out on the last occasion I gave her Arnica 30c in the water dose and she takes 1 teaspoonful before sleep. She was also an insomniac and now enjoys deep sleep and for the last 3 years she has not suffered from any reinfection from her Cellulitis. I have also used it for 3 other patients also in the same age group who had been hospitalized at least twice before in each case and they do not have any reinfection after many months or years. The Arnica seems to help by increasing the blood flow in the capillaries under the skin which in turn prevents reinfection. They have however to be on one dose of Arnica permanently.

PROMOTES GROWTH OF HAIR 30c
I would refer to the many posts on the ABC forum where I have been advocating the use of Arnica 6c for hair growth. The success rate has been better than 80%. I recommend that an emulsion of 20% in coconut or olive oil massaged into the scalp also promotes to arrest hair loss and promotes growth

ANGINA 30c
Many who were using Nitroglycerine on a daily SOS basis have been helped by Arnica 30c in the wet dose used twice daily basis. I am simply amazed that many patients were able to stop all dependence on the Nitroglycerine tablets within a few days of starting on Arnica 30c. I have a patient who is a World War II veteran 84 years old, who was on a daily dose of a variety of tablets, who does not use any drugs whatsoever today. He only takes 1 teaspoonful Arnica 30c twice daily and he is not affected by the angina any more.

It is however important that the patient has his condition, especially his Blood Pressure, checked regularly.

CHRONIC HEADACHE 30c
I used Arnica in many cases that were not reacting to Bryonia 30 which is my default remedy for headaches and it worked well.

HAEMORRHAGE IN A HAEMOPHILIAC 30c
I am treating a boy who is now 9 years for the last 4 years who is a Haemophiliac with Arnica 30c. He takes a teaspoonful twice daily and his mother has discovered that he does not bleed internally anymore for every bump or fall which does not break the skin. I use Lachesis 200c in the dry dose for open cuts which bleed profusely and this arrests the bleeding in about 15 minutes. Prior to this therapy the boy had to be rushed to hospital for a drip after every fall or cut.

PIMPLES, ACNE, BLEPHARITIS, ROSACEA, STYES 30c
Hundreds of teenagers have benefited by the use of Arnica 30c. I can vouch personally for its efficacy to control styes which I used to get weekly with painful results. Staphysagria 30c was also useful to stop the regular infection.

BED SORES 30c
Prevents their formation.

DARK CIRCLES UNDER EYES 6c
Removes them in a week

NOSE BLEED 200c
The ultimate remedy.

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT 30c
I believe that Arnica 30c acts by helping to dissipate the swelling of the synovial fluid which causes pain. I treat Arthritis with Rhus Tox 1M and Hypericum 200c to alleviate the pain both taken in the wet dose.

ERECTILE DYSFUNCTION 6c
I have many patients who have certified that it works like a charm ! http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/34596/

TONSILLITIS 30c
Helps to alleviate the swelling and pain. This remedy is only effective if used as soon as the tonsils show signs of discomfort. Chronic cases have to be treated with an antibiotic. This remedy controls the formation of Tonsiloliths or Tonsil Stones and has to be taken on a daily basis to be effective in this control.

DIABETES 30c

I consider that this is easily my most important discovery which I made quite accidentally 3 years ago when I gave Arnica 30c to a MD who was a Type I Diabetic to help cure a chronic non healing wound. He informed me on the day after he took 2 doses that his Blood Sugar had dropped drastically and refused to use it anymore as he felt that it was some mysterious medicine which he did not wish to experiment with as he was already on Insulin which he injected himself 4 times daily.

I then gave this remedy to two Type II Diabetics and discovered that they had the same reaction when their BS dropped considerably similar to the drop caused by Metformin. I then prescribed 1/4 teaspoonful Cinnamon powder to be used twice daily and have many patients who are able to control their ailment without recourse to the standard drugs used for the control of Diabetes.

HYPERTENSION 30C
Many patients with High Blood Pressure have confirmed that they are able to control their ailment without resorting to the usual drugs prescribed to control BP with Arnica 30c in the wet dose, 1 teaspoonful taken twice daily

CHOLESTEROL AND TRIGLYCERIDES 30c
Many who were on various Lipid type drugs have reported that they noticed marked improvements in their blood levels. They were all prescribed Arnica 30c, 1 teaspoonful taken in the wet dose twice daily.

ALCOHOLISM 30C
Many Alcoholics have confirmed that they lose their craving for that next drink within a few days of starting on this remedy. Many have been able to stay dry for months and one permanently after starting on the remedy which is taken twice daily. 1 teaspoonful taken twice daily.

SMOKING 30c
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/41764/1
I have received reports from chronic smokers who have in some cases been smoking 50 cigarettes per day that after a few days on Arnica 30 they noticed a marked decrease of their craving for a smoke. A few smokers have been able to quit the habit.

MELASMA 30c
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/75130
Reduced brown spots on her upper cheek bone which she had from 1996 in just 2 days.

IMPROVES EYESIGHT
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/78188/
Improvement in eyesight of both husband and wife who discovered that they do not need spectacles to watch TV.
BLEEDING (MENSTRUAL) 30c
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/79462/
This was the case of a 50 year old lady who had uncontrollable bleeding for 2 weeks which was arrested within a few hours after the first dose of Arnica 30c. I have subsequently use Arnica to help many patients who presented with bleeding which I understand is quite common in women prior to their menopause.

I can think of 2 patients who consulted me in the recent past who were prescribed Folic acid and injections of iron to help restore their Haemoglobin levels which dropped to alarming levels due to years of suffering from a continuous loss of blood. I was amazed to learn that their blood loss was arrested and the patients were cured by using Arnica 30c in the wet dose taken twice daily within a week.

In the case of one woman who was suffering from Endometriosis and Blood Loss her gynaecologists had given her very strong analgesics to alleviate her pain and this drug was having other after effects on her liver and she was compelled to stop it and suffer agonizing pain. She was advised to have a Hysterectomy but she was scared of the surgery and consulted me.

I gave her Bellis Perennis 30c in the wet dose taken bd for her Endometriosis and Arnica 30c also taken bd for her Blood loss. She reported within a week that she had her normal period which stopped in just 4 days for the first time in 18 months and that in about 10 days her pain from the Endometriosis was completely cured. She can now be considered as cured.

CYST ON VOCAL CHORDS CURED 30c
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/79686/
This is the case of a patient who was saved from surgery to stop bleeding from a cyst on his vocal chords which the surgeon did not wish to operate on because it was bleeding. Arnica cured his problem in just 11 days.

GOUT IN BIG TOE CURED IN 3 DAYS 200c
http://www.abchomeopathy.com/forum2.php/80901/
The patient reported severe pain and was surprised to discover that there was almost immediate relief which continued over 3 days.

I would like to place on record that I have used Arnica every day since 1996. I can personally vouch for the fact that it is absolutely safe in daily use and can be considered a great blessing to those who use it regularly every night. Many who have met me cannot believe that I am 77 years old as they invariably estimate my age at 15 to 20 years younger than I really am. My skin does not show any signs of aging and I do not have any ache or pain in my body. My BP is 120/80 with pulse 65. I have no doubt that I owe my present state of wellness to Arnica.

I too can vouch for this amazing benefit that I and many others have received by taking just one teaspoonful of Arnica 6c or 30c daily. I discovered this quite accidentally in 1997 when I had been taking Arnica 30 for a year. I discovered that I did not need my glasses anymore and my correction at that time was -5.5 and I was unable to read a vehicle number plate other than by almost coming up to it. A cataract was also identified in my left eye in 1996 and it is interesting to record that up to date this cataract has not increased as cataracts usually do within a couple of years.

I can only attribute this benefit of having being able to discard my glasses and also not having to have an implant up to date is due to my nightly dose of Arica 30. I would recommend that this remedy is taken on a daily basis by all who read this post irrespective of the warnings that the classical homeopaths give on not taking any homeopathic remedy on a daily basis. I have been a willing test case and can report that this daily usage of just one teaspoonful has done me and many others who have followed my advice, a great of good. Arnica has also helped to control Diabetes and many other ailments which I have recorded in a post above.

Arnica as Good as Ibuprofen Gel for Arthritis Pain
By Jeremy Appleton, ND, CNS

Healthnotes Newswire (April 12, 2007)—Arnica (Arnica montana) , also known as leopard's bane, has been used as a topical medicine since at least the sixteenth century. Now modern clinical research shows it to be equal to topical ibuprofen in treating osteoarthritis of the hands.

Herpes Zoster, Shingles, [revenge of the childhood chickenpox]. I'm recuperating from this excruciatingly painful disease, three weeks, now. Not much available here in alt. med/homeopathic practitioner. My MD started me on acyclovir, an antibiotic [started as earache, I could not see the rash, but I think I did have ear infection as well] and for pain hydrocodone [5 mg] with acetaminophen [500 mg]. Prescribe enough for 10 days. Aspirin and naproxen had done nothing to ease the pain. After 10 days, still much pain, partially relieved by acetaminophen, but not completely. I did search this forum and found nothing in the early days. The news on the Net about this, that pain can go on and on was quite discouraging, as was the pain. A few days ago I was searching in my med stash for something else and found my Arnica Ointment tube [Bioron brand] "Pain Relief, Trauma, Bruises"--why not try it. No open sores left. I had taken two acetaminophen, yet still there was distracting pain. This outbreak was behind my left ear with pain from high on the left side of head radiating down though my neck. Massaged in the ointment. Pretty soon the pain was gone. I still have some slight pain, however last night I slept all night. I haven't used acetaminophen since yesterday morning, massage in ointment a few times per day with just slight pain now and then. Yippee

Thanks. For now I only have Arnica 30X, but have just ordered 6c and 30c [diabetes & HBP, too]. Hard to get in this neck of the woods--not exactly homeopathy land. I thought of looking you up last Nov when I was in SL for World Congress [I stayed in Wellawata], but got typhoid fever. It was rough, took the wind out of my sails. Not sure I'll return this Nov--wait & see.

You may use the 30x potency instead of the 6c as it is almost the equivalent.

I believe that it should also help with both your Diabetes and Hypertension but I have not used this potency and cannot guarantee results.

Good to know that you were here in Sri Lanka for the World Congress last November. I cannot understand how you contracted Typhoid which is rare. If you ate raw salads, this may have been the reason. I presume that you were treated with Ciprofloxacin which is the drug of choice but the delay in the diagnosis would have caused you some distress and you suffered from the after effects of the infection. How are you faring today ?

You are welcome to meet me if you do arrive next November.

Update : Shingles pain not gone [I've had pain 4 weeks], but kept at bay with Arnica. Received 30c order [now 6c has arrived so I'll make that and use] and made wet dose. Prefer it to ointment, since it's messy in my hair and wet dose works. I let it go until I feel pain again to see how that's going, then apply wet dose with cotton ball and pain gets very diminished. Also, now there is itching, which is usually a sign of healing. I haven't taken any more acetaminophen, and I really didn't want to take any more hydrocodone. Cold drinks temporarily increase pain, I guess because it is in my head. Seems I'm in a very Arnica phase. ;- }

I am confident that Arnica 30c taken internally and the 6c applied on the scalp will help.

Transfer from HerpesZoster:
1. I'm not getting notifcations of replies, so I owe you one.
2. Since Arnica is healing old trauma [physical, emotional, spiritual] I want to add that a person can experience emotional outbursts/reactions, such as I've had [alone not against others] such as crying--not to worry, it is a release, just do it from spiritual healing experiences] Sometimes things happen and we can't cry about it at the time.
3. Increased libido for woman, too.

From HerpesZoster thread:
Weekly update: Now I have only occasional twinges of pain along the affected nerve, slight though. Haven't applied wet dose Arnica 6C to scalp for several days, now. Still taking Arnica 30C wet dose twice daily, and will continue due to diabetes, HBP. A bonus improvement: at the home of my daughter/son-in-law they have stairs and in past my left knee is somewhat painful on bending on them. Now that pain is just very slight. I forgot to keep wet dose in frige, it's hot these days, so it turned into more of a science experiment that I wanted ;- ), so I bought some grain alcohol [ethyl alcohol, ethanol by other names] and made a new batch and added that.

Can Arnica 30c be followed after M potency silica??

Yes.

Joe

If you could give me some advise regarding my case. I had a posting for you regarding Silica antidoting.

It has been 2 months since I was given Silica M and I ahave gone through extreme aggravations as well as the effetcs have not been good to my mind and body.

Right now my skin has gone very dry after silica and it has aslo made facial hair very coarse. I feel warm inside the body and hot weather seems to bother me.

Can you suggest any remedy to take after these kind of effects that can have some positive effect on the skin and hair and also help with sleep. You have been stating that arnica is a good remedy but should it be followed in this case.

Also If someone is sensitive to react to the remedies should he go for a wet dose rather then a dry one.

Thanks

I cannot believe that you are suffering from the after effects of Slicea M which you state you took (for which ailment?) 2 months ago.

However since you seem to be very sensitive to its after effects, I do not see any contraindication to your taking Arnica 30c in the Wet dose twice daily to see if it can help you. It will help your hair and your skin and will also improve your sleep.

It is possible that you suffer from Hypothyroidism and a blood test to check your TSH level can be useful. Your complaint "I feel warm inside the body and hot weather seems to bother me" is a pointer to a possible problem with your TSH or Thyroid Stimulating Hormone level.

| Re:Arnica Montana | By: taimur | April 8 2009 |
|---|---|---|

Yes Joe that is exactly what has happened. I am now into my third month and silica just does not seem to either stop working and leave my system. I can get a reaction from anything. Sometimes my facial hair becomes very thick if i take hot shower or it becomes normal other times. If i take any allopathic medicines there is a reaction in the body as well.

I have no way to determine what is happening inside my body but it seems to me that silica wants to keep me in a ceratin state physically and menatlly and if anything alters its effects then it causes a distressful reaction in my body. I get back into the memory sequence and silica again follows the sequence and brings me to where it feels I should be.

I have just had a complete blood work done with hormones and thyroid and they have all come up negative. I did not feel so hot and respond worse to warm weather before silica.

Can you please advise as to how can one make a homeopathic remedy stop working totally and if I am still experiencing these effects in the 3 month when should silica stop working. Can you take a lower dosage of the same remedy like 6c to see if it will antidote it once for all.

Please read Udaya's post addressed to you on the Nux Vomica thread which is a detailed answer to your question.

I shall copy the paragraph which I consider is most relevant to you:

"If you think you are sick, you will be sick, think that you are getting better, you will automatically be healthy. To divert attention get into some excercises like aerobics etc. Going around blaming the medicines or the doctors who have treated you in goodwill, is not be a solution to any problems or the sensitivity within anyone or peculiar to anyone. Some update about taking Arnica 6C wet dose. I cannot say it improved my diabetes situation, because it was before I started taking it my blood sugar situation improved to the point I started getting hypoglycemia during the night or early morning. It always wakes me up and I can feel the effects--weak, shakey, so i take sugar in some form. This was because of my doing hand reflexology. I started Arnica on a regular basis while having shingles (herpes zoster). Wonderful for that agony. Recently noticed where my hairline was receding on each side (like my fater's did) not too bad, though, there is new hair growing there. In the last two years I've two bouts of high fever, one from typhoid, one from flu. Lost a lot of hair after each, but new hair is coming in to replace. Also, seems my thyroid became too low and slightly anemic, so working on those, too. I take iodine transdermally by painting it on a patch of skin that clothes won't touch while it dries/is absorbed. I had forgotten to do that for quite a while.

Hi Elaine,

Many patients who were suffering from Hair Loss have confirmed that they overcame their ailment with Arnica 6c in the Wet dose and Arnica Q mixed into an emulsion with Olive oil massaged into the hair roots. The growth of hair that you reported is directly due to your taking Arnica 6c.

Shingles or Herpes Zoster will soon be cured by Arnica 6c taken twice daily. The remedy water can be applied directly on the lesions as often as is possible to accelerate the cure which should occur in about a week.

Please visit the link below to see a video of how bad Herpes Zoster can be.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2CfNVKvMLGM

I was surprised to note that you contacted Typhoid a few years ago. Did you contact it here in Sri Lanka when you were last here a few years ago ?

Thyrodinum 6c in the wet dose will also help your Hypothyroidism.

| More about Arsenic Album Constituion/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 23 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Arsenicum album (Arsenic)

This remedy is made of white arsenic oxide; in the raw, pure form it provides a strong poison and in the potentiated forms it turns out to be a great medicine.

The basic idea in homoeopathic Arsenicum is fearful anxiety, restlessness and nervous exhaustion.

Arsenicum-personalities are great organizers; they work hard and purposeful. They are ambitious people, competitive; they like to be the best. They are proud of their achievements. Delegation is difficult for them because they wish to stay in control. They are convinced that they are right. Arsenicum-bosses or -parents or -teachers will try to get the best out of their employees, children or students, but they will probably do it in a dominant way. If they notice that you try to give your best, they will support you a 100 %, but if they find that you don't give yourself totally to the good cause, they can completely let you down and consider that very rightful. These are very critical people who will inform you clearly about their sympathy and their antipathy - and be sure that there is nothing in between.

Arsenicums are perfectionists, attending every detail. These are the persons that won't rest before the paintings hang perfectly straight, or who will verify the maid's work by checking if there's any dust left in hidden corners. An Arsenicum-personality who feels well is worth his or her weight in gold for an organization, but if they are unbalanced they will be nervous, restless, deeply worried and they can be burned out.

These people feel a great anxiety about their health, their own wellbeing and that of loved ones. Somehow they always foresee bad things happening to people they care about. I think this can at least be partly explained by their great fear of death. Their anxiety about their health shows itself in several ways. They will read medical encyclopedias and go from doctor to doctor, assuming that their disease is incurable. As a patient they can be quite demanding asking for help, explaining their complaints in detail and making sure that you'll understand how serious their situation is. They will take exaggerated precautions to avoid infections and decayed food. They can obsessively clean their house and themselves, etc. Arsenicums also show great interest in the health of others.

Arsenicum-characters fear poverty very much. They are afraid of thieves and will hide their money everywhere. Possessions give them some feeling of security.

They like to be surrounded by people to calm down their fear of thieves, their insecurity about their health, their fear of death and their fear to be alone. The basic fear of Arsenicums is that life itself is beyond control. They try to get hold on life by dividing it into strict schemes, structures and sequences.

Of course all this fear and anxiety leads to physical exhaustion and to restlessness in people who have an industrious and nervous character. And the greater the suffering the greater the anguish, restlessness and fear of death. Arsenicums can also react very irritable and they are easily offended. If they feel they can't take anymore, or if they find themselves in a situation they can't alter, they can become indifferent and depressed. In this situation they might try to find relief in alcoholics.

Arsenicums feel worse during the dark hours of the night, when the unconsciousness takes over the daily control. Especially between 1.00 and 3.00 o'clock all their symptoms aggravate. They are very restless sleepers, constantly changing position, or moving from one bed to another in order to find relief for the tortured mind and exhausted body. Fears and worries will keep them sleepless or cause nightmares.

These are very chilly persons often experiencing burning pains. Cold in general, as well as cold food or drinks will aggravate their condition. Although they feel a great thirst for cold water they will only take small sips of it at a time.

Well-known complaints are problems with the bronchial tubes like asthma, bronchitis and colds. The digestion can be disturbed because of sensitiveness of the organs, as a reaction on cold or decayed food, or caused by fears and worries. This will lead to diarrhea with an offensive odor. There is a tendency to bleedings, like hemorrhoids with a stitching and burning pain. This is an important medicine for skin-eruptions and allergies. Infections can lead to ulcers, gangrene or malignancy. Arsenicum symptoms return or aggravate periodically.

There is a general amelioration from heat, except for the headaches - these are better by cold applications. Furthermore Arsenicums feel better in company.

The central theme of Ars Alb. is, of course, anxiety.

This may cause disturbance of sleep, waking early and constant worry.

Fixed ideas, obstinate and quarrelsome. Violent anger.

The classic picture of fastidiousness may not be apparent.

Pain in elbow and knee joints from sports and similar activities.

Ailments worse from cold, better from warm aplications and pressure (throat, back). Pain in larynx, worse talking.

Headache from fasting.

Desires sweets as well as condiments. Wants to eat food piping hot.

Scanty menses.

Constipation, piles.

Generally right sided.

Restless feet.

ARSENICUM IODATUM
Iodide of Arsenic

Is to be preferred for persistently irritating, corrosive discharges. The discharge irritates the membrane from which it flows and over which it flows. The discharge may be fetid, watery, and the mucous membrane is always red, angry, swollen; itches and burns. Influenza, hay-fever, old nasal catarrhs, and catarrh of middle ear. Swelling of tissues within the nose. Hypertrophied condition of eustachian tube and deafness. Senile heart, myocarditis and fatty degeneration. Pulse shotty. Chronic aortitis. Epithelioma of the lip. Cancer of breast after ulceration has set in.

It seems probable that in Arsenic iod, we have a remedy most closely allied to manifestations of tuberculosis. In the early stages of tuberculosis, even though there is an afternoon rise in temperature, Ars jod is very effective. It will be indicated by a profound prostration, rapid, irritable pulse, recurring fever and sweats, emaciation; tendency to diarrhœa. Chronic pneumonia, with abscess in lung. Hectic; debility; night sweats.

This remedy is also to be remembered in phthisis with hoarse, racking cough and profuse expectoration of a purulent nature, and attended with cardiac weakness, emaciation and general debility; in chronic, watery diarrhœa in phthisical subjects; in cases of emaciation with good appetite; in amenorrhœa, with anæmic palpitation and dyspnœa. In chronic pneumonia, when abscess is about to form. Great emaciation. Arteriosclerosis, myocardial degeneration and senile heart. Threatened pyæmia (Pyrog; Methyl blue).

Head.--Vertigo, with tremulous feeling, especially in aged.

Nose.--Thin, watery, irritating, excoriating discharge from anterior and posterior nares; sneezing. Hay-fever. Irritation and tingling of nose constant desire to sneeze (Pollanin). Chronic nasal catarrh; swollen nose; profuse, thick, yellow discharge; ulcers; membrane sore and excoriated. Aggravation by sneezing.

Throat.--Burning in pharynx. Tonsils swollen. Thick membrane from fauces to lips. Breath fetid, glandular involvement. Diphtheria. Chronic follicular pharyngitis.

Eyes and Ears.--Scrofulous ophthalmia. Otitis, with fetid, corrosive discharge. Thickening of tympanum. Burning, acrid coryza.

Stomach.--Pain and pyrosis. Vomiting an hour after food. Nausea distressing. Pain in epigastrium. Intense thirst; water is immediately ejected.

Respiratory.--Slight hacking cough, with dry and stopped-up nostrils. Pleuritis exudativa. Chronic bronchitis. Pulmonary tuberculosis. Pneumonia that fails to clear up. Broncho-pneumonia after grippe. Cough dry, with little difficult expectoration. Aphonia.

Fever.--Recurrent fever and sweats. Drenching night-sweats. Pulse rapid, feeble, weak, irregular. Chilly, cannot endure cold.

Skin.--Dry, scaly, itching. Marked exfoliation of skin in large scales, leaving a raw exuding surface beneath. Ichthyosis. Enlarged scrofulous glands. Venereal bubo. Debilitating night-sweats. Eczema of the beard; watery, oozing, itching; worse, washing. Emaciation. Psoriasis. Acne hard, shotty, indurated base with pustule at apex.

Relationship.--Compare: Tuberculinum; Antimon iod. In hay-fever, compare: Aralia; Naphthalin; Rosa; Sang nit.

Dose.--Second and third trituration. Ought to be prepared fresh and protected from light. Continued for some time. Clinically, it has been found advisable in tuberculosis to begin with about the 4x and gradually go lower to the second x trit, 5 grains 3 times a day.

Dear Khatri,

You cannot make this remedy at home, though you can use a 3c base and potentise it to raise the potency further.

I would recommend, a slightly higher potency say 6c or 12c can be tried.

But then again, it depends on the nature of ailments, we are talking about. Different parts of body, respond differntly to different potencies and they more or less coincide with the chakra frequencies..

Best

Mugwort: Artemisa Vulgaris

Other Names: Muggins, Muggert Kail, Fat Hen, Sailor's Tobacco, Motherwort, Smotherwood, Gallwood, Docko, Felon Herb, St. John's Herb

Planet: Venus Element: Earth
Gender: Feminine
Deities: Artemis and Diana

Magickal Properties: Astral projection, Strength, Protection, Healing, Divination, and Clairvoyance.

History
In medevil times this herb was called Motherwort. Witches used and still use mugwort as a medicine. It was believed that rubbing the leaves over the body pervented hauntings. Also wearing it around the neck prevented dreaming of ghosts and possession by evil spirits. It was also used to flavor beer before hops were used.

Magickal Uses
Used in a dream pillow, it can invoke prophetic dreams. When steeped in water to make a tea it is used to wash crystal balls, scrying mirrors and scrying bowls. Set a few leaves under a crystal ball to inhance visions. Hang a sprig over doorways or windows to keep evil spirits away.

Growing and Cultivation
Viable seeds are rarely produced in North America. Mugwort is propagated mainly by rhizomes or the root system. Once planted it spreads rapidly and is difficult to control. So if you want this one in your garden and you don't want it to take over, it's important to have deep sound borders around it. It can grow up to 6 feet tall and the leaves can be up to 2 to 4 inches long. Mugwort looks alot like chrysanthemum. You can tell the difference by the white or light gray hairs or a whitish downy on the under side of the leaves with the tops being a dark green. It is also similar to ragweed but ragweed lacks the distinctive sent of mugwort. If planting seeds, plant in fall or early spring. I would advise planting in small flats rather than directly into the soil. This way you can control them better. Once they start they will grow rapidly, and can be difficult to control as I stated earlier. When harvesting, cut off a few sprigs and tie into a bundle and hang to dry ! in a cool dry area. As with all leaf harvesting they should be cut off before the buds of the plant begin to bloom.

Medicina Uses
Mugwort can be used as a digestive stimulant in cases of constipation. A compress of the tea can be used to speed the healing of bruises. It can promote menstration and uterine circulation. Mugwort tea can be used to promote a calming effect before bedtime or as an aid for motion sickness. Also used as an alternative for expelling parasites like intestinal worms. Use as a gargle for a sore throat. The leaves have an antibacterial action. When made into a poultice the leaves can be put over small wounds to aid in healing. Also used as an insect repellent.

WARNING: NOW HEAR THIS!!!

Mugwort is toxic when used in large doses or over a prolonged period. Never use with children. Prolonged contact with skin over time may cause irritation. Never use during pregnancy as mugwort causes uterine contractions, hence, possiable miscarriage. Always always remember, before starting any herbal supplement, talk to your doctor first.

MUGWORT TEA

1 teaspoon dried mugwort leaves
1 teaspoon dried chamomile flowers
1 teaspoon dried sweet woodruff leaves

Combine all ingredients and add 1 teaspoon of mix to 1 cup boiling water. Steep for 10 to 15 min. Strain. Drink hot before going to bed or when you just want to relax. May also mix mugwort with pasion flower and lobelia instead of chamomile and woodruff for same effect.

MUGWORT DREAM PILLOW

Combine equal parts of dried mugwort leaves with lavender flowers, chamomile flowers and hops. Mix well. Sew together a 12X12 inch piece of light weight cotton fabric, leaving one end open to add the mix. Once the mix is added sew the last end closed. Place near your pillow when you go to bed.

You May also use this mix in a fragrant potpourri by adding 1/2 part orris root to retain the sent.

Try making a wreath or a spray of dried mugwort flowers. It adds a lovely sent to any doorway or room.

Hing (Heeng)

We call in Hing in India. Plant is milky and extremely pungent. Some people say it smells bad but some love it.

It milk is extracted and then mixed with dough. Quality varies with the amount of dough added because it stays extremely pungent.

In all over India it is used in food espacially in the food with lots of proteins so it helps to digest.

In folk remedies it is used for bloating and belching with marvellous results. I have personally seen its effect. In small babies a piece is attached with naval button and baby reflexes and air is relieved off the tummy.

One can always buy it from any East Indian/Pakistani grocery store. Ask for Hing, if it smells, you got it.

The biggest change I've experienced with asafoetida 6x is much larger bowl movements. My guess would be that it has helped the spasms brought on by trauma when I injured my hip/back. I started having SEVERE bloating around my bra strap, acid reflux and stiffness and pain all over after my injury. Homeopathy has helped with bloating, acid reflux and stiffness but I have a long way to go still.

Most insect bites and stings cause small reactions that are confined to the area of the bite (localised reactions). They can usually be treated at home. However, if your symptoms are severe, see your GP as soon as possible.
Reference: http://www.md-health.com/Bug-Bite-Remedies.html
Consider a home remedy. Home remedies haven't been proven scientifically, but usually they won't hurt you if you want to try them.

Asafoetida contains resin, gum, volatile oil and ash. The resin consists Chiefly of asaresinotennol, free or combined with ferulic acid. Umbelliferone seems to be present in the combined state.

Healing Power and Curative Properties

Asafoetida has been held in great esteem amongst indigenous medicines from the earliest times in India. It is reputed as a drug which expels wind from the stomach and counteracts any spasmodic disorders. It is also a nervine stimulant, digestive agent and a sedative.

Respiratory Disorders

Asafoetida is useful in the treatment of respiratory disorders like whooping cough, asthma and bronchitis. About 3 to 6 centigrams of this gum, mixed with 2 teaspoons of honey, a quarter teaspoon of white onion juice and I teaspoon of betel leaf juice, taken thrice daily would keep the patient away from such disorders.

Hysteria

The herb is an effective remedy for hysteria. Inhaling this gum prevents hysterical attacks. An emulsion made by 2 grams of the gum with 120 mI of water is a valuable enema per rectum in treating hysteria, when oral dosage not advisable.

Impotency

The herb is beneficial in the treatment of impotency. Aboaut 6 centigrams of asafoetida should be fried in ghee and mixed with honey and a teaspoon of fresh latex of banyan tree. This mixture should be taken once daily for 40 days before sunrise. It is also considered a specific medicine for spennatorrhoea and premature ejaculation.

Children's Disorders

The herb is extensively used in the treatment of nervous disorders of children. There is an old European belief that a small piece of this gum, hung around a child's neck, would protect it from many diseases, especially germs which are sensitive to its particular odour.

Women's Ailments

The herb is considered useful in the treatment of several problems concerning women such as sterility, unwanted abortion, pre-mature labour, unusually painful, difficult and excessive menstruation and leucorrhoea. About 12 centigrams of gum fried in ghee mixed with 120 grams of goat's fresh milk and a tablespoon of honey, should be given thrice daily for a month. It excites the secretion of progestrone hormone.

Asafoetida is also useful for women after childbirth. Owing to its antiflatulent and digestive properties, the herb can be taken with beneficial results during the post-delivery period. In southern India, the powder of the herb mixed with rice is given to women after delivery.

Stomach Disorders

The herb is an effective remedy for several diseases of the stomach. It is one of the best remedies available for flatulence and is an essential ingredient for most of the digestive powders.

In case of flatulence and distension of the stomach, asafoetida should be dissolved in hot water and a pad of cloth steeped in it may be used for fomenting the abdomen.

Toothache

Asafoetida is useful in alleviating toothache. After being pestled in lemon juice, it is slightly heated. A cotton piece, soaked in the lotion and placed in the cavity of the tooth, relieves pain quickly.

Preparation and Doses:

Asafoetida fried in ghee is administered either as a solution, emulsion or pills. The dose is 30 to 90 centigrams. The solution is made by thoroughly mixing 20 grams of the gum with half a liter of hot water. The dosage for adults is one to two tablespoons and one-fourth to half for children.

Other Uses

Antidote of Opium:
The herb is used as an antidote of opium. Given in the same quantity as opium ingested by the patient, it will counteract the effect of the drug.
The gum resin is relished as a condiment in India and Iran where it is used to flavour curries, meatballs, daI and pickles. It is used in Europe and the United States in perfumes and for flavouring. The whole plant is used as a fresh vegetable.

Thank you, Udaya, for recommending the asafoetida powder. I picked some up right away at my local Indian store. The picture helped because the sales person didn't know what Asafoetida was. I had to return to the store with a picture of the container. As soon as she saw the picture, she knew what it was. I left her the literature.

Here is the link again that Udaya posted earlier to the picture.

http://www.wiseshe.com/2010/04/all-about-asafoetida.html

As instructed by Udaya, I made it into a paste. I applied it to the belly button several times yesterday. I immediately noticed that it is working on my water retention. It appears to work on the kidneys also.

Do not over do. The substance you have purchased is Asafotida

( It may carry local name as Hing in HIndi or Kayam in Tamil and Malayalam). You can continue it once a day if needed.

Aspen (Populus tremula)

Dread, apprehension, fear that has no reason.

Fear that comes on anytime - panic attacks in the daytime, night terrors.
Such people often invite ridicule and impatience, since they can point to no cause for their fear, but nonetheless suffer terribly.
These people are likely to develop palpitations or trembling of the body.

For fears that are specific, better to try Mimulus. It is important to differentiate between Aspen & Mimulus.

ASPEN
======
Aspen is for vague fears of unknown origin, apprehensions.

Regarding ASPEN, Dr Bach says, "Vague unknown fears, for which there can be given no explanation, no reason. Yet the patient may be terrified of something terrible going to happen, he knows not what. These vague unexplainable fears may haunt by night or day. Sufferers often are afraid to tell their trouble to others."

========
"Mimulus is the remedy for known fears. In other words whenever you are frightened of something or you are anxious about something, and you can say what that something is, then Mimulus is the remedy to take."

"Fear of worldly things, illness, pain, accidents, poverty, of dark, of being alone, of misfortune. The fears of everyday life. These people quietly and secretly bear their dread, they do not freely speak of it to others."

Here the patient's fear is very specific -fear of FLYING. Mimulus might match this case better.

If some patient has got specific as well as vague fears, a combination of Aspen and Mimulus can be given.

Make Aurum Metallicum

Anytime I need Aurum Metallicum, I boil a piece of gold jewellery for 20 minutes and use that water as homeopathy mediicne.

This can also be done to make Argentum, in that case I boil a silver ware espacially to treat nervous kind of people. Most of these people are heart patient.

Same can be done to make Cuprum Metallicum medicine.

This is really interesting bit of information!
how much water is one dose in this case?

Very relevent question for this thread, thanks.

How much water is one dose?

First clean your jewellery or I would rather say boil it first and discard first batch of water. Then with a rock scrap off a tiny bit of polish from the jewellery piece.

Wash it again and boil it in 1/2 liter of water till water is 1/2 evaporated. So you got 1/4 liter of medicine.

Two drops of this under the tongue is sufficient to show effect.

Same thing can be done with Silver, Copper, Nickle and Lead but be careful with lead. With Lead (Plumbum) boiled water should be further diluted to at least 3C. Or one drop of lead boiled water in one liter furhter dilution.

Aurum metallicum (Gold)

Aurum is gold. Astrology places the metal gold under reign of the Sun. Through nuclear reactions the Sun generates its own energy. The planets are born from the Sun; the Sun is in a way the father/mother of the family of our solar system. All life on the diverse planets depends on the Sun. Now, knowing this about the Sun, it is understandable that people who need Aurum have a very strong feeling of responsibility and the idea that they have to solve all their problems by themselves.

In astrology the Sun symbolizes our core, our spirit, our individuality, our deepest self. Astrology associates the Sun with these qualities: courage, self-consciousness, self-trust, self-respect, nobleness, sense of honor, human dignity, the truth in your heart, vitality, radiance, life-force. And indeed, in balanced Aurum-people these characteristics are clearly visible. In unbalanced Aurum-characters however - and these are the persons who need the homoeopatic Aurum - the Sun seems to have stopped shining: instead of radiating their own individuality they show a tendency to annihilate the I. Aurum is known for its merciless self-criticism, self-condemnation and very deep depressions with often a suicidal disposition.

Aurum-personalities are correct, honest and responsible people with some sort of natural leadership (remember the central position of the Sun). They are ambitious, work hard and are often successful. Money, gold, a material position is important, because they represent appreciation. Aurum-characters demand the utmost from themselves and the persons in their surroundings. Failure is not an option. They really give themselves to succeed in their life-goal, and if that does not work out well they consider everything to be lost. They keep themselves totally responsible for failures, punishing themselves with heavy self-criticism and the idea that their whole life is completely ruined when something goes wrong. They can even have the feeling of being fallen out of the divine grace.

So Aurums can suffer very much inside. Criticism of others touches them right into their heart, but they also undermine themselves with self-criticism; they can be so much out of balance that in their desperation and severe depression suicide is considered to be the only way out. Yet their pain and sorrow can remain totally unnoticed by their surroundings. Aurums namely don't easily give up, they keep on working as long as possible, they try to solve their own problems, they try to keep their dignity and they don't talk easily about their deep feelings. From time to time you read stories about a businessman who built up a large company by hard working, the last time troubles arose, there was a chance of going bankrupt, but the man positively tried to save his company, worked 18 hours a day, his employees had faith that he would make it, and suddenly one day he jumped out of the window and was found dead, while nobody around him had any idea of his inner suffering. Now this man definitely was an Aurum.

The Indian homoeopath Sankaran places this central feeling with Aurum: the eldest child from a family with an absent father, so this child has to take too much responsibility. Indeed I have experienced that Aurum cases quite often appear in families with only one parent (by divorce, or by early death of a parent) or in families with a chronic sick child or parent, so a stronger person within that family has to take over too many tasks or to grow up too soon.

Aurum-personalities can develop complaints because of: (self) criticism, grief, loss of a love-relationship, death of loved ones, bankruptcy, loss of money, loss of dignity, offence, heavy emotions like anger, irritability and disappointment. They can become very obstinate when they are under pressure. You won't be surprised that Aurums feel better during daytime: the sunshine makes their darkness a little bit lighter. Also classical or religious music help (often these people are religious), as well as being outdoors. At night they feel worse.

Well-known Aurum-complaints are depression, heart-problems, terrible pains in bones and joints, severe headaches. But also other complaints are possible.

Rescue Remedy

...is the most famous of the remedies, but in fact is not a remedy at all, but rather a mix of five different remedies (Cherry Plum, Clematis, Impatiens, Rock Rose and Star of Bethlehem) which together help deal with any emergency or stressful event. Taking a driving test, exam nerves, speaking in public, after an accident or an argument - there are countless uses for Rescue Remedy.

In an emergency Rescue Remedy can be taken neat from the bottle, four drops at a time, and as frequently as required. Otherwise put four drops in a glass of water and take frequent sips until the emotions have calmed.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

How do you know if you have herpes? ( http://www.md-health.com/How-Do-You-Know-If-You-Have-Herpes.html ) The truth is that many people have herpes and don't know it because they are asymptomatic or their symptoms are so mild that they don't know they have the disease. If you think you may have herpes, you should watch carefully for the first signs of the condition.

BACILLINUM BURNETT
A Maceration of a Typical Tuberculous Lung introduced by Dr. Burnett
(BACILLINUM)

Has been employed successfully in the treatment of tuberculosis; its good effects seen in the change of the sputum, which becomes decreased and more aerated and less purulent. Many forms of chronic non-tubercular disease are influenced favorably by Bacillinum, especially when bronchorrhœa and dyspnœa are present. Respiratory pyorrhea. The patient expectorates less.

Bacillinum is especially indicated for lungs of old people, with chronic catarrhal condition and enfeebled pulmonary circulation, attacks of suffocation at night with difficult cough. Suffocative catarrh. Tubercular meningitis. Favors falling off of tartar of teeth. Constant disposition to take cold.

Head.--Irritable, depressed. Severe, deep-in headache, also as of a tight hoop. Ringworm. Eczema of eyelids.

Abdomen.--Abdominal pains, enlarged lands in groins, tabes mesenterica. Sudden diarrhœa before breakfast. Obstinate constipation, with offensive flatus.

Respiratory.--Oppression. Catarrhal dyspnœa. Humid asthma. Bubbling rales and muco-purulent expectoration. Note. This muco-purulent expectoration of bronchitic patients is equally poly-bacillary; it is a mixture of diverse species and hence Bacillinum is truly indicated (Cartier). Often relieves congestion of the lungs, thus paving way for other remedies in Tuberculosis.

Skin.--Ringworm; pityriasis. Eczema of eyelids. Glands of neck enlarged and tender.

Modalities.--Worse, night and early morning; cold air.

Relationship.--Antimon iod; Lach; Arsenic iod; Myosotis. Levico, 5-10 drops, follows as an intercurrent where much debility is present (Burnett).

Complementary: Calc phos; Kali carb.

Compare: Its effects seem to be identical to that of Koch's Tuberculinum. Both are useful in the tubercular diathesis before phthisis had developed. In the early stages of tubercular disease of glands, joints, skin and bones. Psorinum. Seems to be its chronic equivalent. Bacillin testium acts especially on lower half of the body.

Dose.--The does is important. Should not be given below the thirtieth and not repeated frequently. One dose a week often sufficient to bring about reaction. It is rapid in action, and good results ought to be seen, otherwise there is no need of repetition.

Baptisia tinctoria (L.) VENT.
©Thomas Schoepke
www.plant-pictures.com

BAPTISIA TINCTORIA.
Mind confused; as if drunk; cannot collect himself; feels scattered about, cannot get pieces together.
Face dark, dusky; eyes bleared, besotted expression.
Mouth ulcerated, with foul smell; or, dry, tongue dry in a streak down the centre.
Abdomen sensitive in right iliac region, with rumbling.
Stool loose, and urine with all other discharges; very offensive.
Awakes with oppressed feeling, must have more air.
Great prostration with aching and soreness all over. Great typhoid remedy.
Can swallow liquids only; least solid food gags.
In whatever position the patient lies the parts rested upon feel sore and bruised. (Lach., Pyr.).

* * * * *

Baptisia tinctoria will quite naturally come in here, as it is often indicated after the Gelsemium stage is over in fevers. Typhoid fever can be aborted under proper homœopathic treatment, no matter what the old school says to the contrary. I have had but one case of typhoid fever run its full course in seven years, and that was a case of a young lady whose mother tried to treat her, until the disease was fully established. The symptoms indicating Baptisia are, in the first stage, great nervousness, chilliness, aching pains all over, but especially in head, back and limbs, and a sensation of soreness all over; feels as if bruised. Then the patient grows weak, prostrated, drowsy, becomes confused, the face and eyes suffused so as to give it a "besotted appearance"; the sensorium is so blunted that the patient falls asleep even before he can answer a question, or while he is in the middle of an answer. Then the tongue becomes streaked down the middle, at first white, even becomes brown in a well-defined streak down the middle, and as he comes more fully under the typhoid influence he mutters and reaches about the bed, tossing to and fro, and if he says anything he says he feels "scattered around the bed and is trying to get the pieces together." Now the bowels begin to rumble, especially in the ilio-cæcal region, which is also sensitive to touch; later still the bowels begin to discharge, and all the discharges (stool, urine and sweat) are extremely offensive. This is a true picture of a Baptisia typhoid, and I have aborted in the first stage many cases and even checked their progress (in other cases) and cured them when they had been running eight to twelve days. I have used both the low and high preparations with equal success, but now use the 30th potency.

The symptoms of this drug are of an asthenic type, simulating low fevers, septic conditions of the blood, malarial poisoning and extreme prostration. Indescribable sick feeling. Great muscular soreness and putrid phenomena always are present. All the secretions are offensive-breath, stool, urine, sweat, etc. Epidemic influenza. Chronic intestinal toxæmias of children with fetid stools and eructations.

Baptisia in low dilutions produces a form of anti-bodies to the bac typhosus, viz, the agglutinins (Mellon). Thus it raises the natural bodily resistance to the invasion of the bacillary intoxication, which produces the typhoid syndrome. Typhoid carriers. After inoculation with anti-typhoid serum. | BAPTISIA TINCTORIA Constituion/Personality | By: sammyMalaysia | September 21 2006 |

The source for this remedy is the wild indigo plant. The Northern American Indians discovered the anti-bacterial properties of this herb and they used it for paint.

Baptisia is an acute remedy for cases of quickly arising infections and inflammations, leading to critical situations within several days. Think of it in cases of serious flu with fever, typhoid or typhus. The person suddenly falls severely ill, gets fever (not always) and becomes dull and stuporous. Almost from the beginning of the illness he makes the impression of being drunk or drugged. In several days he feels completely exhausted. His face is discolorated and swollen, black blood leaves his mouth, the belly is swollen, he raves, looks as if he has drunk far too much and reaches a semi-comatous condition. All his muscles feel bruised and all body discharges smell offensive. Halfway a sentence he will fall asleep. Or he answers correctly but falls back into his delirium or stupor immediately afterwards. The tongue is swollen, dry and cracked; the throat is purplish-red and swollen. No wonder that these persons can only swallow liquids, consuming food is impossible. There is also a feeling of constriction in the gullet.

Characteristic is the prostration of Baptisia: he cannot go to sleep because he has to gather his parts together he thinks. He is searching for lost body-parts in his bed. Or he thinks that he is two or even three persons and he cannot find rest until he has covered all persons. Or he thinks that his body-parts are communicating with each other; his great toe is for instance talking to his thumb. This is ofcourse the delirium of a severe ill person.

Baptisia has a sudden diarrhoa. The patient prefers to lie on one side. Moisty heat aggravates their condition. Walking around in fresh air ameliorates.

Baptisia tinctoria will quite naturally come in here, as it is often indicated after the Gelsemium stage is over in fevers. Typhoid fever can be aborted under proper homœopathic treatment, no matter what the old school says to the contrary. http://www.md-health.com/Definition-Of-Nutrition.html

Those who want to know how to treat acne with baking soda should begin by mixing the baking soda ( http://www.md-health.com/Baking-Soda-For-Acne.html ) with water to make a paste. This paste should be very similar in consistency to toothpaste, as it should be soft enough that it can easily be rubbed over the skin. You should also make sure that your face is wet before applying the baking soda, as this will ensure that the paste is able to be spread easily.

BARYTA CARBONICA
Carbonate of Baryta
(BARYTA CARB)

Specially indicated in infancy and old age. This remedy brings aid to scrofulous children, especially if they are backward mentally and physically, are dwarfish, do not grow and develop, have scrofulous ophthalmia, swollen abdomen, take cold easily, and then always have swollen tonsils. Persons subject to quinsy which is prone to suppurate; gums bleed easily. Diseases of old men when degenerative changes begin;-cardiac vascular and cerebral;-who have hypertrophied prostate or indurated testes, very sensitive to cold, offensive foot-sweats, very weak and weary, must sit or lie down or lean on something. Very averse to meeting strangers. Catarrh of posterior nares, with frequent epistaxis. Often useful in the dyspepsias of the young who have masturbated and who suffer from seminal emissions, together with cardiac irritability and palpitation. Affects glandular structures, and useful in general degenerative changes, especially in coats of arteries, aneurism, and senility. Baryta is a cardio-vascular poison acting on the muscular coats of heart and vessels. Arterial fibrosis. Blood-vessels soften and degenerate, become distended, and aneurisms, ruptures, and apoplexies result.

Mental and physical weakness; both ends of life; don't grow. Almost imbecile (children) feeble and tottering; childish and thoughtless (old age); loss of memory.

Tonsils inflame, swell and suppurate repeatedly, on every cold exposure; chronic hypertrophy afterwards.

Glands swell, infiltrate, hypertrophy; neck, parotids, submaxillary, groin, lymphatics, in the abdomen; hypertrophy, sometimes suppuration.

Offensive foot-sweats; toes and soles get sore; throat affections after checked foot-sweat.

Great sensitiveness to cold.

* * * * *

This is one of the leading so-called anti-scrofulous remedies. Please refer to what I said on this subject (scrofula) while writing on Sulphur. This is also one of the remedies which has one of its leading indications, like Calcarea ost., in the constitution of the patient. Complaints of dwarfish children; mind and body weak; don't grow; inclined to glandular swellings. The defective growth is both mental and physical. The weakness of the mind may amount almost to idiocy or imbecility. Then again it is equally adapted to old age, with mental and physical weakness; feeble and tottering; childishness and thoughtless behavior. It is especially adapted to apoplexy of old people, or a tendency thereto. For loss of memory in such subjects it stands equal to Anacardium. Now we see that if all this is true, Baryta carb. becomes a valuable remedy at both ends of life. Marasmus, infantile or senile, comes equally within its range. In the marasmus of children we may have to choose from among other remedies such as Silicea, Abrotanum, Natrum muriaticum, Sulphur, Calcarea and Iodine. Under all these remedies we may find emaciation of the rest of the body, while the abdomen is greatly enlarged. Again under every one of them, the child may have a voracious appetite; eat enough, but grow poor all of the time. It is defective assimilation. There are some strong points of resemblance between Baryta carb. and Silicea, namely: Offensive sweat on the feet. The head is disproportionately large for the body. Both suffer from damp changes in the weather and both are sensitive to cold about the head. But Silicea has the important diagnostic difference -profuse sweat on the head equal to that of Calcarea ost., which Baryta has not. And there is not that weakness of mind in Silicea that is found in Bryonia; on the contrary the child is self-willed and contrary.

The resemblances to the other remedies, other than those we have mentioned, are so many that we will not undertake to compare them here, but will proceed to notice some of the other strong points of Baryta.

Besides the strong action of Baryta upon the glandular system generally, it seems to have a peculiarly strong affinity for the throat, especially the tonsils, which become greatly inflamed, swollen and suppurate as a consequence of the least exposure to cold. Thus it becomes one of our most valuable therapeutic agents in old quinsy subjects. Alone it is often sufficient to abort an attack of quinsy and with an occasional dose at long intervals with a high potency, to overcome the tendency thereto. (Psorinum). But like Lachesis, Lycopodium, Phytolacca and other remedies, it must be chosen according to all the indications. Baryta is really fully as useful to change the constitutional tendencies to quinsy, as it is in the acute attack.

You will find occasionally a case of chronic cough in children with enlarged tonsils, reported in the journals as cured by this remedy. The cure of the cough depends evidently upon the power of the remedy over the condition which produced the enlarged tonsils, for aside from this I have never found it to be a great cough remedy. In tonsilitis acute or chronic which seems to have come as the result of a suppressed foot-sweat, we would immediately think of Baryta notwithstanding Silicea has more troubles arising from such suppression than any other remedy, but Silicea has not nearly the same affinity for the throat that Baryta has.

Here we will close Baryta, for while it is a remedy of the greatest value, its range is not a wide one. Some of the remedies of this kind make up for the lack of range by a positiveness within their range, and this is one of them.

Mind.--Loss of memory, mental weakness. Irresolute. Lost confidence in himself. Senile dementia. Confusion. Bashful. Aversion to strangers. Childish; grief over trifles.

| BARYTA CARBONICA Constitution/Personality | By: girilalNew Jersey USA | September 21 2006 |

The homoeopathic Baryta can be used for people of all ages;

the main characteristic is that they don't behave according to their age. Children are behind in their development, adults behave childish and old people act like children again. Baryta-characters show delayed development on the physical, emotional and mental plane.

Children are very late in walking and talking. They have difficulty learning at school because they don't easily comprehend things, they cannot make combinations and they do not remember. These are the children you have to tell the same thing a hundred times, and still their mind seems to be blank. They are shy but docile. In company they will hide away and keep quiet. They will behave like much younger children who strongly need the protection of a parent or save surroundings. Baryta's simply don't understand all that happens around them, because their mind cannot deal with several options at the same time. Therefore they will hang on to the safety of the family and rather stay by themselves instead of making friends. It are children who don't play, while playing is very important for a child's development.

Their incapability to understand the complexity of the world leads to a fear of strangers, a fear of being criticized or laughed at, and a worry for the wellbeing of relatives since they fear to loose their protection. Baryta's are very chilly, easily catching a cold, then developing one of their strong characteristics: hard and swollen tonsils.

When the children grow older you will notice another Baryta-phenomenon: several organs remain underdeveloped, especially the genitals. Girls can have underdeveloped brests and start menstruating at a very late age. Sexual desire is often low, or restricted to masturbation.

Baryta grown-ups are late in choosing a partner. They may choose a much older partner (and behave very dependent) or a partner who takes over the role of the parent. Don't be surprised if a 35 years old Baryta man brings his mother with at a consultation, or if he still lives with her and she manages all his administration, appointments, etc. Baryta's have difficulties with taking responsibilities, appearing in public and making choices. They show a great irresolution. They are late in becoming a parent, or they choose not to have children because they still feel like a child themselves.

In conversations they can make remarks that absolutely make no sense, showing that they did not get the point. And they can have big fun with childish jokes. In company of children these adults can be afraid, because they realize that these younger people are smarter and mentally quicker than they are. Baryta-men grow bold at early age, as if they move immediately from childhood to old age. They can early develop complaints with the prostate.

In old age Baryta can help people who again behave like children. The physical reason for this can be atherosclerosis/dementia.

Baryta-personalities can have a baby-face, but they can also look much older than they actually are. They may sense that they are inhaling the smoke of tobacco while they are surrounded by fresh air.

Baryta's love eggs. They very much like or dislike sweets. They often dislike fruits, especially plums and bananas.

They feel worse by company, cold and moisty weather, by lying on their painful side, and by sunheat. And they feel better when they are alone and warm clothed.

I've been fresh brewing my own iced tea using organic black tea leaves. All I mix in it is boiling and cold water...let it brew for about 15 minutes in the boiling water.

I'm just wondering if it's good for my health as I drink about 16 oz of it everyday. I like it for breakfast because it's refreshing and not as plain as water.

BARYTA MURIATICA
Barium Chloride

The different salts of Baryta are called for in organic lesions of the aged and dwarfish, both mentally and physically. Arterio-sclerosis and cerebral affections due to this condition. Headaches, but without acute crisis, occurring in old people; heaviness rather than pain. Vertigo, due to cerebral anæmia and noises in ears. Acts on lower alimentary canal, especially rectum; on muscles and joints, giving stiffness and weakness as from overwalking. The white blood corpuscles increased. Hypertension and vascular degeneration. Increased tension of pulse. Arterio-sclerosis (Aurum; Secale) where a high systolic pressure with a comparatively low diastolic tension is attended by cerebral and cardiac symptoms.

This remedy has indurated and narrowing of the cardiac orifice with pain, immediately after eating, and epigastric tenderness, which has been repeatedly verified, also its use in aneurism and chronic hypertrophy of the tonsils. Nymphomania and satyriasis. Convulsions. In every form of mania when the sexual desire is increased. Icy coldness of body, with paralysis. Multiple sclerosis of brain and cord. Voluntary muscular power gone but perfectly sensible. Paresis after influenza and diphtheria. General feeling of lassitude in the morning, especially weakness of the legs, with muscular stiffness. Children who go around with their mouth open and who talk through the nose. Stupid-appearing, hard of hearing.

Ears.--Whizzing and buzzing. Noises on chewing and swallowing, or sneezing. Earache; better sipping cold water. Parotids swollen. Offensive otorrhœa. Inflates middle ear on blowing nose.

Throat.--Difficult swallowing. Tonsils enlarged. Paresis of pharynx and eustachian tubes, with sneezing and noises. Tubes feel too wide open.

Respiratory.--Bronchial affection of old people with cardiac dilation. Facilitates expectoration. Great accumulation and rattling of mucus with difficult expectoration. Arterio-sclerosis of the lung, thus in senile asthma, modifies the arterial tension.

Stomach.--Gone feeling at epigastrium a good guiding symptom for it in chronic affections. Retching and vomiting. Sensation of heat ascending to head.

Urine.--Great increase in uric acid, diminution of chlorides.

Abdomen.--Throbbing (Selen); induration of pancreas; abdominal aneurism. Inguinal glands swollen. Spasmodic pain in rectum.

Relationship.--Compare in sclerotic degenerations, especially of spinal cord, liver, and heart. Plumbum met and Plumb iod. Also Aurum mur (which will often accomplish more in sclerotic and exudative degenerations than other remedies. Multiple sclerosis, fulgurating pains, tremors, Morvan's disease, hypertrophy of fingers).

Dose.--Third trituration. Bears repetition of dosage well.

http://www.md-health.com/Sitz-Bath.html A sitz bath is a plastic tub that fits over the toilet and can be filled with water. Sitting in the warm water for 15 to 20 minutes can provide relief from the discomfort from hemorrhoids, fistulas, anal fissures, or an episiotomy. This can be done by sitting in a bathtub filled with a few inches of water, but using a plastic sitz bath that fits over the toilet is often more convenient.

Bearberry

Arctostaphylos uva-ursi (Spreng.)
Synonyms: uva ursi, mountain cranberry, sandberry, arberry, bear's grape, kinnikinnick, mealberry, mountain box, red bearberry, sagackhomi, rockberry, upland cranberry, hogberry
Order: Ericaceae
Description: This is a small evergreen creeping shrub indigenous to Europe, Asia and the northern United States and Canada, where it grows on rocky hills. A single, long, fibrous main root sends out several prostrate or buried stems from which grow erect, branching stems up to 15cm high. The bark is dark brown or reddish. The leaves are shiny oblong, with entire margins up to 2.5cm long; the small pink to white bell-shaped flowers occur in drooping terminal racemes in groups of four to six. They give way to globular bright red berries containing several one-seeded nutlets.

Parts used: Leaves
Collection: The evergreen leaves may be collected throughout the year, but preferably in September or October.
Constituents: Hydroquinone glycosides (including 8% arbutin, methyl-arbutin and ericolin), Iridoids, 6% tannins, flavonoids, allantoin, resin (ursone), volatile oil, ursolic, malic and gallic acids.
Actions: Diuretic, astringent effect on lower digestive tract, urinary antiseptic, demulcent
Indications: cystitis, urethritis, dysuria, pyelitis, lithuria
Therapeutics and Pharmacology: Arctostaphylos has a marked antiseptic and astringent effect on the membranes of the urinary system, soothing, toning and strengthening them. It is specifically used where there is gravel or ulceration in the kidney or bladder. It may be used in the treatment of infections such as pyelitis urethritis and cystitis and is specifically indicated in acute catarrhal cystitis with dysuria and highly acid urine, where it helps to reduce accumulations of uric acid. With its high astringency it is used to treat some forms of enuresis and in diarrhea. It is also used to treat dysuria. As a douche it may be helpful in vaginal ulceration and infection. Arbutin is the principal constituent leading to antibacterial activity, inhibiting the growth of Citobacter, Enterobacter, Escherichia, Klebsiella, Proteus, Pseudomonas and Staphylococcus (Kedzia) - and also by the breakdown of ericolin to a volatile component ericinol. There is thus a delayed-action effect which manifests only at the site of action. Arbutin is converted to glucose and the antiseptic hydroquinone in the kidney tubules, but only if the urine is alkaline. Although Arctostaphylos has long been described as a diuretic, in one pharmacological study it was actually shown to inhibit diuresis.
The high tannin content of Arctostaphylos has an astringent action on the lower digestive tract, and it is used in the management of diarrhea and to reduce intestinal irritation.
Combinations: It may be combined with Althaea root, Agropyron, Zea and Barosma in cystitis.
Caution: Arctostaphylos is contraindicated during pregnancy due to its oxytocic properties. Large doses may lead to nausea and vomiting due to the high tannin content. Treatment should be of short duration (7 days) and an alkaline diet should be taken during treatment. Long-term use may produce toxic effects as large doses of hydroquinone are poisonous. The herb should perhaps be avoided if the kidney itself is affected. It may change the colour of the urine but this is harmless..

Preparation and Dosage: (thrice daily)
Regulatory status GSL
Dried leaves: 1.5-2.5g or by infusion
Concentrated Infusion B.P.C. (1934), 2-4ml
Liquid Extract: 1:1 in 25% alcohol, 1.5-2.5ml
Tincture: 1:5 in 25% alcohol, 2-4ml
Additional Comments: Uva-ursi was used in the 13th century by the Welsh Physicians of Myddfai. It was described by Clusius in 1601 and recommended for medicinal use in 1763 by Gerhard of Berlin. It appeared in the London Pharmacopoeia in 1788, though was probably in use long before. The tannin in the leaves was used in the past to tan leather in Sweden and Russia and an ash-coloured dye is said to be obtained from the plant in Scandinavia. Cattle avoid it. The leaves from A.glauca (manzanita) from California, A.polifolia from Mexico, and A.tomentosa (madrona) are also used medicinally.

Beech
Intolerence

...was described by Dr Bach as the remedy for people who 'feel the need to see more good and beauty in all that surrounds them.' Beech people - or people in a Beech state - are intolerant of people who are not just like them. They lack compassion and understanding of the different circumstances and different paths that other people are given, and fail to see that others too are working towards perfection but in different ways.

Sometimes Beech intolerance is manifested as outbursts of irritability: the remedy helps to encourage tolerance and understanding, and as this happens so the irritability also fades.

Dr Bach's description
For those who feel the need to see more good and beauty in all that surrounds them. And, although much appears to be wrong, to have the ability to see the good growing within. So as to be able to be more tolerant, lenient and understanding of the different way each individual and all things are working to their own final perfection.

- taken from The Twelve Healers and Other Remedies, which you can order from the Bach Centre.

All you need flowers, rain/mineral/river/spring water and a transparent glass pot.

1 Soak the flowers in the glass pot.
2 Place the place the pot in the sunlight for whole day.
3 At evening remove the flowers and water is your remedy.
4 Remedy can be diluted infinite times but make sure to shake the dilution vigorously otherwise it is not a homeopathy grade medicine.

To preserve the remedy you can put some Ethyl-alcohol/whisky/grain-alcohol.

Rock Water is the water from any mountain river or rather homeopathy grade Silicea.
Or soad some granite rocks in water in sunlight for a day, that is your remedy.

A Belladonna Story:

On another forum, A desperate lady in Bolivia was prescribed Belladonna but she was unable to obtain it.

I suggested her to Potentize Atropine Sulphate which is a prescreption medicine and widely available. All she needed was half a tablet to make the medicine to serve whole Bolivia for years.

Miraculously that lady was cured by potentized Atropine Sulphate which is made with Belladonna. In many countries it was used to be a non-prescription medicine but it is heavily abused as narcotic so now it is prescription medicine.

Belladonna is used for all red eruption.
Anything red on skin, first try Belladonna.

| BELLIS PERENNIS | By: sammyMalaysia | September 21 2006 |

This small plant was already used in medieval times to heal wounds and bruises. The secret is that Bellis contains a substance which contracts the muscles in the veins; therefore the blood will circulate well again on places of venous congestion.

Bellis perennis is the first remedy that comes to mind in damage of deeper body tissues, like after a great operation. It promotes the healing process, it stops or prevents suppuration, it will take off the painful pressure of wounds and soothe the pain of nerves being cut through. It is well known for its curing purposes on organs in the belly and pelvis. Affected body-parts hurt intensely and cannot be touched. The whole belly region feels bruised. It can also help pregnant women who experience a bruised feeling in the womb, making it difficult to walk.

And there's another reason why Bellis perennis is used for belly complaints: it comes at hand in stomach complaints after drinking icy cold drinks or consuming ice-cream in an over-heated body, because that will seriously slow down the blood circulation in the stomach. The result ofcourse is pain, bloating and a bruised feeling in the belly.

Following this trail we can understand that Bellis is also helpful in other complaints resulting from cooling down of the body. Think of painful muscles or rheumatic pains with a bruised feeling

And last but not least: like Arnica Bellis is a great trauma remedy for the immediate or longterm effects from falls, injuries, hits or accidents.

Bellis perennis pains get worse by warmth and touch. Usually proceded movements and cold applications ameliorate.

An important symptom of Bellis is:

The back is completely broken ....painful, there is chill in the area of the back ...like cold wind blowing on it.

There are also boils on different parts of the body.

Also...takes away ill-effects of masturbation.

Endometriosis and Heavy Bleeding
Edit/Delete this post By: Joe De Livera
Sri Lanka February 15, 2007
A patient 49 years, presented with constant bleeding after her menses on Tuesday February 8. She stated that she first started her problem about 18 months ago when she noticed unusual bleeding for some days after the 4 days which was her usual period. She consulted her doctors and since her haemoglobin levels were low, she was prescribed drugs and injections to help with this problem due to the constant loss of blood which was later diagnosed to be due to Endometriosis for which she was prescribed Danosol which seemed to help but did not cure her.

Her bleeding increased every month with clots and she was also in constant pain from her Endometriosis. She was prescribed powerful analgesics which made a bad situation worse as her haemoglobin levels were very low with the constant bleeding. She was very weak and had to give up her usual exercise routine including swimming which she had been doing for many years.

Her gynaecologist gave her the option to suffer with her constant bleeding for which they did not have any remedy except to give her injections and tablets. In the alternative she was advised to consider a Hysterectomy which they felt was the obvious solution to stop her constant loss of blood.

I gave her 2 remedies. Bellis Perennis 30c for her Endometriosis and Arnica 30c for her bleeding. Both remedies were given in the wet dose which she was instructed to take a teaspoonful twice daily. She phoned me a short while ago today, in just 9 days after she first consulted me, to report that she had had her menses for just 4 days and that she did not have any further loss of blood on the 5th day. She confirmed that this was the first time in 18 months that her period stopped as it used to do in the past, prior to the Endometriosis. She also stated that she did not experience any unusual pain and that she had stopped all her drugs from the day she started on my therapy as she did not have the usual pain for which she had been taking the powerful analgesics for the last 18 months.

I am recording this case for the benefit of members who may like to use the therapy that I have indicated as the Bellis Perennis invariably helps the patient almost instantly by relieving her of the pain usually associated with Endometriosis which I believe will resolve itself in a few months, while the Arnica stops the constant bleeding after the period.

Patients who present with extended heavy bleeding during and after Menses can be prescribed Arnica 30 in the wet dose for some months. They will also notice that the usual pain associated with their period is lessened and in many cases eliminated.

Benzoic Acid

The grand central characteristic of this remedy is found in the urine, which is scanty, of a dark brown color (like French brandy), the urinous odor being highly intensified. This odor comes at the time of passing and remains afterward. One need not wait on a long-standing specimen to find it. It is found in connection with rheumatism, quinsy, dropsy, diarrhœa, headache and other diseases. Of course many other remedies have offensive urine, like Nitric acid urine offensive like horse urine, Berberis, but the deposit is turbid, Calcarea ostrearum, but the deposit is white. Benzoic acid often smells horribly, with no deposit at all. Both Benzoic acid and Berberis are great remedies for arthritic troubles with the urinary symptoms. Lycopodium and Lithium carb. also claim attention in this affection, the concomitants deciding the choice. I have seen wonderful relief from Benzoic acid in nephritic colic with the characteristic offensive urine. In dribbling of urine of old men with enlarged prostrate it has also done good service. The urine in the clothing scents the whole room. Menstrual difficulties and prolapsus uteri with the characteristic urinary symptoms are. also relieved by it. Heart troubles of rheumatic origin also. So we have a widely diversified list of diseases in which this remedy is the one, and all seem to be connected with this one strong characteristic symptom.

The most marked characteristic pertains to the odor and color of the urine. It has a marked action on metabolism. It produces and cures symptoms of a uric acid diathesis, with urine highly colored and very offensive, and gouty symptoms. Renal insufficiency. Child wants to be nursed in the arms, will not be laid down. Pains suddenly change their locality. Anti-sycotic. Gouty and asthmatic.

Mind:

Prone to dwell on unpleasant things in the past. Omits words in writing. Depression.

Head:

Vertigo inclination to fall sideways. Throbbing in temporal arteries, causes puffing around ears. Noises when swallowing. Ulceration of tongue. Swelling behind ears (Caps). Cold sweat on forehead. Pricking, puckered constriction of mouth, bluish and bleeding gums. Wens.

Nose:

Itching of septum. Pain in nasal bones.

Face:

Copper-colored spots. Red, with little blisters. Circumscribed redness of cheeks.

Stomach:

Sweat while eating; pressure in stomach, sensation of a lump.

Abdomen:

Cutting about navel. Stitching in liver region.

Rectum:

Stitches and constricted feeling. Puckering constriction of rectum. Itching and watery elevations around anus.

Stool:

Frothy, offensive, liquid, light-colored, like soapsuds, bowel movements, mostly windy.

Urine:

Repulsive odor; changeable color; brown, acid. Enuresis; dribbling, offensive urine of old men. Excess of uric acid. Vesical catarrh from suppressed gonorrhœa. Cystitis.

Respiratory:

Hoarse in morning. Asthmatic cough; worse at night; lying on right side. Chest very tender. Pain in region of heart. Expectoration, green mucus.

Back:

Pressure on spinal column. Coldness in sacrum. Dull pain in region of kidneys; worse, wine.

Extremities:

Joints crack on motion. Tearing with stitches. Pain in tendo Achillis. Rheumatic gout; nodes very painful. Gouty deposits. Ganglion; swelling of the wrist. Pain and swelling in knees. Bunion of great toe. Tearing pain in great toe.

Fever:

Cold hands, feet, back, knees. Chilliness; cold sweat. Internal heat on awakening.

Skin:

Red spots. Itching in spots.

Modalities:

Worse, in open air; by uncovering.

Relationship:

Useful after Colchic fails in gout; after Copavia in gonorrhœa.
Compare: Nitric acid; Ammon benz; Sabina; Tropoeolum.
Garden Nasturtium--(fetid urine).
Antidote: Copaiva.
Incompatible: Wine.

Dose:

Third to sixth potency.

| Re: BENZOICUM ACIDUM | By: Milap SinghBangalore, India | September 18 2006 |

BENZOICUM ACIDUM is made by sublimation of Gum Benzoin (Gum is burned and vapors are dissolved in water/alcohol), gum from Styrax Benzoin.

In India, Pakistan and Arabia gum is called Loban. Vapors of Loban contain Benzine. It is burned to scare ghosts and bad spirits. Added to insence sticks.

How to Make Benzoic Acedum at home:

Obtain Loban or Gum Benzoin. Loban is available at all Indian/Pakistani stores.

Burn it over the charcoal and hold an inverted wet glass over the smoke.

Add water in the glass and shake the water with a spoon vigorously.

You can add some alcohol to preserve the medicine or keep it in the referegerator.

Good wishes. Milap Singh

Benzoic acid is added in most antiseptic mouth wash products, Listerine got it.

Once I needed this medicine so I potentized a drop of Listerine by adding one liter of water in it and shook it vigorously.

BENZOLUM
Benzol, C6, H6
(BENZENUM - COAL NAPHTHA)

The most striking fact in the proving of Benzol seems to be the influence it had on the circulatory system. It caused a slowing of the pulse stream which in the guinea-pigs brought about the formation of infarcts. In the human provers it resulted in a decrease of the red and increase of white cells (R. F. Rabe, M. D).

It ought to be of use in Leucæmia. Eye symptoms striking. Hallucinations-Epileptiform attacks, coma, and anæsthesia.

Head.--Sense of falling through bed and floor. Pains from below upward. Tired and nervous.

Frontal headache to root of nose. Dizzy. Pressing feeling in head. Right sided headache.

Eyes.--Illusion of vision with wide open eyes. Twitching of lids. Photophobia, objects blurred. Aching in eyes and lids. Marked dilation of pupils. Failure to react to light, particularly daylight.

Nose.--Profuse fluent coryza. Especially in afternoon. Violent sneezing.

Male.--Swelling of right testicle. Severe pain in testicles. Itching of scrotum. Profuse urination.

Extremities.--Heavy limbs, cold legs, exaggerated knee-jerk. Pains from below upward.

Skin.--Eruption like measles. Perspiration on side not lain upon. Itching all over back.

Modalities.--Worse at night. Worse right side.

Relationship.--Compare: Benzin.--Petroleum ether-not as pure a compound as Benzene (Benzol). It is the same, but with a mixture of hydrocarbons. It seems to exercise a special influence on the nervous system and on the blood. Oxyhemoglobinemia. Physical weakness, cramps, exaggeration of knee jerks, nausea, vomit, dizziness, heaviness and coldness of limbs. Tremor of eyelids and tongue. Benzin, dinitricum--D. N. B.--(The most obvious results of poisoning by skin absorption are changes in the red blood corpuscles and liver degeneration in amblyopia, color-blindness, retinitis. Field of vision contracted. Black urine). Benzin nitricum. Mirbane (Dark, black blood, coagulates with difficulty; venous hyperæmia of the brain and general venous engorgement. Burning taste in mouth. Blue lips, tongue, skin, nails and conjunctivæ. Cold skin, pulse small, weak, breathing slow and irregular, unconsciousness, symptoms of apoplectic coma. Rolling of eyeballs in their vertical axis; pupils dilated. Nystagmus. Respiration very slow, difficult, sighing). Trinitrotoluene (T. N. T), Trotyl-is a high explosive, obtained by nitrating toluene-a product of coal tar distillation.

When the skin or hair is exposed to T.N.T by contact a characteristic yellow or tawny-orange stain is produce, which lasts for some weeks. Indicated in graver forms of anæmia (pernicious) and jaundice. Produces fatal toxic jaundice.

Dose.--Sixth potency.

BERBERIS VULGARIS
Barberry
Bruised pain, with numbness, stiffness and lameness in region of kidneys < in bed in the morning.
Soreness in the region of the kidneys; bubbling sensation, < stepping or jarring motion.
Rheumatism or pains, like gouty pains in the joints; the pains radiate from a center.

* * * * *

"Bruised pain, with stiffness and lameness in the small of the back." "Rise from a seat with difficulty." "Backache worse when sitting or lying, especially when lying in bed in the morning." "Sensation of numbness, stiffness and lameness, with painful pressure in lumbar and renal regions." These pains sometimes extend all through the hips. Guernsey says: "A great many old troubles in the back. Sufferings in the back aggravated by fatigue." One might say all these symptoms are found under Rhus tox. True, but in the Berberis cases they all come from or are in connection with kidney or urinary troubles, Rhus tox.

seldom so. The pains extend often into the bladder and urethra, and the urine itself is changed. It may have a turbid, flocculent, clay-like, copious, mucous sediment, or a reddish, mealy sediment, or be blood-red, but the persistent pains in the back are the leading indications. It is especially to be thought of in arthritic and rheumatic affections, when these back symptoms connected with urinary alterations are present. One very characteristic symptom is a bubbling sensation in the region of the kidneys. Another is soreness in region of kidneys when jumping out of a wagon or stepping hard downstairs or from any jarring movement. There is almost always, in the back troubles of Berberis a great deal of prostration or a sense of weakness across the back, and the face looks pale, earthy complexion, with sunken cheeks and hollow eyes, with blue circles under them. No matter what ails the patient, if he has persistent pain as above described in the region of the kidneys do not forget Berberis.

Rapid change of symptoms-pains change in regard to place and character-thirst alternates with thirstlessness, hunger, and loss of appetite, etc. Acts forcibly on the venous system, producing pelvic engorgements and hæmorrhoids.

Hepatic, and rheumatic affections, particularly with urinary, hæmorrhoidal and menstrual complaints.

Old gouty constitutions. Pain in region of kidneys is most marked; hence its use in renal and vesical troubles, gall-stones, and vesical catarrh. It causes inflammation of kidneys with hæmaturia. Pains may be felt all over body, emanating from small of back. It has also marked action on the liver, promoting the flow of bile. Often called for in arthritic affections with urinary disturbances. Wandering, radiating pains. Acts well in fleshy persons, good livers, but with little endurance. Spinal irritation. All Berberis pains radiate, are not worse by pressure, but worse in various attitudes, especially standing and active exercise.

Head.--Listless, apathetic, indifferent. Puffy sensation, feeling as if becoming larger. Vertigo with attacks of fainting. Frontal headache. Chilliness in back and occiput. Tearing pain in auricle, and gouty concretions. Sensation of a tight cap pressing upon the whole scalp.

Nose.--Dry; obstinate catarrh of left nostril. Crawling in nostrils.

Face.--Pale, sickly. Sunken cheeks and eyes, with bluish circles.

Mouth.--Sticky sensation. Diminished saliva. Sticky, frothy saliva, like cotton (Nux mosch). Tongue feels scalded, vesicles on tongue.
Stomach.--Nausea before breakfast. Heartburn.
Abdomen.--Stitches in region of gall-bladder; worse, pressure, extending to stomach. Catarrh of the gall-bladder with constipation and yellow complexion. Stitching pain in front of kidneys extending to liver, spleen, stomach, groins, Poupart's ligament. Sticking deep in ilium.
Stool.--Constant urging to stool. Diarrhœa painless, clay-colored, burning, and smarting in anus and perineum. Tearing around anus. Fistula in ano.
Urinary.--Burning pains. Sensation as if some urine remained after urinating. Urine with thick mucus and bright-red, mealy sediment. Bubbling, sore sensation in kidneys. Pain in bladder region. Pain in the thighs and loins on urinating. Frequent urination; urethra burns when not urinating.
Male.--Neuralgia of spermatic cord and testicles. Smarting, burning, stitching in testicles, in prepuce and scrotum.
Female.--Pinching constriction in mons veneris, vaginismus, contraction and tenderness of vagina. Burning and soreness in vagina. Desire diminished, cutting pain during coition. Menses scanty, gray mucus, with pain in kidneys and chilliness, pain down thighs. Leucorrhœa, grayish mucus, with painful urinary symptoms. Neuralgia of ovaries and vagina.
Respiratory.--Hoarseness; polypus of larynx. Tearing stitches in chest and region of heart.
Back.--Stitches in neck and back; worse, respiration. Sticking pain in region of kidneys radiating thence around abdomen, to hips and groins. Numb, bruised sensation. Stitches from kidneys into bladder. Tearing, sticking with stiffness, making rising difficult, involving hips, nates, limbs, with numbness. Lumbago (Rhus; Tart em). Metatarsus and metacarpus feel sprained. Post-operative pain in lumbar region; soreness with sharp pain following course of circumflex iliac nerve to bladder with frequent urination.
Extremities.--Rheumatic paralytic pain in shoulders, arms, hands and fingers, legs and feet. Neuralgia under finger-nails, with swelling of finger-joints. Sensation of cold on outside of thighs. Heels pain, as if ulcerated. Stitching between metatarsal bones as from a nail when standing. Pain in balls of feet on stepping. Intense weariness and lameness of legs after walking a short distance.

Skin.--Flat warts. Itching, burning and smarting; worse, scratching; better, cold applications. Small pustules over whole body. Eczema of anus and hands. Circumscribed pigmentation following eczematous inflammation.

Fever.--Cold sensation in various parts, as if spattered with cold water. Warmth in lower part of back, hips, and thighs.

Modalities.--Worse, motion, standing. It brings on, or increases, urinary complaints.

Relationship.--Compare: Ipomea-Convolvulus Duratinus-Morning Glory. --(Pain in left lumbar muscles on stooping. Kidney disorders with pain in back. Much abdominal flatulence. Aching in top of right shoulder renal colic; aching in small of back and extremities), Aloe; Lycopod; Nux; Sarsap. Xanthorrhea arborea (severe pain in kidneys, cystitis and gravel. Pain from ureter to bladder and testicles; pain in small of back returns from least chill or damp). Xanthoriza apifolia-Shrub Yellow Root--contains Berberine. Dilatation of stomach and intestines, atony, enlarged spleen.

Antidotes: Camphor; Bell.

Dose.--Tincture, to sixth potency.

A variety of Berberis grows on Himalayas all over. In ayurveda it is used extensively and also called Daru Haldi. Haldi -- because roots are yellow as Haldi (tumeric)

Most herb stores sell Daru Haldi and can be used in the place of Berberis Vulgaris Q.

India Variety is called Berbaris Aristata or also called Berbaris vulgaris. Commonly found at 1000ft height to 10000ft.

"Neuralgia under finger-nails."

Neuralgic pain under finger nails. Sometimes it is in the form of throbbing pain.....unusual symptom of Berberis Vulgaris.

Another symptom is : left nasal passage is blocked.

Some homeopaths just prescribe on the basis of the "unusual symptom".

| Colocynthis 200 dislodges a Kidney stone in 7 hours | By: Joe De LiveraSri Lanka | September 17 2008 |

I would like to add another ailment to those listed in the excellent post above by Jayashree for which I have used my "Joepathy" with an almost miraculous effect.

A patient presented with acute pain in his kidneys which had been diagnosed by specialists as Kidney Stones. An Xray did not show any shadows but his Urine report stated that he had Calcium Oxalate Crystals ++.

I gave the patient Berberis Vulgaris 6c in the Wet Dose but this did not help him for a week as this remedy works slowly to dissolve the stones. A few days ago he reported acute pain radiating down from his right kidney and was unable to stand erect. I diagnosed that a stone had been discharged from his right kidney and it was blocking the right Ureter. I gave him Colocynthis 200 in the DRY Dose 6 pellets which he took sublingually at around 7.00PM. He reported on the morning after that he had woken up around 2.00AM with excrutiating pain the likes of which which he had never suffered before. The pain radiated from his back down through his abdomen on the right side and down the bladder.

He had passed the stone with just one dose of Colocynthis 200 and is now completely free of all pain and discomfort. A urine test does not show any signs of Calcium Oxalate Crystals.

I am recording this incident in the hope that members will remember that Colocynthis 200 in the DRY dose has an almost miraculous effect in dislodging Kidney Stones. Berberis Vulgaris 6c in the Wet Dose will slowly dissolve the Calculi and it is possible that it helped this patient to dislodge the stone that was in his right kidney which caused him this unbearable pain.

For anaemia, chlorosis, deficient development, dentition disorders, bone affections, dyspepsia etc.

The sphere of the Phosphate of Lime includes all bone diseases, whether due to some inherited dyscrasia or to defective nutrition in osseous and other structures dependent upon a proper distribution of lime molecules in the body. It is the bone cell-salt. Without this element, no bone can be formed and hence it is a valuable remedy in childhood when the bones are in the condition of being formed. Cal. Phos. is also found in the gastric juice and plays an important part in the process of digestion and assimilation. It is of importance in anaemia, in chlorosis, in convulsions and spasms, in weak scrofulous subjects; during dentition when the teeth are slow in making their appearance and decay too rapidly; also in other teething disorders. In convalescence after acute and chronic wasting diseases, it acts as a tonic by building up new red blood corpuscles and by restoring the lost vitality. Deficient development of children and young people emaciation without apparent cause onanism, suppuration of bones, spinal weakness and curvature. Aids the union of fractured bones. Rheumatism of the joints, chronic enlargements of the tonsils and goiter. Cholera infantum, faeces hot and offensive. Dyspepsia; food seems to lie in a lump; vomiting after cold drinks. Cold, change of weather, motion, getting wet, generally aggravates symptoms. Relieved by rest, warmth and by lying down.

CALCAREA PHOSPHORICA - (commonly known as Calc. phos.) mostly used for skeletal growth problems in the young, but also for such problems as diarrhoea caused by milk. Not unlike Calc. Carb. in its use but suited more to the lean, rangy type and therefore a better remedy for wolfhound puppies. A possible remedy for diabetes insipidus in the adult dog.

CAPRICORNS & DIET

Capricorn Rules : bones, joints, knees, and teeth. Capricorns are known for their beautiful bone structure .

Health Habits: Along with Leo and Sagittarius, Capricorn is noted for its longevity. Capricorn's bones, joints, and knees, however, may be vulnerable to rheumatism, arthritis, neuralgia, stiff joints, and orthopedic problems.

Capricorn's ruling planet Saturn holds sway over the gall bladder, spleen, bones, skin, and teeth. Their skin may tend to be dry and sensitive. Capricorns tend to have trouble with alcohol consumption.They tend to do things in excess, they overwork, skip meals, then eat too much at one time.

Capricorn's cell salt is calcium phosphate, which is the most important element in bone formation.

Eat : Lack of calcium phosphate can cause rickets, misshapen bones, spinal curvature, teeth disorders, and pains in the joints.

Foods which are rich in this mineral are oranges, lemons, figs, celery, cabbage, dandelion greens, spinach, broccoli, corn, peas, potatoes, walnuts, almonds, whole wheat, oats, and brown rice. A diet high in protein and calcium is a must for Capricorn in order to keep the bones, skin and teeth in prime condition. Capricorns should include a fresh raw salad, fresh fruits and vegetables, lean protein, fish, eggs, whole-grain breads in their diet every day. They need lots of calcium food, such as cheese, buttermilk, yogurt.

Don't Eat : They should try to vary their diet with different vegetables, fruit, meat and fish, as Capricorns tend to get into a rut about food likes and dislikes, and often eat the -same things every day. Eating chocolate and refined sugar is bad for Capricorn's skin.They should go easy on the highly seasoned and spicy food you are fond of, as it causes intestinal upsets.

CAPRICORN IS AN EARTH SIGN.

The earth element rules the skeletal and eliminatory systems. The earth element is essential for growth, reproduction and repair of tissue. Earth signs tend toward weight problems, tumor growth or glandular disorders . Overeating and a diet of heavy foods create excess earth, which is aggravated by lack of exercise and sedentary habits. They often have beautiful strong teeth.

The earth signs have strong sense impressions and thrive on contact with the earth. Theirs is a strength of endurance and persistence. They are more resistant to transient colds and flu than fire or air signs.

Excess Earth

Excess earth is prone to heaviness in the body and sluggishness in the system, and the struggle to overcome inertia. Their digestion and metabolism are slow, increasing density of body tissue—i.e. thick skin, sclerosis, calcium deposits, tumors and increased body hair.

Take fruit- salads, sprouts ,steamed vegetables with spices added, juices, soups and teas .
Avoid heavier diets
Remedy bitter tonics such as gentian or Swedish bitters, hot spices such as ginger, black pepper and cayenne

--------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Low Earth

Low earth needs grounding. These people tend to ignore their bodies and are not instinctive about what they need. They need routines that stabilize them and give a sense of security. They need more sleep than other elements, and benefit from physical contact with the earth.

Take meat, potatoes, unrefined grains, root crops ,dairy,vegetables steamed , cheese, butter,sugar and oil .
Avoid fruits and raw foods
Remedy demulcents such as licorice and slippery elm, seaweed and minerals, Ginseng, astragalus, ahashwaganda.

For suppurations, boils, carbuncles, gonorrhea and chronic catarrhal conditions.

This is a most excellent remedy in suppurations to which it is closely related. It is an eliminator of effete matter. A deficiency of this salt causes long protracted suppurations. It is indicated in swelling of the soft parts in connective tissue with threatened suppuration or where suppuration has already taken place. Abscesses either aborting or hastening suppuration. Suppurative stage of eruptive diseases of the skin. Boils, carbuncles, felons, pimples and pustules on the face; suppurative stage of gonorrhea; 'in fact in all ailments where pus-formations are liable to develop or have already developed. Chronic catarrhal conditions with purulent secretions. Advanced stages of lung diseases. The true indication for this remedy is a thick, heavy yellow pus, sometimes streaked with blood. SCORPIOS & DIET

Scorpio Rules : the sexual organs.

Health Habits : Scorpio people are renowned for their energy and imagination. Scorpio natives are prone to problems and infections of the sex organs. Skin eruptions on the genitals, cystitis and diseases of the urinary tract, and venereal infections are ailments to which Scorpios are very susceptible to. In addition, Scorpions are subject to ill health brought on by emotional difficulties.

Scorpio is ruled by the planet Pluto, which governs the formation of cells and the reproductive function of the body. Thus, Scorplo's link with sex and regenerative forces is strengthened. As a rule, Scorpios have strong, voluptuous bodies and excellent recuperative powers. It's been said that Scorpios look old when they are young, and young when they are old.

Scorpio's cell salt is calcium sulphate, which is the prime ingredient in the repair of tissues and resistance to infectious diseases. The nose, mouth, throat, esophagus, reproductive organs, and intestinal pathways need this mineral for healthy functioning. A deficiency opens the way to colds and sinus infections that hang on forever, skin eruptions which do not heal, and infertility.

Eat : Foods rich in calcium sulphate, which Scorpios should include in their diet, are asparagus, cauliflower, radishes, onions, tomatoes, figs, black cherries, coconuts. Scorpios need calcium food such as milk, cheese, yogurt, and cottage cheese. They should concentrate on a diet high in protein, fresh fruits and vegetables & whole-grain breads. The following are particularly good for Scorpio: fish and seafood, green salads, beets, lentil, almonds, walnuts, citrus fruit, berries, apples, bananas and pineapples.

Don't Eat : Scorpios should not eat large meals, and the evening meal should be light. Bottled spring water is often better for them to drink than regular tap water.Scorpios have a problem handling liquor. Of all the signs in the zodiac, alcohol has the worst and most immediate effects on Scorpio's looks and skin.

SCORPIO IS A WATERY SIGN

The water element rules the reproductive and lymphatic systems and body liquids—including blood, mucus and lymph. Water lubricates, flushes and cools the body. Water signs are exceptionally sensitive to their environment, particularly to fungi, bacteria and viruses.

Health issues for water signs generally have a strong emotional component. Water sign people easily pick up negativity from others. They tend to brood on their health and imagine problems to be greater than they are. Their health problems tend to recur in cycles.

Excess Water

These people tend toward sluggish digestion, poor assimilation and slow metabolism. Stagnant excess water may manifest as mucus, cysts, tumors and swellings, as well as systemic candida. Excess water can manifest as weight problems. It is seldom helpful to decrease dietary intake alone. Better results come from increasing the metabolic rate, decreasing the liquid intake, changing the diet and increasing physical activity.Excess Water is balanced by foods that are hot, dry and light.

Take steamed vegetables, beans, fruits.
Avoid oily foods, diary, sweets, yeasty foods, breads and salt.
Remedy sage, basil and thyme, Diuretics such as parsley, uva ursi and juniper berries, Chapparal, garlic and olive leaf

Low Water

Low Water constitutions have trouble flushing toxins from their systems, and lack lubrication to their systems. They tend to be stiff and dehydrated and have difficulty sleeping. They suffer from conditions similar to excess air, such as skin and hair dryness and difficult absorption of nutrients. They find it hard to accept emotional nourishment. Take baths, drink plenty of liquids, and live near water.Melons, cucumbers and other moist and fleshy vegetables help balance this constitution Don't fast, take care with extreme exposure to heat or sunlight and take extra salt with exertion or warm weather.

Take wheat, rice, oats, seaweed, dairy products and natural sugars .

For acute congestions, inflammations, fevers, etc.

Ferrum Phos. is given in the initial stage of all congestions, inflammations and fevers. This salt possesses an affinity or attraction for oxygen and carries it to all parts of the body and hence is an important agent in all diseases in which the blood and the corpuscles are involved. Consequently, the first remedy in all cases depending upon the relaxed condition of the muscular tissue and in abnormal conditions of the corpuscles of the blood themselves. It gives strength to the circular wall of the blood vessels. It supplies the colour to the blood corpuscles. A deficiency of this cell salt is the cause of fevers and inflammatory conditions and so indicated in all febrile disturbances and in inflammatory and congestive diseases at the beginning, especially before exudation has commenced. The principal accompaniments of these conditions calling for Ferrum Phos are manifested by flushed face, fever with full pulse, hot, dry skin, thirst, pain and redness of the part. An excellent remedy in anaemia, chlorosis, pneumonia, inflammatory rheumatism, tonsillitis, diphtheria, cystitis, nosebleed, incontinence of urine, apoplexy, gastritis etc. The symptoms calling for this remedy are always aggravated by motion and ameliorated by cold.

For second stage of inflammatory diseases, diphtheria, croup, catarrh, pneumonia, glandular swellings, deafness etc.

Kali Mur. is given for the sequel of all inflammations, for exudations and infiltrations, especially of a fibrous character and in inflammations of serous membranes, when the exudation is plastic in nature. A most excellent remedy in the later stages of all catarrhal states. This cell-salt works with the fibrine, which is found in every tissue of the organism except boric. In inflammatory exudations we find fibrine in the serous cavities and on the mucous membranes. The use of Kali Mur. usually follows Ferrum Phos. in inflammatory disorders. The characteristic symptoms of Kali Mur which is always indicated in the second stage of the inflammatory diseases, are glandular swellings, discharges or expectorations of a thick, white fibrinous consistency, white or gray exudations and a white or gray coating of the tongue. The efficacy of this remedy is demonstrated in chronic catarrhal conditions, croup, diphtheria, dysentery, pneumonia etc. Diarrhoea with pale, yellow faces. With Ferrum Phos is should be given in coughs. Useful in deafness from the catarrh of the Eustachian tubes, in skin eruptions with small vesicles containing yellowish secretions, ulcerations, ulcerations with swelling and white exudations, in rheumatism with swelling of the parts, in leucorrhoea and gonorrhea with characteristic discharge. Symptoms in general are worse from motion, while gastric and abdominal symptoms are worse after taking pastry, rich and fatty foods.

GEMINIS & DIET

Gemini Rules : the shoulders, arms, hands, and lungs.

Health Habits : Gemini's are vulnerable to upper respiratory infections, bronchitis, and asthma. Gemini also rules the nerves, so natives of this sign are often excitable and high-strung. The planet Mercury, which rules Gemini, has always been associated with respiration, the brain, and the entire nervous system. It also governs the delicate links between the mind and the different parts of the body, so with Gemini people the state of mind has a great deal to do with the state of their health. Anxiety and nervousness literally can make them sick.

The cell salt for Gemini is potassium chloride, which builds fibrin in the blood, organs, and tissues of the body.

Eat : A deficiency of this mineral can lead to clots in the blood and circulatory problems. Potassium chloride also keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes unclogged. Foods high in this mineral are asparagus, green beans, tomatoes, celery, carrots, spinach, oranges, peaches, plums, apricots, and wild rice. Healthy nerve foods for Gemini include grapefruit, almonds, broiled fish and shellfish, grapejuice, apples & raisins. Lettuce and cauliflower help to combat bronchitis.

Geminis need calcium to keep their bones healthy; milk, buttermilk, and cottage cheese are excellent sources. Many Geminis cannot tolerate large amounts of food at one time; eating four mini-meals a day can be beneficialto your health.

Don't Eat : Coffee and stimulants make matters worse and should be avoided. Herbal teas have a calming effect. Gemini people are inclined to eat on the run and are notorious junk food addicts. To keep up their energy and high spirits, they must have a proper diet.

--------------------------------------------------------------------------------

GEMINI IS AN AIRY SIGN

Air rules the nervous and circulatory systems and the function of movement, peristalsis, urination and breathing. Air people are easily stimulated, with quick and extremely sensitive minds that are easily thrown off balance and overwhelmed.

Excess Air

Overactive, restless, sensitive minds and nervous exhaustion plague air signs, as does dry skin, hair and mucus membranes, insomnia and memory loss from systemic overload. Excess air benefits from scheduled windows of quiet, with minimal stimulation, to allow the nervous system to recharge itself.

Take lightly steamed vegetables, nuts, croutons.
Avoid Raw foods ,Grains, rootcrops, yeasty foods, refined sugar.

Remedy enzymes which help in proper absorption of nutrients.

Low Air

When the air element is low, there is difficulty with the flow of energy through the body. A weakened nervous system benefits from mineral supports such as calcium and magnesium, and circulatory stimulants .eat plenty of raw foods, vegetable juices and sprouted seeds. Oats in any form—oatmeal, oatstraw tea or oat tincture, are tonifying to a weak nervous sytem without being sedating.

Take Gingko, cayenne, garlic, ginger, yoghurt, kefir.
Remedy dandelion root or angostura bitters .

For neurasthenic condition in general, sleeplessness.

Kali Phos. is a constituent of the brain, nerves, muscles and blood vessels. It unites with albumen and creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Nervous symptoms indicate a deficiency of this cell-salt, which must be supplied to restore the normal condition. Whatever disease can be traced to the nerve degeneracy, we enter the field of Kali Phos. Nervous condition known as neurasthenia is a field in which this salt has become prominently curative. The results of the want of nerve power, such as prostration, loss of mental vigor, depression, brain-fag, softening of the brain, insanity, paralysis, epilepsy, hysteria, locomotor ataxia and when there is rapid decomposition of the blood. It is curative in septic haemorrhages, scorbutus, gangrene, stomatitis, offensive carrion-like diarrhoea, dysentery, a dynamic or typhoid conditions, incontinence of urine, urticaria, predisposition of epistaxis in children, dizziness and vertigo from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, nervous dyspepsia, asthma, neuralgia, nervous headaches, tongue coated as if with dark liquid mustard. Symptoms are aggravated from noise, by mental or physical exertion, by rising from a sitting position. Pains worse in cold and ameliorated by gentle motion.

Excess Earth

Excess earth is prone to heaviness in the body and sluggishness in the system, and the struggle to overcome inertia. Their digestion and metabolism are slow, increasing density of body tissue—i.e. thick skin, sclerosis, calcium deposits, tumors and increased body hair.

Take fruit- salads, sprouts ,steamed vegetables with spices added, juices, soups and teas .
Avoid heavier diets

Take meat, potatoes, unrefined grains, root crops ,dairy,vegetables steamed , cheese, butter,sugar and oil .
Avoid fruits and raw foods

For catarrhal affections with thin, clear, transparent, watery secretions, influenza, hay-fever, diarrhoea, constipation, leucorrhoea, intermittent fevers and skin diseases.

This salt is a constituent of every liquid and solid part of the body. Its function is to regulate the degree of moisture within the cells. It properly distributes the water through the organism.

Deficiency in this salt causes the disturbance of water in the human organism. An unequal distribution of water in the system sometimes causes excessive dryness of mucous membranes in some part, while there may be a copious, watery fluid from another part. Naturm Mur. will set things right and will establish equilibrium. It acts upon the lymphatic system, the blood, liver, spleen and upon the mucous lining of' the alimentary canal. It is indicated in headache, toothache, faceache, stomachache and also where there is either salivation or hyper secretion of tears or vomiting of water and mucus. Catarrhal affections of mucous membranes with secretion of transparent, watery, frothy mucus. Small watery blisters, breaking and leaving a thin crust. Skin diseases with watery symptoms. Diarrhoea with transparent, frothy, slimy stools. Constipation with dull headache and profuse tears. Conjunctivitis with clear watery discharge. AQUARIANS & DIET

Aquarius Rules : circulatory system, the calves, shins and ankles.

Health habits : Aquarians are generally strong and healthy, with good coordination, well shaped legs, and slender ankles. They tend to be very active mentally, more than they are physically, and there is a slight tendency to put on weight if they are not careful. They tend to suffer from circulatory problems, hardening of the arteries, anemia & low blood pressure.

Aquarians need a healthy diet to maintain vitality and to keep their weight at the perfect level. Aquarius people like to immerse themselves in projects and activities, and that leaves little time for balanced meals. They are inveterate snackers, and often eat the wrong things while on the run.

Aquarius's cell salt is sodium chloride - common table salt.

Eat : The best way is to absorb sodium chloride naturally, by eating the proper foods. These include ocean fish, lobster, tuna, oysters, spinach, radishes, celery, cabbage, lettuce, corn, squash, lentils, almonds, walnuts, apples, peaches, pears, lemons, and oranges.

Aquarians should follow a diet that limits fattening foods and is high in protein, like fresh fruits and vegetables & whole-grain breads. Other foods that are very good for Aquarians are chicken, beets, broccoli, carrots, peppers, tomatoes, strawberries, pineapple, pomegranates, figs, dates, brown rice, whole wheat, yogurt & natural cheeses.

Don't Eat : They should cut down on coffee, which can make them nervous. On the other hand they can try herbal teas to relax.

AQUARIUS IS AN AIR SIGN.

Air rules the nervous and circulatory systems and the function of movement, peristalsis, urination and breathing. Air people are easily stimulated, with quick and extremely sensitive minds that are easily thrown off balance and overwhelmed.

Excess Air

Overactive, restless, sensitive minds and nervous exhaustion plague air signs, as does dry skin, hair and mucus membranes, insomnia and memory loss from systemic overload. Excess air benefits from scheduled windows of quiet, with minimal stimulation, to allow the nervous system to recharge itself.

Take lightly steamed vegetables, nuts, croutons.
Avoid Raw foods ,Grains, rootcrops, yeasty foods, refined sugar.

Remedy enzymes which help in proper absorption of nutrients.

Low Air

When the air element is low, there is difficulty with the flow of energy through the body. A weakened nervous system benefits from mineral supports such as calcium and magnesium, and circulatory stimulants .eat plenty of raw foods, vegetable juices and sprouted seeds. Oats in any form—oatmeal, oatstraw tea or oat tincture, are tonifying to a weak nervous sytem without being sedating.

Take Gingko, cayenne, garlic, ginger, yoghurt, kefir.
Remedy dandelion root or angostura bitters .

Are you experiencing diarrhea after eating certain foods or after all of your meals? http://www.md-health.com/Constant-Diarrhea.html Is it a swift onset or do you get a rumbling sensation in your tummy first as a warning? Either way, constant diarrhea after eating is definitely a situation for which you need to see your doctor.

For hepatic diseases, bilious attacks, intermittent fevers, headaches, diarrhoea, diabetes, asthma, la grippe, dropsy.

This salt aids and regulates the excretion of the superficial water. It eliminates and excess of water from the blood. It keeps the bile in normal consistency. The three natrum salts work in the body as follows. Natrum Phos creates the water by splitting up of lactic acid; Nat Mur distributes the water through the system. Nat. Sulph. regulates the quantity of water in the organism. Nat. Sulph. is preeminently a liver remedy. It exhibits a marked similarity to the uric acid diathesis and is certainly a valuable remedy in combating or numerous phases of that malady. Dirty, brownish green or grayish-green coating on the root of the tongue. Dark greenish stools from excess of bile, bitter taste, vomiting of bile, diabetes from jaundice, bilious headache, dropsy, diseases of the liver. Excellent in influenza, intermittent fever and ague in all stages with vomiting and other bilious symptoms. Enlargement of the liver, erysipelas, smooth, red shiny eruptions coming in blotches with swelling of skin. Gravel, sand in urine, gout, fig warts, asthma and dyspnoea aggravated by change to damp weather, edematous inflammations of the skin, skin diseases with moist, yellowish scales, yellow watery secretions in all vesicles. Vomiting in pregnancy with bitter taste, fistulous abscesses discharging watery secretions, tendency to warts around the eyes, scalp, face, chest and arms etc. Symptoms are worse in the morning, in damp, wet weather and from lying on left side. Relief in warm dry weather and in the open air.

TAUREANS & DIET

Taurus Rules : the throat and the neck, which includes the vocal chords, tonsils and palate.

Health Habits: Taurus's taste buds are keen, and they thoroughly enjoy good food. They may have a tendency to put on weight, as they get older. Taureans are particularly vulnerable to colds, coughs, sore throats, laryngitis, swollen glands, stiff necks, and to minor injuries around the neck. Moderate exercise and good diet should be a strict discipline in every Taurean's life. You tend to eat fattening foods, to be sluggish and indolent, and to dislike exercise. You may suffer from puffy eyes and jowls, and your face is apt to get heavier as time goes by.

When they get physically tired or overtensed, they tend to get coughs and stiff necks. Taurus also rules the thyroid gland, which can cause serious weight problems if it is malfunctioning.

Taurus's cell salt is sulphate of sodium, a mineral that controls the amount of water in the system.

Eat : It is very important to maintain a diet low in starch, fat, and sugar, because so many Taurean's have to fight the battle of the bulge. Sodium sulphate is present in the liver, pancreas, and the hormones of the kidneys. An imbalance of this mineral in the body can cause bloating, symptoms of congestion around the thyroid gland, and a feeling of being waterlogged.Some foods that contain this mineral are asparagus, beets, cauliflower, horse radish, spinach, cucumber, onions, pumpkin, raw nuts and cranberries. You should also drink plenty of water to help keep your system flushed out.

To keep the thyroid functioning at its best, Taureans should eat food with natural iodine, such as fish and seafood. Other foods that will help keep you healthy are eggs, liver, kidney beans, wheat germ, fresh fruit and green salads.

Don't Eat : Carbohydrates have a way of turning into fat in a Taurean's body, and should be avoided. Heavy, rich foods should also be avoided.

--------------------------------------------------------------------------------

TAURUS IS AN EARTH SIGN

The earth element rules the skeletal and eliminatory systems. The earth element is essential for growth, reproduction and repair of tissue. Earth signs tend toward weight problems, tumor growth or glandular disorders . Overeating and a diet of heavy foods create excess earth, which is aggravated by lack of exercise and sedentary habits. They often have beautiful strong teeth.

The earth signs have strong sense impressions and thrive on contact with the earth. Theirs is a strength of endurance and persistence. They are more resistant to transient colds and flu than fire or air signs.

Excess Earth

Excess earth is prone to heaviness in the body and sluggishness in the system, and the struggle to overcome inertia. Their digestion and metabolism are slow, increasing density of body tissue—i.e. thick skin, sclerosis, calcium deposits, tumors and increased body hair.

Take -fruit- salads, sprouts ,steamed vegetables with spices added, juices, soups and teas .
Avoid -heavier diets
Remedy- bitter tonics such as gentian or Swedish bitters, hot spices such as ginger, black pepper and cayenne

--------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Low Earth

Low earth needs grounding. These people tend to ignore their bodies and are not instinctive about what they need. They need routines that stabilize them and give a sense of security. They need more sleep than other elements, and benefit from physical contact with the earth.

Take -meat, potatoes, unrefined grains, root crops ,dairy,vegetables steamed , cheese, butter,sugar and oil .
Avoid -fruits and raw foods
Remedy- demulcents such as licorice and slippery elm, seaweed and minerals, Ginseng, astragalus, ahashwaganda.

SAGITTARIANS & DIET

Sagittarius Rules : the hips, the thighs, and the liver.

Health Habits: Physical activity is a must; they will stagnate and become ill if they don't get enough exercise. Although usually lean and slender in their early years, they have a tendency to put on weight as they get older. In Sagittarian women the weight unfortunately seems to settle on the hips and thighs. They often have chronic aches in the hips and thighs and may be vulnerable to sciatica, gout, hip disease, and sometimes lameness.

Sagittarius's ruling planet Jupiter governs the liver. Jupiter's influence has also been noted on the pituitary gland. Sagittarians tend to have an active, sensitive liver that instantly suffers from overuse of alcohol. They are also susceptible to hepatitis Sagittarius's cell salt is silica, which strengthens the nervous system, keeps the connective brain tissue healthy, and prevents numbness in fingers, legs and feet.

Eat : Lack of silica may result in lank hair, dull skin, and sores and receding of the gums. Best sources for the silica that Sagittarians need are the skin of fruits and vegetables, raw salads, green peppers, figs, strawberries, pears, apples, potatoes, oats, the husks of grains, whole-grain cereals, egg yolk.Sagittarians should eat a high protein diet, with lots of broiled poultry and fish, fresh vegetables and fruit such as beets, tomatoes, plums, cherries, oranges, and lemons , eggs, skim milk, yogurt, brown rice, and whole wheat. They should drink lots of pure water, eat four mini-meals a day rather than three large ones.

Don't Eat : Foods that particularly do not agree with Sagittarius are fats, gravies, cream, butter, candy, and chocolate. They should go very easy on alcoholic beverages, not only to avoid damage to the liver but to the skin, which coarsens and ages under the effects of liquor.

SAGITTARIUS IS A FIRE SIGN

Fire rules the function of internal combustion or digestion—the burning up or absorption of food. Fire also purifies the system by burning off toxins, viruses, bacteria and fungus. Fire signs easily fight disease. Their constitution naturally tends toward high temperatures.

Excess Fire

Fire signs, when unbalanced to excess or overstimulation, are prone to burning themselves out. Excess fire can be impatient and angry, or internalizes it into hypertension, heart problems, ulcers or inflammations. Excess fire is brought back into balance by foods that are cold, moist and heavy, or slow-burning foods that ground energy.

Take Grains, root vegetables
Avoid Spicy food, red meat
Remedy herbs like chamomile, lemon balm, skull cap and valerian.

Low Fire

When your fire is low, it may be hard to burn off or fight disease. Digestion and absorption of food are inadequate. Eat foods that are hot, light, dry and aromatic. Avoid cold foods.

Take lemon, yoghurt, bitter greens like kale, mustard.
Avoid dairy products, meat
Remedy digestive stimulants like cayenne, mustard, cloves, cinnamon,garlic, ginger.

I noticed the post by Milap Singh of October 4 2006 on the left side of the page under the title "Picture of this second" and thought that I should share my experience in using this remedy for Asthmatics with members.

I have used Blatta O in the 6c potency in the WET DOSE for many cases of Asthma in both children and adults and can confirm that I have found it to be the most effective remedy to help sufferers. I have used Nat Sulph 6c and Nux V 6c previously but Blatta O 6c is my default remedy today. Please note however that this remedy must be used in the Wet Dose and a capful is sipped from the remedy bottle just once daily preferably before going to bed. Patients who have been suffering from Asthma for years and also young children have confirmed that all their suffering ceased with their first dose of a capful of Blatta O. Some stated that this was a Miracle Cure of Asthma while others tried to persuade me to patent this cure !

I was gratified that some patients confirmed that they do not use it daily anymore as, after a few months usage, they discovered that even if they had forgotten to take their nightly dose, they did not suffer from their Asthma. A few lucky patients were able to stop all medicines for good. They do however have a bottle of the remedy in their fridge ready to be used if necessary but I was glad to learn that this remedy was able to cure them, hopefully permanently.

From Clarke

Blatta Orientalis.

Indian cockroach. N. O. Orthoptera. Trituration of live insect.

Clinical.¦¡Asthma. Bronchitis. Phthisis.

Characteristics.¦¡Found accidentally to relieve asthma in a patient who took tea in which a beetle had been infused; it has since proved to have a wide range in asthmatic cases (Ray, Hom. Recorder, 1890, p. 254; 1891, p. 193). In the acute attack it acts better in low potencies; the higher being given in the more chronic stages. It is especially suited to corpulent people; and to malarial cases; cases < in rainy weather. Has saved cases in which suffocation was threatened by great accumulation of mucus. Useful in cases of bronchitis and phthisis where there is much dyspn©«a.

BORAX VENETA
Borate of Sodium(BORAX)
Dread of downward motion in nearly all complaints. For homeopathic purposes, the peculiar nervous symptoms are very characteristic, and have frequently been verified, especially in the therapeutics of children. Of much value in epilepsy. Aphthous ulceration of mucous membranes. child jumps and cringes or cries when laying it down; also very sensitive to noises.
Aphthous sore mouth; greenish stools day and night; mouth very hot.
Pain in right pectoral region; enough with expectoration of an offensive, herby taste.

This remedy, although an old one, is not universally appreciated. Its action upon the nervous system is very marked. In the first place it manifests itself in what is called nervousness in regard to noises, to which the patient is very sensitive. Almost any noise, as a cough, a sneeze, restling of a newspaper, a cry, distant shot, etc. Belladonna is sometimes given for this starting at noises; when Borax would do better. Then there is another very peculiar nervous symptom, viz., fear of falling, from downward motion (Gelsem., Sanicula). The child cries out and clings to the nurse when she attempts to lay it down in the cradle. Carrying it down stairs has the same effect. It will scream and cling to the nurse as long as the downward motion continues. Adults get the same symptom. Will not sit in a rocking chair, or ride on horseback, or on the waves, or swing, or go coasting, because of this dread of downward motion. There is only one other remedy having this symptom that I know of, and that is Gelsemium, and so far I think that this has only appeared in intermittent fever.

A child may be sleeping quietly and awake suddenly screaming and holding on to the sides of the cradle, without an apparent cause for so doing, or it may start from sleep clinging to the nurse as if frightened. In such cases we might think of Apis mellifica, Belladonna, Cina. Stramonium, etc., but don't prescribe on the one symptom. Look at the child's mouth and if you should find an aphthous sore mouth it would settle it pretty surely for Borax. Then, again, Borax has a very strong action as a general remedy, even domestic, from "way back," and has been prescribed without rhyme or reason until the homœopaths took it and found its exact place. Now the choice has to be made between it and Mercurius, Hydrastis, Sulphur and Sulphuric acid. etc.

It is not necessary to draw the line between the different remedies here, but I will say that the sore mouth itself is only one symptom in every case. The rest are found outside the local affection and often have more to do with the final choice of the remedy. The nervous symptoms already mentioned are "pointers," for Borax. Not only upon the mucous membranes of the mouth is this action of Borax notable, but upon every other one. The eyelashes become gummy and stick together, or turn inward. The ears discharge. I cured a case of otorrhœa of fourteen years' standing with this remedy.

Dry crusts form in the nose and re-form if removed. Greenish stools day and night, with aphthæ. The infant cries when urinating or before, showing an inflamed condition of the urethra.

If the crying spells before urinating should be followed with a deposit of sand in the diaper or vessel, Lycopodium or Sarsaparilla would be thought of.

The mucous membranes of the respiratory organs are also affected. There is cough, and expectoration of an offensive herby taste. Then we have decided pleuritis in the chest, in the right pectoral region.

Borax has also white, albuminous, starchy leucorrhœa, quite profuse, and with a sensation of warm water running down. These altogether show the action of Borax upon the mucous membranes. Like Chamomilla, Hepar sulphuris and Silicea, Borax has ulcerations of the skin from slight injuries, which suppurate.

Gastro-intestinal irritation. Salivation, nausea, vomiting, colic, diarrhœa, collapse, albuminuria, casts and vesical spasm. Delirium, visual changes, hæmaturia, and skin eruptions have all been observed from over-dosing.

Mind:Extreme anxiety, especially from motions which have a downward direction, rocking, being carried downstairs, laid down. Anxious expression of face during the downward motions, starts and throws up hands on laying patient down, as if afraid of falling. Excessively nervous; easily frightened. Sensitive to sudden noises. Violent fright from report of a gun, even at a distance. Fear of thunder.

Head:Aches, with nausea and trembling of whole body. Hair tangled at tips, cannot be separated, as in Plica Polonica (Vinca min).

Eyes:Lashes turn inward. Visions of bright waves. Eyelids inflamed, lids cut against eyeball. Entropium.

Ears:Very sensitive to slightest noise; not so much disturbed by louder ones.

Nose:Red nose, of young women (Nat carb). Red and shining swelling, with throbbing and tensive sensation. Tip swollen and ulcerated. Dry crusts.

Face:Pale, earthy, with suffering expression. Swollen, with pimples on nose and lips. Feeling of cobwebs.

Mouth:Aphthæ. White fungous like growth. Mouth hot and tender; ulcers bleed on touch and eating. Painful gumboil. Crying when nursing. Taste bitter (Bry; Puls; Cup). Taste of "cellar mould".

Stomach and Abdomen:Distention after eating; vomiting. Gastralgia, depending upon uterine disturbance. Pain as if diarrhœa would result.

Stool:Loose, pappy, offensive stools in children. Diarrhœa, offensive, preceded by colic; stools mucous, with aphthous sore mouth.

Urine:Hot, smarting pain in orifice. Pungent smell. Child afraid to urinate, screams before urinating (Sarsap). Small red particles on diaper.

Female:Labor pains with frequent eructations. Galactorrhœa (Cal; Con; Bell). In nursing, pain in opposite breast. Leucorrhœa like white of eggs, with sensation as if warm water was flowing. Menses too soon, profuse, with griping, nausea and pain in stomach extending into small of back. Membranous dysmenorrhœa. Sterility. Favors easy conception. Sensation of distention in clitoris with sticking. Pruritus of vulva and eczema.

Respiratory:Hacking and violent cough; expectoration, moldy taste and smell. Stitches in chest, with inspiration and cough. Cough with moldy taste-breath smells moldy. Pleurodynia; worse upper part of right chest. Arrest of breathing when lying; is obliged to jump and catch breath, which causes pain in right side. Out of breath on going up stairs.

Extremities:Feeling as of cobwebs on hands. Itching on back of finger-joints and hands. Throbbing pain in tip of thumb. Stitches in sole. Pain in heel. Burning pain in great toe; inflammation of balls of toes. Eczema of toes and fingers with loss of nails.

Skin:Psoriasis. Erysipelas in face. Itching on back of finger-joints. Unhealthy skin; slight injuries suppurate. Herpes (Rhus). Erysipelatous inflammation with swelling and tension. Chilblains relieved in open air. Trade eruptions on fingers and hands, itching and stinging. Ends of hair become tangled.

Sleep:Voluptuous dreams. Cannot sleep on account of heat, especially in head. Cries out of sleep as if frightened (Bell).

Modalities:Worse, downward motion, noise, smoking, warm weather, after menses. Better, pressure, evening, cold weather.

Relationship:Acetic acid, vinegar, and wine are incompatible.

Antidote: Cham; Coffea.

Compare: Calc; Bryon; Sanicula; Sulph ac.

Dose:First to third trituration. In skin diseases continue its use for several weeks. Locally, in pruritus pudendi. A piece of borax, the size of a pea, dissolved in the mouth, acts magically in restoring the voice, in cases of sudden hoarseness brought on by cold, and frequently for an hour or so, it renders the voice silvery and clear.

Fever blister, or "cold sore," on the mouth and face is generally caused by herpes simplex type 1 (HSV1) while genital lesions are generally the result of herpes simplex type 2 (HSV2) virus, though both can cause lesions on the face and genitals.

http://www.md-health.com/Appendicitis-In-Children.html
Appendicitis occurs when the interior of the appendix becomes filled with something that causes it to swell, such as mucus, stool, or parasites. The appendix then becomes irritated and inflamed. The blood supply to the appendix is cut off as the swelling and irritation increase. Adequate blood flow is necessary for a body part to remain healthy. When the blood flow is reduced, the appendix starts to die.

Hydrobromic acid (Throat dry and puckering; constriction in pharynx and chest; waves of heat over face and neck; pulsating tinnitus with great nervous irritability (Houghton); vertigo, palpitation; arms heavy; seemed as if parts did not belong to him. Seems to have a specific effect on the inferior cervical ganglion, increasing the tonic action of the sympathetic, thus promoting vaso-constriction. If his subordinates, kids or wife don’t follow him he gets in rage.

He is suspicious that nobody wants to work but make more money off him.

When he goes to Doctor he can even steal medicines or things.

Bryonia

Wants complete silence and peace only around him but jumps up to talk business.

and throat may be a result of respiratory ailments or even disorders of the digestive system. In some cases, excessive consumption of alcohol and prolonged smoking may also be the cause of red spots on tongue. The tongue is affected by a number of diseases and are seen in cases where the body suffers from an acute shortage of vitamin B12. The best remedy for this is including vitamin rich foods such as citrus fruits in the daily diet.

| BUFO RANA (Toad Poison) Constituion/Personality | By: sammyMalaysia | September 21 2006 |
|---|---|---|

Homoeopathic Bufo is made from the poison of the toad. The toad releases his poison when he is teased or irritated; it can paralyze a dog. The Chinese were the first to apply dried toad poison for a variety of complaints.

The American homoeopath J.T. Kent performed the first homoeopathic provings with this substance. And he found that Bufo suits people who are mentally retarded. They remain simple and childish. Often Bufo characters retain moist and look a bit inflated and stuporous. They are prostrated, mentally weak and slowly develop backwards towards insanity. Their memory is very weak. Usually these people are passive, quiet, apathic, silly, but they also have their wild phases. Then they get excited and run like madmen through the house, biting at things, grabbing things, giggling about anything. At the same time they are afraid that something terrible is going to happen and they worry about their health. Bufo's talk nonsense but get angry when they feel misunderstood. They often make licking movements with the tongue.

A Bufo life foremost is a life on the instinctive plane. These people have a strong sexual desire with a need for immediate satisfaction. They masturbate a lot. Bufo's tend to keep their hands at their genitals almost all the time. Men can suffer from impotence or premature ejaculation; women can have a burning sensation in the womb or the ovaries.

Bufo is almost exclusively a remedy for complaints with the nervous system. It is useful in treating mental retardation in children. And it is a good remedy for epilepsia. Bufo's can suddenly fall on the ground in an epileptic attack with a terrifying scream. Before an epileptic attach they cannot stand music or shining objects. It is also possible that a sensation of unrest in the belly precedes an epileptic attack. After the epileptic attack they have a terrible headache. They can feel electric shocks all over the body. There are muscle cramps. And they can make trembling movements like Parkinson's disease. Body parts can be both numb or super sensitive.

Another characteristic is the excretion of bloody moist: nose bleedings, bloody saliva, throwing up blood, copious menstruation, bloody mothermilk, bloody vaginal fluids. The strange thing is that having bleedings make them feel better.

Discharges smell offensive. The skin often suppurates and releases a yellowish, burning and itching substance.

Symptoms are worse at night (then they have the most epileptic attacks), during menstruation and in a warm room. They feel better in the morning and in cool air.

| BUFO RANA story. | By: peter | October 15 2006 |

A Story about Bufo Rana:

A man was very very sick of dropsy, he was so sick his wife felt pity upon him and wanted him to die in peace, instead of suffering.

One day she put a live toad in a wine bottle and let it die and float in it for a day in the assumption that toad poison would come make the wine poisonous.

Next evening she served her husband that wine. Miraculously the man started recovering instantly.

This story caught the eyes of one of Hahnmann's student and more provings were made.

I seriously consider Bufo Rana for most of the dropsy cases.

CACTUS GRANDIFLORUS
Night-blooming Cereus
(SELENICEREUS SPINULOSUS)

Acts on circular muscular fibers, hence constrictions. It is the heart and arteries especially that at once respond to the influence of Cactus, producing very characteristic constrictions as of an iron band. This sensation is found in various places, œsophagus, bladder, etc. The mental symptoms produced correspond to those found when there are heart affections, sadness, and melancholy. Hæmorrhage, constrictions, periodicity, and spasmodic pains. Whole body feels as if caged, each wire being twisted tighter. Atheromatous arteries and weak heart. Congestions; irregular distribution of blood. Favors formation of clots speedily. Great periodicity. Toxic goitre with cardiac symptoms. Cactus is pulseless, panting and prostrated.

Mind.--Melancholy, taciturn, sad, ill-humored. Fear of death. Screams with pain. Anxiety.

Mind and Head.--Unconscious. Vertigo; room and bed seem to spin around. Hammering in head. Heat in head.

Nose.--Ozæna. Tightness at root. Nose obstructed; polypus. Caries of nasal bones. Boils on nose. Nostrils ulcerated.

Eyes.--Opacity of cornea. Blue circle around eyes. One pupil dilated. Night blindness.

Cadmium Sulphuricum

Generalities: Cadmium sulph. has been only partially proved, so that only a limited amount of information can be given concerning it.

A medicine may be said to be thoroughly proved when it has left its impress upon all elements of man; when it has affected his memory and his intellect, when it has affected his organs and all their functions, i. e., when healthy man has taken a medicine until all these things are affected and the results are known as the effects of that medicine.

Every medicine affects in some way all these elements of man, and no medicine is well proved until it is known how all these elements are affected.

Mind: There is a dread of work; aversion to doing everything, mental and physical. Anxiety has been brought out more by cures than by the pathogenesis, so that it well enough known to be classed along with Arsenicum for its anxiety; it may well be classed with Arsenicum for its prostration also; it has great weakness; it might also be classed with Arsenicum, because of the organs that are affected, especially because of its action upon the stomach, which is somewhat like Arsenicum, great exhaustion, irritable stomach and vomiting.

It has such vomiting as is found in the lowest forms of fever, such irritable stomach as is found in yellow fever, with black vomiting, and just at this point is the place where the likeness to Arsenicum comes out in the low forms of the fever.

But unlike Arsenicum, running all through the remedy, he wants to be perfectly quiet; part of it is a state of indolence, part of it is an aversion to motion. He is worse from motion, which makes it like Bryonia. So we will see running all through the remedy the exhaustion of Arsenicum and aversion to motion, like Bryonia.

Running through it we find it is spasmodic and nervous; it affects the muscles like Zinc. It is found in its crude state associated with Zinc.

Hering made several observations whereby he tried to prove that substances found together had a relationship and illustrated it by Tellurium which occurs as the telluride of gold. It may be a fact that substances so associated are in some respects similar, but this is only a side thought, as each substance must be studied on its merits,

There must be no guesswork in the study of provings. Every remedy must be used for its own symptoms, and for these there is no substitute. If a remedy does not work, the homeopath can only examine the case anew and seek new symptoms and another remedy.

Head: Vertigo in the room; the bed spins round. The head symptoms, anxiety and vertigo are such as occur in low types of gastro-intestinal irritation, as in continued fevers, deep-seated, slow and sluggish; in yellow fever, with prostration, vomiting of blood, black vomit. Lancinating in the head, pulsating in the temples.

It is not so often called for in ordinary headaches, but in headaches occurring in the low forms of fever, with great rush of blood to the head. Cutting like knives as occurs in yellow fever.

Eyes: The eye symptoms are numerous. Inflammation of a local character; conjunctivitis with discharge, long continued, a chronic conjunctivitis.

Old "sore eyes," rousing up with every cold and change of weather. Thickening of the conjunctiva. Scrofulous sore eyes. Ulcer spots; old scars which break and heal up.

It does wonderful work in curing old eye troubles; opacities with slow inflammation. Pressure above the eyes. Paralysis of the lids; ptosis. It commonly affects one side of the face and one eye. It has paralytic conditions like Causticum; paralysis of one part or of one edge of the body. After an apoplectic attack when the patient recovers, but weakness of one arm and leg remains, it competes with Phos.

Changes in sensation here and there. Formication of the skin and deeper tissues.

"Asleep" sensation, or like ants crawling in the extremities, deep in the muscles and the skin. Hyperesthesia or anesthesia. Numbness of parts; the nose, one hand; numbness in spots. In this it is similar to Caust. Paralyzed parts are sometimes painful. Crawling in paralyzed parts.

Nose: Old nasal catarrh which has progressed till the nasal bones are being destroyed by caries. Ulceration. Pains in the bones. Sneezing; coryza, boils, abscesses.

Mouth and taste: Disturbances of the taste. It is suitable to low forms of continued fever; it has sordes, dark tongue, bleeding tongue and dry mouth, as in typhus, typhoid and yellow fever. Sluggish tongue; difficulty in moving it. Difficult swallowing. The muscles of the throat are affected causing dysphagia. Constriction of the oesophagus. Violent thirst. Every time he takes cold water, which he craves, goose-flesh comes on, a creeping or horripilation like Capsicum.

Stomach: The stomach gives us the strongest and most important symptoms. The stomach quits business; no digestion. Everything sours; fluids and the simplest things taken are changed and come up sour, mixed with blood or bile; rancid eructations; with great exhaustion.

The nausea is distressing. Nauseated all the way down to the abdomen like Ipec., Ant. t., and Asarum, extensive nausea. Cold sweat. Vomiting of yellow-green mucus.

Touching the lips brings on nausea. Looking over the symptoms narrated here an experienced practitioner would think of gastritis-vomiting of the simplest things. Irritation of the stomach after tedious sickness, like cerebro-spinal-meningitis, typhoid, yellow fever.

The stomach gives out; there is no digestion, and everything is vomited. He is convalescing, but his stomach is irritable. He wants to keep still. The Arsenic prostration and irritable stomach occur at the beginning of the fever, with heat and restlessness.

This medicine comes in after the fever, and, with his anxiety he wants to keep still. Arsenic has anxiety and wants to move from bed to bed, and from chair to chair, and he fears death.

In this medicine he seems to say:

"Don't speak to me; don't bother me; let me die in peace."

He wants to be perfectly quiet, and the state occurs at the close of a febrile disease. Many of these patients die because they cannot eat, but this remedy will save them. When you have a case of cancer, with burning, prostration, and vomiting, Cadmium sulph. will relieve these symptoms for weeks, I have seen them where the pains have been relieved by anodynes until nothing would stay on the stomach, and this medicine would relieve. It is a great remedy in the gastric irritation of carcinoma, a great palliative; coffee ground vomiting, Burning and cutting pains in the stomach. Gastric symptoms, such as occur in pregnancy, in old drunkards. Burning in the stomach extending up into the oesophagus; fluids burn all the way up into the mouth and throat; sour, acid fluids. Cold sensation in the stomach. Cholera infantum with irritation of the stomach.

Pain in the abdomen with vomiting. Lancinating in the abdomen from these pains we see it is a medicine which profoundly affects the liver, spleen, stomach and other abdominal viscera. Gangrene threatens. The main remedy in the hands of good prescribers.

Relapses in fever, with vomiting, diarrhoea, and great prostration. At times a case of yellow fever gets along fairly well, but a draft causes a slight cold and on come sudden prostration, black vomit, death. In that state it competes with Carbo veg., which used to be the main remedy in the hands of good prescribers.

Oral herpes is an infection of the mouth and lips caused by a specific type of the herpes simplex virus (also termed HSV-1, type 1 herpes simplex virus, or oral herpes). The virus causes painful sores on the lips, gums, tongue, roof of the mouth, inside the cheeks, and sometimes on the face and neck. It also can cause symptoms such as fever and muscle aches. People commonly refer to the infection as herpes labialis or "cold sores." Another condition, "canker sore," is sometimes thought to be caused by HSV, but this is not true.
http://www.md-health.com/Herpes-Stages.html
Canker sores occur only inside the mouth, on the tongue, and on the soft palate (roof of mouth), not on skin surfaces. Although they reoccur, they are not contagious, usually are self-limiting, and have almost no complications. Canker sores are caused by substances that irritate the oral mucosa.

It is a normal body response that may occur when we are embarrassed, angry, excited, or experiencing other strong emotions.

But 'flushing' - when the face, ears, neck and, occasionally, upper chest, take on a red colour, accompanied by a hot feeling - can also be a sign of a more serious underlying condition. 'Flushing occurs because the vasomotor system - the part of the brain that controls temperature in the body - dilates your vessels, veins and arteries to give the blood a bigger surface area and therefore cool it down,' says Angela Chalmers, pharmacist for Boots.

In English medicine Calcium acetate ( KAL-see-um ASS-a-tate) is used to treat hyperphosphatemia (too much phosphate in the blood) in patients with kidney disease.

Calcium acetate works by binding with the phosphate in the food you eat, so that it is eliminated from the body without being absorbed.

This medicine is available only with your doctor's prescription, in the following dosage form:

Oral Tablets (U.S.)

girilal

Calcarea Carbonica

If you were about to produce a Calcarea subject to order you could do so by feeding him lime or lime water until the digestive organs were so debilitated that they could no longer digest lime; and then the tissues would be increasingly deprived of what they need, and give us the lime subject, the "bone salt inanition" case, for that is really what it is. Infants that are fed lime water in the milk will in a little while be lime subjects.

They will soon get in such a state that they cannot take the lime from their natural food, and the result will be a Calcarea subject such as we are about to describe.

But the natural cases are those that have a natural sickness, are born so, born with an inability to digest the lime that is in their natural food, and they grow fat and flabby, and produce deficient bones.

There is a greater proportion of cartilaginous material in the bones than lime, and the bones bend, and take on diseases and destructive troubles. Deficient teeth, or no teeth at all. The bones simply stop growing, and the patient goes into marasmus.

What a foolish notion it is to feed that infant lime water because he cannot digest lime! Is it not just as reasonable as anything else in allopathy? And yet our homeopaths use allopathic medicines. They use the lowest potencies they can get and it would seem strange if those substances cured any better in the hands of the homeopath than in the hands of the allopath.

Nor, it is astonishing that one single dose of the potency suitable to meet the state of disorder will make that infant commence to digest its food, and appropriate from its food the lime substance that it needs in its bones, and wherever else it needs it.

All at once the teeth begin to grow; the bones begin to grow, and the legs get stiff enough for him to begin to walk, and they will hold up. It is astonishing what changes will take place under the various medicines that are suitable for the disturbances of the hair, and the bones and nails.

The remedy must be sufficiently potentized to correspond with the wrong. It certainly must not be crude because the child is already stunted by the crude material. You will see within a month or six weeks after giving a solitary dose of the sufficiently potentized remedy the nails that were corrugated and uneven and spotted and irregular will form a margin and will grow out smooth.

You will see the ugly little crowns upon the teeth, distorted, and black things as they come up out of the gums; but when they have been under the suitable homeopathic remedy you will see them form a margin line, and from there on the teeth look healthy, and from there on the little body of the tooth is smooth and round; just as if that child bad had an impulse to grow better teeth.

That same thing probably takes place where the bones exist. The periosteum takes on healthy work.

This is the Calcarea state when the patient needs lime and he cannot get it because he has been cloyed; or, because he has an indigestion, he is unable to assimilate the lime that is in his food, and it goes through him and does not affect him.

So it is with much of the sickness we have, an inability to extract from the food and assimilate such things as the body needs. Would not anyone be a simpleton to suppose that he had been the cause of the building of a tooth?

You do not build mole hills out of our high potencies; they simply establish a state of order, so that digestion and assimilation go on, order is established and the tissues are improved.

Health comes, beauty, a growth of hair, better skin, better nails.

The Calcarea constitution is what we want to know. We do not need to know that the individual has been poisoned by lime; it is not worth much to know it, because that is not the index to the remedy. If indigestion of lime has been brought about by lime, it may need one of ten other remedies to overcome that indigestion for lime.

It is not always Calcarea that covers the symptoms. The medicine that covers the symptoms is the one that will change the economy from an abnormal to a normal state, and digestion will become orderly, and we will have growth and prosperity in the economy.

Aspect:

The Calcarea case is to be known by the symptoms, and not by the fact that the patient has been poisoned by lime; the chances are that those we have to treat have never had any lime. Many of them have never been poisoned by lime but have been unable to assimilate lime from birth.

Calcarea is full of congestions, determination of blood to the head cold feet; hot head; congestion of the chest. Calcarea corresponds in a very high degree to the chlorotic and anaemic, pale and waxy, and in spite of this plump. It has both fat, flabby and pale patients and it has emaciated states, too.

Muscles emaciate. Emaciated about the neck; emaciated about the neck and from there downwards. Anemic conditions; pale, waxy, sickly; pale lips; pale ears; pale fingers; pale and yellowish.

Chlorosis is a word especially relating to the anemia of girls. A large number of remedies is indicated in those conditions, but Calcarea produces the kind of anemia known as chlorosis. It produces most pernicious anemia.

Great relaxation in the tissues everywhere; relaxation of muscles; relaxation of veins; relaxation of the walls of blood-vessels to such a great extent, especially in the lower limbs and anus, that there are marked hemorrhoidal manifestations or marked varicose veins in the legs. Distended veins, burning in these varicose veins. Burning and smarting. Bleeding and oozing. Inflammation and painful swelling of joints.

Glands:
Another marked feature running through the remedy is its tendency to attack glands, the glands of the neck, all of the glands of the body, especially the lymphatic glands.
The lymphatic glands in the abdomen become hard, inflamed and sore, like great nodules, like hickory nuts; tubercular.
Calcarea is useful in tubercular formations.
Calcareous degenerations, calcareous glands, induration of glands. It is useful in indurations in ulcers, and the base of ulcers, and round about ulcers, hence its wonderful use in palliating and restraining the growth of malignant ulcers, as malignant ulcers always have an indurated base.
Old cancerous ulcers are greatly restrained in their growth, that is, the constitutional state is much improved, the patient himself has more endurance and the ulcers will take on healing. In cancerous affections that would kill in sixteen months the patient will live five years with Calcarea, if Calcarea is indicated.
That is something, and in any times that is all that can be expected in a cancerous growth.
In glandular affections where the glands round about are infiltrated and hard, where there is much burning and stinging pain, where the growth has invaded and appropriated the surrounding tissues so that there are adhesions, matters are serious.
There is malignancy in almost all these cases. They differ entirely from glands that are loose from the skin, glands that roll under the skin, and have no fibrous attachment. Cancerous affections burn and sting. Calcarea cures many tumors, fatty, cystic, if the symptoms agree, so strongly is it related to this building tip process in glands. It builds up glands and bone.
Another thing running through the remedy is a pyoemic state, in which there are abscesses in deep muscles. Abscesses deep in the neck, deep in the thigh, in the abdomen.

You will be astonished to learn that Calcarea will take care of the abscess (when the symptoms agree), and it will not break. I have many times seen an abscess disappear when fluctuation was most positive. I have seen those abscesses disappear when pus was shown to he present by the needle; I have not only seen the abscesses go away, but also the pyoemic state which was prior to it. We have but a few medicines that will do that.

There is something singular about this. Why does Calcarea favor the resorption of that fluid and encourage the part to become calcareous?

It is more than I am able to explain, but it does it when the symptoms agree. But Sulph. and Sil., when their symptoms agree hasten suppuration. But Calcarea has that peculiar action of concentrating and contracting.

One may be indicated in one case, the other may be indicated in the other. There are times when Sil. is indicated and the abscess is in such a dangerous place. Then if Sil. is given the result that naturally belongs to the spreading of that abscess is dangerous; in such an instance the surgeon must be called to drain the abscess in a safe manner, even when we know that if that abscess were located in a safe place, it would be far better for that patient to have the remedy he needs.

Sometimes the periosteum is injured by a hammer striking it through muscles, injuring or contusing the periosteum. Inflammation will set in, pus will form rapidly, and if Calcarea is indicated by the constitution of the patient the surgeon's knife is entirely useless, and a most detrimental thing.

But in thinking from the old standpoint, the physician who knows nothing about Homoeopathy, and the wonders of our homeopathic remedies, would hold up his hands in horror.

"Why, if you produce a resorption of that pus into the system you will have blood poisoning and death."

But under Calcarea this resorption does take place in some manner, and the patient improves every moment, he stops his sweating, his rigor has disappeared, he becomes perfectly comfortable, his appetite improves, he is stronger by the time it is over, and remains well.

Judging from the old standpoint, we cannot conclude anything about the problems that will come up under Homoeopathy. We can only judge from our standpoint, and from what we know. And if you hear that somebody has tried this and tried that without success, remember that somebody has only demonstrated his own failure. Homoeopathy is capable of demonstrating itself in all intelligent hands; wherever the physician has intelligence and makes use of the law and applies the remedy in accordance with the symptoms he will see the case turn out as described.

Polypi:
Another grand feature running through this remedy is its ability to grow polypi. Those who need Calcarea will grow polypi in the nose and ears, in the vagina, in the bladder, and here and there. Cystic growths also and strange little papillomata.

Exostoses:
Another strange thing that it does is to cause exostoses. This state of disorder comes from the irregularity in the distribution of the lime. You would think that nature would try to distribute it around evenly where it can do the most good.
But when this bone salt inanition has commenced the lime may be piled up in one place, and almost absent in another. One bone will be cartilaginous and another will have bony growths on it. Softening of the bone.

Defective formation of bone. A keynote has grown out of this, viz:
"Late learning to walk," because the legs are so weak.
It is not late learning to walk, but it is late walking.
It knows how to walk, but it can't walk. Natrum mur. has brain trouble, in which the child is late learning to do things.
"Tardy development of bone tissues. Curvatures."
Muscles flabby, joint affections, like hip-joint disease. It is full of rheumatism. Rheumatic and gouty conditions of the joints.
The Calcarea patient is a chilly patient. Sensitive to the cold air. Sensitive to the raw winds. Sensitive to the coming of a storm; sensitive to the coming of cold weather, and when the weather changes from warm to cold it seems impossible for him to keep warm; he wants the body kept warm.

Head:
The head is sometimes congested; and it is hot to the touch; but it often feels cold to him. His scalp feels as if it were cold. But the body is nearly always cold to the touch and he feels cold, and he wants plenty of clothing.
The feet are cold. He sweats in various places, sweats in spots. Sweats upon the forehead, or upon the face, or upon the back of the neck, or the front of the chest, or his feet.
Sensitiveness to cold and weakness run through the remedy. Weakness in the legs. Inability to endure. Worse from every kind of exertion. Out of breath. Fat, flabby anemic subjects, sometimes they look plump, often flushed in the face, but they have no endurance, and if such a patient undertakes a little exertion he is down sick with a fever, or a headache.
Calcarea is full of complaints brought on from lifting, from exertion, from walking, from walking enough to get into a sweat; and these come very suddenly, because he cannot stop that perspiration by keeping still without getting sick.
If he gets into a sweat, and stops long enough to be comfortable, the perspiration will stop so suddenly that he will have a chill, or he will have a headache. Weak, tired, anxious. Difficulties of breathing. Weak heart. Weak all over. No ability of the muscles to sustain prolonged effort, and it is the same way with the mind. No ability of the mind to sustain prolonged mental effort. Calcarea is a tired patient.
He is suffering from want of lime. He has been unable to digest lime, and he goes into a state with enlarged glands, emaciation of the neck and of the limbs, while the fat and the glands of the belly increase. Especially is this noticed in children. A big bellied child, with emaciated limbs and emaciated neck.
Enlarged glands. Pale, and flabby, and sickly. Those that take on flesh without any increase of strength. They take on flesh and grow flabby. Remain feeble. Those that get up from sickness take on flabby flesh, and in a little while they become dropsical.
The Calcarea patient can't go upstairs; he is so tired in his legs, and so tired in the chest; he pants and suffocates from going upstairs. He has every evidence of muscular weakness and flabbiness. Nutrition is impaired everywhere.

This is the kind of patient that used to be called scrofulous; now we call the condition psora; and Calcarea is one of our deepest anti-psorics. It is a medicine that goes deep into the life, and takes a deep hold of every part of the economy.

Mind:
Now we will take up the mental symptoms. All the mind symptoms represent Calcarea as in a state of great weakness; in ability to prolong mental operation.
Becomes very tired from mental work. Full of anxiety. He is tired mentally, and tired physically, from mental work and breaks down in a sweat, and becomes excited and irritable and disturbed. Great disturbance of the emotions; complaints lasting for days and weeks from excitement of the emotions; from worrying, from vexation, or a general emotional disturbance is prostrated.
"Inability to apply himself."
Inability to do good thinking for some time after such excitement, disturbance or worry. It is very useful in complaints from prolonged worry, from prolonged application to business, from excitement.

It is full of a peculiar kind of mental feeling, differing quite considerably from most remedies; he feels his exhaustion of mind, and it seems to him that this weakness, and this inability to do and to think connectedly, must be going towards insanity, he broods over it, he is convinced that he is insane, or about to become insane, that he is getting weak-minded, and he looks it, too, because what he has in his mind is this:
that he is becoming insane or weak-minded and he thinks people will observe it.
He thinks people look at him suspiciously, and he looks at them suspiciously, and he wonders why they do not say something to him about it.
He thinks he is going insane, and that other people are observing his state of mind, and he keeps that in his mind most of the time. He thinks of it day-times, and he gets greatly roused up over it; he thinks of it nights, and it keeps him awake.

He lies awake late at night thinking. Calcarea leads to little ideas, that is, it compels the mind to littleness, to little ideas, or to dwell on little things, but his mind, as it were, is forced to dwell upon things that he cannot put aside.

When the Calcarea patient begins to relate to his friends how he feels they all naturally say to him,

'Why don't you put that aside; that doesn't amount to anything," but to him it is a big thing, and he cannot put it aside; all these little things combine to convince him that he is going crazy. he cannot calculate, he cannot do deep thinking, he cannot dwell upon deep things; he may have been a philosopher, and he has lost his ability to think out things in philosophy.

He has lost his mental depth. he forms conclusions out of his emotions rather than from his intelligence. He forms conclusions about things as he wants them to be. You would almost think he wants to grow crazy, he keeps talking about it so much.

He is unable to accept any sort of argument, and this grows worse and worse. He is unable to accept the assurance of his physician, in whom he has always had confidence. It is no use, it seems, to try to reason with him; yet he is not so far gone but he can reason about other things except his own mental state.

He imagines things; and the things he imagines you will really wonder at his dwelling upon them so, because they are such little things. And so it is when he goes into insanity, or imbecility, or a general breakdown.

It is a passive state, in which he sits and thinks about his little affairs, and his little things that amount to nothing at all, and he sits and sits, the text says,

"Sits and breaks sticks, or bends pins all day long with his fingers."

Does little things, and in this way he keeps himself busy, wears himself out more and more. Any amount of thinking be comes impossible. It is almost impossible for him to come to a conclusion, for he never figures it twice alike.

He cannot add and subtract even in the simplest forms. Now, he thinks about this matter so much and thinks everybody else is watching him, until finally the instant he closes his eyes he has visions, just as soon as he gets down quiet and thinks

"Now I will go to sleep, I will get rid of all this," and he closes his eyes to sleep, then he must get them open as quick as possible, he is in a state of excitement, for he sees horrid little spooks; he cannot keep his mind clear.
He cannot go to sleep because his thoughts trouble him, and he sees all sorts of things. There is no congruity in his mind. We know that strong intelligence puts aside such follies, but these are just the things that Calcarea patients dwell upon.
Talking to himself. He lies in bed, or sits, when be is alone, and carries on a general conversation with every conceivable individual he has had to do with, on every conceivable subject; and it multiplies and it grows, and he imagines it is all real.
We see how far that is removed from the healthy mind, and yet he is not fit for the insane asylum, with all of these strange things, for when he is roused he does carry on a conversation, and he does as ordinary people do.
When he is alone, when he has nobody to talk with him, he does these strange things. He is controlled and dominated when he is in company, to a great extent, and hence these things are not brought out.
He carries out that same idea when he becomes delirious or insane. Picks his fingers, and does all sorts of peculiar little things. Sees visions and faces of persons when eyes are closed.
"Imagines some one is walking beside her."
In the proving of Sil. that was observed very strongly. It has been observed in Petroleum, and in Calcarea. In a perfect state of health, with a strong, vigorous intelligence, it is not likely to be felt, but in nervous people, and especially in women, it is common.
"Mental aberration with horrid visions. Sees dogs crowding around him, fights them off."
Here is a sensation, occurring in nervous women,
"Feels as if she would like to run up and down, and scream."
Feels as if she could not help it, she must scream. That occurs in persons overwrought, dreadfully excited from a loss in the household by death. The mother loses her child, or husband; or a young girl loses her intended. She is broken-hearted, and greatly excited. It is a hysterical state. And yet I have seen the same in men.

I remember one. It came upon him from business cares. He had that same feeling; he would walk up and down the house, he said he felt as if he must fly or jump out of a window, or do some thing. That is analogous to the mental state found in hysteria, or a great state of nervous excitement.

"She thinks and talks of nothing but murder, fire, rats, etc."

That is that same idea of talking about little things and foolish things. Things that are not interesting to anybody, And yet I have seen these things in patients and I would ask them why they did it. It is generally said,

"I tried a good while to stop it, and when I could not I just kept right on at it, for it seemed to do me good."

"She thinks and talks of murder, fire, rats, etc."

Your patient may talk about other foolish things, but it is only to illustrate the idea that she sits and talks about foolish things, and can not control herself; thinking, thinking, or expressing it, talking, talking, talking.

Violent screaming spells. And then the Calcarea patient will refuse to talk, will say nothing. She may talk to herself when alone, but will decline to enter into conversation, and will sit perfectly silent.

A Calcarea patient sometimes takes an aversion to work, and quits work. He will quit a most thriving business, and go home and do nothing, after being fatigued in carrying on the business until it- reaches a most thriving condition. He says business is not good for him.

He is tired of business, and when he goes to his business again it seems as if it would drive him crazy. He does not want to see it, he does not want to know anything about it.

Of course, you can readily see that it is not so much in the Calcarea patient that he is driven to, weakness and fatigue from distress in business, although it has that, but that which I am speaking about is that he has overworked until he has given out, and right in the midst of his success he quits his business and goes home, and leaves all-it looks just as if he were lazy.

If you look at him you come to the conclusion that he is lazy. Yet it is an insanity; not the laziness that belongs to tramp nature, though that also might be cured many times. He has been industrious, and all at once takes a turn. A great change occurs in the mind, and he takes on symptoms. It is not such persons as were born that way, born lazy, never would work; but those that become lazy.

It is like the symptom in a pious upright man, whose walk and conversation has been upright but all at once he turns and commences to swear. Of course we know that individual is insane. On the other hand, we have patients that have been only ordinarily industrious that develop an insanity for work, and it seems they have ability in that insane industry to work almost night and day; they are up early and late.

It is a sick state. So when we see in the Repertory "Industry" it does not mean an ordinarily industrious state but one that is exaggerated into a symptom. He has become so industrious that he has a mania for work.

"Whimpering. Low-spirited and melancholy."

It is a strange thing to see a bright little girl of 8 or 9 years old taking on sadness, melancholy, and commencing to talk about the future world, and the angels, and that she wants to die and go there, and she is sad, and wants to read the Bible all day. That is a strange thing; and yet Calcarea has cured that. Ars. has cured that state, and also Lach. They are a little inclined to be precocious, and they have attended the Sunday-school, and they have taken too seriously the things they have learned. Children sad and unhappy, and old people who take on a loathing of life, become weary of life. That is a good deal like Aurum. In going over Aurum I explained that, and dwelt upon it, that the highest love is the love of life; and when an individual ceases to love his own life, and is weary of it, and loathes it, and wants to die, he is on the border line of insanity.

In fact, that is an insanity of the will. You have only to look with an observing eye to see that one may be insane in the affections, or insane in the intelligence. One may remain quite intact, and the other one be destroyed.

We find in Calcarea both equally disturbed. One patient may be insane in his voluntary system, so that all of his loves are perverted; he has no affection that is like what it used to be, like it was when be was well.

Antipathy to his family or some member of his family.

Or, he may have the affection fairly intact, but no intelligence, and does all sorts of strange things.

He is full of fear.

Weary of life; hopelessness, anxiety. The world is black.

"Fear that something sad or terrible will happen. Fears that she will. lose her reason, or that people will observe her confusion of mind."

"Fear of death; of consumption; of misfortune; of being alone."

Fear abounds, especially when the voluntary system is disturbed. She is startled at every noise. He can't sleep sq that the body rests or the mind rests. He is disturbed in his sleep with horrible dreams. His sleep is a restless one.

"Great anxiety and oppression. Restlessness and palpitation. Despairing; hopeless."

These symptoms have to be coupled and connected with that leucophlegmatic, pale, flabby, sickly individual.

"Child cross and fretful. Easily frightened."

Many complaints after exertion of the mind. Many complaint after excitement, chagrin or fright.

He is so weak in his circulation, so much disturbed in the heart, it palpitates from every excitement. He is out of breath from every physical exertion; and these take part so much in the circulation of blood in the body, have so much to do with circulation of blood in the brain, have so much to do with the intellect, with the sensorium, that we see at once vertigo on almost all occasions, intermingled with all sorts of symptoms.

Fear, anxiety, and vertigo. If his. emotions stir him up he becomes dizzy. From going upstairs the blood mounts to the head, and he becomes dizzy. Confusion of mind and vertigo from mental exertion. If he becomes shocked, or has bad news, or has any mental excitement or chagrin, this vertigo will come out.

Confusion of mind, determination of blood to the head, cold extremities, covered with sweat, with vertigo.

"Vertigo, when climbing into high places;"

that is the effort of going up. The blood rushes to the head and he becomes dizzy.

"On going upstairs or up a hill. On suddenly rising, or turning the head, even when at rest."

Head:

One of the most striking symptoms of the head of the Calcarea patient is the sweat, the sweat of the head upon the slightest exertion. He will sweat on the face when he sweats nowhere else, and his head is covered with cold sweat when he is comfortable in other places about the body.

The same thing is true about the feet. When his feet become very cold they will sweat. When they are warm they will sweat. You would naturally think that a person going into a cold room would stop his sweating. But sometimes the Calcarea patient will break out in a sweat, upon the head, and upon the feet, in a cold room,

He sweats upon the forehead, so that every draft of air makes him chilly, and this brings on headache. Coldness of the whole scalp, so he has to wrap up the head. Yet during congestions, the head is hot.

So it has at times great heat in the head. The Calcarea headaches are stupefying, they are benumbing; they bring on confusion of mind.

The Calcarea patient has a catarrh in the nose, with more or less discharge; at his best he has considerable discharge. But he goes into a cold place, the discharge is slacked up, and he gets a headache. Headache over the eyes. Congestion of the head; back of the head.

"Tearing headache above the eyes down to nose," is a strong symptom of Calcarea.

It seems sometimes as if a great wedge were lip in there. This is relieved by very hot applications. It is relieved in the dark; it is aggravated in the daylight. He must go into dark room and lie down for relief.

Sometimes this headache is ameliorated by lying down in the dark. This headache continues to grow worse during the day, until in the evening it becomes so severe that it is at tended with nausea and vomiting.

It is one of the forms of constitutional headache, is a headache that sometimes occurs once in two weeks. Headache every seven days, or headache once in two weeks. Periodical headaches. Sick headache, the old-fashioned American sick-headache.

There is commonly a periodicity belonging to it, of seven to fourteen days, but again, it comes on whenever he is exposed, by riding in the wind, for he is a very chilly patient, if he becomes really chilled or very cold, he gets a headache, a sick-headache.

Then, again, it has pain in the left side of the head. One-sided headache. Headache worse from noise, from talking, but ameliorated in the evening, from lying in the dark. It has headache in the temples, and this headache seems to draw through to the root of the nose.
The headaches from the supraorbital region draw through to the nose. Headaches in the temples seem to produce a feeling of tightness, a feeling of great tension in the forehead. Headaches worse from motion, from walking, from talking.
Most of the Calcarea headaches, as soon as they become severe, are attended with pulsation. The pulsation is so strong that the patient is not satisfied by merely saying it is a pulsation, he describes it as hammering. Most of the pains are pressive or tearing.
"Concussive headaches."
Stitching, pulsating pains in the head, as if it would split. Headaches worse from walking, and from a jar. Sometimes he feels a coldness in the head, it seems as if the cold head is numb, cold as if made of wood. He sometimes feels this numbness, and describes it as if he had a cap, sometimes as if there were a helmet, on the head.
Now, all of these sensations are difficult to describe, but sometimes they are one and the same thing. All the headaches of Calcarea, are more or less congestive. It is a peculiar feature of Calcarea, that the more marked the congestion of internal parts, the colder the surface becomes.
With chest troubles, and stomach troubles, and bowel troubles, the feet and hands become like ice, W covered with sweat; and he lies in bed sometimes with a fever in the rest of his body, and the scalp covered with cold sweat.
That is strange. You cannot account for that by any process of reasoning in pathology, and when a thing is so strange that it cannot be accounted, for, it become very valuable as descriptive of the remedy, and is one that cannot generally be left out when prescribing for a patient.

That is almost a general state, it is so marked. It has burning in the vertex, and this is often present coldness of the forehead, or the whole head may feel cold except a burning spot on the vertex. Calcarea will again have cold head and icy cold feet when walking in cold air or in very cold weather; but as soon as the feet get warm, they go to the other extreme, and burn so that he puts them out of bed.

This has often led inexperienced prescribers to prescribe Sulph., because that is a keynote of Sulph. All keynote prescribers give Sulph. whenever the patient puts the feet out of bed, but a number of remedies have burning feet, hot feet, so we are not limited to Sulph. Calcarea has affections of the bones of the skull, the outer part of the head.

Slow formation of bone. The fontanelles remain open a long time. It has hydrocephalic conditions, effusion in the membranes, and the bones do not grow and keep pace with the growth of the head, and hence the sutures commence to separate and the head grows wider, and larger all the time, with hydrocephalus.

In hydrocephalic children this sweating head is a common feature. The child lies at night upon the pillow, and the sweat pours from the head and wets the pillow all around; especially sweating at night.

In persons suffering from softening of the brain, the pillow is wet all around the head. Children going through difficult dentition have dreadful times in their dreams, they screech out in the night, and the pillow is wet all around their head.

Old plethoric patients, broken down constitutions, fat, flabby, lymphatic patients, with enlarged glands, with sweating of the head, cold sweating of the head. The hair falls out, not in the regular way such as occurs in old ago bit in patches here and there.

You see a bald spot on the side of the head, or the back of the head; a tuft of hair has come out, or in two or three places. Then it has eruptions upon the head and face; eczema that we find in children and infants.

"Thick scabs on the head, with yellow pus."

Eyes:

Offensive eruptions. The eye comes in for a share of troubles, and Calcarea is one of the best friends the oculist has, if he knows how to use it. It is not especially suitable for every inflammation, but in those fat, flabby constitutions, where every cold settles in the eyes, and produces an inflammation, and this goes on for a few days, and ulceration begins, then study Calcarea.

Vesicles are formed and break and spread into an ulcer. From exposure of the feet in water, from riding in the wind, from cold, damp weather he gets eye troubles. Ulceration of the cornea. In all of the complaints of the eyes and of the head the photophobia is so marked that the Calcarea subject when he is at all disturbed cannot even stand ordinary light, and to be out in the sunlight is extremely painful, and many times inflammations are started from merely going into a bright sunlight, from steady looking, and from straining the eyes.

All kinds of exertions bring on headaches and eye troubles. Tension, because one muscle is weak. There is a disturbance of accommodation. Worse from every exertion of the eyes; you see that is like its generals, that is, aggravated from exertion.

He cannot endure any prolonged exertion; you see that is just as true of his parts as the whole. You know that reading, writing and looking at one thing all are marked exertions. With Calcarea, the part itself is worse from exertion, and the whole body is worse from exertion.

Calcarea has cured cataract. Calcarea has other disturbances of the eyes, in connection with head troubles, in connection with fevers, and when he is out of sorts from great exertion; he so easily gets into a fidgety state, confusion of mind that is almost a delirium, and on closing the eyes he sees the most horrible visions, specters, ghosts.

Long before any disturbance can be observed in the tissues, or in the retina, or any disturbance of the eye by looking into it with the ophthalmoscope he will complain of seeing smoke, or steam in the air before his field of vision, as if looking through a veil, as if looking through a cloud, all meaning the same thing.

"Dim vision." His vision is weak.

The muscles are weak. He suffers from dim vision, which is going on gradually to blindness as he grows increasingly weak. All of his eye symptoms, and his headaches, and his nervous symptoms arc aggravated from reading, from writing, from looking steadily at one thing.
He is very much exhausted after such an exertion and will have tearing pains over the eyes, behind the eyes in the head. That is a peculiar kind of a headache, such as he is in the habit of having. It may be in any part of head.
Called eye-strain. It is a wonderful remedy for eye-strain (Onosmodium). Calcarea has cured many cases of opacity of the cornea (Bar, iod.). In an old case a cure can never be promised. It is one of the results of disease, and we never know when we are going to remove the results of disease, because the intelligent homeopath never prescribes for the results of disease. He prescribes for the patient. An opacity itself, when it is present, is not a symptom, but a result of disease.
Often when a patient is prescribed for on his general symptoms, such a state of opacity of the cornea will, after a while, begin to pass away. The patient grows better, feels better himself. His symptoms commence to subside, and after the symptoms have subsided pathological conditions will commence to subside.
Do not be discouraged in prescribing if the pathological conditions do not go away; but if all the symptoms of the patient have gone away, and the patient is eating well, and is sleeping well, and doing well, do not feel that it is impossible for that opacity of the cornea to go away, for sometimes it will.
I have known patients to come back, years later, even after I had given them up as cured, as their symptoms had all disappeared, and I was foolish enough to say to the patient,

"Well, I do not suppose this condition will ever go away, but you are all well, there is nothing to prescribe on, there is not much use of your taking any more medicine," but in six months from that time the patient would come back to me and say:
"Doctor, do you suppose the treatment you gave me had anything to do with this trouble going away? It has nearly all disappeared."
I only tell you this to give you an idea how long it takes to restore order, for nature herself to replace the bad tissue and put healthy tissue in that same place, to restore an organ. It takes time, and it is best that we should not be surprised. it may be that the medicine has done all it can do.

Here is another thing I have seen:
even when there were no symptoms left, and after waiting a considerable time and there were no symptoms, I have seen another dose of the same medicine that was given on the last symptoms give the patient a great lift, and pathological conditions commence to go way.
So Calcarea is a great friend to the oculist, and every physician ought to be just as good a prescriber as the oculist can be, for he prescribes for the patient. So must the oculist. In prescribing I am in doubt whether there can be any such thing as a specialty, because the homoeopathic physician prescribes for the patient. He prescribes for the patient, whether he has eye disease, or car disease, or throat disease, or lung disease, or liver disease, etc.

Ears:
In the ear we have a great deal of trouble. It produces thick yellow discharge from the ears. Cold, chilly weather brings on ear trouble; quite likely from becoming cold or chilled, from an exposure, or from a sudden change of cold damp weather he has additional complaints in the ears.
While he is at his best the idea holds good here as in other catarrhal conditions, there is copious discharge. But from exposure and cold this slacks up a little, and when it does there is a little inflammation, and like enough throbbing, and headache. That occurs every time from exposure.
Whether the catarrh is in the nose, the eyes, or the ears, there will be headache. The Calcarea patient is so easily disturbed from cold weather and exposure, he is so sensitive to the cold, that it is next to impossible for him to dress and protect himself. He is flabby and soft, easily disturbed, sensitive to his surroundings.
If it is an ear trouble, he may have difficult hearing, abscess of the middle ear, catarrh of the Eustachian tubes, etc., but all of these bring on headaches; and around about the ear the glands are all affected.

Nose:
The catarrh of the nose is extremely troublesome. Old lingering stubborn catarrhs, with thick yellow discharge; great crusts from the nose. In the morning he blows out enormous blackish, bloody chunks.
He breathes part of the night through the nose, and then his nose clogs up so that he breathes, through the mouth. It has cured a great many times polypi of the nose.

The homeopathic physician, trusting so much to his symptoms, knows so well the remedy after studying the case, that be very likely will prescribe for the patient on the symptoms alone. He says:
This patient needs Calcarea, there is no doubt about it. He prescribes for him and sends him away.

After three or four weeks the patient comes back with a gelatinous looking tough thing on a handkerchief, and says: "Doctor, look there at what came out of my nose.
Do you suppose your medicine had anything to do with that?"
Perhaps you did not know he had polypus, it does not make any difference, your prescription cannot be any different if he has polypi in the nose, and you do not know it is there; you cannot by any process of torsion remove it before you prescribe, so you will have to leave that torsion to those that do not know about Homoeopathy; and hence the examination is not so important as it is to those who prescribe for the polypi, and forget about the patient.
Affections of the bones of the nose. That is, the catarrhs go on so long, and they are so deep-seated, that the bones of the nose and the cartilage of the nose are infiltrated, any they break down.
Then operators cut out bones, remove cartilage, and perform operations too numerous to mention; and every one must have the same operation; but in order for him to be cured, he must even after that go to an homoeopathic physician. He should first be cured and then if there is anything to be removed let him be operated on.

Face:
The face is sickly, cold, covered with sweat. Sweats on the slightest exertion, and sometimes it sweats in the night, on the forehead.
"Cold sweat on the face. Face pale and cachectic," such as we see in advanced cases of cancer, and consumption.
Face sallow, pale, sickly, dropsical. Eruptions on the face. Eruptions about the lips; and the lips are chapped and the mouth is raw. The lips are cracked and bleeding. Painful swelling on the parotid glands; painful swelling of the sub-lingual and sub-maxillary glands.
The glands all take part in the Calcarea troubles.

Throat:
Calcarea is a medicine for chronic sore throats. The throat appearance itself is not always sufficient to prescribe on, but the complaints in the throat are those that come on in persons taking cold so frequently that the patient has not time to get over one before be goes into another, and this engrafts upon him a chronic sore throat.
It may in the beginning be a Bell. throat, which is quite likely, but before he gets over it he has taken another cold. Remember that this is a part of the Calcarea patient, that he takes cold so easily; he takes cold from every, draft, from very exposure, and from damp weather.
When getting over a Bell. sore throat - about the time he thinks he is over it he takes a new cold. Perhaps it has been relieved two or three times with Bell., and then it settles down into a chronic state, and there are little red patches, perhaps little ulcers in the throat, this extends all over . It extends to the roof of the mouth, a sore tongue, and a constant dry, choking feeling in the pharynx, covering the tonsils and extending, up into the posterior nares, filling with thick, yellow mucus.
Chronic inflammation. The uvula may be puffed; swollen.
"Parts swollen, red, tumid," but it patches.
The throat very painful on swallowing; dry, choking feeling.

Stomach:
The stomach in Calcarea is slow in its action.
"Food taken into the stomach remains."
It does not digest, it turns sour.
"Sour vomiting."
Milk sours. Milk disagrees; the digestion is also slow, feeble. He has a feeling of tumefaction and fullness; enlargement after eat ing; and everything sours in the stomach; everything disorders the stomach.
Weak digestion. The Calcarea patient has a very strong longing for eggs. Little children crave eggs; at every meal they will eat eggs, and eggs, will digest better than anything else. It is very seldom that little children naturally long for eggs; children with cold feet, emaciated extremities, large heads, enlarged abdomen; stomach distended like an inverted saucer, rounded out; bloated abdomen, and slender extremities; cold and sensitive to cold; pale skin; pale, waxy surface.
Then, there is complete loss of appetite, no desire for any kind of food. If any desire at all, it is for eggs. Aversion to meat; aversion to warm food.
This with enlarged glands, with goitre. Flatulency. Sour vomiting; sour diarrhoea; that is, it has a pungent, sour odor, especially in children.
In infants living on milk, the milk passes in an undigested form; the stool is so sour that it is pungent. It excoriates the parts, and keeps the nates raw in infants where the diaper comes in contact with the parts.
There are times when the abdomen is emaciated; the gases go out and the abdomen sometimes becomes flabby; but most of the time it is distended with flatulence. When it is flabby it can be observed that there are nodules in the abdomen.
The lymphatic glands are hard, and sometimes can be felt through the emaciated abdomen. There is a tubercular tendency, and tabes mesenterica is one, of the natural endings of the lime constitution, with this we get the glandular affections of the bowels.
Tubercular deposits in the mesenteric glands. Diarrhoea comes on sour; watery diarrhoea; gradual emaciation, especially of the extremities. Every cold brings on more indigestion, and more sour vomiting.

Diarrhoea that can't be stopped, because every time he gets a cold it renews the diarrhoea. When it, is an acute attack Dulc. often relieves it but when it has recurred several times Dulc. can no longer relieve it and Calcarea then becomes one of the remedies.

Again, it is one of the most useful medicines in old, lingering, stubborn cases of constipation. When there is only a moderate diarrhoea the stool is white; and when this constipation is present, the stool is white, or like chalk.

In infants taking milk you can account for the white or pale stool, because of the milk; but when the patient does not live on milk, and lives on ordinary substances, the stool becomes bileless and is very light colored; is yellow or white; and in the constipation, often the stool is very light colored and hard.

Calcarea has a kind of indigestion, a fermentation that favors the formation of worms, so that Calcarea babies are sometimes wormy.

Pass worms in the stool, and vomit worms. Calcarea so corrects this indigestion, when the symptoms agree, that worms no longer hatch out. The symptoms disappear, and we really wonder what becomes of the worms.

The idea with the homoeopathic physician is not to give vermifuges, but to so correct the digestion that worms will not thrive; and it is true that worms will not thrive in the healthy stomach and intestines. Whether they leave by expulsion or whether they are destroyed, or what becomes of them, I do not know.

To remove them by physicking them out, and by vermifuges, only makes a bad matter worse, because it increases the indigestion, it increases the turmoil. So it is with all worms in the stomach and rectum; all those worms will come if they are favored with just exactly the right kind of fluids to hatch out in. They come, and they grow. I suppose at least twenty-five times in the last twenty years have I known Calcarea to bring away tape worm, and in most instances I did not know it was present; but I simply prescribed for the patient. I was not aware of its existence. It is so with many remedies, but this more than others.

Genitals:
The Calcarea patient is weak sexually, with general relaxation and weakness. Sometimes an inordinate carving, sometimes an overwhelming desire keeps him awake at nights. But weak; weak in this way, that any indulgence is followed by weak back, sweating, weakness in general, so that he is compelled to abstain because of the sufferings.
The woman is affected in a similar way. You need not be surprised, when you hear all of the constitutional weakness, that it is a common, thing for Calcarea women to be sterile. So tired, so relaxed; wholly unfit for reproduction.
And the same as in the male, she suffers from lassitude, swelling, wakefulness, and weakness in general after every coition. The parts feel relaxed. The uterus drags down. Sensation as if parts would be forced out. State of general weakness and general relaxation of the sexual organs of both male and female. Calcarea has a tendency to grow warts and polypoid growths, pedunculated growths, that bleed easily, that are soft and spongy.
The woman flows too much at the menstrual period; too long, and, of course, this naturally brings her around too soon. Often every three weeks, lasting a week, with a copious flow. Menstrual period too soon, lasting too long, and profuse. Calcarea is not always indicated; not unless all of the symptoms go together to make up the Calcarea patient.
Sometimes it may occur to your mind to say, that with five or six key-notes, certainly you would give Calcarea; but suppose you did have five or six key-notes of Calcarea, and the patient should be a Puls. patient, would you expect to cure her with Calcarea?
Suppose the patient always avoided warm things and much clothing, and wanted the cold open air, and still had a dozen key-notes, you would find every time that Calcarea would fail. Unless you combine the particulars with the things that are general, and the generals with the particulars, unless the remedy fits the patient from within out, generally and particularly, a cure need not be expected. That is why I say, do not prescribe on key-notes, but upon the symptoms of the patient.

This great state of relaxation which we always have in every Calcarea patient is also manifested in leucorrhea, copious, thick, constant leucorrhea, discharging day and night. Leucorrhea that is acrid, keeping up an itching, and smarting, and burning, "Leucorrhoea thick and yellow," from one menstrual period to another, and some times it intermingles with the menstrual flow.

"Vaginal polypi. Burning soreness in the genitals" from leucorrhoea.

"Itching and rawness" from leucorrhoea.

Hemorrhage of the uterus from over-lifting; from excitement; from shocks; from anything that greatly disturbs; from fear, from any great emotion, or from straining the muscles. Such are the conditions of relaxation and weakness. Inability to strain the muscles, or to exert himself mentally or physically.

The complaints of pregnancy are generally those of great relaxation and weakness. Threatened abortion. After delivery, weakness and prostration; sweating. Weakness from nursing.

Voice:

The Calcarea voice is that of painless hoarseness. The vocal cords are tired, and cannot endure strain; almost a paralytic weakness. Sometimes a copious flow of mucus from the larynx. Much irritation in the larynx, but weakness. Not that burning and rawness that we find in Bell. and Phos., but painless hoarseness. In Phos. it is painful, in Bell. it is very painful. He cannot speak without pain.

But in Calcarea he wonders why he has so much trouble in the larynx, because he has no feeling in it. This goes on from bad to worse, and with the tubercular tendency, look out for tubercular laryngitis. Given early it may keep off such a tubercular tendency. It has cured tubercular laryngitis.

Much rattling of mucus; rattling breathing; coarse rattling; that is, much mucus in the trachea, in the larynx, in the bronchial tubes, in the chest. Great dyspnoea.

The dyspnoea comes on from going up stairs, from walking against the wind. Anything that bas any exertion in it will bring on the dyspnoea. We find this in asthma, weak heart, weak chest and in threatening phthisis.

That state of the lungs you will know very often by the kind of breathing; because all that are going into phthisis are tired and weak. He is too tired and weak to make any effort at breathing, so that he has difficult in going up stairs, climbing a hill, walking against the wind.

Chest:
The chest troubles furnishes one of our best fields for Calcarea. We having spiting of blood prolonged cough; copious expectoration of thick yellow mucus, or even pus; ulceration, or abscess. Tickling cough. We have, in threatening chest trouble, the beginning emaciation, the pallor, the sensitiveness to cold, changes, and to the cold air and to wet weather and to winds. He takes colds and they all settle into the chest; gradual emaciation in the limbs; always so tired. It corresponds to just such constitutional weakness as precedes, or is present in the first stages of phthisis. It stops the patient taking cold, which is the very beginning of it. The patient will begin to feel better after taking Calcarea, and it improves his general state, and it will even encyst tubercular deposits.
It turns them from a caseous into a calcareous form, and cysts have been found in the chest long afterwards. Patients have lived a long time and improved, and gone into a general state of health, when quite well advanced with tubercular deposits. Of course, when any person is well into a tubercular condition, it may be expected that he will go.
Do not believe or think favorably of cure for consumption. Every little while we have some one. Coming out with something or other that cures consumption, a new cure.
Every one who know much about the real nature of phthisical conditions, cannot have much confidence in such things, and I certainly lose respect for an individual who has a consumption cure. He must either be crazy or something worse.
Generally he is after the money that may be in it. Hardly any one who knows anything about it can conscientiously present a consumption cure to the world.
To prevent those things is what we want to do, and this is the great sphere of Calcarea. The expectoration is sweetish very often, like Phos. and Stannum. White, yellow, thick.

We might go over all the general symptoms here, the soreness, the tenderness, the kind of pains, the lassitude, and a great many symptoms of that sort, they are too numerous to mention, but they are non descriptive, for the reason that after you get these pains and study them carefully, you are no better off. You must study the constitution of Calcarea, the nature of Calcarea, its character.

There are spine symptom s; plenty' of them. Weak; all degrees of weakness. The Calcarea patient is so weak in the back that he slides down in the chair while sitting; cannot sit right in his chair.

Rests on the back of his head. The back of his chair and the back of his head come in contact. A weak spine, a sensitive spine, and the glands of the neck are swollen. Again, a marked condition of the spine is where the lime element is deficient, and we soon get deformity; curvature.

It may be surprising to you to hear that Calcarea is a great help, and has sometimes cured that without any brace or support whatever, when taken early.

You take infants manifesting a weakness of the spine, let them lie flat on their back in bed, put them on the indicated remedy - it is sometimes Calcarea - and in a little while that knuckling will cease, and the little one will sit up straight.

Such wonderful things occur under the use of Calcarea, when the symptoms agree. In the extremities we have all the rheumatic conditions that it is possible to describe.

Gouty affections of the joints, with enlarged joints; gouty conditions, especially of the small joints, of the toe and finger. Rheumatic complaints of the joints from every exposure, from every change of the weather to cold, especially if it is cold and damp.

The feet are always cold, or cold and damp, except at night in bed after piling clothing upon the feet more than any other part of the body, then the feet begin to get warm, and then they often go to the other extreme and burn; and so they burn at night in bed.

But the feet are so cold that the patient has to put more clothing on the feet than the body will endure. Cold, damp feet. Late walking. Clumsiness; awkwardness; stiffness.

Rheumatic conditions. Stiffness belongs to Calcarea all over. Stiff on beginning to move; stiff at night on rising from a seat. Stiffness in all joints on beginning to move; and if it turns cold or there is a cold rain, the Calcarea patient always suffers; suffers from coldness, stiffness, rheumatism has rheumatism in every cold change in the weather.

The sleep is greatly disturbed. Late going to sleep, sometimes not till 2, 3 or 4 o'clock. Full of ideas; when closing the eyes horrible visions. Grinding the teeth. A child in sleep, chews and swallows and grinds the teeth. Sleeplessness a good part of the night. Cold feet at night in bed.:

This great Hahnemannian anti-psoric is a constitutional remedy par excellence. Its chief action is centered in the vegetative sphere, impaired nutrition being the keynote of its action, the glands, skin, and bones, being instrumental in the changes wrought. Increased local and general perspiration, swelling of glands, scrofulous and rachitic conditions generally offer numerous opportunities for the exhibition of Calcarea. Calcarea Fluorica
This chemical union of lime and fluoric acid gives us a remedy with a new nature and properties. However conversant one may be with either or both of these elements, he could not predict the curative powers held in this double remedy.
I refer to its ability to cure indurated infiltrations of glands, cellular tissues and bony formations.
A nodule in the course of a tendon and exostosis, a stony bard gland, bony infiltration in the periosteum, rice bodies in cartilages have been cured by this remedy wonderful to tell, when there was a paucity of symptoms. It will cure of course when symptoms agree, but it needs proving in order that individualization may be oftener possible.
A recurrent fibroid in the hallow of the knee was removed once by the knife, but returned, and grew to the size of a fist. The leg was drawn up to forty-five degrees, and the knee became immovable.
This wonderful remedy was prescribed on the symptoms of the case and the hardness of the tumor.

The tumor gradually dwindled, the limb became normal and as good as ever; this patient has since born a healthy child is still perfectly free from the trouble. It is now ten years since she was cured.

The patient is sensitive to cold, to drafts, to changes in the weather, and to damp weather. The symptoms are ameliorated by heat and by warm applications. The symptoms are worse during rest.

This is a useful remedy in gout, with copious pale urine and diarrhea. The patient is sad and miserable. This remedy has cured a fluctuating tumor on the cranium of infants known as Cephalaematoma.

Blur before the eyes after exerting the vision. Cataract. It cures ulceration of the cornea if the edges are hard; also hard, small spots and conjunctivitis. It has cured adenoids and thick, yellowish green discharge from the nose.

Offensive catarrh of long standing. Scanty enamel of the teeth. Pain, ulceration and granulation of the throat, worse from cold, and better from warm drinks. Pain worse at night. Large indurated tonsils will be cured after Baryta carb. has failed.

Pain in the liver at night, worse lying on the painful side, better from motion. Cutting pains in the liver, better walking.

Diarrhea in gouty subjects. Itching of anus and hemorrhoids, painful and hard bleeding. Fissure of anus. Constipation.

Copious watery urine. Strong smelling urine. Urine causes smarting when passing.

Indurated testes. Nodular testes.

Varicose veins of the vulva. Uterine fibroid.

Hard nodules in the mammae.

Dryness and tickling in the larynx. Desire to clear the vocal cords. Hoarseness after reading aloud. Hacking cough after eating, and in cold air, from tickling in the larynx. Spasmodic cough.

It cured an exostosis at the angle of the eighth rib.

It cured a lumbago, worse during rest, and better from heat, after Rhus had failed. Pain in back, extending to the sacrum.

Indurated cervical glands.

Vivid dreams, and unrefreshing sleep. jumps out of bed in a dream. it is similar to Silica in suppuration.

Calcarea Phosphorica
During the growing period many children need this remedy. if the head bones are slow in forming, or do not keep pace with the growth of the child, this remedy is often called for.
Where the child is losing flesh, slow learning to do things, slow learning to walk, or the legs are not strong enough to support the body, or it is behind in mental development, this remedy is one to be examined (like Baryta carb., Borax, Ph. ac., Nat. m., Calc.).
Flabby, shrunken, emaciated children. Non-union of fractured bones, swollen condyles, are symptoms accepted by all text-books as strong symptoms of this remedy. It has cured polypi of nose, rectum and uterus. It has cured enlarged glands of the neck, groin and abdomen.

Feeble minded children. The child grasps the head with the hands and screams. Thinking of complaints causes them to appear or increase. Extremely fretful.

Ailments from bad news, grief, unrequited affections, vexation. She seeks solitude to commune with her thoughts and to shun the exertion of society. Discontented with his own surroundings and goes from place to place.

Aching in the bones, like growing pains. Gouty fingers and toes that become painful in cold weather. Ulcerative pains in the roots of the nails. The most severe tearing, shooting pains are in the lower limbs. Sheetrock or gypsum board is made of Calcarea Sulphurica

I experimented with Sheetrock. Few months ago I was passing in a street and saw a labor with huge a boil on his neck. He said he is having boils for the last 4 years. His whole body was full of marks, he said he went to many charitable dispensaries and did many home remedies because he was poor but nothing worked.

I had Calcarea Sulphurica in my mind so I promised him to get him the medicine. I was going to Homeopathy store and saw a construction site where sheetrock was being installed. So I took a small piece and dissolved it in a half liter of mineral water bottle and gave it to the man with the instruction to take a sip each day.

Amazingly his boil started maturing in few hours and he was relieved of pain in the midnight. Next day he said his typical boil cycle lasted 18 days. 9 days to mature and 9 days to leak. Relief started coming after tenth or eleventh day. But in this case relief appeared at 7th day and boil was completely drained in 10 days. (It was his 7th day).

He was familiar with sheetrock so I told him how I made the medicine and till today he has no other boil so far. Later on I experimented more with Sheetrock. Anytime Calcarea Sulphurica was indicated, I used it and it worked miracle, especially on the boils.

Chemically Hepar Sulphur and Calcarea Sulphurica are almost same. Actually Gypsum is more than Calcarea Sulphurica. It also contains Silica/Silicea.

How I Make Calcarea Sulphurica:

Take a piece of sheetrock (removed the paper). Just a 1/4th tea spoon (about ½ gram or 1/10 dram)

Dissolve it in 1 liter water, in a 2 liter, plastic bottle (clean coke bottle would be fine).

Shake vigorously and bang the bottle several times.

This gives you 3C or 6x potency. To make 6C drain out the bottle, and without washing it add 1 liter water. Just one drop hanging inside would be the base for next stage. Make sure to shake/bang the bottle.

I suggest you to use first batch, i.e. 3C and see the wonder of it.

Calcarea Sulphurica is indicated for everything yellow. Yellow pus, yellow pus filled cysts, yellow in eyes, yellow in urine, yellowish color, yellow nasal discharge.

Three year ago I was having a cup of tea in Mysore tea shop. I love muslim style tea when in Karnataka. Muslim tea rooms are my favorite.

The person who was making the tea had a huge boil on his shoulder (larger than tennis ball sized)

I asked him, reluctantly he told me that he is having the boils for last 3 years. I remembered that I saw some sheetrock work going on a few blocks away.

I walked to that site and picked up a small piece of sheetrock. Gave it to the very-poor tea shop worker. I gave him the instructions to potentize it to 3x.

His boils problem cured completely. No more boils. By the chance life took me to Mysore each year.

He even started giving this recipe to the other needed people.

This alone free medicine cures Pillinoidal Sinus or cysts.

For face...i always prefer home remedies for pimples ...Mix a teaspoon of honey with half teaspoon each of camphor lotion and tomato juice. Apply this mixture on the pimples and wash after fifteen minutes with lukewarm water followed by cold water. This also helps lighten spots or marks left by pimples.

hello,
I study Homeopathy and I allready prescribe for acute disease, but now I have a patient who confused me.
She's a 50 y.old woman who had aponeurosis in the left, last, upper molar and the second, left, down bicuspid, in August. Since then abscesses started in the roots of those teeth. She had them twice opened and cleaned, but they relapse. I didn't see her, she called me , she lives in another city.Her symptoms are:
-severe pulsating pain, almost constant, <while eating, < while biting, <when pressing teeth together, <when lying down(anytime of the day), doesn't seem to amelliorate by anything, except getting a bit better when she's getting up
-very bad odor of the mouth (offensive odor when the dentist opened the abscess)
-feeling of looseness of the teeth, especially the lower one
-coated teeth and feeling of a dirty mouth
I gave her Mercury 30X and told her to watch for any change , repeat 3 times if she saw some improvement, and Mercury 200CH in case of relapsing after that improvement.
She called back after 2 days and said she took 30X3 and 200X3!!! and had no improvement at all, except a little diminish of the bad odour. She had a terrible pulsating headache as well, all over the head (wich she also had before).

I suggested Silica 200CH.
If this will not work, do you believe I could try Calc Sulph?.She's desperate that she will never be cured, she doesn't have any courage and patience any more and I'd love to give her a relief.
Do you think that the little better odour of her mouth is a sign and that we should wait for Merc to work? I had another case with total healing right the next day!
Would you consider Hypericum in this case,since it all started after the aponeurosis, as an injury of the nerves?
Her reumatic pains are worse these days, wrists and left hip<lying down, <first steps, first movements,<going up stairs, >after the first steps,or movements(looks like Rhust Tox to me).
I consider to leave the rheumatics out and deal with the teeth.Do you tthink I should see the totality even with the acute problem going on?
I know this got too long,thanks for your patience
I count on your help
Sincerely,
Georgia

| Re:CALCAREA SULPHURICA | By: udaya kumar-- | November 7 2011 |

I think you should use one dose each of Spigelia 30 and Causticum 30. The left sided modality has to be taken into consideration. Indeed the absence of odour is indicative of Mercurious function but you should be looking into the cause if there is any mercury filling in the mouth and mercurious should be preceded by Thuja 1M single dose to get better effect and no relapse.

CAMPHORA
Camphor

The camphor bottle is, a great mischief in the house, as camphor antidotes most of our remedies. Camphor in potentized form will cure many complaints.
It is suitable in some acute complaints attended with nervous excitement, even to frenzy, with spasms and convulsions and finally exhaustion. The Camphor state is one of convulsions or coldness.
Hahnemann says: "The action of this substance is very puzzling and difficult of investigation, even in the healthy organism because its primary action, more frequently than with any other remedy, alternates and becomes intermixed with the vital reactions (after effects) of the organism. On this account it is often difficult to determine what belongs to the vital reactions of the body and what to the alternating effects due to the primary action of the camphor."
Pictures a state of collapse. Icy coldness of the whole body; sudden sinking of strength; pulse small and weak. After operations, if temperature is subnormal, low blood pressure, 3 doses camph. 1x, 15-minute intervals. This condition is met with in cholera, and here it is that Camphor has achieved classical fame. First stages of a cold, with chilliness and sneezing. Subsultus and extreme restlessness. Cracking of joints. Epileptiform convulsions. Camphor has a direct relationship to muscles and fascia. In local rheumatic affections in cold climates necessary. Distention of veins. As a heart stimulant for emergency use of Camphor is the most satisfactory remedy. Drop doses on sugar as often as every five minutes.

In the most acute period of the Camphor excitement, the excitability and frenzy of the patient are extreme, or he goes into the other extreme, in which the irritability is lost and there is loss of sensation, unconsciousness and coldness.

The two extremes may be seen in one patient, one earlier and the other later. He may go from the extreme of mental excitement and violence to one of prostration and exhaustion, in which the body is blue and cold and yet must be uncovered.

The general constitutional state of a Camphor patient is coldness and extreme sensitiveness to cold. In acute inflammatory conditions he is cold and wants the covers off.

In acute complaints there is violent thirst, in chronic complaints thirstlessness. It is the same in Arsenic, in the acute thirsty, but in the chronic thirstless.

It is characteristic of Camphor that the patient will not be covered, notwithstanding the icy coldness of the body. One of the main remedies in shock. Pain better while thinking of it. Very sensitive to cold and to touch. Sequelæ of measles. Violent convulsion, with wandering and hysterical excitement. Tetanic spasms. Scrofulous children and irritable, weakly blondes especially affected.

Head.--

Vertigo, tendency to unconsciousness, feeling as if he would die. Influenza; headache, with catarrhal symptoms, sneezing, etc. Beating pain in cerebellum. Cold sweat. Nose cold and pinched. Tongue cold, flabby, trembling. Fleeting stitches in temporal region and orbits. Head sore. Occipital throbbing, synchronous with the pulse.

Eyes.--
Fixed, staring; pupils dilated. Sensation as if all objects were too bright and glittering.

Nose.--
Stopped; sneezing. Fluent coryza on sudden change of weather. Cold and pinched. Persistent epistaxis, especially with goose-flesh state of skin. Camphor produces a coryza, with a profuse discharge from the nose and from the air passages, from the nose to the bronchi. Bronchitis of children and old people. Old withered up people take cold at every exposure to weather and become cold and chilly.

Face.--
Pale, haggard, anxious, distorted; bluish, cold. Cold sweat.
Cholera: We have heard about Camphor in cholera, which is a disease that brings the patient down quickly. The face is cold, blue and shriveled, without much sweat, in the cases that would make one think of Camphor.
There is not much discharge from the bowels, not much vomiting and not much sweat; but suddenly he becomes cold, blue and collapsed, as it were paralyzed and goes into a stupor.
Convulsions with frothing at the mouth. Blue lips, lockjaw, tetanus. Cold sweat on the face with vomiting. Erysipelatous appearance of face.
There is a desire to drink without thirst. There is also insatiable thirst; he is not satisfied with incredible quantities of cold water. Cannot get it cold enough, and cannot get enough, but he soon vomits it up.
The gastric irritation is marked. Everything is vomited. The tongue is blue and cold and the breath is cold. Everything coming out of the body is cold. The air as it leaves the chest feels like that from a cellar, like Carbo v. and Verat.
The tongue is cold and trembling. Such states are found in cholera. All through the cold stage there is burning. The inside of the body seems to burn, or there is a sense of internal smarting like a rawness or a sense of burning without heat.

The pain in the stomach in gastritis is so violent that the anguish on the face is equal to that in Arsenic; a deathly anguish is felt in his stomach and he feels that he must die. Burning, rending, tearing pain in the stomach, with retching and vomiting.
Cramps in stomach and bowels and spreading to other parts of the body until there are convulsions and opisthotonos.
Anguish at the pit of the stomach drives him to despair. Heat in the stomach, Cold feeling in the stomach. Abdomen is full of colic and burning. Cold feeling in the abdomen.
Cholera stools; rice water discharges, with anxiety, restlessness, spasms of the muscles, cramps of the chest, prostration, increasing coldness and blueness; wants to be uncovered and he is going into collapse.
The old Camphor, Cuprum and Veratrum still hold together for Asiatic cholera. In Camphor there is prostration, blueness, coldness and yet he wants to be uncovered and the body is cold and dry.
The other two remedies have all there is in cholera, but in Cuprum there is not so much coldness, more cramping, more convulsive tendency and not so much prostration.
The more cramping there is the more it is Cuprum. The more copious the discharge from the bowels and the more profuse the vomiting and sweat, the more we would think of Veratrum. Cold and dry: Camphor. Cold and copious discharge Veratrum.
After taking cold there is cutting, with involuntary discharge of dark brown faeces like coffee grounds. Tenesmus. At times the cholera patient, with the coldness and blueness, is retching and straining to vomit and suffering with horrible tenesmus to get rid of a little stool and has convulsions here and there. These bowels symptoms gradually increase until there is no ability to strain at stool, a paralytic condition. Rectum seems contracted and painful.

Stomach.--
Pressive pain in pit of stomach. Coldness, followed by burning.

Stool.--

Blackish; involuntary. Asiatic cholera, with cramps in calves, coldness of body, anguish, great weakness, collapse, tongue and mouth cold.

Urine.--
Burning and strangury, with tenesmus of the neck of the bladder. Retention with full bladder.
Male--Besire increased. Chordee. Priapism. Nightly emissions.

Respiratory.--
Præcordial distress. Suffocative dyspnœa. Asthma. Violent, dry, hacking cough. Palpitation. Breath cold. Suspended respiration.

Sleep.--
Insomnia, with cold limbs. Subsultus and extreme restlessness.

Extremities.--
Rheumatic pain between shoulders. Difficult motion. Numbness, tingling and coldness. Cracking in joints. Cramps in calves. Icy cold feet, ache as if sprained.

Fever.--
Pulse small, weak, slow. Icy coldness of the whole body. Cold perspiration. Congestive chill. Tongue cold, flabby, trembling.

Skin.--
Cold, pale, blue, livid. Cannot bear to be covered (Secale).

Modalities.--
Worse, motion, night, contact, cold air. Better, warmth.

Relationship.--
Camphor antidotes or modifies the action of nearly every vegetable medicine--tobacco, opium, worm medicines, etc. Laffa acutangula (whole body ice-cold, with a restlessness and anxiety; burning thirst). Camphoric acid--(a prophylactic against catheter fever; cystitis 15 grains three times a day; also for prevention of night sweats).
Incompatible: Kali nit.

Complementary: Canth.
Antidotes: Opium; Nitr sp dulc; Phos.
Compare: Carbo; Cuprum; Arsenic; Veratr.

Dose.--
Tincture, in drop doses, repeated frequently, or smelling of Spirits of Camphor. Potencies are equally effective.

heated to between 80° and 90° C. (176° to 194° F.), an amber liquid, and evolve hydrobromic acid. On cooling, the liquid congeals, yielding crystals of monobromide of camphor, which may be purified by means of boiling alcohol. Chlorine also unites with camphor, forming monochlorine and dichlorine camphors, while iodine forms with camphor a substitution product.

CANNABIS INDICA
Hashish

Inhibits the higher faculties and stimulates the imagination to a remarkable degree without any marked stimulation of the lower or animal instinct. A condition of intense exaltation, in which all perceptions and conceptions, all sensations and all emotions are exaggerated to the utmost degree.

Subconscious or dual nature state. Apparently under the control of the second self, but, the original self, prevents the performance of acts which are under the domination of the second self. Apparently the two natures cannot act independently, one acting as a check, upon the other (Effects of one Dram doses by Dr. Albert Schneider).

The experimenter feels ever and anon that he is distinct from the subject of the hashish dream and can think rationally.

Produces the most remarkable hallucinations and imaginations, exaggeration of the duration of time and extent of space, being most characteristic. Conception of time, space and place is gone. Extremely happy and contented, nothing troubles. Ideas crowd upon each other. Has great soothing influence in many nervous disorders, like epilepsy, mania, dementia, delirium tremens, and irritable reflexes. Exophthalmic goitre. Catalepsy.

Mind.--Excessive loquacity; exuberance of spirits. Time seems too long; seconds seem ages; a few rods an immense distance. Constantly theorizing. Anxious depression; constant fear of becoming insane. Mania, must constantly move. Very forgetful; cannot finish sentence. Is lost in delicious thought. Uncontrollable laughter. Delirium tremens. Clairvoyance. Emotional excitement; rapid change of mood. Cannot realize her identity, chronic vertigo as of floating off.

Head.--Feels as if top of head were opening and shutting and as if calvarium were being lifted. Shocks through brain (Aloe; Coca). Uræmic headache. Throbbing and weight at occiput. Headache with flatulence. Involuntary shaking of head. Migraine attack preceded by unusual excitement with loquacity.

Eyes.--Fixed. Letters run together when reading. Clairvoyance. Spectral illusions without terror.

Ears.--Throbbing, buzzing, and ringing. Noise like boiling water. Extreme sensitiveness to noise.

Face.--Expression drowsy and stupid. Lips glued together. Grinding of teeth in sleep. Mouth and lips dry. Saliva thick, frothy, and sticky.

Stomach.--Increased appetite. Pain at cardiac orifice; better, pressure. Distention. Pyloric spasm. Sensation of extreme tension in abdominal vessels-feel distended to bursting.

Rectum.--Sensation in anus as if sitting on a ball.

Urinary.--Urine loaded with slimy mucus. Must strain; dribbling; has to wait some time before the urine flows. Stitches and burning in urethra. Dull pain in region of right kidney.

Male.--After sexual intercourse, backache. Oozing of white, glairy mucus from glans. Satyriasis. Prolonged thrill. Chordee. Sensation of swelling in perineum or near anus, as if sitting on a ball.

Female.--Menses profuse, dark, painful, without clots. Backache during menses. Uterine colic, with great nervous agitation and sleeplessness. Sterility (Borax). Dysmenorrhœa with sexual desire.

Respiratory.--Humid asthma. Chest oppressed with deep, labored breathing.

Heart.--Palpitation awakes him. Piercing pain, with great oppression. Pulse very slow (Dig; Kalmia; Apocyn).

Extremities.--Pain across shoulders and spine; must stoop; cannot walk erect. Thrilling through arms and hands, and from knees down. Entire paralysis of the lower extremities. Pain in soles and calves; sharp pains in knees and ankles; very exhausted after a short walk.

Sleep.--Very sleepy, but unable to do so. Obstinate and intractable forms of insomnia. Catalepsy. Dreams of dead bodies; prophetic. Nightmare.

Modalities.--Worse, morning; from coffee, liquor and tobacco; lying on right side. Better from fresh air, cold water, rest.

Relationship.--Bellad; Hyoscy; Stram; Laches; Agaric; Anhalon (time sense disordered; time periods enormously overestimated, thus, minutes seem hours, etc).

Dose.--Tincture and low attenuations.

Scientists have considered that a compound found in cannabis, called CBD, may forbid breast cancer spreading to other parts of the body, and be a realistic choice to chemotherapy.

California Pacific Medical Center Research Institute does not counsel marijuana use among cancer patients.

Research institute commandeds it was unlikely that the right concentrations of CBD could be achieved through smoking cannabis.

By halting the activity of a gene called Id-1 and combats the disease , CBD is considerd to be responsible for the spread of cancer cells from the site of the original tumor -- a process known as metastasis.

The study found CBD had this bear on breast cancer cells in a laboratory.

Researchers are now affirmative that the compound can become an effectual -- and non-toxic --choice to chemotherapy.

Carbo Vegetabilis

We will take up the study of Vegetable Charcoal - Carbo veg.

It is a comparatively inert substance made medicinal and powerful, and converted into a great healing agent, by grinding it fine enough. By dividing it sufficiently, it becomes similar to the nature of sickness and cures folks.
The Old School use it in tablespoonful doses to correct acidity of the stomach. But it is a great monument to Hahnemann. It is quite inert in crude form and the true healing powers are not brought out until it is sufficiently potentized. It is one of those deep acting, long-acting antipsoric medicines. It enters deeply into the life, in its proving it develops symptoms that last a long time, and it cures conditions that are of long standing-those that come on slowly and insidiously.

Generalities:
It affects the vascular system especially; more particularly the venous side of the economy, the heart, and the whole venous System.

Sluggishness is a good word to think of when examining the pathogenesis of Carbo veg.

Sluggishness, laziness, turgescence, these are words that will come into your mind frequently, because these, states occur so frequently in the symptomatology. Everything about the economy is sluggish, turgid, distended and swollen.

The hands are puffed; the veins are puffed; the body feels full and turgid; the head feels full, as if full of blood. The limbs feel dull, so that the patient wants to elevate the feet to let the blood run out. The veins are lazy, relaxed and paralyzed. Vaso-motor paralysis. The veins of the body are enlarged; the extremities have varicose veins.

Mind:

The whole mental state, like the physical, is slow. The mental operations are slow. Slow to think; sluggish; stupid; lazy. Cannot whip himself into activity, or rouse a desire to do anything. Wants to lie down and doze.

The limbs are clumsy; they feel enlarged. The skin is dusky. The capillary circulation is engorged. The face is purple. Any little stimulating food or drink will bring a flush to that dusky face. When you see people gather round a table where wine is served you can pick out the Carbo veg. patients, because their faces will be flushed; in a little while it passes off and they get purple again dusky - almost a dirty duskiness. The skin is lazy; sluggish.

Running through the remedy there is burning. Burning in the veins, burning in the capillaries, burning in the head, itching and burning of the skin. Burning in inflamed parts. Internal burning and external coldness.

Coldness, with feeble circulation, with feeble heart. Icy coldness. Hands and feet cold and dry, or cold and moist.

Knees cold; nose cold; ears cold; tongue cold. Coldness in the stomach with burning. Fainting. Covered all over with a cold sweat, as in collapse.

Collapse with cold breath, cold tongue, cold face.

Looks like a cadaver. In all these conditions of coldness the patient wants to be fanned.

Bleeding runs all through the remedy. Oozing of blood from in flamed surfaces. Black bleeding from ulcers. Bleeding from the lungs; from the uterus; from the bladder. Vomiting of blood. Passive haemorrhage. On account of the feeble circulation a capillary oozing will start up and continue. The remedy hardly ever has what may be called an active gushing flow, such as belongs to Belladonna, Ipecac, Aconite, Secale, and such remedies, where the flow comes with violence; but it is a passive capillary oozing.

The women suffer from this kind of bleeding; a little blood oozing all the time, so that the menstrual period is prolonged. Oozing of blood after confinement, that ought to be stopped immediately by contractions.

There are no contractions of the blood vessels; they are relaxed. Black venous oozing. After a surgical operation there is no contraction and retraction of the blood vessels. An injury to the skin bleeds easily. The arteries have all been tied and closed, but the little veins do not seem to have any contractility in their walls. An inflamed part may bleed. Feeble heart; relaxed veins.

Ulcers:

Again, ulceration. If you have a case, such as I have described, with relaxation of the blood vessels and feebleness of the tissues, you need not be surprised if there is no repair, no tissue making.

So, when a part is injured, it will slough. If an ulcer is once established, it will not heal. The tissues are indolent. Hence we have indolent ulcers; body, ichorous, acrid, thin discharges from ulcers.

The skin ulcerates; the mucous membranes ulcerate. Ulcers in the mouth and in the throat. Ulceration everywhere because of that relaxed and feeble condition. Poor tissue making, or none at all,

"The blood stagnates in the capillaries," is the way it reads in the text.

You can see how easy it would be for these feeble parts to develop gangrene. Any little inflammation or congestion becomes black or purple and sloughs easily that is all that is necessary to make gangrene.

It is a wonderful remedy in septic conditions-blood poisoning, especially after surgical operations and after shock. It is a useful remedy in septic conditions; in scarlet fever; in any disease which takes on a sluggish form, with purplish and mottled appearance of the skin.

Sleep:
In Carbo veg. the sleep is so full of anxiety that it may be said to be awful. On going to sleep there is anxiety, suffering, jerking, twitching, and be has the horrors. Everything is horrible. Horrible visions; sees ghosts.
A peculiar sluggish, death-like sleep, with visions. The Carbo veg. patient wakens in anxiety and covered with cold sweat. Exhaustion. Unrefreshed after sleep.
And thus the whole patient is prostrated by his sleep. So anxious that he does not want to go to sleep. Anxiety in the dark. Anxiety with dyspnoea as if he would suffocate. Anxiety so great that be can not lie down.
In Carbo veg. indifference is a very prominent symptom. Inability to perceive or to feel the impressions that circumstances ought to arouse.
His affections are practically blotted out, so that nothing that is told him seems to arouse or disturb him.
"Heard everything without feeling pleasantly or unpleasantly, and without thinking about it."
Horrible things do not seem to affect him much; pleasant things do not affect him. He does not quite know whether he loves his wife and children or not.
This is a part of the sluggishness, the inability to think or meditate, all of which is due to the turgescence. Sluggishness of the veins. Head feels full; distended.
His mind is in confusion and he cannot think. He cannot bring himself to realize whether a thing be so or not, or whether he loves his family or not, or whether he hates his enemies or not. Benumbed stupid.
There is another state anxiety and nightly fear of ghosts anxiety as if possessed; anxiety on closing the eyes; anxiety lying down in the evening; anxiety again on waking. He is easily frightened.

Starting and twitching on going too sleep.

Head:
The headaches are mostly occipital. His whole head is turgid, full, distended. He feels as if the scalp was too tight. Everything is bound up in the head. Awful occipital headaches. Cannot move, cannot turn over, cannot lie on the side, cannot be jarred, because it, seems as if the head would burst, as if something was grasping the occiput.
Dull headache in the occiput. Violent pressive pain in the lower portion of the occiput. Head feels heavy. When the pain is in the occiput the head feels drawn back to the pillow, or as if it could not be lifted from the pillow.
Like Opium; he cannot lift the head from the pillow. Painful throbbing in the head during inspiration. The Carbo veg. patient takes short breaths, quietly, keeping just as still as possible, until finally he is compelled to take a deep breath, and it comes out with a sharp moan.
Headache as from contraction of the scalp. Painful stitches through the whole head when coughing; the whole head burns. Intense heat of the head; burning pain. Rush of the blood to the head followed by nose-bleed.
Congestion to the head with spasmodic constriction, nausea, and pressure over the eyes. A feeling as of an oncoming coryza from an overheated room. Many of these headaches come on from taking cold, from coryza, from slacking up of an old catarrh.

The Carbo veg. patient suffers from chronic catarrh. He is at his best when he has a free discharge from the nose, but if he takes cold and the discharge stops congestion to the head comes. He cannot stand suppression of discharges.
Headaches come on every time he takes cold; from cold damp weather; from going into a cold damp place and becoming chilled. Awful occipital headache, or headache over the eyes, or headache involving the whole head, with pounding like hammers.
These states are like Kali bichromicum, Kali iodatum and Sepia. Many of these headaches are due to stopped catarrhal conditions.

The hair falls out by the handful. Eruptions come out upon the head. School girls and boys, too, who are sluggish, slow to learn, and suffer from night terrors; they will not sleep alone, or go into a dark room without someone with them.

They have headaches, worse from pressure of the hat. A long time after taking off the hat they still feel the pressure. Sweat, cold sweat; particularly sweat of the head and of the forehead. The Carbo veg. patient breaks out into a copious sweat, appearing first on the forehead, and the sweat is cold. The forehead feels cold to the hand, and any wind blowing upon it will produce pain; he wants it covered up. Head sensitive to cold.

If he becomes overheated and like head perspires, and then a draft strikes that sweating head, his catarrh will stop at once and headaches will come on. His knees and hands and feet get cold, and he sweats without relief.

Eyes:

The eye symptoms are troublesome, and they often occur along with the headache. Burning pain in the eyes. The eyes become lustreless, deep-set, and the pupils do not react to light. He feels sluggish mentally, and does not want to think.

He wants to sit or lie around, for every exertion gives him a headache. Whenever this state is present the eyes show it. You know he is sick because the bright, sparkling look has gone out of his eyes. If he could only get somewhere by himself and lie down-provided it was not dark, he would be comfortable.

He wants to be let alone; he is tired; his day's work wears him out. He comes home with a purple face, lustreless eyes, sunken countenance, tired head and mind. Any mental exertion causes fatigue. Weight in the head, distress and fullness in the head, with cold extremities.

The blood mounts upward. Hemorrhages from the eyes; burning, itching and pressing in the eyes. The eyes become weak from overwork or from fine work.

Ears:

Carbo veg. is one of the medicines for discharges from the ears. Offensive, watery, ichorous, acrid and excoriating discharges, especially those dating back to malaria, measles or scarlet fever, particularly to scarlet fever.

A sluggish condition of the venous system. The veins seem to be most affected in all old complaints, especially whenever a patient says of himself, or a mother says of her child, that he has never been quite well since an attack of malarial fever.

The daughter has never been quite well since she had the measles, or typhoid fever, or scarlet fever; Carbo veg. is one of the medicines to be thought of when symptoms are in confusion, and the patient has been so much doctored that there is no congruity left in the symptoms.

Old ear discharges, or old headaches, when all the symptoms have been suppressed. It is then Carbo veg. often becomes one of the routine remedies to bring symptoms into order and to establish a more wholesome discharge from that ear. it brings about reaction, establishes a better circulation and partially cures the case, after which a better remedy may be selected.

Inflammation of the parotid glands, or mumps. When mumps change their abode, from being chilled, and go in the girl to the mammary glands, and in the boy to the testes, Carbo veg. is one of the medicines to restore order; very often it will bring the trouble back to its original place, and conduct it on through in safety.

Pains in the ear. Passive, badly-smelling discharges from the ear. Loss of hearing. Ulceration of the internal ear. Something heavy seems to lie before the ears; they seem stopped; the hearing is diminished, especially in those cases that date back to some old trouble.

Nose:

The Carbo veg. patient is always suffering from coryza. He goes into a warm room, and, thinking he is going out in a minute, he keeps his overcoat on.

Pretty soon he begins to get heated up, but he thinks he will go in a minute and he does not take off his coat. A procedure like that is sure to bring on a coryza. It will commence in the nose, with watery discharge, and he will sneeze, day and night.

He suffers from the heat and is chilled by the cold; every draft chills him; and a warm room makes him sweat, and thus he suffers from both. He can find no comfortable place, and he goes on sneezing and blowing his nose.

Perhaps he has bleeding from the nose. At night he is purplish. The coryza extends into the throat and brings on rawness and dryness in the mouth and throat. A copious watery discharge, filling the posterior nares and the throat.

Larynx and chest:
Then he begins to get hoarse, and in the evening he has a hoarse voice, with rawness in the larynx and throat. Rawness in the larynx on coughing; soreness to the touch. The more he coughs the worse the rawness becomes.
This condition extends into the chest. Secretion of much thin mucus, finally becoming thick yellowish-green, and bad-tasting. Such is the coryza. Now, with it there comes a stomach disturbance that is commonly associated with Carbo veg. complaints.
Great distension of the abdomen with gas. With this coryza he has belching, and sour, disordered stomach. Every time he disorders his stomach he is likely to get a coryza. Every time he goes into an overheated room he is likely to get a coryza, with sneezing, chest complaints, and catarrh.
This catarrhal state in the nose is only a fair example of what may occur anywhere where there is a mucous membrane. Catarrhal conditions with a flow of watery mucus and bleeding. Carbo veg. has catarrhs of the throat, nose, eyes, chest, and vagina.
Old catarrhal conditions of the bladder; catarrh of the bowels and stomach. It is pre-eminently a catarrhal remedy.
The woman feels best when she has more or less of a leucorrhea, it seems a sort of protection. These discharges that we meet every day are dried up and controlled by local treatments, by washes, and by local applications of every kind, and the patient put into the hands of the undertaker, or made a miserable wreck.
If these catarrhal patients are not healed from within out, the discharges had better be allowed to go on. While these discharges exist the patient is comfortable. It is quite common for the Carbo veg. patient to be feverish with the coryza, but with many other complaints he is cold; cold limbs; cold face; cold body; cold skin; cold sweat.

It is not so common for the earlier stages of the coryza, and the catarrhal conditions to have these cold symptoms. He is feverish in the evening and at night. But after he passes into the second stake, when the, mucus is more copious, then come the cold knees, cold nose, cold feet, and cold sweat.

Face:
The face of Carbo veg. is a great study. In the countenance and in the expression we see much that is general.
The patient shows his general state in his expression, especially in the eyes. He tells you how sick he is; he tells you the threatening points.
In Carbo veg. there is great pallor and coldness, with lips pinched and nose pointed and drawn in. Lips puckered, blue, livid, sickly, deathly. Face cold, pale, and covered with sweat.
As the tongue is protruded for examination it is pale and cold, and the breath is cold, yet he wants to be fanned. This is true whether it be cholera, diarrhea, exhaustive sweats, or complaints after fevers.
Sometimes, after a coryza has run its course and ended in the chest, there is great dyspnea, copious expectoration, exhaustive sweat, great coldness and the patient must be fanned.
Cough followed by dyspnea, exhaustion, profuse sweats, with choking and rawness and he wants to be fanned. Cold face; pinched face. So the sufferings are expressed in the face. The pains and aches, and anxiety and sorrow are all expressed in the face.
The study of the face is a delightful and profitable one. The study of the faces of remedies is very profitable. It is profitable to study the faces of healthy people that you may be able to judge their intentions from their facial expressions. A man shows his business of life in his face; he shows his method of thinking, his hatreds, his longings, and his loves.

How easy it is to pick out a man who has never loved to do anything but to eat:

the Epicurean face. How easy it is to pick out a man who has never loved anything but money:
the miserly face. You can see the love in many of the professional faces; you can single out the student's face. These are only manifestations of the love of the life which they live. Some manifest hatred; hatred of the life in which they have been forced to live; hatred of mankind; hatred of life. In those who have been disappointed in everything they have undertaken to do we see hatred stamped upon the face.

We see these things in remedies just as we see them in people. The study of the face is a most delightful one. A busy, thoughtful and observing physician has a head full of things that he can never tell:
things he knows about the face.
So the face expresses the remedy. In Carbo veg. the face flushes to the roots of the hair after a little wine. This is a strong characteristic. All over the body the skin will become flushed. Sometimes a flush appears in islands, which grow together and become one solid flush, creeping up into the hair.
So great is the action of this remedy upon the capillary circulation that sometimes a tablespoonful of wine is sufficient to cause this flushing of the skin.

Gums:

The old books talk about "scorbutic gums;" now we call it Rigg's disease:
a separation of the gums from the teeth. Bleeding of the gums; sensitiveness of the gums. Separation of the gums from the teeth.
The teeth get loose.
We hear about "the teeth rattling in his mouth."
The Carbons produce just such a state, a settling away and absorbing of the gums. They get spongy and bleed easily, and hence looseness of the teeth with bleeding of the gums, which are very sensitive.

Teeth decay rapidly. Bleeding of the gums when cleaning the teeth. Teeth and gum affections from abuse of Mercury, Teeth feel too long and are sore. Drawing and tearing in the teeth. Tearing in the teeth from hot, cold or salt food; pain from both heat and cold. This is in keeping with the general venous condition of the whole system.
Sensitiveness of the tongue. Inflammation of the tongue. In certain low forms of fever, like typhus and typhoid fevers, the gums turn black; that is, they throw out a blackish, bloody, offensive, putrid exudate. If disturbed or touched they bleed; and the tongue piles up that blackish exudate - that oozing of black blood from the veins.
This is present in putrid forms of fevers like the typhoid-in zymotic states. This remedy is rich in those zymotic symptoms, such as are described in common speech as "blood-poisoning." Carbo veg. is a sheet-anchor in low types of typhoid; in scarlet fever where a typhoid condition is coming upon the case, and in the last stages of collapse; in cholera, and in yellow fever at the time of collapse, where there is coldness, cold sweat, great prostration, dyspnoea - wants to be fanned. Great prostration with cold tongue,

Mouth and throat:
The mouth and throat are filled with little purple aphthous ulcers, which were little white spots to begin with, but they have grown purplish and now ooze black blood. These aphthous patches bleed easily, burn and sting. Blisters form. Smarting, dryness of the mouth with bleeding aphthous ulcers. These are common features of Carbo veg. in any of the mouth and throat conditions.

Tough mucus in the throat; bloody mucus in the throat. These little ulcers run together, spread and become one solid mass. A large surface will become ulcerated, denuded of its mucous membrane, and then it will bleed. Little black spots come upon it. Food cannot be swallowed because the throat is so sore. Generally the throat feels puffed.
The Cargo veg. patient has a longing for coffee, acids, sweet and salt things. Aversion to the most digestible things and the best of food. For instance, aversion to meat, and to milk which causes flatulence. Now, if I were going to manufacture a Carbo veg. constitution I would commence with his stomach.

If I wanted to produce these varicose veins and the weak venous side of the heart; this fullness and congestion, and flatulence, this disordered stomach and bowels, and head and mind troubles; sluggishness of the economy.

I would begin and stuff him. I would feed him with fats, with sweets, puddings, pies and sauce, and all such indigestible trash, and give him plenty of wine - then I would have the Carbo veg. patient.

Do we ever have any such people to treat? just as soon as they tell their story, you will know, enough about their lives to know that they are mince pie fiends; they have lived on it for years, and now they come saying,

"Oh, doctor, my stomach; just my stomach; if you will simply fix up my stomach."

But what are you going to do with him? He has made himself into a Carbo veg. patient for you, and it may be quite a while before you can bring him down to a sensible diet.

Now he must begin at the foot of the ladder. I only brought this up to show how a Carbo veg, patient is produced and what kind of a stomach he has, and what he has been living on. He has burning in the stomach, distension of the stomach, constant eructations, flatulence, passing offensive flatus.

In reality he is in a foetid condition, a putrid condition. His sweat is offensive. He has heartburn eructations, the stomach regurgitates the food that he takes.

Carbo veg. has much vomiting at the end of the chill. Vomiting and diarrhoea. Vomiting and blood; with the vomiting of blood the body is icy cold; breath cold, The pulse is thready and intermittent. Fainting; hippocratic face; oozing of thick black blood.

Vomiting of sour, bloody, bilious masses.

Stomach and food:

There is an accumulation of flatus in the stomach, so that the stomach feels distended. All food taken into the stomach seems to turn into flatus; he is always belching and is slightly, relieved for a while by belching. Carbo veg., has cramps in the bowels and stomach; burning pain; anxiety; distension.

All these symptoms are ameliorated by belching or passing flatus. Amelioration from belching seems quite a natural event; but when we study China, you will see that the patient appears to be aggravated from belching. The idea is that the patient gets relief from belching from eructation, but under Lycopodium and China it seems that no relief comes. They belch copiously and yet seem just as full of mind as ever, and sometimes even seem to be worse.

The Carbo veg. patient experiences a decided relief from eructation. This is a particular symptom, but it becomes almost general, and sometimes quite general. Headaches are relieved by belching; rheumatic pains are relieved by belching; sufferings and distensions of various kinds are relieved by eructations.

This abdominal fullness aggravates all the complaints of the body. The fullness, which is described as if in the veins, is sometimes in the tissues, under the skin, so that it will crepitate. This is a feature of Carbo veg., and, in rheumatic conditions, part of the swelling is sometimes of this character.

Food remains a long time in the stomach, becomes sour and putrid. It passes into the bowels and ferments further, finally passing off in the form of putrid flatus.

There is colic, burning pains, distension, fullness, constricting and cramping pains from this distension.

The patient complains of feeling as if the stomach were raw. This is described as a smarting, sometimes from taking food; sometimes from taking cold water. Carbo veg., has cured ulceration of the stomach. It is a deep-acting medicine, and is capable of curing all disordered conditions of the stomach; such as disorders from eating indigestible things, mince pie, too hearty food.

Liver:

In Carbo veg. the liver, like all the other organs, takes on a state of torpidity and sluggishness. It becomes enlarged. The portal system is engorged, and hence hemorrhoids develop.

Pain and distension in the region of the liver; sensitiveness and burning in the liver, accompanied by a bloated condition of the stomach and bowels. A feeling of tension in the region of the liver; the part feels drawn, as if too tight.

There are pressing pains in the liver, and it is sensitive to touch.

Abdomen:
Much that I have said regarding the flatulence and fullness of the stomach applies also to the abdomen. Carbo veg. may be indicated in low forms of fever, as in septic fever, when there is a marked tympanitic condition, with diarrhoea, bloody discharges, distension and flatulence.
Extremely putrid flatus escapes making the patient very offensive. A striking abdominal symptom of Carbo veg. is that the flatus collects here and there in the intestine as if it were in a lump incarcerated flatus; a constriction of the intestine will hold it in one place so that it feels like a lump or tumor, that finally disappears.
Colic here and there in the abdomen from flatus. There is burning in the abdomen. No matter what the trouble is, in Carbo veg. there is always burning. The part burns; it feels full; it becomes engorged and turgid with blood.
Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, when there is a bloody, watery stool. Cholera infantum; stool mixed with mucus; watery mucus mixed with blood.
The child sinks from exhaustion, with coldness, pallor and cold sweat. The nose, face and lips are pinched and hippocratic.
With all diarrheic troubles the prostration will indicate Carbo veg. as much as, if not more than, the stool.
In the diarrhea of Carbo veg. all the stools, no matter what kind, are putrid, with putrid flatulence. The more thin, dark bloody mucus there is, the better is the remedy indicated. Itching, burning and raw ness of the anus and round about, are strong features of Carbo veg.
Soreness in all diarrheic conditions - soreness to pressure over the abdomen. Round about the anus, in children, there is excoriation. The parts are red, raw and bleeding, and they itch.
Itching of the anus in adults. Ulceration of the bowels. This tendency to ulceration of mucous membranes is in keeping with the character of the remedy. Whenever there are mucous membranes there may be ulceration. Aphthous appearance.
Ulceration of Peyer's glands. The patient lies in bed and oozes involuntarily a thin bloody fluid, like bloody serum.

Bladder:
Old chronic catarrhal conditions of the bladder, when the urine contains mucus, especially in old people, with cold face, cold extremities and cold sweat.
There is suppression of urine. In both the male and the female organs there is a weakness and relaxation. The male organs hang down. Relaxation of the genitalia; cold and sweating genitals. The fluids escape involuntarily.

Women:
In the woman the relaxation is manifested by a dragging down sensation; dragging down of the uterus, as if the internal parts would escape. The uterus drags down so that she cannot stand on her feet. All the internal organs feel heavy and hang down.
Another strong feature of Carbo veg. is dark, oozing haemorrhage from the uterus. It is not so often a copious gushing hemorrhage, the remedy has that also - but it is an oozing. The menstrual flow will ooze from one period almost to another.

The blood is putrid and dark, even black, with small clots, and considerable serum escapes with it. it says in the text: "Metrorrhagia from uterine agony."
Atony is a good name for the condition; lack of tone; relaxation; weakness of the tissue. Atony is everywhere present in the Carbo veg. constitution. The muscles are tired, the limbs are tired, the whole being is tired and relaxed.
This is in contradistinction to the gushing found in Belladonna, Ipecac, Secale and Hamamelis, where the blood escapes in great gushes, followed quite naturally by a contraction of the uterus, for there is more or less tonicity in connection with it.
In Carbo veg., either in connection with confinement or menstruation, or in an incidental haemorrhage, the uterus does not contract. Subinvolution from mere atony; no contraction; no tonicity; weakness and relaxation.
After menstruation, confinement and the various complaints that woman is subject to, there is a period of weakness that Carbo veg. often fits.

When there is a retained placenta, with scanty hemorrhage - just an oozing, with no tendency to a gush of blood - the physician remembers that throughout the whole pregnancy and confinement there has been sluggishness and slowness of pains, and he says:
"Why did I not think of Carbo veg. Before?"
The woman has needed Carbo veg. for a month. He administers a dose, and before he has time to think about it, the uterus will expel that placenta and fix up matters so nicely that he will not need the mechanical interference that might otherwise have been necessary.
Now-a-days we hear so much about this meddlesome midwifery, this curetting, and doing this and that and the other thing, that it makes a homeopathic physician disgusted, just as if those parts were not made by Nature, and could not take care of themselves; as if they must be swabbed out and syringed out. These injections of bichlorides, etc., to keep the germs out of a woman are all nonsense. If a state of order is maintained there will be no germs.
A homoeopathic physician can manage hundreds of these cases, and have no trouble. If he sees clearly beforehand what remedy the woman needs there will be no bad cases; they will all take care of themselves.
Irregular contractions that bring on abnormal conditions are all avoided if the woman is turned into order before she goes into confinement. Carbo veg. is one of the medicines that prepares a woman well for confinement, that is, the symptoms calling for Carbo veg. are often present in such conditions. She is often run down, relaxed and tired. Pregnancy brings about a great many unusual conditions.
There is the nausea in pregnancy; the flatulence; the offensiveness; the weakness; the enlarged veins. They will tell you that the enlargement of the veins of the lower limbs is from pressure, but it is generally not from pressure, but from weakness of the veins themselves.
Suppression of milk; prostration or great debility from nursing. It is not natural for a woman in a healthy state to become prostrated when nursing her child. She becomes so because she is sick. She was in a state of debility before she began nursing, and the weakness should be corrected by an appropriate remedy.

Then she can make milk and feed her child without feeling the loss of it. Such is the state of order. Carbo veg. is a friend to the woman, and a friend to her offsprings. You will be astonished, after ten years of real homoeopathic practice, that you have so few deformed babies; that they have all grown up and prospered; that their little defects and deformities have been outgrown, and that they are more beautiful than most children, because they have been kept orderly.

The doctor watches and studies him, and feeds him a little medicine now and then, that the mother suspects is sugar, to keep on the good side of the baby. She need not know that it is medicine, or that anything is the matter with the baby.

So he watches the development of that little one, and grows him out of all his unhealthy tendencies. The children that grow up under the care of the homoeopathic physician will never have consumption, or Bright's disease; they are all turned into order, and they will die of old age, or be worn out properly by business cares; they will not rust out.

It is the duty of the physician to watch the little ones. To save them from their inheritances and their downward tendencies is the greatest work of his life. That is worth living for. When we see these tendencies cropping out in the little ones we should never intimate - that they are due to the father or mother.

It is only offensive and does no good. The physician's knowledge as to what he is doing is his own, and the greatest comfort be can get out of it is his own. He need never expect that anyone will appreciate what he has done, or what be has avoided.

The physician who desires praise and sympathy for what he has done generally has no conscience. The noble, upright, truthful physician works in the night he works in the dark, he works quietly; he is not seeking for praise.

He does this when called to the house, and when members of the family bring little ones to the office. In this manner children can be studied and their symptoms observed and enquired into.

Whenever the mother brings the child. expecting medicine, she may know that he is receiving medicine, but when she docs not ask for medicine let her suspect that Johnnie is getting sugar so the doctor can get on the good side of him. That is sufficient.

Voice and larynx:
In Carbo veg. the voice manifests a great many symptoms. I described a part of them when going over the coryza. I explained how it began in the nose, and traveled to the throat, the larynx, and the chest.
Now many of the complaints of the larynx begin with a cold, in the nose, which finally locates permanently in the larynx and in that way we bring out the Carbo veg. cases.
It is only now and then that the Carbo veg. cold settles in the larynx first; it usually travels through the nose. Most remedies have a favorite place for beginning a cold. For instance, the majority of Phosphorus colds begin in the chest or larynx. Not so with Carbo veg.; its cold generally begins in the nose, with a coryza, and the larynx is simply one of the stopping places.
If the Carbo veg. cold goes down into the chest it may have its ending in the bronchial tubes or the lungs. There is a favorite place for it to settle, and it seems as if it were going to remain there. Weakness in the larynx from talking. Tired larynx of speakers and singers, and feeble, relaxed persons.
The hoarseness comes on in the evening. The larynx may be fairly well in the morning, but as soon as it becomes evening his voice becomes husky. In more serious forms he may be speechless in the morning, but hoarseness and huskiness in the evening are more characteristic. Huskiness and rawness in the evening. Rawness in the larynx when coughing. Some will say there is burning, some will say rawness. Rawness in the larynx and trachea when coughing.
A continual formation of mucus in the larynx, which he has to scrape and cough out. We see the same tendency to weak ness in the mucous membranes. No tendency to repair; no tendency to recover. He goes on from bad to worse, with a catarrhal condition of the larynx and trachea. Hoarseness and rawness from talking, worse afternoon and evening.
He is obliged to clear his throat so, many times in the evening that the larynx becomes raw and sore. Let me tell you another thing about the Materia Medica. Most of the provers were laymen, and hence there is some confusion of terms in the provings. This the physicians must see. Irritation in the throat from coughing nearly always means irritation in the larynx, though the prover said "throat."

Now here is an expression,
"obliged to clear his throat so often in the evening that the larynx becomes raw and sore."
Clearing the throat would not make the larynx sore.
Scraping the throat does not scrape the larynx; but he is obliged to clear his larynx so often that the part feels raw. Ulcerative pain, scraping and titillation in the larynx. Irritation in the larynx causing sneezing. Laryngeal phthisis. This catarrhal condition and lack of repair in the larynx goes on so long that tuberculosis begins.

Whooping cough:
Carbo veg. is one of the greatest medicines we have in the beginning of whooping cough. Its cough has all the gagging, vomiting and redness of the face found in whooping cough. It is one of our best medicines when the case is confused; when the cough indicates no remedy or when it remains in a partially developed state.
A dose of Carbo veg. in such cases will improve matters very much, and minor cases of whooping cough may be wiped out in a few days. When the remedy does not cure permanently, it brings out more clearly the symptoms calling for another remedy. Most cases of whooping cough, in the care of a homoeopathic physician, will get well in a week or ten days under a carefully selected remedy.
When allowed to run, they continue a long time, gradually increasing for six weeks, and then declining according to the weather. If it is in the fall, the cough will sometimes keep up all winter; so whooping cough furnishes an opportunity for the homeopathic physician to demonstrate that there is something in Homoeopathy.

Respiration:

The Carbo veg. patient suffers very much from difficulties of breathing. Suffocation; cannot lie down. A feeling of weakness in the chest, as if he could not get another breath. Sometimes it is due to cardiac weakness, and sometimes to stuffing up of the chest. The latter is most common. Sometimes the difficulty is asthmatic. The remedy cures asthma. We will see the patient propped up in a chair by an open window, or some members of the family may be fanning him as fast as possible.

The face is cold, the nose pinched, the extremities cold and he is as pale as death. Put the hand in front of the mouth, and the breath feels cold. The breath is offensive; putrid. The extremities are cold clear to the body; not only the hands, but the whole upper extremities; and not only the feet, but the limbs clear to the body, are cold. The body only feels warm; even the skin is cold.

Carbo veg. has a rattling cough with retching and vomiting. A morning cough, with much rattling in the chest; the chest fills with mucus, and on endeavoring to expectorate he coughs and gags, or coughs and vomits. At any time during the day a peculiar choking, gagging, retching cough may develop from the mucus in the chest. He cannot get it up; it is tough, purulent, yellow and thick.

Greatly reduced vitality; great relaxation; worn out persons, old people. Persons worn out from coughing or from prolonged exertion. Prostration. Catarrh of the chest, with copious expectoration. At times there will be a hard, dry hacking cough, but finally, after prolonged coughing, it commences to loosen and he throws up great quantities of mucus.

A dry, hacking cough, yet there is rattling in the chest, and the cough does not seem to do any good. He seems to cough and become exhausted, sweats and strangles. It seems as if he would suffocate with the cough.

Finally he succeeds in getting up some mucus, and the follows mouthful after mouthful of thick purulent expectoration. Frequent attacks of spasmodic cough in violent paroxysm lasting for many minutes, sometimes an hour.

Cold sweat, coldness and pinched appearance of the face. This increases as he goes into the paroxysm of coughing. His face looks haggard, so distressed does he become while in a paroxysm of coughing. This state is present in old phtisical cases, in the advanced stage, when they are incurable. Under such circumstances Carbo veg. furnishes an excellent palliative.

It seems to strengthen the muscles of the chest so that the patient can expectorate better. It mitigates the cough; the gagging and retching and dyspnoea are relieved, and he is temporarily improved. It is a wonderful palliative in many incurable conditions with dyspnoea and weakness of the chest. In Bright's Disease, in phthisis, and in cancerous affections Carbo veg. stops the violent symptoms and mitigates greatly.
This remedy is one to begin whooping cough with. It simplifies the case greatly, and sometimes cures it in a few days. The patient coughs until the chest is sore, as if he had been beaten all over the chest.
All night he has paroxysms of coughing. He sleeps into a paroxysm of, coughing, like Lachesis. He rouses up from sleep with coughing, gagging, sweating and suffocation. He will go two or three hours without a paroxysm, and then on comes one that will last an hour. He has two or three hard paroxysms of coughing during the night. He commences to fill up, he hears the rattling breathing and he knows that before long he will have a hard time of it.
This goes on and on, to the end of his life in asthmatic cases-what is called "humid asthma".
Real humid asthma comes on in persons who suffer from contractions of the small bronchial tubes, so that even at the best there are little whistlings in the chest. Every time such patients take cold their whistling increases.
They expectorate mucus, at first copious, then tough and finally purulent. During all this there is great asthmatic dyspnoea.
Carbo veg. is an excellent remedy in all those cases of asthma where the shortness of breath is so marked that there is only a partial oxidation, as a result of which he suffers much from occipital headache and wants to be fanned.
Old cases of recurrent asthma. Every time there comes a warm wet spell his asthma comes on. It is common for Carbo veg. asthma to come on in the night. He goes to, bed without warning of an oncoming attack, only. He says,

"I don't like the weather;" and he wakes up with asthma.

He wakes up suffocating, springs out of bed and goes to the window or wants to be fanned. Carbo veg. required in old, badly-treated cases of pneumonia, with a remaining bronchitis; in cases where there has been hepatization that was not cleared up, and there are bad places in the lungs and bronchial tubes, with weakness of the chest.

Weakness of the chest when coughing. He feels that there is not enough force in the muscle of the chest to get up a good cough, or to help him carry on the breathing. Pneumonia, third stage, with foetid expectoration, cold breath, cold sweat, desire to be fanned.

Threatened paralysis of the lungs. This is a combination of clinical states that the remedy covers well. Sometimes these asthmatic cases go on for a while, and then comes an infiltration of tubercle. If Carbo veg. can be given early it will prevent infiltration.

There is pain in the chest, and burning. Burning in the lungs; burning in the sides of the chest; burning with the cough; burning behind the sternum - the whole length of the trachea; burning aggravated when coughing; a sense of rawness even when breathing. He feels a load upon the chest, an oppression, a great weight. These are the various words that he uses, all descriptive of the same thing.

Heart:

The heart comes in for a great deal of trouble. It appears to be struggling. Of course it is the venous side of the heart that is in distress. The veins are engorged. it is a venous condition of the whole patient; the veins are performing their labor with great difficulty. A state of relaxation, struggling, and there are orgasms of blood - described by some of the authors as an orgasm, by others as a tumultuous action of the heart felt throughout the body.

Pulsation felt all over the body. Flushes of heat mounting upwards, ending in a sweat. Suitable, sometimes for women at the turn of life. Especially suitable to persons in advanced years.

Carbo veg. complaints come on in a weakly state in young people as if it were a premature old age in the middle-aged people; or in the breaking down that naturally belongs to old age. It is a great comforter for aged people with enlarged veins, or fullness of the veins and coldness of the extremities. Oozing of blood, with palpitation tumultuous action of the heart. The pounding goes on like a great machine, shaking the whole body.

The pulse is almost imperceptible. It seems as though the volume of blood ought to be tremendous, but it is not. Weakness of the whole vascular system. Pulse irregular, intermittent, frequent. Blood stagnates in the capillaries. Complete torper; impending paralysis of the heart. Burning in the region of the heart. With this there is an awful feeling of anxiety in the chest - in the region of the heart as if he were going to die, or as if something were going to happen. He feels that tumultuous action and tires out under it.

In going over the remedy I have said so much about the limbs, their coldness and the cold sweat, that I have practically covered most of the symptoms that belong to the extremities. Carbo veg. is an excellent remedy for the general constitutional disorder where there arc indolent varicose ulcers upon the lower limbs - the legs above the ankles.

There is no activity in these ulcers; thin watery discharge or it is thick. bloody and ichorous. Burning indolent ulcers; varicose, ulcers; swelling of the limbs. A gangrenous state from the extremely feeble circulation.

Gangrenous condition such as old people have, senile gangrene. The limbs wither; the toes and lower parts wither and look dusky. There are blisters upon them and they ooze a bloody, watery fluid. Burning like fire. Loss of sensation. Stiffness in the joints. Excoriating sweat between the toes, and numbness. Numbness in the limb lain on. If he lies on the right side, the right hand gets numb. It he turns over on the left side, the left arm gets numb.

The circulation in the part is so feeble that if there is any pressure the part becomes numb. The surface is cold. The extremities are cold. He is indolent, weak and always tired, with an aversion to mental and physical work. Every little exertion brings on a feeling as if he would faint and collapse.

The sleep is full of dreams. He wakes up with dyspnoea, wakes with cold limbs, especially cold knees. Legs drawn up during sleep. Unrefreshed after sleep. The dreams he has are the kind that most of these patients have where the remedy acts so violently upon the veins, upon the basilar portion of the brain, and upon the voluntary system. They are awful. He dreams of fire, burglars, fearful and horrible things.

Anxiety, restlessness and congestion of the head prevent his going to sleep. Rush of blood to the head. His head feels hot, but to the hand the skin feels cold. The inner chest feels as if burning, but the outer chest feels cold to the hand. So it is in the abdomen. The feeling of internal heat and burning, with external coldness, is a common feature of Carbo veg.

The fever is violent; it has a violent rigor or chill. Of course during the chill he is cold, but there is one strange feature, he wants cold water during the chill, and when the fever comes on he has no thirst.

That is strange; it is uncommon. It is common for patients to be thirsty when they are hot with fever, and when cold not to ask for water. It is common not to ask for water during sweat. But in this patient you observe coldness, rigor, cold breath, and even in the chill sometimes a cold sweat, and you say that it is peculiar that he drinks so much cold water. It is strange; it is uncommon; rare. Hence it is one of the strong features of Carbo veg. febrile conditions.

With the chill of this remedy one side of the body frequently feels in its natural state of heat, that is, naturally warm, while the other side, is cold. One-sided chill. Chill with icy coldness of the body. Chill with great thirst. Sweats easily, especially about the head and face Exhausting night or morning sweats. Sweat profuse, putrid or sour.

Low forms of fever like yellow fever, and a very low type of typhus and typhoid fevers. After the fever has somewhat subsided he has prolonged cold spells with lack of reaction. He does not seem to rally, but he is cold, his knees are cold, his breath is cold, cold sweat, a sort of paralytic weakness. Cadaveric aspect of the face. Cyanotic face. Coldness of the limbs.

Yellow fever in the last stage, the stage of haemorrhage, with great paleness of the face. Violent headache, trembling of the body, collapse with cold breath, cold sweat, cold nose. Nose and face pinched. Vital powers very low, tells a great deal of the story of Carbo veg.

Lack of reaction after some violent attack, some violent shock, some violent suffering. In weakly persons who give right out, with dyspnoea, coldness, copious sweat, exhaustion, collapse and cadaveric aspect, Carbo veg. must be*given.

Carbo veg. is indicated after surgical shock, when the patient goes into collapse, and is in danger of dying from the shock of the operation. This is before inflammation sets in, for there is not vitality enough to arouse an inflammation. The heart is too weak to establish reaction enough for an inflammation. Inflammation comes after a reaction. But if reaction does not take place, Carbo veg. is one of our most important remedies.:

CARBOLICUM ACIDUM
Phenol-Carbolic Acid

Carbolic Acid is a powerful irritant and anæsthetic. A languid, foul, painless, destructive remedy. Stupor, paralysis of sensation and motion, feeble pulse and depressed breathing, death due to paralysis of respiratory centers. Acts primarily on the central nervous system. Increased olfactory sensibility.

Produces mental and bodily languor, disinclination to study, with headache like a band. Very marked acuteness of smell is a strong guiding symptom. Stomach symptoms are also important. Pains are terrible; come and go suddenly. Physical exertion brings on abscess somewhere. Putrid discharges (Bapt). Scarlet fever, with marked tendency to destruction of tissue internally, and fetid odor.

Spasmodic coughs. Arthritis (See Dose).

Head.--Disinclined to mental work. Tight feeling, as if compressed by a rubber band (Gels; Mahonia). Orbital neuralgia over right eye. Headache, better, by green tea; while smoking.

Nose.--Smell very acute. Putrid discharge. Ozæna, with fetor and ulceration. Influenza and resulting debility.

Throat.--Ulcerated patches on inside of lips and cheeks. Burning in mouth to stomach. Fauces red, and covered with exudation. Uvula whitened and shriveled. Putrid discharge. Almost impossible to swallow. Diphtheria, fetid breath, regurgitation on swallowing liquids, but little pain (Bapt). Face dusky red; white about mouth and nose. Rapid sinking of vital forces.

Stomach.--Appetite lost. Desire for stimulants and tobacco. Constant belching, nausea, vomiting, dark olive green. Heat rises up œsophagus. Flatulent distention of stomach and abdomen. Painful flatulence often marked in one part of the bowel (Sulpho-Carbolate of Soda). Fermentative dyspepsia with bad taste and breath.

Stool.--Constipation, with very offensive breath. Bloody, like scrapings of intestines. Great tenesmus. Diarrhœa; stools thin, black, putrid.

Urine.--Almost black. Diabetes. Irritable bladder in old men with frequent urination at night, of probable prostatic nature. Use 1x.

Female.--Discharges always offensive (Nitr ac; Nux; Sep). Pustules about vulva containing bloody pus. Agonizing backache across loins, with dragging-down thighs. Pain in left ovary; worse walking in open air. Erosions of cervix; fetid, acrid discharge. Leucorrhœa in children (Cann s; Merc; Puls; Sep). Puerperal fever, with offensive discharge. Irritating leucorrhœa, causing itching and burning (Kreos).

Extremities.--Cramps in fore part of leg, close to tibia during walking. Gnawing pains in shin bones. Arthritis.

Skin.--Itching vesicles, with burning pain. Burns tend to ulcerate.

Relationship.--Compare: Chrysarobin (local in ringworm of the scalp 5-10 per cent in glycerine and alcohol. Equal parts). Ars; Kreosot; Carbo; Guano (Violent headache as from a band around head. Itching of nostrils, back, thighs, genitals. Symptoms like hay-fever).

Hello Pat, best way to obtain Carbolic Acid medicinal grade is:

Burn a piece of plywood, place a wet inverted glass on the smoke. Let the interior of the glass catch smoke.

Put water and shake it with spoon. Most plywood resins are made of Phenols or Carbolic Acid.

Phenol matricectomy is a simple technique; it is conducted at the doctor's practice under local anaesthesia. The sequels of the procedure are straightforward and cause little pain; its results compare favourably with the best techniques (less than 3% recurrences).

Phenol is a colourless crystal derived from coal. It is a bactericide [>1 %], fungicide [>1.3%] and a local anaesthetic. At concentrations over 80%, phenol coagulates proteins. Used on large skin areas (as in chemical peelings of the whole face), phenol is toxic (heart and kidneys).

Phenolization is indicated in the treatment of ingrown nails (juvenile ingrown nail, pincer nail) or to destroy very thick nails where no medical treatment can be used. Severe vascular disorders are the only contra-indication to the use of the technique.

CH4 i.e. C-H-H-H-H.
The primordial element.After Ether converted itself into Air. The first element in Organic Chemistry. The basic structure of the human body. Hydro carbons. One can see here how Ether turns in Air and Air to fire and fire to water. i.e. Burning methane in the presence of Oxygen produces Carbon dioxide and WATER. Look at the symptoms of Carboneum Hydrogenisatum- It is a scene of death - Half closed eyes, spasm as in lock jaw, pupils insensible to light, occillation of eyeballs, involuntary stools and urine.

And what does Carboneum Hydrogenisatum do. It is the primordial element coming to the rescue of the life force to bring back a person from the death to the life. This simplest Alkine the first derivative of Ether is the rescuer. In material form this is poisonous to human body and in homeopathic form it is giving life to human beings.

How does it work? It works in the same way as mentioned above, It acts with the fire in the body i.e. metabolism and digestive fires (enzymes)alongwith oxygen and produces water and carbon dioxide, the carbon dioxide is expelled through the nostrils carrying out deathgiving carbondioxide which is already present in the body and establishes life giving water in the system again, like a new and first rain in a parched land. The life regained. Isn't that wonderful?

One step forward towards Gross element Air you can find Ethane and one step backward towards Ether you can find Methane Hydrate which is called Water Ice but more of Ether Ice than water Ice, which would be more powerful life given in homeopathic form.

Health effects

At very high levels, carbon disulfide may be life-threatening because it affects the nervous system. People who breathed carbon disulfide near an accident involving a derailed railroad car showed changes in breathing and some chest pains, although these effects are probably due to the sulfur oxides formed in the ensuing fire.

Some workers who breathed high levels during working hours for at least 6 months had headaches, tiredness, and trouble sleeping, in some cases even serious central and peripheral nervous system disease such as toxic encephalitis and peripheral mixed neuropathy. Most of these data come from the Viscose rayon Industry, where small amounts of $H_2S$ may also have been present. Among workers who breathed lower levels, some developed very slight changes in their nerves. An increased risk of cardiovascular death has also been established in several countries.

Studies in animals indicate that carbon disulfide can affect the normal functions of the brain, liver, and heart. After pregnant rats breathed carbon disulfide in the air, some of the newborn rats died or had birth defects.

Liquid carbon disulfide has caused skin burns.

Cardamon
Ela (Sanskrit name)
Malabar cardamom
Sha-ren (Chinese name)
Parts Usually Used
Seed
Description of Plant(s) and Culture
A turmeric cousin, cardamom is an aromatic spice often used to flavor stews and curries. It traces its origins to southern India and Sri Lanka, and it's also cultivated in Southeast Asia and Guatemala. Cardamom is a perennial plant; the simple, erect stems grow to a height of 6-10 feet from a thumb-thick, creeping rootstock. The leaves are lanceolate, dark green and glabrous above, lighter and silky beneath. The small, yellowish flowers grow in loose racemes on prostrate flower stems. The fruit is a three-celled capsule holding up to 18 seeds.
Where Found
Found commonly in southern India but also cultivated in other tropical areas.

Medicinal Properties

Appetizer, carminative, diaphoretic, expectorant, stimulant, stomachic

Biochemical Information

Essential oil including D-borneol, bornylacetate, d-camphor, nerolidol, linalool

Legends, Myths and Stories

A seed pod with an exotic fragrance of the Far East where it is used in curries and many Oriental dishes. Arabians and Persians steep a cardamom pod in their coffee after it has been brewed for its agreeable aroma and flavor. The French use it in their demi-tasse.

Cardamom added to milk neutralizes its mucus forming properties and it detoxifies caffeine in coffee.

Cardamom is an ingredient in Christmas cookies, Danish and Swedish cookies, coffee cakes, pastries, and candies. It adds a delightful essence to applesauce, sliced oranges, grape jelly, fruit salads, spiced wines, and liqueurs.

One lady in 1854 wrote, “ In our young days, we recollect seeing ladies carry cardamoms in their pockets, and eat them as if they were sweetmeats.”

In Europe, the seeds are sometimes seen in fancy dishes in cocktail lounges and bars. The seeds are also used in potpourri, sachets, and sweet-scented mixtures.

A natural perfume of the vegetable kingdom; the seeds were often an ingredient of old-time love potions.

Seeds come from the dried fruit of the cardamom plant, found in India and other tropical areas. Their flavor is slightly gingerish, leaving a medicinal aftertaste. Used in Mexican, Spanish, and East Indian dishes.

A mild stimulant, cardamom is a standard ingredient of curry.

Cardamom is a relative of the ginger family and a native to the Orient. Old-fashioned sweet bags, perfume powders, and incense contained cardamom seeds. Oil of cardamom is used to make Lily-of-the-valley perfume.

It is said the Syrians used 1 or 2 cardamom seeds with coffee.

Uses

According to a Chinese Materia Medica, a tea made from cardamom seeds will counteract acidity of the stomach, stimulate digestion because cardamom contains a large amount of volatile oil, and relieves discomfort of flatulence. Treats gastralgia, enuresis (involuntary urination), spermatorrhea, phlegm, colds, cough, bronchitis, asthma, hoarse throat, kidney diseases. In Turkey, 1 or 2 cardamom seeds are chewed to sweeten the breath and to conceal liquor breath.

Seeds are used as a spice in cooking and as a flavoring in other medicines

Formulas or Dosages

For indigestion, mix 15 pulverized seeds in 1/2 cup hot water. Add 1 oz. of fresh gingerroot and a cinnamon stick. Simmer 15 minutes over low heat. Add 1/2 cup milk and simmer 10 more minutes. Add 2 or 3 drops of vanilla. Sweeten with honey. Drink 1 to 2 cups daily.

Warning

Care should be taken if internally ulcers are present. Consult medical supervision.

What Cardamom Is and What It Can Do

Medicinally, cardamom has been used in Asia as an aphrodisiac. In Arab countries, coffee houses often mix some into coffee. I cannot verify its effectiveness in this particular regard, but cardamom does contain a compound called cineole, which stimulates the central nervous system--and I suppose this could give thoughts of romance a little boost. Cineole is often used by aroma therapists as a remedy for fainting. I like to spike my coffee or tea with a couple of seeds.

How Cardamom Can Help

Cineole is an antiseptic that can kill bad breath bacteria, which may explain in part its reputation as an aphrodisiac. Try chewing on a few seeds, then spitting them out. Like spearmint, rosemary, eucalyptus, ginger, bee balm, peppermint, and other herbs with high cineole content, cardamom makes a great expectorant for people with laryngitis. Make a tea combining these ingredients, and add some pineapple juice.

Cardamom has also been found to be effective for eliminating, or at least limiting, gas. A few sprinkles on a piece of toast may do the trick as well as the cinnamon that my wife uses.

How to Take It and How Much
Cardamom is available as seeds, oil crushed from seed, and as a tincture, standardized to 1 to 2 grams as cineole. A recommended daily dosage of tincture is 1.5 grams standardized as cineole. If you take the proper dosage, you should be free of any health hazards or side effects.
Heart disease. The antioxidants in herbs and foods are among the most powerful tools for protecting the heart. This is because they help prevent the oxygen in the body from damaging (oxidizing) molecules of cholesterol in the blood stream. This is important because cholesterol that's been oxidized may cause plaque and potential blockage, making it more likely to impede the flow of blood to the heart. Since curcumin is a potent antioxidant, I'm convinced that it can help prevent cholesterol from causing the narrowing of the arteries, called atherosclerosis, that's among the main causes of heart attacks.

In India cardamom is used as a mouth freshner after meals. It laves a pleasant taste in the mouth and also gets rid of mouth odors.

It is also used as an ingredient in Garam Masala which is used in Mughlai or Indian Dishes.

Carduus Marianus
This is one of the most important liver remedies, if a homoeopathic author can be excused for the expression. There are many pains, pressing, dragging, drawing, burning; worse from motion.
The patient is very sensitive to cold, and is subject to attacks of bilious vomiting at regular or irregular intervals. The author has cured many violent sick headaches ending in vomiting bile, and cases in the habit of taking calomel, with this remedy (Sang.).
Dropsical effusions with liver diseases. It is useful in hemorrhages and jaundice, when symptoms agree.
Sadness, irritability and weeping. Congestive headaches; pressing pains coming periodically. Fullness and heaviness in the head. Sensitiveness of the scalp to cold air. Pressing outward of the eyeballs.
Yellow sclerotics. Burning in margins of lids. Burning inside of the nose. Epistaxis.
Taste bitter, insipid, or wanting. Foul tongue. No desire for food. Nausea, and vomiting mucus, then bile. Painful retching, and

The most important of all the liver symptoms. Dragging pain in right hypochondrium when lying on left side; like Arn., Mag. m., Nat. s. and Ptelea.

Pressing, drawing, stitching in right lobe of liver. This remedy establishes a healthy flow of bile, and thereby cures the condition that favors the formation of gall stones. It has many times broken up the tendency to gall stone colic.

Portal congestion and hemorrhoids. Sore, bruised, hard liver; sometimes the left lobe, but oftener the right. When complicated with lung and heart symptoms with expectoration of blood.

Drawing, stitching or burning pains in the abdomen. Distended abdomen. Cutting pains. The stool is black. Stool hard and knotty. Clay-like, bileless stool. Burning in rectum, and anus. Itching piles. Bleeding piles. Inveterate constipation.

Burning in the urethra. Copious high-colored urine, with copious sediment. Turbid urine. Retention of urine.

Menses copious. Menses suppressed. Uterine haemorrhage with portal congestion. Drawing in vagina, and leucorrhoea.

Liver cough, when lower portion of right lung is affected, with chronic congestion of the liver.

Pains in the chest with liver pains. Stitching pains. Drawing pains, aggravated by motion.

Cramping, drawing, pressing, rheumatic pains in the limbs.

Violent pain in the right deltoid. Pain in the hip joints, aggravated from rising, stooping, and motion.

Neuralgic pains in the lower limbs, worse from motion. (Edema of the feet. Varicose veins. Ulcers. Rheumatism, and jerking of the muscles. Cramps in the calves and feet. Walking almost impossible.

To my mind, there is a retention of water in the body in such patients which is causing constipation as the water is not released enough to form the right consistency in the stool that the stool becomes dry. Similarly, when there is constipation, there is foul breath from the mouth and when there is retention of water in the tongue then there is flabbiness in tongue and difficulties of speach, which go well with the characterstics of this medicine. Therefore, when this medicine is said to have proving in these areas, it should be working in release of water from the body as well as from the tongue as the area of work defined is within the rectrum as well as mouth. Therefore, when water is released from the tongue and mouth reducing the retention of water, there is always a possibility of dryness in the mouth......which is what she must be experiencing and the best remedy here would be to lubricate the mouth and remove the dryiness where BRYONIA should come handy and its use 30C three times a day for one day or upto three days should work as great complementary medicine alongwith cascara, incidentally this is a great medicine for constipation, and regulating the stools and peristalsis, and it will work in muscles and joints particularly knee and in Liver. You may continue for three days and repeat alongwith Bryonia....Best wishes

Vaginismus - Ways to Tell If Your Vagina is Big and Loose Or Small and Tight

Does size really matter, well this would depend on what we refer too. If we talk of a young child in a fight, then yes, because no toddler is able for the teen, or if you're hungry, then a small size food portion will not fill your belly. What on earth has this got to do with vaginas you may well ask; "satisfaction" that's what. Both instances are "unsatisfying" situations for the toddler and the tummy rumbler due to size restricting them from achieving, so this can apply to the size of the vagina also? If a person can get satisfaction from being well fed - or from beating their opponent, then why would not a person want satisfaction from their love making. Does the size of the vagina matter; yes it does if it interferes with, or stops you pleasuring in sex. If you or your partner gets no enjoyment while having sex because of looseness, then of course it matters. If you're sure the problem is in your department and not about your partner having a small willy, then you need to look for a way to tighten your vagina.

Is there a way of telling whether the vagina is either big or small, and of a natural size? Vaginal size is not a topical subject, so chances of finding out anything from friends and family through girlie gossip, is zero. The vaginal wall is elasticity so exact size can never really be ascertained. If the vagina is relaxed the vaginal walls collapse into each other. The diameter is less than one inch and the length will be around 3 to 4 inches. Vagina size alters when ready for intercourse. At this time the diameter of the vagina is not the same throughout the vaginal tunnel.

The narrowest part of the vagina is the opening which widens as it goes in deeper. Normally the front part of vagina has a size of one and a half inches. The deeper into the vagina you go the bigger the diameter. The back end is usually a diameter of 2 1/2 inches. The front vagina wall has the length of 2 inches and the back end is 3 totaling approximately 6 inches.

Some pregnant women after giving birth find there vagina may have stretched through intense expansion. Most of these women turn to Kegel exercises to bring back vaginal tightness. Issues in relation to a loose vagina and vulva size are common, so no need to be embarrassed. Go along and speak with your GP if you`re worried over this. If you have never experienced giving birth, then it's highly unlikely that your vagina or vulva is too big. If you have been put off having sex because you have heard it stretches the vagina and makes it big, then you have heard wrong. What a load of codswollop, yes the vagina can stretch to accept the penis, but soon returns to normal size. Childbirth is a regular cause for vaginal looseness because it can affect dimensions, meaning, damaged muscles and other supporting tissues of the vaginal walls. Don't be put off having children thinking this is a natural happening for women having baby's, because it`s not, just ask the millions of moms the whole world over. There are things you can do to help prevent widening of the vagina by doing postnatal exercises that physiotherapists teach.

If the vaginal 'barrel' gives a feeling of largeness it can lead to the following effects:

Such memories seeing this beaver. On Lac Philipe, Quebec in one summer my high school days we used to follow a beaver in our little boat until it slapped it's tail on the water and submerged. Also saw beaver dams on the way to a cave we explored. What is used to make the homeopathic remedy?

Click picture for many more pictures

Causticum
Causticum is a very searching medicine, suitable in old, broken down constitutions, suffering from chronic diseases.
Only occasionally is it indicated in acute diseases. Its complaints are such as are progressive, slow, and accompanying a declining state of the economy.
Muscular power: Gradual decrease of muscular power, a paralysis. Paralysis of the oesophagus, paralysis of the throat, such as occurs after diphtheria; paralysis of the upper eyelids; paralysis of the bladder; paralysis of the limbs, of the lower limbs; great lassitude, muscular relaxation, indescribable fatigue and heaviness of the body. And there is a tremulousness, a quivering, jerking, twitching of the muscles, twitching in sleep.
Tendons: The next most striking feature is found in the tendons, which become shortened, resulting in a temporary or permanent contracture, and the limb is drawn up.
Tendons of the forearms contract, and there is gradually increasing flexion. Sometimes a whole muscle will harden and shorten, so that it can be felt by the hand as a hard ridge. Contractures of muscles and tendons.

Joints: Closely related to this is a rheumatic state of the tendons and ligaments about the joints, sometimes with swelling, but always with pain and ending in a shrivelling of the joint, a tightening up of the joint so that it becomes ankylosed.

Great stiffness of the joints, and while this is going on the patient is growing weaker, is running into a state of melancholy, of hopelessness, anxiety and fear.

Constantly present in his mind is the hopelessness and a feeling that something is hanging over him, that something is going to happen. These are general features of Causticum. They all go to make up one picture, they are inseparable.

Hysteria: Another kind of progressive trouble in Causticum is hysteria. Gradually increasing hysteria. Hysterical cramping. The woman loses all control of herself and says foolish things.

Her nervous system becomes extremely sensitive to noise, touch, excitement or anything unusual. Starting from the slightest noise; starting in sleep; twitching and jerking; the child is easily startled, or acts as if startled without cause.

Rheumatic diathesis: The paralytic weakness is associated with the rheumatic diathesis. The rheumatic states are peculiar. The patient himself can endure neither heat nor cold. They both aggravate his rheumatic conditions, his nervous conditions and himself in general. His pains are ameliorated by heat, but they are aggravated in dry weather.

Great deformity of the joints; they are enlarged, soft and infiltrated, always worse in dry weather; more pains and aches during dry weather. Rheumatism that affects both the muscles and the joints. This patient is also aggravated by exposure to cold, dry winds. Many an individual who has gone from the low lands of the East up into Colorado will come down with rheumatism from the cold, dry winds.

Let such a patient as I have described take a ride in the cold lake wind and he will have paralysis of the side of the face exposed to the wind. A long drive with the east wind coming against the face.

The next day that side of the face will be paralyzed. Such a paralysis will almost always recover under Causticum.

Reading, tearing, paralytic pains; pains that, benumb; pains that fairly take the life out of him, they are so severe. And they are likely to remain in one place for a long time. Causticum has often greatly mitigated the lightning-like pains of locomotor ataxia.

Now, with all these sufferings the patient is slowly growing weaker, till at length he can no longer walk, he can no longer sit up, he is so tired and weak that he must lie down. He is tired in body and mind. It is a paralytic fatigue.

Convulsive symptoms. Cramps, now here, now there. If frightened he is almost sure to have some form of convulsive condition, The woman with tendency to hysteria will have hysterics from fright; nervous girls that are more inclined to chorea, will start with jerking of muscles and will keep it up day and night. Chorea even at night. Localized chorea, jerking of single parts, chorea of the tongue or of one side of the face. Epilepsy in young persons at the age of puberty, from fright, from, being chilled or exposed to some great change in the weather. Epilepsy, chorea, paralysis, hysteria worse during menses. We see that Causticum is a deep medicine.

Worse from exposure to cold, dry wind. It also has rheumatic complaints aggravated in the warm, damp days, in wet weather, but this is not so striking.

Any one of the complaints that I have mentioned may be brought on by bathing in cold water. A long, dry, cold spell will aggravate the rheumatic troubles, getting wet or becoming chilled by bathing will start them.

Insanity: Causticum has cured insanity; not acute mania with violent delirium, but mental aberration of the passive kind, where the brain has become tired. The constitution has been broken down with long suffering and much trouble, and finally the mind is in confusion.

At first the patient recognizes his inability to do anything and then comes this foreboding that something is going to happen. He is unable to think, and consequently unable to carry on his business. He is going into imbecility. Full of timorous fancies. "Timorous anxiety," overwhelmed with fearful fancies.

At every turn there is fear that something is going to happen.

Fear of death, fear that something will happen to his family. Always anticipating some dreadful event. That is a striking feature of the Causticum mental state. It is found in old, broken down mental cases, after prolonged anxiety; after a prolonged struggle of some sort.
Anxiety before falling asleep. In addition to this, the Causticum patient lacks balance. Everything excites him. The more he thinks about his complaints, the worse they become. Mental and other ailments from long-lasting grief and sorrow. The injurious effects of fear and prolonged vexation. Tired from vexations of business.
Eruptions: The suppression of eruptions is apt to bring out mental symptoms. Mental exhaustion, hopelessness, despair, appearing after the suppression of an eruption with zinc ointment. He was fairly well while he had the eruption, but when it disappeared his mind gave out.
Eruptions on the side of the head and face, and extending over the whole head. Thick, crusty eruptions covering the whole occiput. When these eruptions are suppressed in children, chorea is apt to follow. In the adult there will be trembling, paralytic weakness and the mental state, sometimes pains in the nerves.
Headaches: The driving in of a facial eruption will frequently result in facial paralysis. The healing of an old ulcer with stimulating lotions and ointments will have a similar result. Then he also suffers from violent headaches, congestive, pulsating headaches; violent, stitches in the head, worse in the evening. But the headaches are, as a rule, nondescript; only occasion do we find a Causticum headache standing out by itself. It will usually be associated with rheumatic and gouty conditions which also affect the scalp. The scalp contracts and tightens up in places like the contractures in other parts. Rheumatic headaches; sometimes the pain is so severe as to cause nausea, and vomiting. Blinding headaches followed by paralysis.

Torticollis. The head is sometimes drawn to one side by the shortening of the muscles of the neck. Causticum is a curative remedy in this shortening of the tendons and muscles.
Eyes: Causticum is rich in eye symptoms. Very often the patient says that the eyelids feel so heavy that he can hardly hold them up. This gradually increases until it becomes an actual paralysis. Sometimes there is the appearance of a veil before the eyes; foggy vision.

Flickering before the eyes. Air seems full of little black insects. Then, again, large black or green spots are seen. After looking at the light a green spot appears and remains in the field of vision for a long time. Diplopia.

And the vision gradually grows weaker until it is lost. Paralysis of the optic nerve. Lachrymation, tears acrid, burning; ulceration, copious discharges from the eyes, agglutination of the lids, paralysis of the eye muscles.

Causticum cures scrofulous ophthalmia with ulceration of the cornea; chronic, purulent ophthalmia of psoric origin. The cornea is covered with little veins.

Warts: Another very strong feature of this medicine is its tendency to grow warts. Warts on the face, on the tip of the nose, on the ends of the fingers, on the hands.

Hard, dry, horny warts come out on various parts of the body.

It is natural feature of this remedy to produce copious, thick, tough, gluey discharges from mucous membranes.

Ear and nose: The catarrhal troubles creep up the Eustachian tube, from the nose and throat into the car, resulting in roarings, cracking noises and reverberations in the ear. There is great accumulation of car wax; deafness of catarrhal origin and deafness from paralysis of the auditory nerve. Severe, dragging pains in the ear.

The nasal catarrh is very troublesome. Old, atrophic catarrh with accumulation of crusts throughout the whole nasal cavity; post-nasal catarrh with ulcerations, granulations and copious, thick, yellow or yellowish-green discharge; nose-bled; frequent attacks of acrid, watery coryza. Much itching of the nose. A wart grows upon the tip of the nose.

Face and mouth: The pains in the face are violent. Neuralgic pains from exposure to cold. These pains often accompany the facial paralysis. Tearing pains in the face, stitching pains, pains of a rheumatic character.

Ulcerations about the mouth and nose. Fissures about the lips, the wings of the nose and the corners of the eyes. Fissures seem to form upon the least provocation. Fissures of the anus, of the skin about the joints. Old cases of salt rheum with fissures in the bends of the joints. Fistulous openings with indurated walls.

The gums become scorbutic and settle away from the teeth; bleeding and ulceration of the gums. Violent, tearing pains in the roots of the teeth from riding in the wind. Old rheumatic subjects suffer all through every dry spell with toothache.

Stitching, tearing, pulsating pains in the teeth; even in the sound teeth on drawing in cold air. Frequently recurring abscesses of the gums. Putrid sour or bitter taste in the mouth.

When the paralytic condition affects the tongue then we have stammering. There is also the condition of complete paralysis of both the pharynx and oesophagus. Hence Causticum is useful in the results of diphtheria when it has been maltreated or when the remedy has not been sufficient to cure the disease.

The food goes down the wrong way or enters the larynx or the post-nares. Paralysis of the organs of speech, paralysis of the tongue, awkward at talking, awkward at chewing; bites the tongue and cheeks while chewing. Post-diphtheritic paralysis is a serious condition and only a few remedies can cure- it. Causticum is one of them. Lachesis and Cocculus are also important. Dryness of the mouth and throat; rawness of the throat; must swallow constantly on account of a sensation of fullness in the throat, a nervous feeling in the throat. This is often a forerunner of paralysis. The Staphysagria patient when excited will keep up a constant swallowing and this goes on until it becomes a source of great annoyance.

Burning in the throat; jerking in the throat; constantly scraping thick, tough mucus from the larynx. Study the sounds that patients make in order to ascertain where the mucus comes from. The presence of hoarseness shows that the trouble is in the larynx.

Desires and aversions, stomach: The Causticum patient sits down to the table hungry, but on seeing the food his appetite vanishes. The thought, sight or smell of food takes away the appetite. This is a common symptom in the pregnant woman. Although hungry, on sitting down at the table, she cannot eat. Kali carbonicum has an empty, all-gone feeling in the stomach, with aversion to food. China has canine hunger, but loathes the sight of food.

Thirst after eating; thirst for cool drinks with aversion to water desire for beer, smoked meats, pungent things, aversion to sweet things and delicacies. Most remedies that have loss of appetite have desire for, sweet things, pastry, etc. The symptoms of thirst with aversion to drinking is very much like Lachesis.

The two run very closely together in the paralytic condition of the throat. There is a queer sensation in the stomach as if lime were slaking there. Trembling in the stomach; burning. Bread causes a sensation of heaviness and pressure, coffee seems to aggravate all the symptoms of the stomach, but a swallow of cold water relieves.

Many symptoms in this remedy are made better by a swallow of water. The violent spasmodic cough may be stopped at once by a drink of cold water. Cold water seems to tone up the paralytic condition. Warm water applied to the hands brings on pains in these old sensitive spinal conditions. Cold washing is their only relief.

Causticum has belching, nausea, vomiting, distension and violent pains in the stomach. Pinching colic.

Rectum: In the rectum there is the same tendency to paralytic weakness that is found in other parts of the body. It is inactive and fills up with hard faeces, which pass involuntarily and unnoticed. Aloe has involuntary dropping of little, hard balls, especially in children. Even when old enough to understand about such things, they will pass little balls unnoticed.

On account of the paralytic condition the stool passes with less straining while the patient is standing. Retention of urine except when standing; unable to pass it in any other position is Sarsaparilla. Constipation, frequent, unsuccessful urging to stool. The stool is tough and shining, and is passed with great difficulty and exertion.

Fissures in the anus; itching and stitching in the rectum, excessive itching day and night; hemorrhoids, pulsating in the perineum I fissures and hemorrhoids pulsate and burn like fire. The hemorrhoids become infiltrated and hardened.

Bladder: This remedy has two kinds of paralysis of the bladder, one affecting the muscles of expulsion and the urine is retained, and the other center ing upon the sphincter vesicae, and then the urine is passed involuntarily.

"He urinates so easily that he is not sensible of the stream and scarcely believes, in the dark, that he is urinating, until he makes sure by sense of touch."

Causticum is unconscious of the stream as it passes.

It is a very useful remedy in children that wet the bed. Especially is it a wonderful remedy in the woman. The urine escapes involuntarily when coughing. Retention of urine in the woman. Retention after labor.

Paralysis of the bladder. A woman who is too greatly embarrassed to pass through a crowd of observing men to the closet at the end of a railroad car, at the end of the journey finds that she is unable to pass the urine.

Retention of urine from straining the muscles of the bladder. If the patient is chilled at the time the remedy may be Rhus.

Rhus and Causticum are the two great remedies for paralytic weakness of muscles from being overstrained, or from being overstrained and chilled. Great weakness at the time of the menses.

Menstruation: Anxious dreams before menstruation; melancholy; cramp-like spasms; pains in the back. The woman suffers from many annoyances during menstruation just about the time for the flow to start violent cramp-like pains come on. In a woman who is nursing a child the milk almost disappears in consequence of fatigue, night watching and anxiety. The nipples get sore and crack, another instance of the tendency to form fissures.

Voice: The Causticum patient has trouble with the voice. You remember, when we were going over the symptoms of Carbo vegetabilis, I told you that the hoarseness was worse in the evening. Now observe that the hoarseness of Causticum is worse in the morning.

He gets up in the morning with a hoarse voice; if it is an ordinary case, after moving about and expectorating a little mucus, it is better. Sudden loss of voice from paralysis of the vocal cord.

It sometimes begins with the morning aggravation, gradually increasing until it lasts all day and all night.

Cough: The Causticum cough is a hard cough and racks the whole body. The chest seems full of mucus and he feels if only he could cough a little deeper he could get it up, and he struggles and coughs until exhausted or until he finds out that a drink of cold water will relieve. But it must be ice cold.
The cough is hollow, it sounds as if he were coughing into a barrel. It is relieved by expectoration if it can only get deep enough to reach the mucus. Sometimes such a cough precedes quick consumption. It is a deep-acting medicine; it cures phthisis, especially mucous phthisis or quick consumption.
"Cough with a sensation as if the patient could not cough deep enough to start the mucus; produced by tickling, accompanied by rawness. Cough wakens her from sleep in the evening and morning.
Cough relieved by a swallow of cold water. Cough worse by bending forward. Continual, annoy ing cough; with each cough escape of urine."
Influenza with tired aching of the limbs as if they had been beaten.
"Whooping cough in the catarrhal stage."
Great soreness and tightness of the chest, oppression of the chest it feels as if a load were upon it. It seems to be filling up with mucus, and the patient coughs until he raises a mouthful and then he feels a little better for a time. Pale as death, covered with sweat.
Back: There are many symptoms in the back. Pain and stiffness; stiffness on rising from a seat. Stiffness in the limbs, through the hips and in the back, so that he rises up from sitting or the recumbent posture with great difficulty.
In most cases the pains and aches are ameliorated by the warmth of the bed and by applied heat. Only the pains in the fingers are sometimes brought on by heat.

Causticum
(The leader)

1. Dictatorial, domineering, dogmatically
2. Fanaticism
3. Quarrelsome
4. Anarchist
5. Defiant
6. Affectionate and sympathetic.

Fights against injustice, is sympathetic. Always puts a crowd in the front to fight against injustice.

He is sympathetic and also dictatorial. He keeps extra-marital relations.

He wants to lead; he keeps his eye on even small occasions so he can find some suspicion and so he can lead the people against injustice.

|---|---|---|

Synonyms and Common names: Apii fructus, celery fruit, celery seed, smallage
Chinese = Qincai or Han-ch’in, French = Ache, German = Sellerie, Spanish = Apio, Italian = Sedano
Order: Umbelliferae/Apiaceae
Description: Apium is a strong-smelling, slender, erect biennial herb, up to 60cm tall, indigenous to Europe, the US, Asia and Africa in coastal areas, and extensively cultivated in the temperate regions of Europe and North America. It has shiny pinnate leaves and large toothed leaflets, the upper trifoliate and unstalked. The flowers are white, in four to twelve simple umbels in a compound umbel which is often opposite a leaf; there are no upper or lower bracts. The petals are small and entire with a small inflected point, and the fruits are very small and slightly compressed laterally. The flowering period is from June to August. There are several cultivated varieties which emphasize the size of the ribbed stem, and all varieties have medicinal properties.

Parts used: dried ripe fruit, aerial parts

Collection: The seed is collected when ripe in September, the herb at any time during the growing season.

Constituents: 1.5-3% volatile oil (containing the terpenes limonene and b-selinene, and phthalides); coumarins (seselin, osthenol, apigravin, celerin, umbelliferone); furanocoumarins (including bergapten), flavonoids (apigenin, apiin), phenolic compounds, choline, ascorbate, fixed oil, fatty acids and unidentified alkaloids.

Actions: mild diuretic, mild spasmolytic, carminative, anti-inflammatory, antirheumatic, sedative, hypotensive, urinary antiseptic, reputed aphrodisiac.

Indications: rheumatism, arthritis, gout, inflammation of the urinary tract. Specifically indicated in rheumatoid arthritis.

Therapeutics and Pharmacology: Apium is known as a mild diuretic and urinary antiseptic and has been used in the treatment of urinary calculi. It has a calming effect on the gut, and can be used in the relief of flatulence and griping pains. However, whilst it can reduce visceral spasm, it conversely stimulates the smooth muscle of the womb and can bring on delayed menstruation. After childbirth it helps the uterus readjust and encourages the flow of breast milk. The phthalides are the constituents responsible for the antispasmodic, sedative and diuretic actions. Apium has a direct action on the kidneys, increasing the elimination of water and speeding up the clearance of accumulated toxins from the joints and so is of benefit in any oedematous condition that accompanies arthritis. It is often administered with Taraxacum radix to increase the efficiency of elimination by both the kidneys and the liver. Apium is also hypoglycaemic, and as such is helpful in diabetes; this action seems to involve a direct action on the pancreas and its production of insulin. Clinical studies in China have demonstrated a hypotensive action for the tincture, and this is accompanied by increased urine output. The flavonoid apigenin has exhibited significant anti-platelet activity in vitro.

The volatile oil in Apium has been shown to have antifungal activity, and it is active against many bacteria including Staphylococcus aureus, Staphylococcus albus, Shigella dysenteriae, Salmonella typhi, Streptococcus faecalis, Streptococcus pyogenes and Pseudomonas solanacearum. No activity was observed against Escherichia coli or Pseudomonas aeruginosa.

Combinations: Apium combines well with Menyanthes and/or Guaiacum in rheumatic disease. The therapeutic action of Apium is potentiated by Taraxacum.
Caution: Apium should be avoided in pregnancy because it is a uterine stimulant. The volatile oil in quantity is toxic to the kidneys and so should not be used in kidney disorders. Allergic reactions are rare.
Preparation and Dosage: (thrice daily)
GSL Schedule 1
Dried fruits: 0.5-3g or by 1:5 decoction
Tincture: 1:5 in 90% alcohol, 2-8ml
Liquid Extract: 1:1 in 90% alcohol, 0.5-2ml
Additional Comments: In Germany, celery preparations are used to treat loss of appetite loss and exhaustion, and also in the prophylaxis of nervous exhaustion.
Note:This being the winter season, I buy the stalks and dry them in the shade. Microwave drying is also the same. Then crush it and keep in the fridge for a super flavor to many dishes. The dried leaves stay fresh throughout the year.

Centaury

...is for people who find it difficult to say 'no' to other people. They are kind, gentle souls and like to be of help to others. But sometimes other more ruthless people will take advantage of this, and instead of willing service the Centaury ends up the slave of another's wishes.

The Centaury remedy does not harden the Centaury personality. Instead it supports the development of courage and self-determination so that Centaury people are better able to draw the line and make space where they can be themselves free of the desires and commands of others.

Dr Bach's description
Kind, quiet, gentle people who are over-anxious to serve others. They overtax their strength in their endeavours. Their wish so grows upon them that they become more servants than willing helpers. Their good nature leads them to do more than their own share of work, and in so doing they may neglect their own particular mission in life.

WOW amazing. I believe on my very last job, I got fired over this. I was so overwhelmed with work, I couldn't remember what my name was if you asked me. I got what is called "Job burnout".
During an interview, when people ask what my weakness is, I say..... "I can't say NO when people ask for help". Wow, I'll keep this in mind once I finish taking other remedies. I'm learning mentally about boundaries right now. This remedy would help out with the process. Still can't believe I'm 35 years old and never learned about boundaries. Thanks I'll keep this in mind.

Family Name : APIACEAE

Botanical Name : CENTELLA ASIATICA

Common Name : PENNYWORT, INDIAN PENNYWORT, ARTAYNIYA-E HINDI, JAL BRAHMI

Part Used : WHOLE PLANT

Habitat : Grown in waterlogged places throughout India.

Uses : It is Tonic, Diuretic and Alterative. It is used in treatment of leporasy and known to ameliorate the symptoms of the disease and improves general health of the patient. It is a brain tonic and stimulates hair growth.
Centella asiatica is a small herbaceous annual plant of the family Apiaceae, native to Asia. Common names include Gotu Kola, Asiatic Pennywort, Antanan, Pegaga, and Brahmi (although this last name is shared with Bacopa monnieri and other herbs). It is used as a medicinal herb in Ayurvedic medicine and traditional Chinese medicine.

The stems are slender, creeping stolons, green to reddish green in color, interconnecting one plant to another. It has long-stalked, green, reniform leaves with rounded apices which have smooth texture with palmately netted veins. The leaves are born on pericladial petioles, around 20 cm. The rootstock consists of rhizomes, growing vertically down. They are creamish in color and covered with root hairs.

The flowers are pinkish to red in color, born in small, rounded bunches (umbels) near the surface of the soil. Each flower is partly enclosed in two green bracts. The hermaphrodite flowers are minute in size (less than 3 mm), with 5-6 corolla lobes per flower. Each flower bears five stamens and two styles.

The crop matures in three months and the whole plant, including the roots, is harvested manually. When eaten raw as a salad leaf, pegaga is thought to help maintain youthfulness. A decoction of juice from the leaves is thought to relieve hypertension. This juice is also used as a general tonic for good health. A poultice of the leaves is also used to treat open sores. Interestingly, chewing on the plant for several hours induces entheogenic meditation, similar to the effects of salvia divinorum, although this practice is widely considered dangerous, as it can cause temporomandibular joint pains.

Hi Jayashree

I was intrigued to note that you have used the word "Gotu Kola" in your title which is the word in Sinhala by which this plant is known in Sri Lanka. Sinhala is the national language of Sri Lanka. I would like to know if this term is also used in India.

The word "Gotu" in Sinhala denotes a concave funnel like shape and the leaves are best described as being funnel shaped with a thin stem. "Kola" is the word for Leaves.

We have this plant growing in our garden and it is eaten raw in a salad. It is reputed to build up the Iron reserves in the body. It is also recognized as a Diuretic.

Gotu Kola ~ Brain Boost ~ 16/03/08

(Centella asiatica)

Many herbalists have called gotu kola the finest of all herbal tonics. A brain boost - revitalising herb to the body, brain and nerves - it assists memory, concentration, intelligence, improves reflexes and energy levels, and is said to help balance the left and right hemispheres of the brain. People have reported that with using the herb regularly they have been able to correct high blood pressure and cholesterol. Many people have experienced relief from painful and crippling arthritis and rheumatism.

An old Asian saying is Two leaves a day keeps old age away . Numerous research projects in the western world studied this herb after the remarkable life of Professor Li Chung Yun, who died at the age of 256 years in 1933. He was born in 1677 and in 1933 the New York Times announced the death of this remarkable Oriental, whose life span had reached over two and half centuries. The Chinese Government officially recorded his age. The professor ate gotu kola daily. At 200 years of age he was still lecturing at a Chinese university and was said to look like a man of 50 years, he stood straight and had his own natural teeth and full head of hair.

Judy rang to share with me the benefits she experienced from taking herbs, as she suffered terrible pain from fibromyalgia. Then, she read about fenugreek sprouts and gotu kola, started taking them daily, and in 4 weeks was completely pain free.

Margaret was a constant visitor to the toilet with irritable bowel syndrome. When she heard about gotu kola, she took 2 cups of tea a day and now enjoys her days to the full, without constant trips to the toilet. Margaret said drinking the tea has also resulted in mouth ulcers clearing.

Gotu kola is a perennial, creeping ground cover with kidney-shaped leaves, with very tiny pink flowers, often hidden underneath the leaves.

Antioxidant flavonoids in gotu kola play a part in zapping free radicals, boosting the circulation to every cell and strengthening the immune system. The asiaticoside constituent in gotu kola has the action of speeding the healing of wounds and accelerating the repair of connective tissue, ligaments, cartilage, tendons, bone fractures, and also repair of veins and arteries. Studies have shown the herb can help relieve ADD and hyperactive conditions.

Every person can benefit by taking gotu kola. Start with eating 2-3 leaves 3cm in diameter (if leaves are smaller, more leaves need to be taken to give the same amount). Then, if desired & after several weeks &increase to 5-6 leaves.

If a person has severe pain and arthritis, it may be necessary to slowly increase intake to 10-12 leaves daily. It is best to eat the leaves early in the day. Don t eat these in the evening, as people who have tried this have said they have experienced a boost of energy and could not sleep. I chop the leaves and eat together with other herbs, over my muesli for breakfast.

"wisdom in your body is deeper than your deepest philosophy" (Nietszche)

|---|---|---|

Dear Joe,

some herbalists in India call it as "Gotu kola" and few others as "Brahmi".

It is a great herb, and I have tried, in powder form of the dried leaves. Though it is suppose to promote much deeper sleep, hyperactive people should avoid having it in the evening, as I had a difficult time for a couple of days, as it kept me awake well past midnight.

It is also better, if we can get hold of fresh green leaves, as it avoids over heating of body and mind ( which the dried leaves powder tends to do in pitta/vata dominant people).

Warm regards
Garcot

I was fascinated to read the many articles listed by Google on Gotu Kola. I am copying below an article by the University of Maryland Medical Center which gives information on the almost incredible properties of Gotu Kola including the fact that Professor Li Chung Yuen lived an incredible 256 years which was documented. Professor Li attributed his longevity to eating 2 leaves of Gotu Kola daily.

I have decided to use it myself with the Arnica that I have taken nightly since 1996 and I shall keep members posted on my own research on Gotu Kola which grows in my garden at home. If as I hope it does work, I will then be faced with a problem to decide whether it was the Arnica or the Gotu Kola that helped me to a better status of health !

GOTU KOLA

http://www.umm.edu/altmed/articles/gotu-kola-000253.htm

Gotu kola (Centella asiatica) has been used as a medicinal herb for thousands of years in India, China, and Indonesia. It was used to heal wounds, improve mental clarity, and treat skin conditions such as leprosy and psoriasis. Some people use it to treat respiratory infections such as colds, and it has a history of use for that purpose in China. It has been called "the fountain of life" because legend has it that an ancient Chinese herbalist lived for more than 200 years as a result of using the herb.

Historically, gotu kola has also been used to treat syphilis, hepatitis, stomach ulcers, mental fatigue, epilepsy, diarrhea, fever, and asthma. Today, American and European herbalists use gotu kola most often to treat chronic venous insufficiency (a condition where blood pools in the legs). It's also used in ointments to treat psoriasis and help heal minor wounds.

Gotu kola should not be confused with kola nut (Cola nitida). Unlike kola nut, gotu kola has no caffeine, and is not a stimulant.

Plant Description:

Gotu kola is a perennial plant native to India, Japan, China, Indonesia, South Africa, Sri Lanka, and the South Pacific. A member of the parsley family, it is tasteless and odorless. It thrives in and around water. It has small fan-shaped green leaves with white or light purple-to-pink flowers, and it bears small oval fruit. The leaves and stems of the gotu kola plant are used for medicinal purposes.

Medicinal Uses and Indications:

Treatment

Venous insufficiency and varicose veins

When blood vessels lose their elasticity, blood pools in the legs and fluid leaks out of the blood vessels. That causes the legs to swell (venous insufficiency). Several small studies suggest gotu kola may help reduce swelling and improve circulation. In a study of 94 people with venous insufficiency, those who took gotu kola had a significant improvement in symptoms compared to those who took placebo. In another study of people with varicose veins, ultrasound tests showed improvements in the vascular tone (meaning there was less leakage) of those who took gotu kola.

Wound healing and skin lesions

Gotu kola contains chemicals called triterpenoids. In animal and lab studies, these compounds appear to help heal wounds. For example, some studies indicate that triterpenoids strengthen the skin, boost antioxidants in wounds, and increase blood supply to the area. Based on these findings, gotu kola has been used topically (applied to the skin) for minor burns, psoriasis, prevention of scar formation following surgery, and prevention or reduction of stretch marks.

You can find gotu kola in many topical preparations for wound healing. Ask your health care provider.

Anxiety

Triterpenoids (the compounds found in gotu kola) seem to decrease anxiety and increase mental function in mice. One human study found that people who took gotu kola were less likely to be startled by a new noise than those who took placebo. Since the "startle noise" response can be an indicator of anxiety, researchers theorize that gotu kola might help reduce anxiety symptoms. But the dose used in this study was very high, so it's impossible to say how gotu kola might be used to treat anxiety.

Scleroderma

A single study of 13 women with scleroderma found that gotu kola decreased joint pain and skin hardening, and improved finger movement.

Insomnia

Gotu kola acts as a sedative when given to animals in tests. Because of that effect, it is sometimes suggested to help people with insomnia. But no human studies have been done to see whether it works and whether it's safe.

Dosage and Administration:

Gotu kola is available in teas and as dried herbs, tinctures, capsules, tablets, and ointments. Products should be stored in a cool, dry place and used before the expiration date on the label.

Pediatric

Gotu kola is not recommended for those under 18 years old.

Adult

The adult dosage of gotu kola varies depending on the condition being treated. Your health care provider can help you choose the right dose for you.

The standard dose of gotu kola (Centella asiatica) varies depending on the preparation. Most studies have used standardized extracts:

Dried herb -- you can make a tea of the dried leaf, three times daily.
Powdered herb (available in capsules) -- 1,000 - 4,000 mg, three times a day
Tincture (1:2 w/v, 30 % alcohol) 30 - 60 drops (equivalent to 1.5 - 3 mL -- there are 5 mL in a teaspoon), three times daily.
Standardized extract -- 50 - 250 mg, two to three times daily.
Standardized extracts should contain 40 % asiaticoside, 29 - 30 % asiatic acid, 29 - 30 % madecassic acid, and 1 - 2 % madecassoside. Doses used in studies mentioned in the Treatment section range from 20 mg (for scleroderma) up to 180 mg (in one study for venous insufficiency, although most of the studies for this condition were conducted using 90 - 120 mg daily).
Precautions:

Gotu kola has been used in some studies that lasted up to one year. However, in some people gotu kola may affect the liver. It's best not to use gotu kola for more than 6 weeks without talking to your doctor. You may need to take a 2-week break before taking the herb again.

Asiaticoside, a major component of gotu kola, has also been associated with tumor growth in mice. Anyone with a history of precancerous or cancerous skin lesions -- such as squamous cell, basal cell skin cancer, or melanoma -- should not use gotu kola.

People with liver disease, or who take medications that affect the liver, should not take gotu kola.

Side Effects

Side effects are rare but may include skin allergy and burning sensations (with external use), headache, stomach upset, nausea, dizziness, and extreme drowsiness. These side effects tend to occur with high doses of gotu kola.

Women

Women who are pregnant or trying to become pregnant should not use gotu kola, because animal studies have shown a reduction in fertility after taking gotu kola. Researchers don't know whether gotu kola is safe to take when you are breast-feeding, so nursing mothers should avoid it.

Pediatric Use

Gotu kola is not recommended for children.

Geriatric Use

People older than 65 should take gotu kola at a lower than standard dose. Your health care provider can help you determine the right dose for you, which can be increased slowly over time.

Interactions and Depletions:

Gotu kola may interact with the following medications:

Cholesterol-lowering drugs (including statins) -- In animal studies, gotu kola increased cholesterol levels. It may also raise cholesterol levels in humans, although no studies have been done.

Diabetes medications -- In animal studies, gotu kola seems to increase blood sugar levels. People with diabetes should not take gotu kola without first talking to their doctor.

Diuretics (water pills) -- Gotu kola appears to have diuretic effects, meaning it helps rid the body of excess fluid. Taking diuretic medications and gotu kola could cause your body to lose too much fluid, upsetting the balance of electrolytes you need. The same is true of taking gotu kola with herbs that have diuretic effects, such as green tea, astragalus, or gingko.

Sedatives -- Because of gotu kola's sedative effects, it might increase the effect of other medications taken to relieve anxiety or insomnia. It might also increase the effects of herbs taken for anxiety or insomnia, such as valerian.

I found it on the net few years ago and was wondering what it was. Just a few days ago they said it was the Sanjeevani plant which revived Lakshman in Ramayan Days. Though there is another plant called Sanjeevani.
It was very interesting, so used both words in posting this once the herbal link has come.

Cerato

...is the remedy for people who lack faith in their own judgement. Faced with the need to make a decision they are not like the Scleranthus people who hesitate and cannot make up their minds, because they can come to a decision without too much trouble. But having done so the doubts creep in and they are no longer sure if what they have decided is right. They then go around asking for the opinions and advice of others. They end up hopelessly confused or doing something that they know in their hearts is not right for them.

Cerato is the remedy to give people in this state more faith in their judgement so that they can listen to their inner voices and trust their intuition.

Dr Bach's description

Those who have not sufficient confidence in themselves to make their own decisions. They constantly seek advice from others, and are often misguided.

Natural Cough Remedies For Babies

When your baby comes down with a cough, you want to do whatever you can to make her more comfortable. Yet at the same time, you don't want to grab over the counter medication, since there are usually side effects and chemicals that you'd rather not expose babies to if it can be avoided. What's more, recent studies have shown that cough syrups are worthless and the sugar they contain may even prolong illness.

Thankfully there are quite a few natural remedies that you can try to calm your baby's cough. If your baby seems congested, take her in the bathroom and run a hot shower. The steam from the shower will help loosen that congestion in her lungs.

How to Prevent Baby Acid Reflux

1. Medicaments for GERD treat merely the symptoms but do not fix the deeper cause of the condition.
2. Medicaments for GERD can impact an infant's immune system, leading to weakness and vulnerability in immunity, possibly also leading to different health complications other than acid reflux as well as the worsening of acid reflux condition.
3. Medicaments for GERD can cause multiple secondary effects that are present but hidden in infants.

The optimal solution to baby acid reflux is a holistic one while taking into account an overall set of changes in diet and lifestyle. Strong support is lent to this concept by research done recently. Research demonstrated that a transition to soy-based formula from cow's milk based formula gave infants a 40% recovery rate. Other research showed acid reflux symptoms juice products as an aggravating factor for infant gastroesophageal reflux disease. Altering feeding and sleeping position was also seen to be of benefit in treating baby GERD.

Chamomilla recutita a152

Chamomilla
The general constitutional state of Chamomilla is great sensitiveness; sensitive to every impression; sensitive to surroundings; sensitive to persons; and, above all, sensitive to pain.
The constitutional irritability is so great that a little pain brings forth manifestations as if the patient were in very, great suffering. It naturally belongs to the woman's nervous system, when she is wrought up and extremely sensitive and in pain.
Mind: The mental state goes along with this. Sensitiveness of the mind. Great irritability. These two run through Chamomilla so closely that they are inseparable. Sensitiveness to pain. Easily affected by mortification, by chagrin, so that the nerves become extremely sensitive from these causes, and pains, convulsions, colic, headaches and other kinds of nervous symptoms set in.
The nervous child when punished will go into convulsions. The oversensitive nervous woman will suffer from chagrin. Jerking and twitching of muscles from mortification and excitement.

Excessive sensibility of the nerves, so excessive that only a few remedies equal it, such as Coffea, Nux vom. and Opium.

Of course, without hearing a lecture on Opium you naturally think of Opium as capable of producing stupor. Those of you who have seen, the awful state of mind and distress that follow the administration of the crude Opium will understand what I mean by the Chamomilla sensitivity. Convulsions of children.

Convulsions: It is not an uncommon thing, even now-a-days, and especially when practicing in the country, for the young mothers and the nurses to give for baby Camomile tea for colic, and the baby goes into convulsions. No one attributes it to Camomile tea, but the doctor will see at once, if he knows Chamomilla, that these convulsions are due to Camomile.

Then you see the jerkings, the convulsions, the hot head, the great sensitivity; sensitiveness, to noise, and to persons, and the great irritability between the convulsions, convulsions of children; they become stiff; roll the eyes; distort the face; twitchings of muscles; throw the limbs about; clinch the thumbs; bend the body backwards.

Such is the natural appearance of the Chamomilla convulsions; those convulsions that come on in oversensitive children, when they have suffered a good deal of pain from teething. Teething ought to be a perfectly healthy process, but it is really looked upon as a disease, and many doctors carry medicines for "teething children," and administer them; first one and then another.

Chamomilla has fallen into that bad use of being given "for teething". It is true that many children suffer from irritability of the brain, convulsions, stomach disorders and vomiting about the time of dentition, but I say dentition should not be a diseased state, it should be normal.

If they were in healthy they would cut teeth without sufferings.

But slow teething we have to contend with, and that irritable state, that oversensitiveness, so that he child does not sleep.

Wakes up as if it had awful dreams. Wakes up in excitement, vomits, has diarrhea with teething.

These symptoms come at this time when the child has not been properly looked after. Or perhaps the mother has not been properly qualified for parturition.

"Tetanic convulsions.
Twitching in the eyelids.
Pain in the limbs.
General prostration, faintness."

Neuralgic pains all over the body with numbness. Twitching, darting, tingling pains. The pains are mostly ameliorated by heat, with the exception of the teeth and jaws. Toothache, pain in the teeth ameliorated by cold, and made worse by heat. But the earaches and pains in the extremities are made better by heat.

You will see in the text under "Temperature and Weather" the symptom:

"Pains are worse from heat," with two black bars as if it were the most important symptom in it, and then below, without any bar, "Sensitive to cold. Chilly," and "Better from heat;"

but the fact is the pains that are worse from heat are about the teeth and jaws, and it is decidedly a particular symptom relating only to a part; whereas it is true that the patient in the general state, entirely contrary to what this says, is better by heat.

The pains in general are better by heat. The patient himself is better by heat. Consequently, this being a particular, it should state that the pains that are so commonly worse by heat are of the teeth.

The most important part of Chamomilla is the mental state. It pervades the whole economy and you will see that every region that is taken up, every part that is studied, brings into it the mental state of the patient.

This remedy has more mental symptoms than symptoms in any other part. Crying.

"Piteous moaning. Irritable."

The irritability is so great that it manifests itself sometimes in a very singular way. The patient seems to be driven to frenzy by the pains, and she forgets all about her prudence and her diplomacy.

Loss of generosity: she has no consideration for the feelings of others. She will simply enter into a quarrel or dispute regardless of the feelings of anybody.

So, when you go into practice, do not be surprised when you go to the bedside of a patient in labor, who is full of pains and sufferings, if she says:

"Doctor, I don't want you, get out." just such an one will pass under other circumstances as a lady. The awful pains that she is having drive her to frenzy, and this frenzy, this oversensitiveness to pain, is coupled with the mental state. Inability to control her temper, and the temper is aroused to white heat. Now, in the child, the child whines and cries and sputters about everything. It wants something new every minute. It refuses everything that it has asked for. If it is for something to eat, for something to play with, for its toys, when these are handed to the child it throws them away; slings them clear across the room.
Strikes the nurse in the face for presuming to, get something or other that the little one did not want, yet had asked for. Capriciousness. It seems that the pains and sufferings are sometimes ameliorated by passive motion, this very particularly in children.
The pains seem to be better when the child is carried, so the child wants to be carried all the time. This is true in the colic and in the bowel troubles. It is true with earache; it is true with the evening fevers, and the general sufferings from cold and conditions while teething.
Children must be carried. The nurse is compelled to carry the child all the time. And then there is the restlessness and capriciousness about the members of the family. The child goes two or three times up and down the room with the nurse, and then reaches out for its mother; goes two or three times up and down the room with her and then wants to go to its father. And so it is changing about. Never satisfied. It seems to have no peace.
When it has earache the sharp shooting pains cause the child to screech out. Carries the hand to the ear. The pains often cause that sharp, piercing tone of the voice. Adults in pain cannot keep still the pains are so severe; it is not always that they are decidedly ameliorated by moving, but they seem to be. But they move because they cannot keep still.
So the Chamomilla patient is tossing in bed, if in bed; not an instant quiet. And along with all of these the same irritability; becomes violently excited at the pain angry at the pain; irritable about the pain; will scold about the pain the pain is so torturesome. Aversion to talk, and snappish. The patient is constantly sitting and looking within herself when pains are absent.

Chamomilla has melancholy, and has suffering of the mind, without pain. Then the Chamomilla patient sits and thinks within herself a sort of introspection. Cannot be induced to say a word. Sadness. The Chamomilla child cannot be touched.

Wants to do as he pleases. Wants to change; wants to do something new. The answer from both the adult and the child are snappish. Complaints come on from contradiction; from anger. Convulsions come on from anger.

If the child is suffering from, whooping cough it will have a coughing spell, a spasmodic cough from being irritated. Goes into a spunky state, gets red in the face, and then gets to coughing. Peevishness.

"Quarrelsome. Easily chagrined or excited to anger.

Bad effects of having the feelings wounded."

Such is the mental state, and, as I have remarked, that mental state will be found wherever there is an inflammatory condition that Chamomilla fits. In pneumonia, in bronchitis, laryngitis, inflammations of the ear, erysipelas, headaches, fevers, Chamomilla. is capable of curing when the mental state is present, and the symptoms, in particular, are present.

Headache: The headaches of Chamomilla are found in sensitive people, sensitive women, nervous; overstrained; overtired. Fidgety. Excitable women that suffer from pain. A little headache seems an enormous thing. Throbbing, tearing, bursting pains. Congestive headaches.

Worse when thinking of the pain, or when thinking about the sufferings. The headaches are worse evenings. A particular time in the evening for many complaints to be worse is 9 o'clock. Sometimes 9 o'clock in the morning, and sometimes 9 in the evening.

Fever condition worse 9 o'clock in the morning. Pains worse in the evening, and especially worse about 9 o'clock. Stitching, tearing pains in the temples and head. Wandering pains in the temples.

Pressing pain in the head as soon as attention was directed to it, better by busying the mind at something else, or by occupation; forcing one's self to do something, and to think of something else. Congestion to the head. Violent neuralgia of the face, teeth, ear' sides of the head. Pains inside of the mouth are ameliorated by cold. Pains of the ear and sides of the head are ameliorated by heat; earache ameliorated by heat.

Eyes: There are pains in the eyes. Inflammation of the eyes with bleeding. Oozing of a bloody water from the eyes of the new born infant. Chamomilla will cure if there is irritability of the temper.

Profuse acrid discharges; yellow discharges; discharges of purulent matter from the eyes. Violent pressure in the orbit. Lachrymation accompanying coryza with sneezing. Stuffing up of the nose. Headaches, irritability.

Associated with the above is a symptom:

"Face red and hot on one side, the other side pale."

Ears: Like the whole constitution of the remedy there is a great sensitiveness of hearing. Roaring, ringing and singing in the ears. Stitching pains in the ears, ameliorated by heat. Pressing earache.

You will see the little one when the pain comes on put its hands up to its ears, and spitefully moaning, yelling and screaming. Violent pains in the ear. When old enough to talk about it will complain of heat in the ear, and a feeling of fullness as if the ear were obstructed or stuffed up.

In adults, nervous, sensitive women who cannot ride in the wind without covering up their cars.

The ears are so sensitive to air when other parts of the face and head are not sensitive to air.

You will find some patients that can not have air touch the neck. Others have extra covering between the shoulders. Chamomilla singles out the ears. The whole body is sensitive to air and to cold, and he wants to dress with plenty of covering.

Sneezing, watery coryza. Hot face on one side, and often with pains in the head and jaws. Fluent coryza, viscid, acrid, with loss of smell. Loss of smell lasting while the cold lasts.

Face: Rending pains in the face, sometimes involving the teeth and the outer face at the same time. It is not an uncommon thing to have a very sensitive woman if she is disturbed by chagrin, if she has been vexed by her servant, to go to her room and suffer tortures from pain in the face from that excitement, from anger. If it is the outer nerves in the face the pains will be ameliorated by heat; but when it affects the teeth the pains will be ameliorated by cold. Heat of the face, while the rest of the body is cold.

"The face sweats after eating or drinking."

It is a common feature of this remedy to sweat only about the head, the hairy scalp.

Sometimes during measles or scarlet fever we will have Chamomilla manifestations. Sweating about the head, face red on one side.

"One-sided swelling of the check;"

that is, an inflammatory attack, gets redder, and redder, and finally purple, going into erysipelas, with the mental symptoms. Hot face, redness of one side. Burning in the face. Neuralgia of the face. If anything warm is taken into the mouth it will bring on aching in the teeth, and sometimes burning and throbbing in the roots of the teeth; tearing, stitching, stinging pains, aggravated by talking; aggravated in the open air; aggravated in a warm room, or getting warm in bed, anything that heats up the body will aggravate this toothache; ameliorated by holding cold drinks in the mouth.

Teeth and gums: Toothache that is entirely absent in the daytime; as soon as it comes night, and the patient gets into the warm bed, then these shooting, tearing pains begin; with the irritability, oversensitiveness to pain, the mental state, hot head, you have the Chamomilla toothache.

"Swelling and inflammation of the gums.

Threatened abscess of the gums.

Toothache when coming into a warm room," when it has been better in the cold air. This toothache is one that may be brought on by taking cold, by exposing one's self to cold air when sweating; and yet the toothache itself when present is ameliorated by cold.

"Toothache from a draft of air."

"Ameliorated from eating cold things.

Worse before midnight."

The most of the troubles of Chamomilla that come on in the evening and night subside about or sometimes before midnight.

"From midnight to morning almost all of the complaints of Chamomilla, are absent.
Many of them are absent during the day.
It has aggravation in the forepart of the night.
"Teeth feel too long.
Swollen gums."
The Chamomilla infant will often hold a glass of cold water against the gums. The little one has inflamed gums, painful gums, the coming forth of the teeth is painful, and it seems to want to prolong the cold in the mouth; when it is so young you would not think it would realize the good of making use of the cold edge of the glass. Offensive foetid smell from the mouth.
The spasms that affect the child all over are likely to affect the larynx, and sometimes affect the larynx without affecting the child anywhere else.
"Spasms of the larynx during cough, or without cough.
Spasmodic constriction of the larynx.
Choking.
Spasms of the throat. Sore and inflamed."
Throat: Chamomilla, cures sore throat when the throat is of a uniform redness, spreading pretty evenly over the whole throat, with considerable swelling. Inflammation of tonsils. Much redness; when the mental state is present. It will never cure a sore throat except in these irritable constitutions, such as suffer from pain, such as are easily angered, in a constant fret. The Chamomilla mental state determines when you ne to give Chamomilla in sore throat.
"Want of appetite. Great thirst for cold water and desire for acid drinks.
Unquenchable thirst."
Aversion to coffee, warm drinks, to soups and liquid foods, The aversion to coffee is a strange thing. Chamomilla and coffee are very much alike in the general sensitivity of the economy. They antidote each other. When persons have been overdrinking coffee, nurses drinking coffee to keep up at night to take care of the patient; persons overdrinking coffee when tired and overworked. Chamomilla is its antidote.
"Thirsty, and hot with the pains."

When the pains come, no matter where, she heats up, and sometimes becomes really feverish. Face red, especially on one side. Head hot; extreme irritability.

Chamomilla has much vomiting. Eructations of gas which smells like sulphuretted hydrogen. The Chamomilla patient has violent retching. Making violent efforts to vomit. Seems that it will tear the stomach. Covered with cold sweat. Exhausted. That is just what Morphine does.

If you have ever seen a patient who has been overdosed by a doctor - I hope that you will never see one that has been overdosed by yourself. Do not make a case, you will have one soon enough, but if you get into a town where there is an allopathic physician, and he happens to give Morphine to one of these oversensitive patients; it may relieve her pain for a little while, but on will come the awful eructations, and she will retch and vomit, and continue to retch when there is nothing to vomit. Chamomilla will stop that, the first dose, in a few minutes, and it is the only remedy you will need. It will always stop the vomiting from Morphine after the crude effect of Morphine has passed away and the vomiting comes.

Colics: Colic, especially in the little ones, in the infants. Pain in the stomach and abdomen, The child doubles up, and screams, and kicks; wants to be carried; is extremely irritable; attack comes on in the evening; one side of the face red, the other side pale; wants things, and when they are given does not want them; and you have a Chamomilla colic.

It is a wind colic. It lasts a fraction of a minute, and then it straightens out again. It shows that it is a cramp, a wind-cramp. in adults, who have felt these symptoms, they are said to be cutting, burning, griping. Griping pains.

Of course, such are the pains that are called colicky. Cramps in the bowels. Griping pains. Sometimes griping as if must go to stool The abdomen distended like a drum. Sometimes ameliorated by warm applications.

"Colic while urinating;" that is an uncommon symptom.

"Colic in the morning.

Tympanitic abdomen."

The most striking Chamomilla stool is grass green, or like chopped eggs, or like these two chopped up; yellow and white, intermingled with mucus that is grass green, like chopped grass; chopped spinach. Greenish, slimy discharges, greenish water. Those old enough to express themselves in the proving said that the stool felt hot while it passed. It smells like sulphuretted hydrogen. Copious stool; scanty stool, with dysenteric straining. Watery diarrhoea, six or eight passages daily. Mucous diarrhoea. Green, watery stool, fæces and mucus.

"Yellowish brown stool."

Also constipation, with no ability to strain. A paralytic weakness of the rectum; inactivity of the rectum. Anus is "pouting," with swollen appearance and redness.

Women: The woman, such as I have described, oversensitive to pain, snappish, suffering intensely from a little pain, takes on many symptoms at the menstrual period. The menstrual flow is black, clotted, offensive. Cramping pains in the uterus, clutching and griping, ameliorated by heat.

"Oversensitive to pain," with all the pains and complaints, and the mental state, the irritability, the snappish mental state at a menstrual period. Whether it be a menorrhagia, or a metrorrhagia, there are copious black clots.

"Menstrual colic following anger," which means violent cramping pains in the uterus during menstruation if she has had any great excitement to anger her. Sexual irritability, emotions, disturbance of mind, will bring on cramps at the menstrual period in a woman who is not subject to cramps, affecting her as if she had taken cold.

It is a very useful remedy in membranous dysmenorrhoea. It, perhaps, has existed from the first menstrual period. Every month the woman throws off a little membranous formation. This is thrown off with violent labor-like pains, and often with clots. Chamomilla may be a palliative. It is not the constitutional remedy that clears away, and prevents the future formation of this membrane, like the deeper antipsorics, but it is often palliative in the more severe attacks, with the irritable condition of the mind; feverish condition, ameliorated by heat; cramping, and clutching like labor pains,

"Yellow, smarting leucorrhoea.

Excessive menstruation; blood dark, nearly black, clotted, with pain through from back to front, attacks of syncope, coldness of limbs, much thirst."

Pregnancy: In pregnancy the woman has also Chamomilla conditions. Irregular contractions; false labor pains. Labor pains that are felt in wrong places. Labor pains that are felt too much in the back.

Contractions that are most painful, cutting, tearing, bringing out screams. so irritable; she scolds the pains; she scolds the doctor; she scolds everybody; drives the doctor out of the room; drives the nurse off, and then calls for her again; refuses things that are offered.

Labor pains that are clutching here, and clutching there, and cramping, showing that certain fibres of the uterus are contracting in one direction, and certain other fibres in another. There is not that uniform, regular contraction that should take place in the expulsion of the contents of the uterus; expulsion of a mole or expulsion of a child.

If the physician can have the pregnant woman under his care during the period of gestation he ought to be able to select remedies to remove these irregular contractions of the uterus, or to prevent them when it comes time for labor. The pains are then not so violent. She feels the contractions, but in many instances they are painless.

You will not always be able to prepare women, they will not always permit it. Women are more inclined to be notional and whimsical and to have their own way a short time before confinement than at any other time. A woman ought to be under treatment all through, gestation, and sometimes it takes longer. Gestation is a fortuitous time for the woman to take treatment. Symptoms representative of her disordered state come out then that do not appear at any other time. If she has a psoric condition it may remain dormant until pregnancy comes on, which may act as an exciting cause to bring out the conditions that are in the constitution.

It furnishes, therefore, a good time for the homoeopathic physician to study the case and give that woman a constitutional remedy based upon those symptoms that will not only remove those symptoms and prepare her for confinement, but will remove very much of the disorder in her economy, and she will go on through life liberated from much distress, cured from many conditions that perhaps would not have come out until some other occasion brought them out.

A woman that knows much about Homoeopathy would submit herself regularly to constitutional treatment during gestation, that is, would be particular to give the physician everything, all the details, all the sufferings, all the trouble, that he may study that case.

The things that are to be observed during gestation are to be added to the constitutional. symptoms found when gestation is not present, because they are all evidence of a disturbance in that one patient. And it is the patient that is to be treated, not a disease. It is simply another form of disturbance, of disorder of the economy.

The things that Chamomilla reaches during confinement, and during its course, and at the close of it, are irregular contractions, like hourglass contractions.

"Rigidity of the os."

After confinement, after pains. With all these the same mental condition, the same oversensitiveness to pain.

"Postpartum hemorrhage."

Every time the child is put to the breast, cramping of the uterus; cramp in the back. Either of these, or both, Chamomilla cures.

The two principal remedies you will have to rely on for these conditions, cramping in the back and cramping in the abdomen every time the child is put to die breast, are Chamomilla and Pulsatilla.

They are two decidedly different remedies in the mental sphere. One is mild and gentle, though whimsical; and the other is snappish and irritable. Both are sensitive to pain, but Chamomilla is far more sensitive to pain than Pulsatilla.

Chamomilla has inflammation of the mammary glands. You cannot prescribe for that unless you have something along with it, and I am sure you will recognize a Chamomilla patient. The woman goes into convulsions.

At the beginning of the confinement the husband comes into the room in some snappish way, "to make his wife behave herself;" it makes her mad, and she goes into convulsions.

The doctor, perhaps, has just turned his back upon it, but now he says,

"Well, why did I not think to give this woman a dose of Chamomilla?
If I had done that I would have prevented these convulsions."
She becomes very philosophical after a dose of Chamomilla, and often goes to sleep.
Chest, cough and respiration: There are many suffocative attacks and difficulties of breathing, inflammation of the larynx, that you can read up easily.
The cough of Chamomilla has some striking things in it. It is a hard cough, a dry, backing cough. The child goes to sleep at night and coughs and does not wake up. Coughs in its sleep, It is a little feverish has taken cold, and one side of the face is flushed.
It is crabbed when it is awake. The child becomes angry when it has a cold and a little cough, and a little disturbance of the larynx and bronchial tubes has been noticed coming on, and all at once it becomes more excitable, wants to be carried, and if not pleased, or is angered, it will go into a hard coughing spell, and cough and vomit.
"Coughing spells from anger."
That is, he coughs when there is already a cold or a cough, and if the patient becomes angry he has a fit of coughing. The coughing complaints, and chest complaints, and laryngeal complaints are generally worse at night.
The feverish condition comes on at night with the Chamomilla colds, with the Chamomilla whooping cough, with the Chamomilla chest complaints.
Most of the complaints of Chamomilla are better after midnight. From 9 o'clock to midnight they are worse.
"Dry cough worse at night and during sleep."
Dry cough from catching cold. Rough, scraping cough of children in winter, with tickling in sus sternal fossa, worse at night.
Dry cough, continuing during sleep. Amelioration of cough when getting warm in bed. Chamomilla is a very common remedy in whooping cough, where the child wants to be carried; keeps the nurse busy all the time. Coughs and gags and vomits, and it is very irritable and capricious in all of its wants and coughs during sleep.

You can now easily detect the chest symptoms. They go with the mental symptoms and the irritability and cough. The cough in the chest is scarcely different from the cough in the larynx and the cough from cold.

It is the same Chamomilla cough. Cough during sleep. During most of the complaints, fevers, colds, acute complaints and little attacks, burning of the extremities.

Limbs: Stitching pains in the limbs. Cramping in the muscles. Limbs go to sleep. With the pains in the limbs, and sometimes in other parts, but particularly in the limbs, a benumbed feeling, or pains with the feeling of deadness, pains accompanied by a benumbed feeling; sometimes almost complete loss of sensation of the skin, yet the pains in the long nerves in the extremities are very violent, and the patient seems just as sensitive to pain as at other times.

Extremely sensitive to pain, but the pains themselves cause a benumbing feeling to follow them.

It has been called in Older books a paralyzing pain. Convulsions of the extremities. Convulsions of the whole body.

"Cramps in the legs and calves.

Tearing pains in the feet following a severe chill.

Burning of the soles at night, puts the feet out of bed."

All the routine prescribers whenever. the patient is known to put the feet out of bed give Sulphur,, yet there is a large list of remedies with hot feet, burning soles, and all of them will put the feet out of bed, of course, to cool them off.

There is no reason why they should all get Sulphur.

Another feature of the pains that come on at night, sometimes, before midnight is, they are so violent that he cannot keep still. When the child has pains he wants to be carried, that seems to do him good. When the adult has pains at night in bed he gets up and walks the floor.

Benumbing pains, pains ameliorated by heat, pains that drive him out of bed at night, with twitchings of the limbs.

Oversensitiveness to pain. Great irritability.

Sleep: The Chamomilla patient can not go to sleep at night. He is sleepy, like Bell., but he cannot sleep. If he quiets down during the day he wants to go to sleep. But as soon as the time comes to go to bed he is wide awake, he is sleepless and restless at night, especially the fore part.

At times the Chamomilla patient becomes so full of visions and so much excited during the forepart of the night in his efforts to go to sleep that when be does go to sleep he jerks and twitches and has horrid dreams, and is full of sufferings.

"Anxious dreams. Sees horrible apparitions and starts; dreams about fatal accidents."

Worn out mentally from trying to go to sleep, and he is tired out.

Chelidonium
Chelidonium is a remedy more suitable for acute diseases, though it cures certain chronic conditions. It is not a very deep acting remedy. It is about like Bryonia in its general plane, length and depth of action.
It has been used principally in gastric and intestinal catarrhs, in acute and semi-chronic liver troubles, and in right-sided pneumonia.
Skin: The skin is likely to be sallow, and gradually increases to a marked jaundice in connection with these complaints. Semi-chronic gastritis, with jaundice. "Gastro-duodenal catarrh.
Congestion and soreness in the liver, with jaundice.
Right-sided pneumonia, complicated with liver troubles, or jaundice."

This remedy seems to act throughout the system, but almost always along with it the liver is involved, and it is suitable for what the old people and the doctors called "biliousness." The patient is generally bilious, has nausea and vomiting. Distension of the veins. Yellowish grey color of the skin.

Mind: Very few mental symptoms have been brought out in its proving not enough to give us a good idea of the desires and aversions. We do not get a clear idea of the intellectual faculties. It needs further proving, yet in many regions it has had superabundance of proving.

"Sadness and anxiety."

Brooding over some sort of trouble generally runs through the mental state.

"Anxiety, allowing no rest," keeping the patient uneasy day and night.

Sadness, as if she had committed a crime; as if some dreadful thing was going to happen. So sad that she thinks she must die

"Weeping despondency.

Distaste for mental exertion and conversation.

If you examine those medicines that act primarily upon the liver, that slow down the action of the liver, you will find the word melancholia."

With heart troubles, great excitement, With liver troubles, slowing down of the mental state, inability of the mind to work, sluggishness of the mind, inability to think, inability to meditate, slow pulse. Sluggishness of the whole economy.

Dizziness: The sensorium is very commonly disturbed, and the patient is dizzy.

"Things go round in a circle."

Dizziness comes, and it does not let up until nausea, and sometimes vomiting, follows.

"So much turning in the head that he vomits.

Confusion of mind.

Loss of consciousness and fainting."

These are also common features with liver troubles.

The mind symptoms are present more or less with the following liver symptoms; there are pains of a dull aching character, "soreness." Bruised pains. Tenderness of the liver to touch. Aching pains, that seem to involve the whole right lobe of the liver; creating a sensation of fullness. Pressure upwards, with difficulty of breathing. Pressure downwards, sympathetic with the stomach, with the nausea and vomiting.

Right scapula: And then more intense pain felt under the right scapula.

"Dull aching pains under the right scapula; sharp, shooting pains under the right scapula"; these complicate themselves again with pneumonia, with pleurisy.

It cures pneumonia and pleurisy; it cures various forms of congestion in the liver, when these pains go from before backward, and seem to be felt through the back.

"Stitching in the region of the liver, extending through to back. Hard pains felt through the back."

Some patients will describe these pains as shooting pains; some as tearing pains, and others as sharp pains, going through the right hypochondrium or through the right lobe of the liver to the back.

"Pains from the region of the liver, shooting towards the back and shoulders.

Spasmodic pain in the region of the liver.

Pressing pain in the region of the liver."

In congestion or inflammation, fullness and enlargement, semi-chronic cases, or even acute, this medicine proves suitable for such conditions. The right hypochondrium is tense and painful to pressure.

This remedy has cured gall stone colic. Practitioners, who know how to direct a remedy, relieve gall stone colic in a few minutes.

We have remedies that act on the circular fibres of these little tubes, causing them to relax and allow the stone to pass painlessly.

In a perfect state of health, of course, there are no stones in the bile that is held in the gall bladder, but this little cystic duct opens its mouth and a little gall stone engages in it, and it creates and irritation by scratching along the mucous membrane of that little tube.

When this pain is a shooting, stabbing, tearing, lancinating pain, extending through to the back, Chelidonium will cure it. The instant it relieves the patient says:

"Why, what a relief; the pain has gone."

The remedy has relieved that spasm, the little duct opens up and the stone passes out through the ductus communis choledochus. Every remedy that is indicated by the symptoms will cure gall stone colic.

A patient lying in bed, with great heat, extreme sensitiveness, cannot have the body touched, screaming with pains, red face and hot head, will gall stone colic, will be relieved in three minutes by Bell., but that is not at all like this remedy. Natrum sulph. and many other remedies have cured gall stone colic in a few minutes, when the symptoms agreed.

Now as to the pneumonia, it is generally of the right side, or right sided spreading to the left. The right-sidedness is marked, and but small portions of the left lung are involved. The pleura is generally involved, and so there are stitching, tearing pains.

One may not practice long before be will find a Chelidonium patient, sitting up in bed with high fever, bending forward upon his elbows, holding himself perfectly still, for this medicine has as much aggravation from motion as Bry. All of the pains are extremely aggravated from motion.

This patient is sitting with a pain that transfixes him; he cannot stir, he cannot move without - the pain shooting through him like a knife.

The next day you will see that his skin is growing yellow. If you see him in the beginning Chelidonium will relieve him and you will prevent that pneumonia. It is not uncommon in children, and it is extremely common in adults.

Do not get confused with Bryonia. Both are violently worse from motion. Bryonia wants to lie on the painful side, or wants to lie on the back if the pneumonia is mostly in the posterior part of the right lung. In Chelidonium he is worse from touch and motion.

Bell. has that extremely painful, tearing, rending, of the right lung with pleurisy, but in Bell., one cannot touch that right side, cannot press it, but must lie on the other side and he cannot move.

Cannot stand a jar of the bed, because of the extreme sensitiveness to motion: I mention all three in this particular way because they have some things in common, but the remedies are different.

Chelidonium has cough with chest symptoms of the right side, liver affections, and the mental affections that commonly belong to these, violent aggravation from motion. The pains are ameliorated by heat. Pain that extends to the stomach, ameliorated by heat.
Mental symptoms: ameliorated by eating. Craves hot milk; hot fluids. Eating warm food ameliorates the liver, the chest and stomach symptoms.
"Bilious vomiting. Retching; bilious eructations.
Nausea and retching during an attack of anxiety."
Stomach: These are all commonly present during the complaints described. The pains, when they become severe, seem to strike the stomach and cause vomiting. Ameliorated by something hot.

"A feeling of anguish in the pit of the stomach.
Persistent pain in the stomach; aggravated by motion and ameliorated by eructations.
Constriction and sensitiveness in the pit of the stomach."
These are all aggravated by touch and ameliorated by eating.
"Constant aching pain in the stomach, ameliorated by food.
Constrictive, pinching pain in the stomach better from drawing up the limbs and lying on the left side, ameliorated by eating."
Eye: It has many eye symptoms. Stitching pains.
"Opacity of the cornea."
Inflammations.
Bruised pain in the eyes.
Right supraorbital neuralgia."
In many instances it prefers the right side.
In the face the jaundice is the most marked thing that is expressed and, then, we have the dirty gray complexion.
"Pale, dirty-yellow-face."
Head: The headaches are brought on from heat, unlike the stomach and the liver, and the lungs, etc.
The head is aggravated from motion, aggravated from beat, aggravated from a warm room, aggravated from warm applications. There is where it differs from the internal or general state. There are numerous headaches.
Periodical bilious sick headaches, with vomiting of bile, brought on from exposure to beat, from being overheated, aggravated from motion, wants to lie perfectly quiet in a dark room, and better from vomiting bile.

Old-fashioned bilious sick headaches.
Bilious diarrhoea. Along with jaundice, clay-like, pale, faecal, puttylike stool. Bileless stool. Stool too light colored. Stool quite white in children. Diarrhea and constipation alternate. Stool brown, white, watery, green mucus, thin, pasty, bright yellow, or gray tinged with Yellow.
Voice and respiration: Hoarseness.
"While coughing, pain in the larynx, and pressure in the larynx."
The difficult breathing comes on with liver symptoms and pneumonia and chest troubles in general.
"Difficult respiration, with short fits of coughing.
Short, quick breathing.
Anxiety as if he must choke.
Difficult breathing; tightness over the chest as if breathing would be hindered."
It has also nightly attacks of humid asthma. This is brought on from every change of the weather.
All its complaints are brought on from changes in the weather.
He cannot stand weather changes, either too cold or too warm.
Rheumatic complaints in the shoulders, hips and limbs, from changes in the weather.
With complaints of the liver, lungs and chest, there are coughs. They are spasmodic. The chronic cough is violent, spasmodic, dry, coming in paroxysms.
"Spasmodic cough, without expectoration."
After it has existed a while there wilt be some expectoration.
"Repeated attacks of short cough: Short cough, with little grayish phelgm.
Rattling; fatiguing cough".
Limbs: In the limbs there are rheumatic and neuralgic pains.
Neuralgia of the limbs in general, most violent. Limbs feel heavy and stiff. Limbs flabby. Later the patients runs down somewhat, weak heart, weak circulation; dropsical conditions of the limbs.
Great restlessness.
"Trembling and twitching of the limbs.
Weariness.
Indolence.

Indisposition to work."
The neuralgias are more common in the head and face than in the lower parts of the body, in the limbs and in the extremities.
It has sharp, febrile attacks, such as found in pneumonia with chill and in inflammation of the liver. It has cured intermittent fever, coming in the afternoon and evening.
Itching of the skin. jaundice. It has cured old putrid ulcers.

CHENOPODIUM
ANTHELMINTICUM
Jerusalem Oak

One case of pain under the left shoulder-blade. This case was of several years, standing, the pain at times becoming very severe. The pain and of Chelidonium where it is under the right shoulder-blade. According to Dr. Jacob Jeanes, Chenopodium anthelminticum cures a pain under the right shoulder-blade similar to that of Chelidonium. The pain in both seems to depend upon some hepatic derangement. Having succeeded with the Chelidonium so well, Chelidonium is well proven, and a full proving of the Chenopodium may enable us to distinguish between them. Between the two Chenopodium and Chelidonium, we have an important trio for infra-scapular pains which ought to be better understood. Such single symptoms are, of course, small guides to follow, but are sometimes the only ones we have, and when, after full proving, the drug having them is developed, we often find that they were reliable though we could not at first give their pathological significance. For instance, here are some such single symptoms which have often been verified. Inframammary pains at climacteric. Actæa racemosa. Pain drawing through from nipple to back when child nurses, Croton tiglium (Silicea). Pain in upper left chest through to scapula, Myrtus com., Pix liquida, Theridion and Sulphur. Pain though lower right chest, Chelidonium, Mercurius vivus and Kali carbonicum. Pain through upper right chest, Calcarea ostrearum and Arsenicum album.

Pain through lower left chest, Natrum sulphuricum. We might add many more such to this list, and they are very valuable. Characteristic pain in scapula very marked. Symptoms of apoplexy, right hemiplegia, and aphasia. Stertorous breathing (Opium). Sudden vertigo. Meniere's disease. Affections of auditory nerves (Nat salicyl). Oil of Chenopodium for hookworm and roundworm.

Ears:Torpor of auditory nerve. Hearing better for high-pitched sounds. Comparative deafness to sound of voice, but great sensitiveness to sound, as of passing vehicles and also a shrinking from low tones. Buzzing in ears. Enlargement of tonsils. Aural vertigo.

Back:Intense pain between angle of right shoulder-blade near spine, and through the chest.

Urine:Copious, yellow, foaming urine, with acrid sensation in urethra. Yellowish sediment (Chel).

Relationship:Compare: Opium; China; Chelid.

Dose:Third potency. Oil of Chenopodium for hookworm, 10 minim doses every 2 hours for 3 doses; also Carbon tetrachloride.

Cherry Plum

...is one of the remedies that Dr Bach grouped together under the heading of 'Fear'. The Cherry Plum fear is very specific: it is the fear that one is going to lose control of oneself and do something dreadful, which can include injuring others and suicide. Cherry Plum is also the remedy for the loss of control when it has in fact already taken place, and because because of the frantic fear and dread associated with loss of control. (Think of the fear of a small child in a screaming, irrational rage.) Fears of going mad and of acting irrationally are Cherry Plum fears.

Cherry Plum is one of the ingredients of Rescue Remedy.

Dr Bach's description

Fear of the mind being over-strained, of reason giving way, of doing fearful and dreaded things, not wished and known wrong, yet there comes the thought and impulse to do them.

- taken from The Twelve Healers and Other Remedies, which you can order from the Bach Centre.

CHESTNUT BUD

In this state there is a failure to learn from the past. One cannot coordinate inner thought with outer reality. It produces MIGRAINES AND ULCERS because the person keeps entering into the same arguments with the same types of personalities and never sees that the same conflicts keep arising. Distancing oneself from the conflict long enough to look at it is usually helpful enough to change it. The remedy is good for young children to enhance learning capacity. The remedy belongs to the group INSUFFICIENT INTEREST IN PRESENT CIRCUMSTANCES, along with CLEMATIS, HONEYSUCKLE, WILD ROSE, WHITE CHESTNUT, AND OLIVE. It can be used in situations of HYPERACTIVITY, ADD, IMPULSIVE BEHAVIOR, ANTISOCIAL BEHAVIOR, and RECKLESSNESS. One may put oneself and others in physical danger because of a lack of regard for physical needs. The remedy coaxes the mind into restful consciousness. One experiences absentmindedness and inability to focus on learning factual material and understanding moral issues. The person lacks depth and integrity and is not readily socialized or interested in rules. Unreasonable behavior, instability, and defiance abound in this personality.

CHICORY

This remedy belongs to the group OVERCARE FOR OTHERS' WELFARE along with ROCK WATER, VERVAIN, VINE and shows imbalance in caring for and controlling others.
There is an unspoken need to be loved like SCLERANTHUS but can pout and look hurt. ANOREXIA, BULEMIA, OVEREATING can be used unconsciously to draw attention to oneself. You can also see BRONCHIAL ASTHMA with difficulty expiring, chronic CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS, OVERLY CONTROLLING, SERVICE ORIENTED, HYPOCHONDRIACAL, and CHRONIC PAIN DISORDERS in this particular state. The care given by these individuals is often forceful, or too much oriented in what they need or in not being appreciated. They have fairly rigid ideas in how to work with others and feel they have the right to force their opinions on others, and are possessive of goods. Such individuals can feign illness for attention like HEATHER AND CHESTNUT BUD. The eating disorders are like CRAB APPLE and MUSTARD. These individuals may also reject attention and further alienate others. They can be argumentative, possessive and selfish. Also narcissistic and lacking selfless love and the ability to nurture. HYSTERIA These children and adults can sap all your energy. Yet they are charming to strangers. They cannot give love in this needy state.

CHININUM ARSENICOSUM is the name of the homeopathic remedy made from chloroquine sulphate

Like the name of the homeopathic remedy made from garlic is called ALLIUM SATIVUM

And the name of the homeopathic remedy made from red onion is called ALLIUM CEPA

So if you are looking for the homeopathic remedy made from chloroquine sulphate, you would search for the name CHININUM ARSENICOSUM; and if you are looking for the homeopathic remedy made from red onion, you would search for ALLIUM CEPA

As English Medicine

Chloral hydrate (KLOR-al HYE-drate) belongs to the group of medicines called sedatives and hypnotics. It is sometimes used before surgery or certain procedures to relieve anxiety or tension or to produce sleep. If your child is to take this medicine before a dental or medical procedure, it should be given to the child only at the health care facility where the procedure is to be done. This will allow the health care professional to monitor your child.

Chloral hydrate has been used in the treatment of insomnia (trouble in sleeping) and to help calm or relax patients who are nervous or tense. However, this medicine has generally been replaced by other medicines for the treatment of insomnia and nervousness or tension.

Chloral hydrate has also been used with analgesics (pain medicine) for control of pain following surgery. However, this medicine has generally been replaced by other medicines for control of pain following surgery.

Chloral hydrate comes in different strengths. Serious problems, including deaths, have occurred when children were given the wrong strength. Make sure your doctor has told your pharmacist both how many milligrams (mg) and how many capsules, teaspoonfuls, or suppositories should be used. This information is needed to be sure the right amount is given.

This medicine is available only with your doctor's prescription, in the following dosage forms:

CHOLESTERINUM
Cholesterine--The proximate principle--Furnished by the epithelium lining of gall bladder and the larger ducts

For cancer of the liver. Obstinate hepatic engorgements. Burning pain in side; on walking holds his hand on side, hurts him so. Opacities of the vitreous. Jaundice; gallstones. Cholesterine is the physiological opponent of Lecithin. Both seem to play some unknown part in the growth of tumors. Gallstones and insomnia.

Relationship.--Compare: Taurocholate of soda in Homeopathy.--Dr. I. P. Tessier, in an interesting study of the action of bile and its salts, in hepatic affections, analyzes a number of experiments by leading authorities, with the object of determining this action, and concludes that in the Taurocholate of Soda, homeopathy has a useful remedy against certain forms of hypoglobular anæmia. The claim that its pathogenesis and toxicology clearly indicate its value, and that it should also serve us as a remedy in cases of hypertrophy of the spleen and ganglia. He calls our attention to the fact, that it produces dyspnœa, the Cheyne-Stokes rhythm, acute pulmonary œdema, and intense exaggeration of the cardiac pulsations, offering a good field for clinical studies and experimentation of great interest, which may give fruitful and important results.

Dose.--Third trituration.

Cina
Cina is pre-eminently a child's remedy, but it is suitable for conditions in adults that are seldom thought of. A marked feature running through is touchiness, mental and physical.

Child:
The child wants something, but does not know what. The child is aggravated by touch and even by being looked at, and is worse from seeing strangers. The skin is sensitive to touch. The scalp and back of the neck, the shoulders and arms are so sensitive, that it is almost a soreness as if bruised. The hyperesthesia is both mental and physical. The old routine of giving Cina for worms need not go into your notes, for if you are guided by symptoms the patient will be cured and the worms will go.
This patient is disturbed by everything, worse after eating even a moderate meal. The child takes a moderate supper and dreams all night, jerks and twitches in sleep, rouses up in a fright, talks excitedly about what he has dreamed, thinks it is real, and sees dogs, phantoms, and frightful things lie has dreamed about.

The dream is prolonged into the wakeful hours. Screams and trembles, with much anxiety on waking; whines and complains.

While this little patient is aggravated by being handled yet he wants to be carried and kept busy, like Chamomilla; although not so intensely irritable as that remedy, yet he must be carried.

At first on taking him out of the crib he screams when taken bold of; the first touch aggravates.

This aggravation from touch and sensitiveness runs through the convulsions and fevers, with delirium, glassy eyes, drawn mouth and white ring around the nose and mouth. With a disordered stomach he has convulsions after eating, with the head drawn back and glassy eyes.

The stomach is sour and the child is always spitting up sour milk and belching sour wind. The child smells sour.

The mother says that "Baby has a worm breath," but the same odor is present when there are no worms. In the convulsions there are loss of consciousness and frothing at the mouth.

Hallucinations of smell, sight and taste, in the delirious state, after taking cold, or on waking from sleep; wakes up with the delusion. Things taste and smell differently. The senses of taste and touch are exaggerated or perverted.

In some cases of internal hydrocephalus, not with enlarged skull but with increase of the fluid in the ventricles and central canal of the spinal cord, the patients take on Cina symptoms. Rolling of the head frequent headaches; sensitiveness to jar; cannot be touched or tapped along the spinal cord without headache always worse in the sun - the head is hot and the feet are cold in the sun.

Cina will cure some of these cases. They cannot stand any kind of disturbance; it produces a convulsion. They cannot be punished because they go into convulsions. If the iter a tertio ad quartum ventriculum is closed they will be incurable, the internal pressure will go on and they will die from it. Such congenital states are incurable.

Dull headache with sensitiveness of the eyes. Headache before and after epileptic attacks and after intermittents. Before and during the headache sensitiveness of the skull. Cina children cannot have the hair combed, and the Cina woman must have her hair down in head and nerve complaints.

There is coldness of the, extremities and also some itching of the skin, but the head symptoms are predominant. From slight disturbances of the mind he cannot digest, and he has diarrhoea. The complaints are aggravated in summer; the heat affects the brain, arrests his functions, and on comes diarrhoea with green, slimy stools or white stools, and the child vomits.

It is pre-eminently brain in Cina; the orders are not received from the brain and so stomach symptoms develop, and worms hatch out. If he is cured the healthy gastric juice will chase the worms out

The child turns his head from side to side.

The pains are sometimes better from turning the head from side to side. You will see this in sensitive women, who must have their hair down; rolling the head relieves, not shaking as in the text, that is too violent.

Eyes:

All sorts of colors before the eyes. Objects look yellow. It is useful in sensitive women, sensitive nervous women, who are always worse from using the eyes, and get pain in the head and eyes from sewing. It is like Ruta in that respect, symptoms of eye-strain. It is not so much indicated in young people but more when presbyopla is beginning in middle-aged women, and there is the effort to strain the eyes on fine work or print.

Rubs the eyes and can then see more clearly. On rising from the bed blackness before the eyes; different colors, especially yellow. Strabismus when worms are present, depending really on brain trouble because the worms are dependent upon that.

Face:

Face sunken, pallid, wings of nose drawn in. Blue ring or gray streak around the mouth.

"A sure sign of worms," the mother says.

Child rubs its nose with the hands or on the pillow or on the nurse's, shoulder. Child bores into the nose until the blood come. The sickly aspect is striking, but it is representative of brain trouble, central trouble. The brain symptoms are the highest and most important. It frightened, whipped, or scolded, the brain is disturbed and the stomach disordered.

They get indigestion and breed worms; white or blue appearance about the mouth, grinding of the teeth during sleep. Before the child has teeth it has a chewing motion, a side to side movement. Sensitiveness of the teeth to the cold air and cold water.

Bleeding from the mouth, and nose. Inability to swallow liquids; they gurgle down the oesophagus before and after convulsions. When the head symptoms are present, the milk or water gurgles down the oesophagus with a gurgling cluck. This is present in diarrhoea and vomiting with brain symptoms.

Ars. and Cupr. are also prominent in gurgling down the oesophagus when swallowing. Choreic movements extend to the tongue.

The child or adult is not relieved by eating, is still hungry. The stomach is loaded and yet he is hungry. After vomiting you would expect there would be, an aversion to food, but there is in Cina, the same empty, hungry feeling.

When there is gnawing in the stomach after eating, or when the child has taken all it can hold yet cries for the bottle, or empties its stomach by spitting up and vomiting the food and then reaches out whining and crying for more, think of Cina.

Shuddering when drinking wine as if it were vinegar.

Abdomen bard and bloated. Very often the Cina child will flop over on its belly and get to sleep in that way. If it is turned on the side it wakes up again. While in the mother's arms it will go to sleep with the abdomen resting on the mother's shoulder, but when she puts it on the side in bed it wakens.

If you had a child with copious, gushing, violently foetid stool, ameliorated by lying on the abdomen, and it would have another stool if lying any other way, Podoph. would be the remedy. That would not be Cina. The Cina stool is not very copious, and often white.

Gagging cough in the morning. Short, hacking cough at night. Spasmodic cough. Whooping cough.

Oversensitiveness to touch; trembling, spasms, chorea.

Spasmodic yawning. Child cannot sleep unless on the belly or in constant motion.

Cinchona (China)
Now we shall take up the study of Cinchona, or China. Persons who have suffered much from neuralgias due to malarial influences, who have become anaemic and sickly from repeated haemorrhages, are likely to develop symptoms calling for China.
China produces a gradually increasing anaemia, with great pallor and weakness. It is sometimes- indicated in plethoric individuals, but this is the exception, and even in this class we find that the symptoms are tending towards the cachectic state, which is avoided by the prompt action of the remedy.
Throughout the body there is a gradually increasing sensitivity, a gradually increasing irritability of the nerves; the nerves are always in a fret, so that these people will say:
"Doctor, what is the matter with me, I am so nervous?"

Pains: Everywhere there are twinning, tearing, cutting pains in the limbs and over the body. And so great is the sensitiveness to touch that the nerves can many times be outlined; as, for instance, the little nerves in the fingers, because of their extreme sensitiveness.

The China patient grows increasingly sensitive to touch, to motion, to cold air, so that he is chilled from exposure. The pains are brought on by exposure to the wind, by cold air, and are increased by motion and touch.

Old malarial conditions that have been suppressed with quinine; gradually increasing pallor, bloodlessness, cachexia, until the patient is always catching cold, has liver troubles, bowel troubles, disordered stomach, is made miserable and sick by nearly everything he does.

He cannot eat fruit without having indigestion; he cannot eat sour things. He is debilitated, pale, waxy, suffers from pains, such as are found in quinine subjects, and breaks out into a perspiration up the least exertion.

This patient bleeds easily; bleeds from any orifice of the body from the nose, from the throat, from the uterus. And after hemorrhage complaints come on.

Running through the remedy as a general constitutional state is a tendency to congestion and often inflammation, in connection with hemorrhages. Inflammation of the part that bleeds or of distant parts. For instance, a woman aborts, has a haemorrhage, but with apparently no provocation, inflammation of the uterus or of the lungs sets in.

With these inflammations there is also great irritability of the tissues, tearing pains, cramping in the muscles and actual convulsions. When a China patient bleeds a little, for instance, in confinement, right in the midst of the bleeding convulsions come on. You would scarcely need to think of any other remedy. Secale is the one other medicine that has this, but the two do not look alike. Secale wants the covers all off and the windows open, even in cold weather. It a draft of air blows on a China patient, while in labor, she may go into convulsions.

In the midst of labor the pains cease and convulsions come on. Another feature about this inflammation is its rapid progress and intensity, quickly going into gangrene. Inflammation after haemorrhage and the parts rapidly turn black.

China has a fullness of the veins. Not exactly a varicose condition, but a sort of paralysis of the coatings of the veins. The veins become full during fever.

All of these complaints are such as we find in broken down constitutions, in feeble, sensitive patients, especially in sensitive women. Sensitive to the odors of flowers, of cooking, of tobacco. Weak, relaxed, emaciated, pale, with feeble heart, feeble circulation and tendency to dropsy.

Dropsy runs through the remedy; anasarca and also dropsy of shut sacs. A peculiar thing about this dropsy is, that it comes after hemorrhage. In the anaemic condition; directly following the loss of blood, dropsy appears. This is the typical China patient.

Mucous membranes: Catarrhal condition of all mucous membranes. Gastro-duodenal catarrh, ending in jaundice. Old liver subjects with jaundice. They have lived for a long time under the influence of the malarial miasm. Feeble, sensitive, anemic. We see such cases in the South and Southwest, and long the Mississippi Valley.

Periodicity: is regarded as the most important indication for China, but it is a mistake. Periodicity is the symptom upon which Quinine is given. China has periodicity, but in no greater degree than many other remedies and is not so frequently indicated as routine prescribers suppose. Allopaths give Quinine whenever there is any periodicity in complaints. Still periodicity is a strong feature in this remedy. Pains come on with regularity at a given time each day. Intermittent fevers appear with regularity and run a regular course.

A part of this periodicity is an aggravation at night, and sometimes sharply at midnight. In colic that comes on regularly every night at 12 o'clock, and it may be, perhaps, a week before you, suspect it to be a China colic. A lady had colic and bloating of the abdomen every night at 12 o'clock.

After suffering many nights a single dose of China, prevented any further trouble. Haemorrhage from the nose coming on with regularity. Diarrhoea at night. Several gushing, black, watery stool; during the night; in the daytime, only after eating.

There is a general aggravation after eating. Remember that this is a chilly patient, sensitive to draft, sensitive to cold, whose complaints are brought on by being exposed to cold air; sensitive to touch, sensitive to motion. Extreme irritability of the tissues.

China is indicated in conditions following the loss of blood and other animal fluids; as, for instance, in those who are suffering from sexual excesses, from secret vice. They have become feeble, sleepless and irritable.

There is weakness and general coldness of the skin; twitching and jerking of the limbs; drawing and cramping in the muscles; chronic jerking; epileptiform convulsion; paralytic weakness; rush of blood to the head; ringing in the ears; darkness before the eyes; fainting on the slightest provocation.

Mind: Such is the China cachexia, and with this in view, the mental state will scarcely be a surprise to you. It is just such as you would expect in this nervous, sensitive patient. Weakness of mind. Inability to think or remember. Full of fear at night. Fear of animals, dogs, of creeping things. Wants to commit suicide, but lacks courage. Gradually the mind grows weaker, he uses wrong expressions or misplaces words.

Lies awake at night making plans, theorizing, building air castles, thinking of the wonderful things he is going to do some day. In the morning he wonders how he could have thought such foolish things.

After sleep his mind is clear and he looks more philosophically on the affairs of life. Unable to entertain any mental proposition that, means work. He dreads work. He is apathetic, indifferent, low spirited, silent, disinclined to think. He is unable to control the mind, to make it do what he wants it to do. You see it is not as yet a real insanity.

This state of mind comes on after haemorrhage. Insomnia after haemorrhage. A woman, after having suffered great loss of blood, will be sleepless night after night.

After hemorrhage we may have dizziness. it is a natural consequence; dizziness and fainting. But ordinarily, after the proper diet for a few days, these symptoms will have disappeared. With the China patient they go from bad to worse. The woman after severe haemorrhage does not make blood.

There is mal-assimilation, and the vertigo persists for days and weeks. China will restore order.

Head: The remedy is full of headaches. Congestive headaches in broken down constitutions. Extremities cold and body covered with a cold sweat. Rending, tearing pains. Pressing and throbbing. As soon as the air strikes the head those pains come on.

Headache better in a warm room; worse from touch; worse from motion; worse from cold. These are the principal features. A slight touch will aggravate the disturbance. But notice the exception. Hard pressure ameliorates the China pains, as light pressure aggravates.

Sensitiveness of the tissues; sensitiveness along the course of the nerves; the pains are brought on by touch, by cold air.

Stitches in the head with pulsation in temples, which can be felt with the fingers; ameliorated by hard pressure, but aggravated by touch.

The jar and motion of walking hurt the head. Even turning over in bed aggravates. Cannot ride in a carriage or anything that jolts. Ameliorated by hard pressure. Throbbing headaches, aggravated by a draft of air, in the open air, from the slightest touch; ameliorated by hard- pressure. The scalp feels as if the hair was grasped roughly. It is sensitive to touch. Profuse sweating of the scalp. Headaches aggravated at night.

Headaches from sexual excesses; loss of animal fluids.

Eyes: Now we come to the eye. Photophobia. Yellowness of the sclera, Exposure to cold wind will bring on neuralgia; ameliorated from keeping quiet and from keeping warm.

"Nocturnal blindness, dimness of vision.

Feeling as if sand were in the eyes.

Pains worse from light.

Better in the dark."

Ears: In the ear and the nose you find the same sensitiveness as in eyes every little noise is painful. Ringing; roaring, buzzing, and singing, chirping like crickets in the ears. Dry catarrh of the middle ear. Hardness of hearing is not infrequently the result of this condition.

It gradually increases until there is total deafness, and the noises in the ear continue long after the patient has lost the ability to distinguish articulate sounds. Haemorrhage from the ear. Offensive, bloody, purulent discharges.

Nose: Frequent nosebleed in anemic patients. Here, again, the dryness and catarrhal conditions. Dry coryza; or fluent coryza, suppressed and causing violent head pains. Odors nauseate. Sensitiveness to the odors of flowers, cooking, tobacco.
Face:The face is withered, shrunken, sallow, anaemic, sickly. Red when the fever is on and sometimes when the chill is on, but in the apyrexia pale, sickly and sallow. Neuralgia of the face; tearing, rending, knifelike pains with the usual modalities.
The veins of the face are distended. This is frequently observed during the fever and sweat of the China intermittents.
Teeth: The teeth get loose, the gums swell. The teeth are painful while chewing; they feel too long. Toothache with every little cold.
Rending as if teeth were being pulled out, every time the child nurses at the breast. Exudations about the teeth and gums. Black, and foetid great putridity in the lower forms of fever.
Taste: The taste is extremely acute. Exaggerated so that nothing tastes natural.
"Bitter taste in the mouth.
Food tastes bitter or too salty.
Burning as from pepper on tip of the tongue.
Dryness in the mouth and throat.
Difficult swallowing."
Sometimes there is canine hunger, but one of the most common features is loathing of everything; aversion to all food. The China patient is often passive in regard to eating.
Sits down to eat and the food tastes fairly good and he fills up. But it does not matter much whether he eats or not.
"Loathing and violent hunger."
"Hunger and yet want of appetite.
Indifference to eating and drinking.
Only while eating some appetite and natural taste for food return.
Loss of appetite.
Aversion to all food.
Aversion to bread."
His appetite varies. Thirst is peculiar. The patient will say:

"I know my chill is coming on now because I have thirst."

Thirst: before the chill, but as soon as the chill comes on there is no thirst. But when he begins to warm up he begins to get thirsty; that I during the period in which the two lap he is thirsty, but when the chill has fairly subsided and the heat is upon him his thirst subsides also and he only wants to wet his mouth.

But as the hot spell begins to subside he increases the amount taken, and all through the sweat he can hardly get water enough.

Thirst before and after the chill and thirst during the sweat. No thirst during the chill. No thirst during the hot spell. You will cure more cases of intermittent fever with Ipecac and Nux vomica, than with China. China has well-defined chill, fever and sweat.

Stomach: Gastric symptoms from eating fish, fruit, and from drinking wine. Flatulent distension almost to bursting. There are constant eructations, loud and strong, and yet no relief, so extensive is the flatulence. In Carbo veg. after belching a little, there is relief. Lyc. has both.

Tympanitic distension of the abdomen and stomach in low forms of fever. Cannot move on account of soreness in the bowels.

Vomiting of blood. Sometimes followed by dropsy of the extremities.

"Hiccough.

Nausea.

Vomiting.

Eructations, tasting of food, or they are bitter, sour.

Frequent vomiting.

Vomiting of sour mucus, bile, blood."

Likely to occur at night. Pulsation in the stomach and rumbling.

Cold feeling in the stomach. Fermentation after eating fruit.

Acidity. Disorders of the stomach after milk.

Diarrhea: Copious, watery black discharges from the bowels. Gurgling and rumbling in the abdomen. Stool immediately after eating and at night. Great quantities of flatus expelled from the bowels. Diarrhea comes on gradually. Stools more and more watery. Chronic diarrhoea, with emaciation and aggravation at night. Petroleum has a chronic diarrhoea, but only in the daytime.

Genitals: Of the male genital organs the most striking feature is weakness, Of the female genital organs there is a different class of conditions. In the woman who has been subject to uterine haemorrhages you may look out at any moment for a sudden, sharp attack of inflammation of the ovaries.

Hemorrhage from the uterus. Prolapse. Menses, too early and too profuse; black, clotted blood; menstrual colic; metrorrhagia. Pains and convulsions; convulsions come on in the midst of the haemorrhage; cramps in the uterus along with haemorrhage; labor-like pains; ringing in the ears; loss of sight; sliding down in bed. In confinement the lochia is profuse and lasts too long. Deterioration of health from prolonged lactation; toothache; neuralgia of the face.
Respiration: Difficult respiration, rattling and filling up of the chest with mucus asthma.
"Pressure in the chest, as from violent rush of blood; violent palpitation, bloody sputa, sudden prostration."
Dry, suffocative cough at night; profuse night sweats. Pains in the chest, increasing sensitiveness to cold, heat and redness of the face with cold hands.
Along the spine there are sore spots. Tearing, darting pains in the limbs, ameliorated by heat and hard pressure, brought on by touch, by becoming chilled. Worse at night.
"Knees weak, especially when walking."
China cures low, forms of fever, remittent or intermittent, typhoid or malarial.

| It is the medicine for Malaria Fever | By: MAX VARMANew Delhi and Vancouver | September 13 2006 |

China is the medicine for Malaria Fever....or for people who have suffered from Malaria in the past and have never been fully fit there after.

Made from "The Peruvian Bark".

See this:
(Reproduced from another site for benefit of all).

Quote

Cinchona was believed to have originated from the slopes of the Andes in South America.

It is believed to have gotten its name from the Countess of Chinchon, wife of the Spanish Viceroy of Peru, who in 1638 fell desperately ill with malaria. Fortunately, she was cured using the ancient herbal remedy of "quinquina" bark, and in her honour, the tree was named Cinchona (Hobhouse,1987).

After that incident however, the anti-malarial value of Cinchona became more widely recognised and the demand for it grew so much that supply could not keep up with demand. So valuable was the bark that at one point of time, the cost of the bark powder was often matched by its weight in gold.

This prompted the wanton uncontrolled harvesting of the bark, which led to the severe decimation of the tree in its native habitat.

Interestingly enough, it was an illicit act that saved the Cinchona tree from extinction. Because Cinchona trees were so valuable, Peruvian officials strictly prohibited their export.

However in the 1860s, some British and Dutch adventurers managed to smuggle a few seedlings out of the country, and they used them to set up large plantations in Java.

Up until the Second World War, these plantations supplied almost 95% of the world's requirements of quinine. Ironically, seeds from these plantations were then later returned back Central America to establish plantations.

CINERARIA MARITIMA
Dusty Miller
(CINERARIA)

Has some reputation in the cure of cataract and corneal opacities. Is used externally, by instilling into the eye one drop four or five times a day. This must be kept up for several months. Most effective in traumatic cases. Compare in cataract Phosph; Platanus; Cannabis; Causticum; Naphthalin; Ledum; Nat mur; Silica.

The drops are available in the market and are very effective in any type of eye strain, or eye infection, or any other eye problem.
There are two types available - alcohol based or distilled water based. The alcohol really burns the eyes - it is unbearable, but the distilled water cools it down.

A cataract was discovered in my left eye in 1996 when I was 67 and I was advised to have in implant inserted.

I decided however to test Cineraria Maritima (Recheweg) and have used it since that time nightly when I insert a drop in the eye. I have not noticed any increase in the cataract and can only presume that it is the remedy that has helped to keep it under control as it has not increased as cataracts usually do in a few years.

I can see colours clearly and the slight haze that I notice when looking at bright objects does not bother me and I shall try to avoid surgery for as long as I can see well enough with my left eye.

Fortunately for me my right eye is 20:20 and helps me especially when driving.

Since taking cinnamon can cause increase in blood pressure, would homeopathic cinnamon help to lower blodd pressure?

If the current level of BP is say "X" and after taking Cinnamon the the BP becomes say "X+Y", then a potentised cinnamon is likely to reverse the excess BP and bring the body back to older levels. But it may not used as BP reducing medicine. If you have a proved it on yourself and found it to be reducing the BP with homeopathic cinnamon, please share the experience here.

Cinnamonum zeylanicum (Blume)
Synonyms: cinnamon bark, Ceylon cinnamon
Order: Lauraceae
Description: A bushy tropical evergreen tree native to Sri Lanka but also cultivated in South-East Asia, South America and the West Indies. It can reach a height of 10 metres, and has thick scabrous bark. The young shoots are speckled greenish-orange. The leaves are petiolate, entire, leathery when mature, upper side shiny green, underside lighter. The flowers occur in small white in panicles; the fruit is an oval berry rather like an acorn in its receptacle, and is bluish with white spots when ripe.
Parts used: Dried inner bark of the shoots; oil distilled from the bark and leaves.
Collection: Collected commercially throughout the tropics and harvested during the rainy season. The shoots are peeled, then rubbed to loosen the inner bark. The peels are telescoped into one another to form quills which are then dried.
Constituents: up to 10% volatile oils (including cinnamaldehyde, eugenol and phellandrene); condensed tannins, mucilage, gum, sugars, coumarins.

Boricum Acidum

Actions: carminative, astringent, aromatic, local stimulant, antiseptic, spasmolytic, orexigenic, antidiarrhoeal, antimicrobial, refrigerant, anthelmintic, gentle warming digestive tonic.
Indications: dyspepsia, flatulence, nausea, diarrhoea, Diabetes.
Therapeutics and Pharmacology: Cinammonum is predominantly used as a carminative addition to herbal prescriptions. It is used in flatulent dyspepsia, dyspepsia with nausea, intestinal colic and digestive atony associated with cold and debilitated conditions. It relieves nausea and vomiting, and, because of its mild astringency, it is particularly useful in infantile diarrhoea. Cinnamaldehyde is hypotensive and spasmolytic and increases peripheral blood flow. The essential oil is a potent antibacterial, antifungal and uterine stimulant.
Caution: Therapeutic doses, particularly of the essential oil, should be avoided in pregnancy as Cinnamonum is a potential uterine stimulant. It should be used with care in feverish conditions.
Combinations: Combines well with Filipendula, Chamaemelum, Ulmus and Althaea root in flatulent dyspepsia and gastritis. It may also be combined with Geranium, Quercus, Acorus and Acacia in diarrhoea with colic, or with Sambucus, Mentha piperata and Achillea in influenza.
Preparation and dosage: (thrice daily)
Regulatory Status: GSL
The bark, usually powdered, may be freely used in mixtures or by itself to flavour teas.
Decoction: use for chronic diarrhoea.
Liquid extract: 1:1 in 70% alcohol, 0.5-1ml.
Tincture: 2-4ml in a little hot water for colds and chills.
Inhalation: dissolve 5 drops of essential oil in boiling water for coughs and respiratory irritation.
Massage oil: dilute 10ml cinnamon oil in 25ml almond or sunflower oil and use for abdominal colic, stomach chills or diarrhoea.
Additional Comments: Pliny wrote in A.D.77 '...there is a tale of cinnamon growing around marshes under the protection of a terrible kind of bats...invented by the natives to raise the price'. Cinnamon is a native of Ceylon, and was first recorded in 1275 in a work by the Arab writer Kazwini. The Chinese use both the bark (rou gui) and the twigs (gui zhi) of their native variety, C.cassia. Traditionally, the bark was believed best for the torso, the twigs for the fingers and toes. Research has highlighted hypoglycaemic properties, useful in diabetes. It is a key ingredient of mulled wine. Cinnamon is often used to flavour toothpastes, the eugenol being an effective breath-freshener. Note: It is an important flavouring in Indian cooking. As also advised in the different postings here, half a teaspoon of the powder taken early morning with black tea helps diabetics.

Jayashree,

I have tried at 3X - 6X levels and its action doesn't alter and it works more gently and without symtoms like excess heat generation etc... I have seen it help, to alleviate dyspepsia, flatulence, nausea and diarrhoea but I am not sure about its action on diabetes as I did not get an opportunity to confirm. It may work because, when I eat excess sweets and feel very sleepy and dull, a dose of 3x potency makes me feel more alert and wakes me from that drowsiness.

But a confirmation from others would help us confirm my observation/experience.

CLEMATIS

This remedy belongs to the group NOT SUFFICIENT INTEREST IN PRESENT REALITY, along with WILD ROSE, HONEY-SUCKLE, OLIVE, MUSTARD, WHITE CHESTNUT and CHESTNUT BUD. These individuals do not easily attach to present reality. They can be daydreamers and can develop VISION AND HEARING PROBLEMS, COLD HANDS AND FEET. They can go into SHOCK easily. The body may seem uninhabited (out of body). DAYDREAM IN CLASS, which is interrupted by spurts of interest. These individuals can be PASSIVE, just waiting for changes, and clematis brings them back to reality. This personality type is found often in film, journalism, theater, wherever emotion distracts from present reality. INFERTILITY can also be a common symptom of this state.

Clematis

This is the condition for which the phrase, "space cadet" was coined. A friend of ours once said of a mutual (very Clematis) friend that if she'd had a bagel for breakfast and you asked her what she ate she'd say, "something round."

Clematis people never seem fully awake or actively interested in the world of matter. They go from one room to the next, and by the time they arrive at their destination forget why they wanted to be there in the first place. They should never be allowed to try to balance their checkbooks or fill out an income tax form (they'd forget to, anyway). They do not belong in the world of details; nor can they always be expected to remember instructions given to them five minutes before. It is questionable whether they should be driving cars.

Physical reality is simply not their favorite mode of existence. They are far more intrigued by the inner worlds of their imaginations-- this is often a very rich world, for they often have a potential for creativity which is far above average. The difficulty is that it often remains only as potential.

When their dreams are unrealized they may retreat ever more deeply into a world of fantasy, and take even less of a role in daily life. They may hope wistfully that things will get better, without realizing that they can help to make that dream come true.

The Essence Clematis can play a vital role in awakening and activating people in the negative Clematis state to their true potential. It helps to create a bridge for them between the spiritual and physical worlds. As they begin to connect these realities, daily life takes on new interest, and they are able to manifest their dreams and visions and share them with the world.

The Astrological Clematis

Clematis has a particular affinity with the sign of Pisces. Pisceans are also dreamy, idealistic, and lack a firm grip on physical reality. Often they withdraw because they are hyper-sensitive to the suffering of others and cannot bear that pain. The Essence Clematis may help them to connect more firmly with the earth plane and enable them to consciously sever their identification with suffering.

In the positive state both Clematis people and Pisceans can make wonderful artists, practical idealists, and healers.

NaturalNews) Extracts of the Indian herb Coccinia indica reduced blood sugar levels by almost 20 percent in a study conducted by researchers from the Institute of Population Health and Clinical Research in Bangalore and published in the journal Diabetes Care.

C. indica is also known by the scientific names C. cordifolia and C. grandis and the common names kundru, dondakaya, kovakkai and tindora, among many others.

Researchers conducted a randomized, double-blind study on 60 patients with mild Type 2 diabetes that was being controlled with diet and not drugs. Half the participants were given a one-gram C. indica extract each day, while half were given a placebo.

After 90 days, the participants who had received the herbal extract had 16 percent lowered fasting blood glucose levels and 18 percent lowered post-prandial (after meal) blood glucose levels. There were no changes observed in the level of blood fats.

The researchers said they did not know what it was about the plant that had caused the beneficial effect.

"This study suggests that C. cordifolia extract has a potential hypoglycemic action in patients with mild diabetes," the researchers said. "However, further studies are needed to elucidate mechanisms of action."

C. indica is a gourd plant native to India, where it is used as a vegetable. According to the researchers, a person would have to eat 50 grams (2 ounces) of the cooked vegetable per day to receive the same benefit as taking 1 gram of the extract.

A prior study, conducted by researchers at the Harvard Medical School, reviewed the data on C. indica and concluded that a respectable body of evidence has accumulated supporting the plant's benefits in the treatment of diabetes.

Approximately 20 million people in the United States suffer from diabetes, or 7 percent of the population. According to the American Diabetes Association, the medical costs associated with the disease amount to $132 billion per year, with $92 billion of this going to medication alone.

Administration of Coccinia indica leaf extract to normal and streptozotocin diabetic animals exhibited significant hypoglycemic and antihyperglycemic effect and reversed biochemical complications. Oral administration of 200mg/ kg of ethanol extract of Coccinia indica leaves (CLEt) to diabetic animals for 45 days resulted in a significant reduction in blood glucose, glycosylated haemoglobin and an increase in total haemoglobin and plasma insulin. Similarly, the administration of CLEt to normal animals resulted in a significant hypoglycemic effect. The activities of hepatic hexokinase, glucose-6-phosphatase, fructose-1,6-bisphosphatase and glucose-6-phosphate dehydrogenase, a lipogenic enzyme, were measured in the liver of normal, diabetic, normal rats separately treated with CLEt and glibenclamide, and diabetic rats treated separately with CLEt and glibenclamide. The activities of the lipogenic enzyme and hexokinase were significantly decreased, whereas the activities of gluconeogenic enzymes were significantly increased in the diabetic liver. Both CLEt and glibenclamide were able to restore the altered enzyme activities to almost control levels. CLEt was more effective than glibenclamide. The results indicate that the administration of CLEt to diabetic animals normalizes blood glucose and causes marked improvement of altered carbohydrate metabolic enzymes during diabetes.
